The Times.

PETERBOROUGH, APRIL 3 1895.

Good morning!

The possibilities of electricity as a means of transportation are shown by the proposition to build an electric line
from New York to San Francisco which is now being seriously considered in the States.

The appointment of Mr. Creighton to the office of Deputy Receiver-General will give general satisfaction. The late manager of the Empire is well fitted for
the post, and his long and faithful party service in the Legislature and in the press fully entitle him to the consideration he has received.

It is reported that C. W. Ashford is preparing to make war upon the Hawa-ian provisional government. If the old Port Hope boy does take this step the Hawaiian usurpers will find a much more serious difficulty on their hands than they had in the late outbreak of a few misguided natives.

The midland districts of England was assaulted by a hurricane last week that is said to have been the most destructive in the memory of living man. The Peterborough Cathedral lost three of its spires.
The Cedars of Lebanon at Warwick Castle and many of the beautiful and historic groves in the district were destroyed.

Hawaiian Consul Wilder, San Francisco, has heard of a plot to overthrow the present Government in the islands. The leaders of the alleged conspiracy, which was hatched in San Francisco, are said by the Consul to be C. W. Ashford, ex-Attorney-General, and others who were deported for complicity in the recent revolution.

It is in the island of Formosa that Dr.
McKay, one of the most successful of Canadian missionaries, has been carrying on a great work. The probability is that if the island is annexed by Japan Dr. McKay's missionary enterprise will be extended rather than curtailed, for the Japanese government is far more liberal in its treatment of Christian missionaries than the Chinese government has been.

Having peremptorily notified France that no further aggression upon British territory will be permitted; having sent an ultimatum to the Nicaraguan government; embroiled with Venezuela over a boundary question which threatens to result in war, in which the "American" Americans of the United States would like their government to take a hand;
with outrages upon the liberties of British subjects in Hawaii which must be attended to—Great Britain is at present supplying evidence to the effect that there's life in the old land yet.

During the first French revolution, from the fall of Louis XVI., to the fall of Robespierre, France was largely governed and led by the anarchist press of Paris.
And it looks now as if the boulevard journals of the capital—which are hardly less silly, depraved and ignorant than their predecessors of a century ago—have much to do with the Government of the French republic. It looks as if France is rapidly drifting again into such a condition that a dictator will be necessary to restore public order and confidence. As yet, however, the modern Napoleon has not given any evidence of his existence.

ENGLAND AND VENEZUELA.

The dispute between Great Britain and Venezuela, which may involve a war, and in which the United States is taking a deep interest in virtue of the Monroe doctrine, arises over the territory on the west side of the Essequibo River. Great Britain claims that this land is a part of British Guiana. Venezuela's expectation that the Monroe doctrine will compel the United States to interest itself in the controversy has stiffened the little Republic up wonderfully, and she is not only defying England, but has been exceedingly saucy to France and Germany as well.
Venezuela declared her independence
from Spain on July 5, 1811, but did not win it completely until June 25, 1821,
when General Bolivar overwhelmingly defeated the Spanish army at Carabobo.
In 1814 Holland ceded to England the country east of the Essequibo River, now known as British Guiana. Lying along the Atlantic between the Orinoco delta and that portion of the Essequibo from its junction with the Cuyuni, is about one half of what up to 1840 England had claimed as that part known as the Delta territory. In 1841 an English commissioner went so far as to survey a boundary line, which took in a large part of Venezuela, including all the Delta territory up to the Orinoco. England receded from this claim in 1844, and proposed a division line beginning slightly west of the Pameroon. In 1881 she insisted on further shifting the line, this time 25 miles west of the Moroco River. In 1890 she demanded another change, and three years later proposed a line beginning at a point on the Orinoco and sweeping westward to the Usupame mountains and the Caroni river.

If England's latest claim should be decided in her favor she would virtually control the delta of the Orinoco, a river navigable by the largest vessels for four hundred miles, and which has over a hundred navigable tributaries, some extending into the interior of the continent. In other words she would hold the key to over one quarter of South America, and be able to control the commerce if not the politics of three republics. After many fruitless attempts to have the boundary dispute arbitrated, Venezuela eight years ago severed diplomatic relations with England. The present dispute has arisen over the imprisonment of some British Guiana policemen who were asserting their authority in Venezuelan territory. France is also involved in the dispute and has sent a war vessel after her minister, who was dismissed because he was alleged to be playing into the hands of the British. Because of the same influence, doubtless,
Germany is about to make naval demonstration to secure payment of debts due by the Venezuelan Government to her subjects.

PEACE NOW IN SIGHT.

The assault on Li Hung Chang has accomplished what his diplomacy could not Japan has proclaimed an unconditional armistice pending further negotiations.
This undoubtedly presages a speedy end of the war. Japan was hardly ready for peace. She found conquest so easy that she was reluctant to stop. The Japanese fleet has been making steady progress toward the conquest of Formosa since the peace negotiations began and an expedition was landed for the purpose of marching on Nanking, the southern capital and the seat of Taping's power during the years when they were maintaining a successful rebellion.

The Japanese probably would prefer to hold Formosa and Nanking and have their armies at the gates of Peking before making peace. Their design undoubtedly was so to cripple the Chinese empire as to leave it permanently degraded and perhaps dismembered. But after the wounding of Li Hung Chang by a Japanese fanatic, the Mikado's Government could do nothing less than to show some desire for peace, and China will probably accept any terms it can get.

HOME TO THEE.

Home—but not to thee, sweet,
As so oft before,
Home—but home to thee, sweet,
Never, nevermore.

Laggard, grow the feet, sweet,
Dragging wearily,
That stepped once so fleet, sweet,
Home to Love and thee.

Thou'rt not there to greet, sweet,
Nor to welcome me,
I no more shall meet, sweet,
Home and Heaven in thee.

Home I without thy smile, sweet!
Home I without thy kiss!
Home I without any heart, sweet!
Home I and that to miss!

Home I no, not to me, sweet,
Till there can be this—Daylight without sun, sweet, Heaven without bliss.

Yet—thou art home, sweet,
Waiting still for me,
While I homeless roam, sweet—Home eternally.

And my steps may be, sweet,
Evermore may be,
Home, still home to thee, sweet,
Home to God and thee!

TALK UNITED STATES

THE AMERICAN LANGUAGE COMPARED WITH THE ENGLISH.

A London Publication Calls Attention to the Difference in the Names Applied to Ordinary Articles—With Some Exceptions We "Speak United States."

"I am free, white, 31, and I speak United States," is the modern declaration of independence of every native adult American citizen.

The traveled American—everything by turns and nothing long—who aims at cosmopolitanism and invariably misses the target altogether, and the naturalized creature of indefinite origin, may not proclaim for "United States," but they adopt it all the same, in deference to the subtle power politicians call the vis major.

The American language used to be English, of course—English pure and simple, if English ever was either pure or simple—but it has prospered on its own account. Like other things American, and now the English language is being Americanized, like the English mobility, and its vivacity is considerably benefited by the process.

That English is still the basis of "United States" the most thoroughbred American will not deny—the thoroughgoing American never denies facts, the game not being worth the candle, and he never plays games in the dark. The language is the same, with a difference, and in that lies the root of the matter and this article, for though London and New York speak a common, very common, Anglo-Saxon, if we forget for the moment the venous of French, Latin, Greek and other languages with which it has been polluted, yet the meaning of many words, from which language derives its significance, is considerably modified and altered in their passage across the Atlantic, and they become nearly if not quite as unintelligible as the cockney would find the dialect of a Northumberland village.

Thus, if a Londoner is fortunate enough to cross the Atlantic and be introduced to a sky which has not been discolored by smoke, a sun which has not been dimmed by fog and an atmosphere which the powers have not forgotten to dry and in as stimulating as champagne, but is unfortunately enough to have to buy a fresh coat—a most expensive article—or to order one—as a rule, quite a different matter—he must call it "a Prince Albert."

Prince Albert coat it is in republican America, whatever it may be in monarchical England, where "Albert the Good" is occasionally remembered when the anniversary of his death comes round.

If he wants a billycock hat, he will never get it if he asks for it by that name. He must request the shopman to bring him a derby.

Should the coverings of his feet be worn out and he orders a new pair of boots, he will be given Wellingtons, which are "boots" in the American language. If he wants English boots, he must ask for "boots," while if he likes to show pretty socks and wears Oxford shoes he must call for "tins," or "low cuts," and "slippers" if he needs pumps.

He will find, too, that he does not buy articles in a shop, but at a "store," and he will be sent to its different departments by a "floorwalker," not a shopwalker.

If he would travel in the city, and he desires to use the most desired of New York's public conveyances, which luckily for those whose time is valuable ply only up and down Broadway, Fifth Avenue, he must forget that such an abomination as an omnibus ever existed and hail a "stage," while if he wishes to go by or talk about what he would at home call a team he must be careful to say "surface car" or "street car," for teams have no existence in the American vocabulary. If, further, he would, when in Rome, do what Rome does, let him forswear the use of railway until he returns home and train himself to say "railroad," and let him never forget that he walks on the "sidewalk," not on the pavement.

Should he unfortunately happen to get ill, let him boldly declare that he "feels sick," entirely heedless of what he would be understood to mean home, or it will be taken that he is nauseated, for the words sick and ill mean just the reverse of what they signify in London, and if his doctor gives him a prescription let him not ask to be directed to a chemist, or he will be sent off to a manufacturer of chemicals. If any one knows the address of such a firm, but let him seek for a "pharmacy" or "drug store."

Instead of a draper's shop he will find a "dry goods store," and if he desires to go to one of the upper floors he will take the "elevator," though, as is so frequently the case, the reverse is the truth, for he will certainly not discover a lift, while, if his wife has requested him to buy her some hairpins, hooks and eyes, cottons or other small articles, he will find them at the "notion counter."

As, being a stranger, he will not have his own carriage, he will, if he wants a drive, "ride" in a "wagon," which is not a cart for carrying packages, but a very comfortable, light, open vehicle, or else in a "buggy," an equally light conveyance with a hood, but open at the sides. If he prefers a single horse brougham, he will do well to call it a "coupe," and if he asks for a "carriage" he will get a Victoria with a pair of horses.

In the evening he will naturally go to the theater, but he must be careful to ask for "orchestra seats" if he wants stalls, while if his tastes are not for drama proper, and he prefers a music hall entertainment, he should invite his friend to go to a "variety show."

If a play is advertised as a "farce comedy," and he imagines he will see a farcical comedy, he will be doomed to disappointment, for a farce comedy is only an alleged play, in which the characters are taken by variety show "artists" who introduce their "specialties"—song and comedy—in scenes and out of scenes. In other words, it is a conglomeration to a music hall entertainment without the diversity in the programme.

In its pronunciation United States is a law unto itself, and if the aforesaid Londoner gets "busted" or wants employment as a clerk let him not call himself a "clerk," for people will open their eyes at his peculiar occupation, and let him also remember that he wears a derby hat, not a derby.

Above all, let him avoid as he would a plague the nasal twang which passes current for the American accent on the London stage unless he happens after being mistaken for a specimen of the "wild and woolly west," or as hailing from Oklahoma or Kalamazoo, both of which places, in spite of a popular belief to the contrary, will be found on the map of the country over which the stars and stripes float and the baldheaded eagle swarms.—London Saturday Review.

THE BRITISH ADVANCE

Into an Unknown Land—British Advance Into a Wild and Barbarous Region—An Expedition Full of Peril—Umra Khan a Warrior.

Special to the Times.
New York, April 1.—Speaking of the Chitral campaign in India, the Tribune's London correspondent says that it attracts more attention than is generally devoted to any Indian frontier war. It has been expected for months and the Government, in anticipation of this and other north-west frontier difficulties, has always maintained a substantial army in readiness around Peshawar.

The Chitral region to be penetrated is a terra incognita. No Englishman has travelled between India and Chitral by the short route.

But the difficulties of the enterprise are not only topographical. The expedition will enter a veritable hornet's nest of the wildest hillmen in Asia. There is no tribe in Afghanistan more fanatical and warlike than the Swatis. The chief ruler of those regions, Umra Khan, whose forces are assisting in the investment of Chitral, is an adventurer who raised himself to his present position by the sword. He has enormous influence, and it is not improbable that the British expedition may find itself confronted by 70,000 or 100,000 hillmen at various stages of the journey.

TO GET AN EARLY PASS.
The British authorities are naturally exceedingly anxious about the outcome of this enterprise. It will be a great achievement to secure a short cut from Peshawar to Chitral, beyond which is a comparatively easy pass into Russian Turkestan, for the command of that point is the real objective point of the campaign, but this result can be obtained only by an enormous outlay of money and probably a large sacrifice of life. Chitral may prove another Afghanistan.

Sher Afzul has closely invested Chitral, where the British agent, Mr. Robertson, is. The British relief force, numbering 14,300 men, will cross the frontier today.

ENGLAND MAY DECLARE

A Protectorate Over Egypt and the Nile to Save the Problem.

Special to the Times.
LONDON, April 1.—Sir Edward Grey's speech in the House of Commons regarding French encroachment in Africa produced a profound impression in Parliament and throughout the country, but we have as yet very little comment from such Parliamentary papers as speak with certain authority.

The Journal des Debats alone, of the serious journals, discussed the thing yesterday, advancing the argument that England had nothing to do with the Upper Nile Valley, which concerned the Sultan and Egypt alone, and that France could not recognize any Nile interests or rights save those of the latter.

If this is the attitude of the French Government, then England will at once solve the problem by declaring a protectorate over Egypt and the Nile.

A NEW BALLOT.

It Will Be Black, Except the Space for the Placing of the Cross.

Special to the Times.

OTTAWA, April 1.—By an Order in Council, passed on Saturday, the Act of Parliament providing for the new ballot is to be brought into force immediately. The new ballot will leave little opportunity, if any, for errors such as frequently spoil votes. It will be black, except the blank space opposite the name of each candidate, on which the voter is to place his decisive cross.

If mistakes occur under this plan they will be either from wilful ignorance or gross carelessness. The new ballot will be tried in the bye-elections, and that will test its utility for the general elections.

CUBAN INSURGENTS WIN.

In Two Minor Fights They Defeat the Spanish Government Troops.

Special to the Times.

KER WARR, Fla., April 1.—Private advices from Cuba per steamer Olivette state that several minor fights on the 26th and 28th ult. took place between the Spanish troops and the insurgents in the Province of Sancti Spiritus. The insurgents defeated the Spanish troops both days. She Spanish left their dead, numbering 40, on the field and retreated in good order.

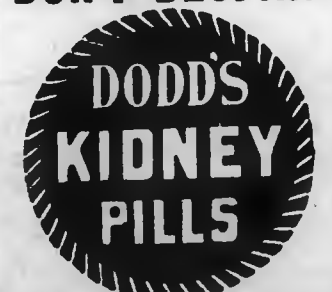

Among the soldiers recently sent from Spain, there have been a great number of desertions, the soldiers going over to the insurgents.

Standard's Berlin Correspondent

OTTAWA, April 2.—In the Exchequer Court today, Justice Budge dismissed the appeal of the Queen vs. Montreal Cotton Mill Co., for $15,874, which were a dispute for damages to the Lachine canal.

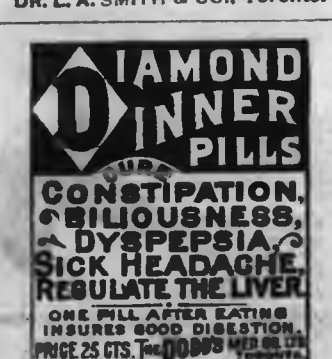

The Standard's Berlin correspondent says that Emperor William will christen the new warship Bismarck. Among the presents sent to Bismarck is a lock of George Washington's hair in a little golden box, the gift of an American. Bismarck weighs about 200 pounds, and looks better and younger than he did after his illness at Kissingen in 1883.

The Funeral of Miss Stenson.

The funeral of the eldest daughter of Mr. James Stenson took place from the family residence, 240 Reid street, at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The Rev. Dr. Turcotte conducted the religious services at the house. The funeral services were many, and they were, indeed, very beautiful. - Wives and roses predominated. Wreaths from Toronto friends and floral tributes from the deceased's associates, together with similar offerings from friends in town, were tokens of high estimation. The remains were followed to the Little Lake cemetery by a great number of citizens in carriages.

May Prove Fatal.

It is not unlikely that Mr. Stewart Brown, of Oronoco, may lose one of a team of horses, as the outcome of an accident that happened yesterday. The team was tied in the stable shed of the Oronoco house, but in some way they managed to break from it and away they ran until they reached the Postoffice sidewalk where one horse slipped, the other falling upon it. In a moment they regained their footing and headed themselves for the shed which they had left before, but coming into contact with a pole they were brought to a serious standstill, one of the team receiving a terrible injury, from which it may not recover.

PETERBORO' NAVIGATION CO.

Annual Meeting of Directors - Preparing for the Season's Traffic.

The annual meeting of the directors of the Peterborough Navigation Company was held last night at Hutton & Wood's office, for the purpose of making arrangements for the coming season's business. The following officers were elected:

President - H. Colwell.

Vice-President - T. E. Bradburn.

Secretary - R. S. Davidson.

Directors - The above officers and Messrs. H. C. Welch, Adam Hall, G. W. Hutton and W. H. Robertson.

The statement of last year's business was presented and was highly satisfactory in all respects. It is proposed to run the steamer this year on the same lines as last season.

Capt. Eden will be in command of the City of Peterborough, with an efficient crew. Capt. Eden is a thoroughly experienced man and his crew will look to him for the best of the company.

Mr. March has been engaged as purser and general passenger agent.

The City of Peterborough will be thoroughly overhauled and painted, this work commencing next week. When finished, the steamer will be, in all respects, first class and comfortable.

It is expected that the street railway company will extend its line to the water's edge below the locks, by the time the steamer commences its trips. This will be a great convenience to passengers, as considerable time will be saved. The outlook for the season is very bright. It is confidently expected that the A.C.A. will select Rice Lake for their outing this season, which will result in large numbers visiting that favored section and summer resort.

PETERBORO' BASEBALLISTS.

Organization Effected and Officers Chosen - Cricketers Meet.

A very large and enthusiastic meeting of those interested in baseball was held in the Palace Restaurant rooms last night, and was one of the largest in the history of the Peterborough Baseball Club. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

Hon. Pres. - Geo. W. Hutton.

President - R. B. McKee.

Vice Pres. - W. J. Green.

Manager - G. A. Horkins.

Captain - Dr. Brennan.

Secretary - W. A. Buchanan.

Treasurer - R. A. W. Hay.

Executive Committee - Geo. Horkins, J. Snyder, Geo. Paxman.

Delegates to C.A.B.A. - Dr. Brennan, Vice Pres. C. A. B. A., and W. A. Buchanan.

It was decided that the uniform of the club would be white sweaters, canvas trousers, blue stockings and caps.

It is very probable that the team will enter the league with such teams as Cobourg, Lindsay, Bowmanville, etc.

CRICKETERS MEET.

A largely attended meeting of cricketers was held last night in the office of Mr. B. Rogers. Mr. Barnham presided and Mr. Rogers acted as chairman. There were present: Messrs. Montgomery, Drope, Stocker, Strickland, Lefevre, V. McGill, Goldsmith, Roper, Comstock, Terrill and Poussette.

A committee consisting of Messrs. Rogers, Montgomery, Drope and N. St. Gard, was appointed to draft a constitution.

A committee to help increase the membership list was appointed consisting of Messrs. Goldsmith, Stocker and Poussette.

The meeting then adjourned for the next week when officers will be elected. The outlook for the season is bright.

THE C. W. A. MEET.

The Canadian Sporting News says: I notice that Waterloo and Peterborough are running neck and neck for the C. W. A. meet. Both towns have issued pamphlets, in which their respective attractions, first class tracks, pretty girls, etc., etc., are glowingly depicted. Owen Sound and Bradford, where are yet to time for you to be likewise up and doing.

A proposition that the Association run a big excursion to the coming meet has been mooted, but on inquiry I have discovered that the enthusiastic advocates of the undertaking may, to use a phrase, as well save their wind. The two railway corporations are running in "snags," and the chances are that they will only concede a special rate, excursion or no excursion. The Transportation Committee secured a rate of $5 return fare to Montreal last year - less than a cent a mile - and Mr. Webster informs me that the wheelmen may consider themselves dead lucky if they do as well next July. At whatever point the representatives decide to forgo the Toronto knights of the wheel may at least be counted on to be there in force, the distance and the expense involved in the journey to any one of the quartette of competing barge being comparatively small.

THE BUSINESS WORLD.

The firm of Sloan & Crowther, wholesale grocers, Toronto, has been dissolved, W. G. Crowther retiring. The business will be continued under the style of John Sloan & Co.

The creditors of W. R. Stanley, general storekeeper, Leam, met yesterday afternoon at the Palmer House, Toronto.

H. T. Pryor & Son, of Petrolia, dealers in books and shoes, have assigned to Chas. Ryan.

W. T. Willis, Brantford, grocer, has assigned to W. B. Brewster.

A. C. Shantz, a Berlin man has assigned to W. C. Chalmers.

Thomas McIlwain, of Stratford, baker and confectioner, has obtained an extension.

THAT BICYCLE BILL.

Mr. Stratton Withdrew it in Committee - No License or Lamp.

Mr. Stratton's bill to license and regulate bicycles was taken up in the Municipal Council of the Local House yesterday.

R. B. Ryckman appeared in opposition to the bill.

Mr. Stratton explained that his bill was simply intended to give municipalities power to license and regulate. He thought a small tax of about two cents a week for the purpose of building bicycle paths would meet with the approval of the bicycle clubs themselves.

"However," he said, "if the bicycle clubs are opposed to a license I will not press it. I do not use a bicycle myself."

Chorus - "Hear, hear."

Mr. Hardy - "Fortunate man."

After some further discussion the proposal to license was dropped.

Regarding the proposal to compel the carrying of lamps at night, Mr. Ryckman said on country roads these lamps would frighten the horses. This statement brought all the Patrons to his side. In general terms he said the bill would interfere with vested interests, as there were 35,000 bicyclists in Ontario and $3,000,000 invested in the trade in Toronto.

Beverley Jones advocated the adoption of regulations. He had been run over and hurt. The bicyclists were, he said, continually breaking the law. Mr. Den- had been knocked down and had his collar bone broken. Mr. Munro had also been injured.

Mr. Hardy - "All lawyers!" (Laughter)

Mr. Howland - "A bicycle cap is no safety in Toronto without hitting a lawyer."

The committee were almost unanimous against the lamp clause and Mr. Stratton thereupon withdrew his whole bill. Next session probably a more complete general measure could be passed.

It was suggested that the city of Toronto alone be given power to regulate the speed, etc., of bicycles but not to impose license. This carried by 15 to 10 and was added to the city bill.

THE TRENT CANAL.

Contract for the Lakeside-Peterborough Section Let.

The Ottawa Citizen says: Of 11 tenders received for the construction of the Peterborough and Lakeside division of the Trent Valley Canal, that of a Toronto firm, Messrs. Brown, Lorne & Aymer, is said to be the lowest.

Mr. George Goodwin, of this city, and Mr. A. Underdonk, the contractor for the Simcoe and Balsam Lake division, also tendered for the work.

The length of this section is six miles, and the tendered price is in the neighborhood of $300,000. It will be remembered that the original plans contemplated a direct line between the terminal points, necessitating a cutting three miles in length. On this specification Messrs. Brown, Lorne & Aymer, of Montreal, were the lowest tenderers, their offer being about $400,000. Then, on recommendation of Mr. Callaghan, the Deputy Minister and Chief Engineer of the Department, a resurvey was ordered, and on the strength of the examining engineer's report Mr. Schreiber decided that it would be more advantageous and give a cheaper, as well as a better, route of navigation to follow the course of the Ottawa River.

New plans and specifications were accordingly prepared and tenders called for the construction of the canal via the river route. The result, it will be seen, has justified Mr. Schreiber's anticipations, in that the offer likely to be accepted is about $100,000 less than what it would have cost to construct via the shorter route.

The saving of this sum is quite a tribute to the skill and judgment of Mr. Underdonk, who was in Peterborough yesterday, and made the statement that the work on his contract would begin next week.

A SHOOTING AFFRAY.

It Occurred in Hastings - Constable Wright Wounded.

Last fall a warrant was issued for the arrest of Henry Sharp, jr., of Hastings, for assaulting Constable Shanton, but Sharp kept in hiding and could not be found. Monday morning he was seen around the village, Constables Pullyblank and Wright attempted to arrest him, when Sharp, who is a very desperate character, drew a revolver and shot Wright in the arm. Wright drew a revolver and shot him. Nevertheless he managed to escape to his brother's house. A number of Hastings citizens were sworn in as special constables, who, with Wright and Pullyblank, surrounded the house and called on Sharp to give himself up, which he refused to do. They entered the house, but Sharp had secreted himself upstairs, where he could be reached only through a trap door, which he was guarding. A number of shots were fired up at him but without effect, while he rained bricks down on the officers, one striking Constable Wright on the head, inflicting a very severe scalp wound. A ladder was then placed at the wall outside and the entrance effected, but Sharp had meanwhile taken refuge in the cellar, where he was discovered and arrested by Constable Wright, but not without a desperate struggle on his part, in which he received two more bullets. His father, H. Sharp, sen., was also engaged in the conflict, having struck Wright with an axe handle, but the constables kept the old man down with the same weapon. He will also be arrested. Dr. Coughlan pronounced Wright's wounds serious.

The Times.

PETERBOROUGH, APRIL 3 1895.

Good morning!

Premier Greenway's portrait decorating the boiler plate journals just now. He looks like the keeper of a lager beer saloon.

It is proposed to establish a telephone line between England and Holland. The London Chamber of Commerce and the Netherland Chamber of Commerce are trying to ascertain if the time is yet ripe for this undertaking.

Every manufacturer encouraged in our country makes part of a market for provisions within ourselves, and saves so much money to the country as must otherwise be exported to pay for the manufacturers he supplies.—Benjamin Franklin.

A new outer sole is being tried on the boots of the German soldiers by direct order of the Emperor. It consists of a paste of linseed oil varnish and iron filings, which is said to render the sole flexible and make it more durable than the new aluminium boot soles.

A motion for the disestablishment of the church in Wales; a motion for the establishment of separate legislatures for England, Scotland and Ireland; a motion for the payment of its members—all have passed the British House of Commons within the past few days. They make haste more rapidly than they used to over there.

Councillor Mills appears to have given considerable offense in the strenuous opposition which he gave to the grant to the bicycle meet. Although he finally voted for the grant, it was not until he exhausted every argument against it. Mr. Mills may feel that he has acted in the best interests of the people whom he represents, but we fancy a large majority of his constituents are not of the same opinion.

Prevention seems to have been more effective than cure in dealing with train robbers on the Cincinnati Southern Railroad. Five men boarded an express train in the wilds of Kentucky the other morning, and when the train proceeded on its way ten minutes later three of the robbers had been shot, and the others were in flight. A few experiences of that kind will do more to stop train robbing than all the laws that can be passed.

They say that a strong feeling of indignation is being worked up in Montreal over the conviction of the murderer Chastelle. It is claimed that, as the trial was hasty, and as the sanity of the prisoner is in doubt, and as he was undefended, his case is one for executive clemency. Probably the real reason for the agitation is that the man is a French Canadian. The trial was hasty; but the reason was that the evidence for the crown was clear, direct and well prepared. The prisoner was not represented by counsel because he refused the assistance of the lawyer who had been engaged to defend him. If he is really insane, his case might be one for executive clemency; but this can only be ascertained after a careful examination by experts. So far this human brute has been treated justly, and there is no ground for the clamor of his compatriots.

THE DIPHTHERIA DISCOVERY.

There is very little encouragement for young students at the present time going to Europe for instruction in bacteriology, as the men foremost in that field are too busy with their investigations to give lectures. Crowds of students are flocking to Paris and Berlin for instruction, only to be turned away. The scientific men of to-day who are making investigations in bacteriology are as feverish as were the prospectors for gold in California half a century ago. They all feel themselves on the eve of great discoveries, especially since Behring hit upon his heilserum, the panacea for diphtheritic troubles. The laboratories of Pasteur and others of eminence are already crowded, and the young men who go to Paris hoping to gain admittance into such workshops must have done enough in bacteriology to warrant the expectation that they are to become shining lights in the scientific world.

In this country Roux seems to have received the popular credit for the cure which Behring alone discovered. However, Roux has publicly disclaimed any part of the discovery of the cure, and every bottle of heilserum that is given out bears the label which says that Behring alone is the discoverer of this cure; so that in time the credit which is now being given to the Frenchman will be transferred to the German.

M. Roux has an establishment of 120 horses near Paris, on which he is making scientific experiments in relation to his diphtheria cure.

These horses are fed on bouillon—rich, juicy bouillon—especially and artfully prepared for them. M. Roux mixes, first of all, a germ culture by putting some bacilli taken from the throat of a diphtheria patient into a bouillon, where, in a few days, they multiply indefinitely. The bouillon is then put through a filter, which retains the bacilli but allows the bouillon charged with the poisonous substance generated by the bacilli to pass through. This is the bouillon which is fed to the horses. It probably tastes very good, for they seem to like it, but it works the mischief in their blood. They become slightly ill, as if, in fact, they had a mild form of diphtheria. If a large quantity of the bouillon were given them at once they would probably be seriously ill, suffer and die, just as any human being who has the diphtheria might, but the bouillon is given them in such small doses that it does no serious harm. The strong forces of nature soon come to the rescue. The horse gradually becomes immunized. Nature forms in the blood anti-toxins which overcome the disastrous effects of the poisonous substances which were in the bouillon.

This is exactly the process which a child goes through with when he recovers from the diphtheria, but there is always the danger that if the disease has laid strong hands upon him—that is, if he has in his blood much of the poison given off by the bacilli—that the forces of nature may not be strong enough to form the anti-toxins which will destroy the effect of the poison. But Behring has discovered the short and royal road to recovery. When the horses have become immunized they are bled, and the serum of this blood containing as it does the anti-toxins so necessary to recovery, is what is given to the human patient and makes him well. The anti-toxins are thus formed in the body of the horse instead of in the body of the man. The physician need no longer sit helplessly by waiting for the anti-toxins to form in the body of the human being, and enter upon their life and death struggle with the poison of the disease. He gives the sufferer those forces at once which the sufferer would have to otherwise prepare slowly and laboriously, and which he might be too weak to create for himself.

The blood taken from the horse is allowed to stand for a certain length of time in rooms kept at the temperature of the body until the serum has separated from the clot. Then the serum is skimmed off like cream from milk, put up in bottles, and sent out into the world.

Formerly out of a hundred cases of diphtheria, eighty-five were fatal and fifteen were not; but now only fifteen are fatal and the other eighty-five patients recover. Young bacteriologists are confident that an era of great and important discoveries lies before them, and that it is now only a question of time before they will know how to cure all the diseases caused by the presence of poisonous germs in the body.

APOLOGY TO CHIEF ROSZEL.

Editor of The Times.

Sir,—Some days ago there appeared in your newspaper a letter over the name of "Bravery" reflecting upon the conduct of the Chief of Police in connection with a row in the Italian quarter. The information upon which the letter was based was given to me by parties who I thought were telling the truth, and the matter being one of public interest I considered it proper to ventilate it in the public press, and it was simply in that view, and without the slightest malice to the chief, whom I have never believed to be wanting in courage in the discharge of his duties, that I wrote the letter referred to. I have since been told by a person who was present that the letter complained of does not contain a true account of the information given me, and I learn that there was really no ground for the statements made, which I frankly admit that I was too rash in repeating. I am quite satisfied that all the aspersions contained in the letter are utterly without foundation, and I regret very much that I should have written anything so unjust, and I tender the Chief a sincere apology for having cast any stigma upon him.

Yours, etc.,

ANDREW MCNEIL.

A JAPANESE HOME.LIFE OF THE PEOPLE DESCRIBED BY A NATIVE YOUNG LADY.

How the Houses Are Constructed—Interior—Furnishings—How They Keep Warm—Kitchens and Cooking.

So much is said nowadays in the world's press about our people's warlike spirit and exploits, writes a Japanese young lady educated in Europe to a friend, that you, my sisters in the west, may perhaps like to have a true description of our homes and the peaceful pursuits of our life amid the family circle.

People say our dwellings are like the Swiss chalets in outward appearance. Possibly so, if the latter is built of wood, with three substantial walls and an overhanging roof covered with tiles. The south side is always open and has only sliding doors, consisting of thin wooden frames covered over with white paper, called "shoji," to shut out the wind and cold. Along this side of the house there is a highly polished wooden veranda, and as it is every mistress' aim to keep the wood as bright and spotless as possible, it is wiped over with a cloth many times a day.

At night heavy wooden shutters are put up, which are fastened on the inside by means of a hook and ring. In front of the house we have a small sliding door of lattice work. When any one wishes to enter, he stands outside and calls out, "O sama mochi masu" (I beg for honorable admittance) and then waits until some one answers from the inside, "Donate sama!" meaning who may it honorably be. The visitor thereupon gives his name and is admitted through the little door.

In the interior there are rarely any walls, the rooms being partitioned off by means of sliding doors called "karakami." These differ from the "shoji," or white paper walls, which lead to the veranda, in generally being covered with thick painted paper, silk or other materials. Instead of a door handle, we have pretty little bronze indentations on either side of the "karakami." The floor of the rooms are covered with beautiful white mats, made of many layers of rice straw fastened together, on the top of which the fine white matting is placed. The whole is 8 or 9 inches thick and is generally bound round with black glazed cotton cloth. As these mats are always made 6 feet long by 3 feet wide, the size of a room is determined by the number of mats it contains. There is no furniture in a Japanese house. Chairs are unnecessary, for everybody sits on the floor in a kneeling position, with the feet crossed underneath him. Soft silk or crane cushions filled with cotton wadding are strewn around the rooms and are always offered to a guest, but not used in a general way. At mealtimes small tables are brought in for each member of the family, on which are placed the dishes containing each one's portion of the dinner, the soup bowl, rice cup and chopsticks.

As a rule, the foreigner will find none of the many things considered indispensable for a western home to make it attractive. The sole decorations are found on one side, where a dais is raised four to five inches from the ground and made of pretty polished wood, supported by pillars of pine or cherry wood. Upon this are placed quaint carvings or vases of flowers and suspended on the wall over it is a silk picture called a "kakemono." These pictures are changed according to the season or special occasion. In November, for instance, a "kakemono" with the picture of a chrysanthemum will be hung up, in March one representing a branch of cherry blossoms, others for any particular function, as funerals or weddings.

The raised dais, or "tokonoma," is the only place where we put our pretty ornaments, and then only one at a time, so that none of the beauty of the article may be lost by close connection with other things. Perhaps this is the reason why foreigners call out about our rooms being so bare and comfortable. So they are to any one accustomed to move about in an apartment filled with a variety of things. The same simplicity of decoration is observed in every Japanese house, whether the owner be as rich as Czar or as poor as the proverbial church mouse.

As our houses are built of such light materials, we find it very difficult to keep out the cold during the months of November, December, January and February. Besides this we have no means of heating our rooms, and even if we had the wind would still penetrate through the paper "shoji." The only way we do keep warm is by wearing many thickly wadded "kimono" dresses and holding our hands over the "hibachi" brazier, containing pieces of burning charcoal. We are not, however, quite so destitute of all comforts as the foreigners think.

The "kotatsu" combines warmth and comfort. For this purpose a square of matting is taken out, and a good sized brazier, filled with charcoal and protected by a kind of wooden cage, is set in the hole. Over this is thrown one of the wadded quilts. Each member sits on a small cushion, places his feet against the brazier and covers himself with the quilt.

When the whole family is thus gathered round the "kotatsu," many are the tales of the great deeds of warriors of bygone ages, of fearful ghosts and monsters and such like subjects, which are told for the amusement of old and young. Here all meet together and rest from labor. The father has returned from business, the mother from her household work, and the children have finished their daily tasks, and all are free to enjoy a quiet hour.

From the sitting and reception rooms we go into the kitchen. Its floor is made of polished boards and is so constructed that they can be taken up at will. As the whole house is raised some 20 to 30 inches from the ground, the space between the floor and the ground is used to store away charcoal and other things. In the middle of the kitchen a square charcoal brazier is set into the floor, and much of the cooking is done over its fire, but the most important utensil is the "kama," or large iron boiler, in which the rice is boiled. It is placed in a stand made of clay. Wood is generally burned in the clay stand, or "hetaru," as it is inexpensive and gives an even heat. The art of boiling rice is brought to great perfection in Japan, and in most houses a servant is kept who attends exclusively to the preparing of that article of food.

Tables and chairs are conspicuous by their absence in our kitchen. In place of the former we use small boards, raised on two legs, called "matsuta," upon which we eat our vegetables, "sakana" (pickles) and other things, and the latter are not necessary, as every one sits on the floor.—Baltimore Sun.

AN INFANT'S BODY.

Thrown Over the Cliff at the End of Maria Street.

Special to the Times.

OTTAWA, April 2.—The body of a new born infant was noticed yesterday among some cedar bushes on the brow of the cliff at the west end of Maria street, by two young ladies who were about to descend the pathway leading down the cliff. They informed the police, over the most convenient telephone, of their discovery, and the matter was reported shortly afterwards to Coroner Mark, who diligently investigated the case.

The coroner had the remains taken to Rogers' morgue. Upon examination they were found to be those of an infant girl. The condition of the lungs showed that the child had breathed. The body was found wrapped in the Montreal Witness, dated January 17th. A piece of linen was over its head, but there was nothing on it nor the paper to serve as a clue for identification.

The "Cotton King" Dead.

LIVERPOOL, April 2.—Wm. Steenstrand, the "Cotton King," who exploited the great corner in cotton of 1890, which caused such a sensation and which resulted in his losing $5,000,000, is dead.

It Cost More.

CHICAGO, April 2.—Not only did the Grand Trunk make a twelve cent rate on oats, as it gave notice Saturday it would today, but it made the same tariff on other kinds of grain and on flour to New York. To meet it the other lines were obliged to do likewise and the result was shippers found things very easy for them. Last week's cutting was shown in the report of East bound shipments an increase of over 3,000 tons being recorded as compared with those of the preceding week. Shipments were 60,533, against 57,138 for the week before.

Bernardo Boys Arrive.

HALIFAX, N.S., April 2.—The Parisian brought 47 cable, 117 intermediate, and 300 storage passengers. Included in the latter are 178 boys from Dr. Bernardo's Home. Thirty-seven land here and proceed to Ontario, while the remainder go on to Portland to be forwarded from there to homes in the west.

Attempted to Burn Her Husband.
BELLEVILLE, April 2.—Mrs. Elizabeth Green, a white woman, who is married to an Indian, Isaac Green, who resides at Shannonville, was this morning convicted before Judge Larner of arson. The evidence went to show that early on the morning of the 1st of March she lighted a lot of paper and put it into her husband's bed, with the remark that she would "burn the old Indian up." No serious damage was done. She will be sentenced today.Unnecessary.

Judge Brown, whose boyhood's home was in a small New England village, had and deserved the reputation of being a most liberal and kind hearted man. He was always glad to see his old friends, no matter how rustic they might seem, and gave them many good times in his beautiful city house.

On one occasion the judge had some legal business in the capital of his native state, and shortly after his arrival he met an old farmer from his birthplace who was taking an unwelcome holiday and looked somewhat bewildered. The judge instantly invited the old man to dine with him at the hotel, and the invitation was gladly accepted.

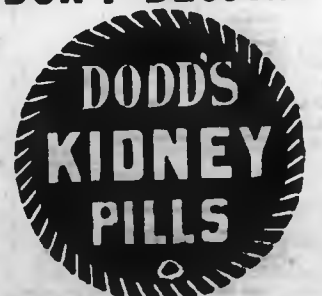

When the farmer took his seat at the table, one of the waiters laid a bill of fare before him. The old man looked at it for a moment, and then, facing around to look the waiter squarely in the face, he said in a tone that rang through the dining room: "No need to gimme that, young feller. Judge Brown en'likes to make my bill. He come from our town, and I know his ways!"

Little as the judge probably enjoyed this public announcement, he showed no annoyance, but nodded to the waiter, who removed the offending sheet, and the old man sat beaming with pride as the judge ordered a dinner to which he did full justice.—Youth's Companion.

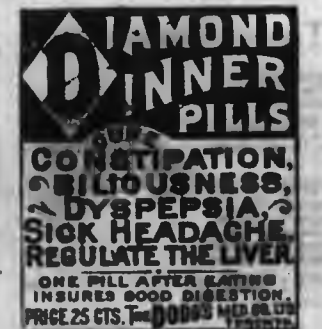

Who Is the Owner?

The law of finding is not generally understood, but it was declared many years ago, and it is well to note the case and the decision. A visitor to a store found a wallet containing a sum of money. He handed the wallet, with its contents, to the merchant, to be returned to the owner.

After three years, the owner having failed to appear, the finder demanded the wallet and the money from the merchant. The latter refused to deliver them on the ground that they were found on his premises. The finder then sued the shopkeeper. It was decided that against all the world but the owner, the title of the finder is perfect. The receiver of an article found is only a trustee, first of the owner, then of the finder, if the owner does not appear. The receiver has no right to keep an article against the finder any more than the finder has to keep it against the owner.

NOT THE SAME GIRL.

But the "Was Glad" Time Hadn't Made Any Change in Her.

The following anecdote has both a comical and pathetic side. What a long time 30 years is in the life of a human being! And how far apart, how unlike in tastes, feelings, opinions and habits men and women can become who in childhood slept under the same roof, attended the same school and dreamed of nothing but of being friends forever! A gentleman whose "society manners" were mentioned in all the newspapers when he died, a few years after this incident, fancied in his old age that he wished to see his boyhood friends and most of all the fair young girl whose love he had loved for almost, but not quite, had dared to ask.

He forgot country manners and called at half past 11 in the forenoon. He was asked to wait "right out into the kitchen," as there was no fire anywhere else.

His early admiration stood before him in a worn calico dress, no collar and a wide and not faultlessly clean apron. Her hair combed grizzly hair was tucked under a rusty black lace cap fringed with faded purple ribbon. She had no teeth, and a pair of silver bowed spectacles were pushed up on her brown, wrinkled forehead.

Fifty-two years before they had parted with a kiss, and he had been intending to meet her with one, and thus bridge the chasm of years, but he changed his mind when through his gold bowed glasses he took in the picture before him.

Wiping her hands on her apron, she gave him a hearty handshake and bade him "sit right down," adding that they were "killing bugs and trying up hard," but if he would "stay to dinner" she would have "a fire put in the front room."

Of course he declined the invitation, and for his own comfort as well as for his convenience he determined to make his call short. Still he must say something complimentary before leaving, but what could he say?

Just then the land boiled over, and with a shrill cry to her daughter to "come quick" the woman jumped up and caught hold of the kettle. The smoke and perfume were in themselves far from agreeable, but they were grateful to the caller, as they gave him a chance for the desired compliment.

"Your step has lost none of its elasticity since the evening we parted," together with the banks of the R., he said, "while this" holding out his gold headed cane—"is needed to support mine."

"Yes," answered the woman, "I'm as spry as a kitten, and I have thought ever since you've been here that I was glad enough time hadn't changed me as it has you."—Youth's Companion.

COOKS AND THEIR DRINKS.

Why the Boss of the Kitchen Once on an Occasional Spees.

"You ask if she is a drinking woman, me'am?" said the proprietor of a restaurant to a lady who had inquired about the character of a cook. "Why, yes, to be sure, she has her moods, but she always sobers up enough to do her work well. I gave her a recommendation as a first class cook, and I didn't think it necessary to say anything about her drinking, for they nearly all drink. They need it to keep themselves up, because they swallow so much hot air. It's the greatest spirit in principle, and other houses do the same."

Various reasons have been given for the temperance of this class. It is said to be due to the tasting of murex, etc., flavored with spirits, to the lack of appetite which the constant sight and odor of cooking produce, and the consequent necessity for stimulants to give strength to continue work, or to the exhaustion of the system by the high temperature, which produces a craving for spirits. Whatever the cause, it is pitiable to know that many contract habits that blight their lives and entail a miserable old age.

Women who cook for small families and whose work is not exhausting are not specially prone to the excessive use of stimulants. The trouble is with those who in hotels, restaurants, large boarding houses, etc., are in the kitchen and over the stove from morning to night. Undoubtedly there are temperate women among them, but many are intemperate.—New York Tribune.

Noting Malay Taps.

Colonel Charles B. Hicks has arrived in this city after spending two years in the Orient. The colonel has been hunting tigers and wild bears with the rajah of Jempour, and has also been pursuing tigers in the Malay peninsula. He said: "In starting out after tigers we take a flat bottomed boat, with a bamboo house on it, lights in the stern and equipped with a crew of natives. Thus provided the hunter sails up the river. Now, there is a leaf of a peculiar tree in Malay, which, if burned, emits an odor which can be smelled for miles and miles. The smell draws the tigers. So no tiger hunter omits to keep a supply of these leaves."

"We were supplied with nets, and whenever a tiger was caught in a net we had a lively time. The tiger would flounder and fight. It took the best skill of the natives to hold him till he could be towed to land and secured. However, the natives such as employed had had so much experience that they managed the work well."

"If we ever came unexpectedly upon old and young tigers together, the old ones would immediately kill their young to prevent their capture."—San Francisco Examiner.

Keep the Feet Warm.

It is the great secret of health, I firmly believe, to keep one's feet warm and dry and then not to coddle oneself otherwise. So far as I have been able to observe, the best require different treatment from all the rest of the body. Women in good for the feet, but beware of it elsewhere. Father Knapp is undoubtedly right in forbidding flannel next the skin in the form of underclothing. It makes most people tender and gives some of them the fidgets. But the writer has seen no people who have adopted wooden stockings who have not been glad of them, all this on the supposition, of course, that people do wear shoes, for if they could discard these utterly and go barefooted, as they do in Worcester, no doubt that would be better still.—Boston Transcript.

Buried in Her Best Dress.

Being buried in a mahogany casket is not half so droll as the Boston woman ordering she should wear a certain particularly becoming bonnet on her last journey, an order, too, that was religiously carried out by her family when the time came for burial.—Boston Journal.

He began by eating broken glass, and followed it up with several large nails, four inch screws and seventy five ordinary tacks. He next bit off the blades of two pocket knives and swallowed them, drinking a glass of water after each act.

At the close of the exhibition Harrison showed a chest expansion of five inches. He offered to allow any reputable physician to cut him open for $300.

Special to the Times.

HAMILTON, April 2.—The Spring Assizes opened here today before Mr. Justice Ferguson. There are only two criminal cases on the list, but the civil list is a long one, the most important cases being the celebrated newspaper libel suit in which Mrs. Beaton of Burlington is the plaintiff, and the action brought by C. R. Smith, secretary of the Board of Trade, against the Toronto, Hamilton and Buffalo Railway Company, for $4,000 wages and commission.

The works of the Kay Electrical Company, which recently made an assignment, were sold yesterday. J. L. Job of this city being the purchaser at $400. The creditors will get fifteen cents on the dollar.

Under an order to close the tax rolls on April 30, Collector Monk is making vigorous collections with the assistance of bailiffs and is pulling in from $500 to $2,000 a day in back taxes.

Indications of Fear.

PARK, April 2.—The European edition of the Herald has this dispatch under yesterday's date from its correspondent in Shanghai: It is reported that Taku which is a Japanese town, is the scene of a Japanese as a guarantee of the observance of the conditions imposed upon the Chinese by the armistice. Thousands of Chinese troops are arriving at Nankin to defend the southern ports of the Yangtze River. The Japanese troops in the Province of Kiangsu are capturing towns north of the Grand Canal.

TELLTALE TEETH.

Their Mute Evidence Brings Punishment.

Late one evening a man walking along a lonely highway was attacked by a ruffian. A scuffle followed, and the man in his despair bit his assailant's left hand, while his assailant dug a mouthful of the man's calf. Thanks mainly to the efforts of the valiant ruffian, the ruffian had to release his victim.

The latter immediately informed the police what had happened, and two days afterward a suspicious character was arrested on a charge of highway robbery. The man denied everything, and as the night of the attack had been pitch dark he could not be identified by his looks. But there was a small wound in his left hand which looked as if it were the mark of a tooth. No, it was not, the accused man said stolidly.

"If he is the man," the victim suggested, "he ought to have the mark of my teeth in his leg." Three tiny wounds were discovered in the man's calf. He still denied the charges and told the story of a large watchdog that had bitten him. But the ruffian's teeth were examined and found to match the wounds exactly. Whereupon the man was convicted.

A man who was accused of murder had wounds in his left hand. On being examined they proved to have been caused by human teeth of a rather peculiar shape. The murdered man's mouth was opened, his teeth examined, and the murderer stood convicted.

When the corpse of the Widow Cremeux, who was murdered at Neuilly, was being examined, it was noticed that she had only one tooth in the upper and three in the lower jaw. A cast was taken of her mouth, and the four teeth were found to correspond exactly to the wounds in the left hand of the man who had been arrested on the suspicion of having committed the murder, but who so far had denied the charges brought against him.

When the mystery of the Gouffe murder was the one subject of conversation in Paris, a box arrived at the house of the murdered man's daughter at Lyons containing a corpse which was supposed to be that of Gouffe, but which was so far decomposed that it would have been impossible to identify it had not the daughter recognized her father by the unusual formation of his teeth.

A rich banker had been found murdered in his house at St. Petersburg. There was no clue whatever, but in the room where the murder had been committed was found a cigar mouthpiece containing part of a cigar of so expensive a kind that the detectives were led to believe the banker had been smoking it just before the crime had been committed. On closer examination it appeared that the mouthpiece was worn away at the end by the teeth of its owner.

The murdered man's teeth did not fit the curious indentation, but when the servants were one by one examined the cook was arrested on the strength of the hollows in the mouthpiece corresponding exactly to the formation of his front teeth. No suspicion had fallen on the man before the discovery was made, but he confessed to the murder soon after.

RISE, SONS OF WILLIAM.

In Case of a Clash Yankee Orangemen Are Ready—The Freshest Yarn from Boston.

BOSTON, April 2.—The Journal says: Preparations are being made in some cities and towns throughout the state by members of the Orange Order to move towards Manitoba in case of a clash over sectarian schools at very short notice.

It has been discovered that in cities and towns of Massachusetts where there are known to be Orange lodges, strangers have made their appearance lately and always find their way to the rooms of the order. An Orangeman told a reporter yesterday that there were more than 1,000 Orangemen in Massachusetts and a large majority of them he said, could be depended on in case of war.

When asked if there were emissaries trying to organize Orangemen to go to Manitoba should trouble arise, he was silent. He made the statement, however, that if England did not reverse the decision regarding the division of the Public School money there certainly would be trouble.

He further said the Orange Order was for the protection of the country in which it was located but that it considered the protection of Public Schools as paramount to the saving of the country.

Caught in New Mexico.

STRAIGHT, Ont., April 2.—John A. Patterson, the acting teller of the Trust Bank here, who absconded about three weeks ago with over $4,000 of the bank's funds, has been located by the Guarantee Company at Las Vegas, New Mexico. Mr. F. P. Hughes, of the bank here, left there today and it is likely Patterson will be brought back to stand his trial.

ONTARIO'S HEALTH.

Scarlet Fever and Diphtheria Have Been Prevalent in the North.

The communications before the Provintial Board of Health in Toronto yesterday went to show that a number of places in Northern Ontario have suffered during the past winter from epidemics of scarlet fever and diphtheria.

A resident of Huntsville a man with diphtheria was running at large and his arrest has been ordered.
Medical Health Officer Dean, of Brighton telegraphed that a man named Storms, with scarlet fever in his house, refused to quarantine. He wanted to know what to do.

In one section of Nipissing there was recently a diphtheria outbreak, and a number of houses had to be isolated. The inmates were provided for at the expense of the township. After a while they refused to pay for such maintenance and the municipality wanted to know if it could enforce payment. Dr. Bryce informed them that they could where people were in a position to pay, but not otherwise.

SURPRISED THE MOTHERS.

Some time ago, says the Hastings Star, there was a dance in a Canadian settlement for the benefit of the settlers and their wives. Most of the married ladies had babies with them, whose mothers pervally required too much attention to allow the ladies the full swing of their social pleasure in the dance. So a number of young men present, gallantly volunteered to watch over the refractory infants, so their mothers could indulge without let or hindrance in the sweets of the "light musical" exercise.

The gallant offer was readily and confidently accepted, but no sooner had the women left their dear charges to the care of those mischievous young rascals than they commenced stifling the infants, and changing the clothing and giving one the uppers of another, till all was transmuted.

The dance and the music continued into the " wee wee wee" hours, and then it was time to go home. The lights were lowered, and each mother hurriedly took a baby, in the arms of her own, and started for home which, in many instances was ten to fifteen miles away.

The following morning there was a pre-digious row in the settlement. Mothers discovered what had occurred, and then commenced some of the tallest female posturing on record. Living as they did miles apart, it required two full days to coax the babies and mothers to restore the mothers to their natural sweet dispositions. Those young men never ventured into that settlement now. It wouldn't be safe.

A BOLD TRAMP

Strikes a Lamp out of a Young Lady's Hand.

Last night about 8:45 a tramp knocked at the door of the residence of Mr. H.
Grandy at the corner of Hunter and Bethune streets. Mrs. Grandy had gone next door to visit a neighbor for a few minutes, and Miss Grundy was the only one at home. She answered the knock, and upon opening the door, the tramp asked for something to eat.

Being alone in the house Miss Grundy was afraid to refuse the man's request, so telling him to wait a minute, she left him standing in the door way, and went back to the dining room where she prepared a lunch of some bread and butter and cold meat. There being no light in the hallway she took up the lamp and with it in one hand and the food in the other, reentered the door.

As she was about to hand the man the lunch he brutally remarked that if she wouldn't take it, referring to the lamp. At the same time, Miss Grundy says, she thinks he must have struck at her with a stick, for the lamp fell from her hand, and she fainted away falling to the floor.

Mrs. Grandy heard the noise of breaking glass and immediately hurried home. She found her daughter unconscious on the floor surrounded by the shattered lamp and the floor for several feet around saturated with oil. The tramp in the meantime had made good his escape.

When Miss Grundy was revived she could not say positively whether the man struck at her or whether she fainted, but she thinks he did, and the blow striking the lamp, caused her to faint. That is probably what did happen. The lamp was certainly extinguished before it left her hand, or it would have ignited the oil. A blow would account for the lamp going out before it struck the floor.

The police were at once notified. Miss Grandy, however, was unable to give them any description of the man except that he was dark and wore dark clothes.

A peculiar circumstance of the case is that on Tuesday night a tramp called at the Grands', and this time Mrs. Grundy answered the door. The man wanted food, and was offered a very substantial plate of bread and butter and meat, which he indignantly refused, throwing it away.
He then made off. Whether this is the same man or a pal is not known.

The police kept a sharp lookout for all specimens of the tramp genus last night, and at 10 o'clock had gathered in eleven of as tough looking specimens as have ever struck Peterborough. It was impossible to tell, though, whether they have the man they are looking for, or not.

The baggage-master at the G.T.R. told Chief Rosal that several rough looking men were hanging around the depot a few minutes before the Port Hope train went out. They looked as if they were waiting to jump the train and probably they did. It is also probable that the man who called at the Grundy residence was one of them.

The affair created considerable talk on the streets last night and all sorts of stories were afloat. The town seems to be overrun with rough looking tramps and there is some talk of another "run" such as was necessitated last spring, when some score of these undesirable persons were driven outside of the town limits and warned to never return.

Miss Grundy while not injured by her fall was badly frightened. It was indeed fortunate that the scattered oil did not ignite, or the affair would likely have had a very serious ending.

LITTLE LOCAL LINES.

Items of Interest Intelligently Presented for Busy Readers.

The Street and Bridge and Manufacturers' Committees of the Town Council met last night.

The program for the Y. P. S. C. E. county convention on Easter Monday has been arranged, and it is safe to say that it will deeply interest everyone.

On Tuesday voting took place in the township of South Monaghan on the by-law to grant $2,000 towards constructing a bridge at Ross's, across the River Otonabee.
The bridge is to be built, for the by-law was carried by a majority of 40.

The condition of the engineer, Charles Malawaring, who was injured in the Grand Trunk wreck near Weston, some weeks ago, has not improved and the attending physicians at the hospital, Toronto, have but slight hopes of his recovery.

The Campbellford Gazette says that that town is going to hold a musical demonstration on the Queen's Birthday. In lacrosse, Hastings are billed to meet Peterborough Juniors, while Campbellford plays Peterborough for 15 gold chain lockets valued at $75.00.

The steamer North King between Port Hope and Charlotte, will come out this season better than ever. During the past winter the steamer has had many changes made to her interior. The dining room will be on the first deck, and more sleeping berths will be added. It is intended to have a restaurant in connection with the boat, where meals will be served at all times. At present the management is in favor of placing a permanent orchestra on the steamer. - Cobourg Post.

The enrollment of pupils in the town public schools for last month (kindergarten excepted) was 1,847, with an average attendance of 1,201 or 64.5 per cent. Kindergarten enrolled: Central 46, average 34; south ward 52, average 34.5. Hence the total enrollment was 1,445 (fifty more than in March '94) and the total average 1,073.5 or 64.5 per cent. Kindergarten not included the Central enrolled 502, average 540 or 91.3 per cent.; Rutledge street school 355, average 317 or 89.3 per cent. Park street school 216, average 184 or 85 per cent., and the Barnardo avenue school 184, average 156 or 84.8 per cent.

By a very simple rule the duration of night and day can be determined at any time of the year. All you have to do is to multiply the hour of the sun's rising by two and it will give you the length of the night. Multiply the hour of setting by two and you get the length of the day. It is very simple. Thus, on winter approaches, take a day when the sun rises at 6:30 and sets at 5:30. Apply the rule and you have a night of 13 hours and a day of 11 hours.
The rule will be found absolutely accurate at all seasons of the year.

The latest swindle being operated on the farmers in some parts of the country is a very ingenious one and well calculated to deceive. Two men come along painting on fences, barns, etc., and bargain in return for the privilege. The work is done, the money paid and a receipt book produced. That the painters should require vouchers is such a natural idea that the farmer never hesitates to sign an acknowledgment of the receipt of the money. The relations of the painters and farmer are broken off at this point and the latter thinks no more of the former till his "receipt" turns up in a year or bank as a note for $300 or $300. The name-signing habit has cost a good many farmers dear.

FAREWELL SERVICES.

The Evangelists Close Their Labors in Peterborough.

The evangelists Rev. Mr. Moore and Mr.
W. H. C. Campbell, who have been in the George street Methodist church last night, closing their labors in Peterborough.

Probably George street church never before held so large a congregation. Fully 2,000 citizens were present, the church being crowded to the doors, in fact hundreds were unable to get in at all.

The song service was conducted by Mr. Whyte. Rev. Mr. Moore delivered an earnest sermon. The devotional services were conducted by Revs. Torrence, Rae and Trotter. Unfortunately Rev. Mr.
Young was absent.

The evangelists have done a good and noble work during their short sojourn in Peterborough and general regret is felt at their departure.

The Pleasures of Sin.

The Rev. J. C. Davidson has the Rev. A.
J. Reid, of 't'bridge, as a guest. Last evening the popular 't'bridge minister delivered an address at St. Paul's church on "The Pleasures of Sin: What Are They Worth?" The phases of sin are as various as the sands of the sea, but the learned gentleman had not the time in which to portray the nature of each one of them, but those that he did were undoubtedly "true to life." The address was interesting and instructive.

The Times.

PETERBOROUGH, APRIL 5 1895.

Good morning!

The speech of Mr. Oimmet at the Conservative nomination in Vercheres makes it clear that the Government expects to capture that Liberal but Catholic county on the cry of Separate schools for Manitoba.

Long words are not often sent by cable, for obvious reasons. The new cable vocabulary of 250,000 words of less than ten letters each, which has been adopted in Europe, has reached America,
and will probably have to be adopted by business men here.

Gatling Gun Howard wants possession
of 70 miles of the Labrador coast for his lobster fishing operations. Gat. appears to think that his services in the Northwest entitle him to the fee simple of the country he saved.

The process of "knifing" the Town Solicitor is evidently not making much progress, even although a certain Councillor, just after the municipal elections boasted about how far he proposed to insert the cold steel into the vitals of the Corporation Counsel. Mr. Edwards is still on deck, and where he is likely to remain at least for the balance of the present year.

It is now a question whether Prince Bismarck would prefer to have an eighty-first birthday. The hundreds of presents that he received are no doubt valuable,
but when it is remembered that he was
the recipient of over 200,000 letters and
over 1,000,000 post-cards, the possibilities of another celebration are somewhat appalling. He may possibly prefer to postpone the next until another eighty years
have passed.

While the New England papers are urging Newfoundland to become a State of the Union, some of their contemporaries in the west are making declarations to the effect that Uncle Sam will not take the island even as a gift. The Detroit Tribune for instance says: "We don't propose to let Great Britain abandon any such sickly infant as Newfoundland on our doorstep." There is however no reason for alarm, as Newfoundland is going to remain British.

The Government is deserving of commendation for its announced intention to curtail the Mounted Police force in the Northwest. The expenditure on this service is one which has been generally complained of and with reason. The outlay upon it having run up from $477,000 in 1883 to $615,000 in 1893. We should, a speedily as possible, get back to the figure of twelve years ago and the sooner the Government makes the reduction the greater will be the praise accorded.

Opinion in favor of the abolition of all religious teaching in the Public schools is rapidly taking form. This development, although receiving impetus from
the discussion of the Manitoba school question is practically independent of the latter. Thousands feel that the purely formal exercises now required are really
an injury rather than aid to the propagation of religious truths and that the church would be more efficient and earnest if freed to do without State aid altogether. And those who hold this view are undoubtedly right.

APPEAL TO THE PEOPLE.

If Sir Charles Tupper has resigned because Sir Mackenzie Bowell refused to consent to an appeal to the people on the Manitoba school question, before the Dominion Parliament is called upon to legislate in the matter, the Minister of Justice has shown statesmanlike qualities he was never before credited with possessing.

Most assuredly this is a question on which the electorate ought to be consulted before final action is taken at Ottawa.
The matter is too important to be dealt with by a moribund body elected on a different issue. It would be little short of treason for the present parliament to enact legislation re-establishing Separate schools in Manitoba and setting a precedent which would render it impossible for the people of Ontario to remove the additions to the Separate School Act of this Province made by our own Legislature.

If such far-reaching measures are ever proposed at the Federal capital, they certainly should be proposed in a parliament fresh from the people and elected on that one issue.

A NEW PROVINCE.

The question of union with the Dominion is being seriously considered by leading men in Newfoundland. How far the inhabitants of the island in general are interested in it is not generally known. We see that some of the confederates are most desirous that the delegation to Ottawa shall consist of men of both political parties, but it seems that their counsels have been unheeded by the men in power for the delegation is said to consist solely of men on the Government side. This is to be regretted, for if both parties would unite cordially to bring about confederation it would be the more easily accomplished.

The Newfoundland correspondent of the Montreal Gazette, who is known to be an able and well informed man, is of this opinion for in a late letter, after showing that the question is not a party one, and expatiating upon the advantages of the cordial co-operation of men of all parties,
he goes on to say:

The advantages of such a mode of procedure would be manifold. All opposition to confederation would be precluded; or if attempted at all, it would be soon seen to be futile and hopeless, and would be abandoned. The colony would go in as a unit, and if good terms were accorded, as undoubtedly be the case, contentment and cordiality would follow, instead of restlessness and dissatisfaction. Such unanimity would tell powerfully in Canada, in taking the pith out of any opposition that might arise there to the acceptance of the colony in its present dilapidated condition.

If some of the rumors that have found their way into the newspapers are true, it does not seem at all likely that the terms of confederation with Newfoundland will be either easily or quickly negotiated. According to these rumors the claims of the Newfoundlanders are not very moderate.
One of them is the construction of a tunnel under the Strait of Belle Isle, with, of course, its complement of railroad in one direction to Quebec and the other to St.
John's. The twelve miles or so of tunnel would be a work of considerable magnitude and would involve the expenditure of a very large sum of money. It is possible that if the Government would bore the tunnel private enterprises might in time construct the railroad with or without state assistance. But the project is a big one and we do not see Newfoundlanders to offer that would justify the Dominion in undertaking the work. The people are poor and it would take them a long time to recover from the effects of the very serious disasters that have overtaken them.
The resources of the country—those at any rate of them that are developed—are not numerous. The Newfoundland fisheries are very valuable and the mineral wealth of the country is considerable. The trade of the island would be beneficial to Canada and it is likely that its revenue after a while would be sufficient to meet the ordinary expenditure in the province of the Federal Government. But the people would for a long time need help in many ways independently of the tunnel and railroads. It is therefore only prudent to calculate that for some time after it becomes a province of this Dominion, Newfoundland would draw more from the Dominion treasury than she would put into it. But eventually, if her affairs are well managed and her people peaceable and contented, she would be a valuable addition to the Dominion, adding both to its wealth and its importance.

CORROBORATIVE TESTIMONY.

The Recent Recovery of Mr. G. H. Kent of Ottawa, Discussed in Minneapolis.

MINNEAPOLIS, April 4.—The details of the case of Mr. G. H. Kent, of Ottawa, Canada, have been followed with great interest by a number of our citizens. The lengthy interviews recently published in the Ottawa newspapers have been widely read, not only on account of the very unusual nature of the case, but for the reason that there is a considerable Canadian Colony here more than one among whom is personally acquainted with Mr. Kent, and is able to speak highly of his character for truth and probity. There are also many in our community both Canadian and American who have made personal trial of Dodd's Kidney Pills for various forms of kidney complaints and claim that everything that Mr. Kent said about their efficacy is absolutely true.

HARRY GREEN'S WAY

HE PLAYED HIS FAVORITE GAME ON MR. SMITH OF CHICAGO.

Four Aces Will Always Beat Four Kings, but in this case there was another hand, held by an "outsider," that was in at the showdown.

Do you know how to play poker? If you do and chance to meet an old man who looks like a stockman from Montana, with money to burn, just looking for a good time, don't. If you do, you will be sorry. A well known business man, who at one time kept a furniture store on Main street and has retired from business, paid $1,400 for his experience with the Montana stockman.

As every one knows the furniture man, he may as well be called Smith. Mr. Smith, since he is not engaged actively in business, has been spending a share of his time in a down town bucket shop every day. One morning while Mr. Smith was watching the market and listening to the voice of the caller a stranger who "happened" to sit next him engaged him in conversation.

"What is dull today, isn't it?" said the stranger.

"Yes," drawled Mr. Smith. The two had been broken and the stranger, whose appearance indicated that he was a westerner, became communicative. He told Mr. Smith he had just come from Montana and was taking a little rest. He declared he had enough money to have some fun and pulled a big roll of fifties and hundreds out of his pocket to prove it.

"By gosh, I will have a good time, and if I don't won't be no fault of mine," said the Montana man as he got up to take a walk about the room.

Mr. Smith paid little attention to the incident until a man who had just entered and was leaning against the wall, and who had seen the stockman display his money, stepped up to him. He asked Mr. Smith if he knew the "old fellow." Mr. Smith said he did not, but the man had told him he was from Montana and had a good deal of money.

"Yes, I saw it," said stranger No. 2. "And do you know I think I could get it if I could get him into a poker game?"

After considerable persuasion Mr. Smith consented to ask the stockman if he would play a little poker.

"Well, I don't mind," said the stockman, and arrangements were made to play in a down town hotel in the evening. In the meantime the stranger had a quiet talk with Mr. Smith. He told him he was a professional gambler and knew how to "fix" the cards. They were to get the old man's money and divide the spoils. The plan was as follows: A deck was to be fixed up in which were two hands. Mr. Smith was to get four aces and the stockman four kings. The hands were to be sprung in the stockman's own deal. Stranger No. 2 fixed the cards and said: "Now, you keep the cards on your lap, and when it is the stranger's deal I will attract his attention when he gives the cards to you to cut, and at that moment you substitute this deck for the one he hands you. But we must have another man. We can't play three handed."

Mr. Smith knew a great many men, he said, but they were all business men, and all of them were too busy to play. At the stranger's suggestion they started out together to look for the fourth man. They dropped into the Saratoga hotel, and stranger No. 2 saw a man who appeared much bored sitting near the window.

"Perhaps he will play. Shall I ask him?"

"Go ahead," said Mr. Smith.

Stranger No. 2 said he played poker, but not for money or with strangers.

No. 2 produced the card of an Iowa firm. "That's my card," said he.

"You're all right, then," said the stranger.

Mr. Smith then said, "I'm Mr. Smith, and every one around here knows me."

The stranger was still a little shy, but finally yielded to Mr. Smith's persuasions and agreed to sit in the game. The stockman was found in the barroom of the hotel. The quartet went around to a Monroe street hotel, and the game began.

The game dragged along for awhile without incident. After an hour or so it came the stockman's deal. He shuffled the cards clumsily and handed them to Mr. Smith to cut. At that moment the stockman was seized with a fit of "anezing," and stranger No. 2 gave Mr. Smith a signal to run in the "cold deck." He did it successfully. In the deal Mr. Smith got four aces according to programme. He made a good bet, and the stockman, as expected, raised him handsomely. But to Mr. Smith's surprise and gratification the Saratoga hotel stranger also staid. No. 2 dropped out, of course.

He bet with confidence, and so did the stockman, and, to Mr. Smith's continued delight, the stranger kept coming in. He didn't raise any bets, but just staid. The betting was lively and lasted until Mr. Smith came to the end of his pile and had $1,400 on the table. He was kicking because he didn't have more, but had to call for a show.

"Well, I am sorry for you, my friend," said the stockman, "I have four kings," and he started to take in the pot.

"You needn't feel sorry, old man," exclaimed Mr. Smith triumphantly. "I have four aces. The money is mine. Did you think I was bluffing?" and he started to grab the money and checks.

"Hold on, hold on!" spoke up No. 2. "Ain't this a fix?"

"It was like a voice from the tombs to Mr. Smith, and the game broke up.

An adjournment was taken to the bar, but the straight flush man and the stockman got away as quickly as possible, leaving Mr. Smith and his friend. His friend proceeded to give Mr. Smith a terrible roasting.

"Confound you," said he, "I thought you said you knew how to play poker. You've made a nice mess of it. Here we are broke, and the makeshift that we picked up gets all the money. We might just as well have had all that stockman's money and the other fellow's too."

Mr. Smith's friend talked in this strain until Mr. Smith was convinced that he was a double distilled idiot and knew nothing about the noble American game. Then Mr. Smith's friend laid him a sorrowful and indignant good night and left, leaving him to wonder how the outsider got the straight flush.

If Mr. Smith had only known that the stockman was Harry Green, one of the smoothest confidence men and gamblers in the world, all would have been different. He has played that same kind of a game for 30 years and in that time has caught many a Bab. Stranger No. 2 was his Baltimore partner, Fred Porter. He and Harry Green made barrels of money years ago on the big Atlantic liners, and stranger No. 2 was a well known Chicago gambler who came in for a share of the "divvy."

Wives Complained that Their Husbands Lost Money—The Police Watched the Place.

Special to The Times.

OTTAWA, April 3.—For some time the police had been quietly paying attention to a place on Queen street, and not far from the Dominion church, as the place had gained a reputation of being a gambling resort, and which they proposed swooping down upon as soon as opportunity afforded. It is said, however, that the managers of the resort were given a hint that the authorities were "on to them," for on Monday they shut up shop and skipped the city. Among the reports heard about the place is one to the effect that a stranger was done out of a couple of hundred dollars there a short time ago. The managers, fearing that his loss would reach the ears of the police, told him that they were going to be "pelled," and that he was spoken of as a witness in the case. Their story worked all "O. K." for not being anxious for any notoriety in that connection, the victim lost no time in getting out of the city.

SUING THE NEWSPAPERS.

Mrs. Beaton's Claim for Heavy Damages Against the Public Press.

Special to The Times.

HAMILTON, April 3.—The trial of Mrs. Elizabeth Beaton's suit against the newspapers was begun yesterday. It is an action to secure damages for alleged libel from the Toronto Globe and World, the Daily Herald, the Star, the Times, the Standard, the Despatch, the Stratford Herald, and the Central Press Agency, of Toronto. Messrs. G. S. Stanton and Arthur O'Hell are counsel for the plaintiff, while Mr. B. H. Osher is principal counsel for the defendants, assisted by a lawyer chosen by each of the defendants.

WHAT IT IS ABOUT.

The case arose out of the publication in August, 1893, of a story which had appeared in the New York World, and which reflected upon Mrs. Beaton in connection with the death of Cicero Harrison Case, who, while on a voyage from Norfolk, Va., to New York, aboard the Old Dominion Line steamship Wyandotte, disappeared mysteriously, and whose body was subsequently washed ashore on the Virginia coast. This article was republished by the defendants, and for this alleged libel Mrs. Beaton is suing.

After Mr. Stanton had put her case before the jury, Mr. Justice Ferguson ruled that the action against the Toronto World and the Central Press should be dismissed with costs.

Making the World Homelike.

In an address before the W. C. T. U. convention at Cleveland Mrs. Frances E. Willard said:

"I remember that no one subject puzzled or vexed me more in my youthful days than why it was that men could range the whole world as their will, and then have the home beside, while women did not have the world, but the home only. I did not think this fair, and I resolved to build in my life to help make the world so homelike that women could freely go out into it everywhere, side by side with men, and also to help bring it about that men should share in the larger measure than they have ever yet done in the hallowed ministrations of the fire and the cradle side, through which, as I believe, they are to reach their highest and holiest development."

Dandelion's Wife as a Grandmother.

Mme Dandelion is always pretty and charming. As you see her sitting at her desk, among the hundred costly nick-knacks of a modern interior, with her little daughter Edmee on her knee, she seems like a young mother, but this young mother is a still more youthful grandmother. It seems incredible, but her eldest son, the writer of some very remarkable and original scientific papers, has been married for two or three years to a granddaughter of Victor Hugo.—Ladies' Home Journal.

FROM THE MILKMAN.

IT'S A GOOD THING, HE SAYS, THAT THE FLUID IS WATERED.

Otherwise it would have a tendency to make people bilious. Why he has no scruples whatever about diluting it, Frank Admissions.

Of course we do and don't make any bones about telling it right out straight. People generally get it upright about our pure milk from Soho farm. It's the purest milk on earth—the milk that is in it—and Ridgewood water won't hurt anybody. I know an old scolder once who persisted in swearing that water was unhealthy because it rotted shoes and everything, rusted iron and all that, and then he used to look you straight in the eye without stopping, and clutch his argument by saying, "Just think what a powerful effect water must have on the coating of your stomach!" But that scolder had to drink water, had as it was for his stomach, when he took a milk punch.

I agree with you that Soho was a queer name for me to choose for my farm in my mind. You see, the way it happened was this: My wife is a bright little woman, and when I told her that all the milkmen were selling milk right fresh from their own farms she hunted around for a fancy name that would take the eye and bring trade. But somehow we could not agree about those cooked up, and we agreed to leave it to a newspaper man I know, and when I told him about it he said, "So, boy, you're going to have a farm of your own, in your mind." And I caught on right off. I remembered seeing the name on tea caddies when I was in the grocery line, and I liked it, and ever after that my purest of all milk sold in Brooklyn came from my Soho farm. That's how it was.

Not as long as 50 years ago the milk pump for us milkmen in a certain section of Brooklyn used to be on Kent avenue, near Park, and it was there we all met, after arriving from Jersey City, where in the freight depot were located Soho farm and Soho farm and all the other farms of Orange county, and from this pump, which we at first called our cow, we drew more than half our milk and three-fourths of our fortunes. It was wonderful milk we got there, for if we had been permitted to sell that entirely to our customers it would never have soured, and, being one cow's milk, there would never have been any trouble with the babies, and the mothers would have been delighted. But the milk we got from that pump in Kent avenue, near Park, did not have a milky color, and both fathers and mothers would have soured as it themselves if our fondest hopes could have been realized and we could have gone so far as to have offered the pure spring water at so much a quart. But that wouldn't go, although it was the purest spring water I ever drank and never made me bilious. Some milk will stand more watering than other milk because it is stronger. All milk ought to be diluted, because it is too thick and has a strong tendency to make everybody bilious. That is what I learned from a good Methodist woman named Low, who lived in Flushing when I was a boy and had a few cows whose milk she sold to the neighbors. I never forgot what she told me when I came upon her suddenly one day in the cellar of the house to find out what I had to bring her so much water from the well for. She told me it would be un-Christian like for her to sell such strong and unwholesome milk, which might make all her customers sick, and so she performed a Christian duty by making it half water, and they liked it all the better. And when I got in the milk business I found other good Christians who had the same doctrine, and, if you will believe me, this dilution applies to other things among good Christians as well as to healthful dealers in groceries and so on.

I can't say that I ever could countenance making milk out of chalk and spring water, no matter how pure and sparkling the water might be. You see, there is always a sediment from chalk milk, and it is a dead give away, but I have often thought that there might be an extract of milk made so that we might take it and add water to it and call it pure Soho farm milk. This would save a world of trouble and expense and make life easy for the milkman, instead of a burden, as it is now. We wouldn't have to start for Jersey at 11 o'clock at night and milk the pump at 3 in the morning, but we could do all the business in the rear of the store, where we sell our milk, just before we open up for custom in the morning. Another great advantage would be that our cow would never give out, and we could always hand over a good supply of fresh milk from Soho farm and be able to supply even the largest demands of hotels and others. It is not, every milkman, you know, as perfect as he is honest and truthful as I am to you, but I do not and never did see any harm in softening up the milk a little with water and giving it a lovely baby blue color. I know from an experience of many years that people will not buy and use what is really pure milk, and I leave it to any man who ever sold a quart of milk to back me up in what I say. You can't sell pure milk. I don't suppose it is without any water when we get it at the freight depot in Jersey, and I'm mighty sure people do not get it entirely pure when it is sold at retail unless they ask for it particularly. The product is as pure as it came from the cows on the real farm, and people who wanted it or thought they didn't want any more of it. You see, it is too rich for the stomachs of most people and too rich for the blood of everybody. If customers would do their own watering, that would be another thing, but they don't know how as well as us milkmen.—Milkman in Brooklyn Eagle.

Beets Grown From Seeds.

Every grower of beets has noticed the small buds that appear near the top of the root. These are indeed miniature plants, and if cut out and planted, just as potato eyes are, each will next season produce a perfect beet plant with as large a root downward as one grown from seed. It may seem that there can be no practical object in growing beets thus, for it is always easy to grow beet seed, but it is found that when a high grade sugar beet has been secured by sowing strains of the sweetest beets there is a tendency to retrograde in quality. Hence some beet sugar growers in Europe are experimenting in growing from the bud. Having once obtained a root with high per cent of sugar, the quality can be maintained by growing stock from buds. It is possible that this process, if continued long, will tend to establish a growth of beet roots with many prongs and shoots. The form of growth would be objectionable as making the beet loss compact.—American Cultivator.

THE C. P. R. OBJECTS.

The Granting of a Bonus to the Hudson Bay Railway Protected Against by the C. P.

R. and More Concessions Will Be Asked by It if the Bonus Be Granted.

Special to the Times.

MONTREAL, April 3.—It is understood that the directors of the Canadian Pacific Railway have passed a resolution in the shape of a protest against the Government of Canada giving the bonus proposed, and already ratified by the Privy Council, to the Hudson Bay Railway project.

They contend that the line, if ever built, will divert traffic from them; that nearly 200 miles of road parallel their road west of Winnipeg, and that the road is not required.

It is also stated that if the Hudson Bay road is aided, the C. P. R. will ask for an additional allowance on account of transportation of mails to different parts of the country, so that, besides the other questions, there will be a railway question before the members at the coming session of Parliament.

OVER A MILLION DEFICIT.

MONTREAL, April 3.—The annual meeting of the Canadian Pacific Railway Co. took place today, Sir William C. Van Horne presiding. The earnings of the road, as shown by the report, read by Vice-President Shaughnessy are $1,320,000 less than last year.

The gross earnings of the year were $18,753,167.71 and the operating expenses $17,333,428.65, leaving the net earnings at $1,420,739.06.

Donald McMaster, Q.C., one of the shareholders, stated that he thought the $4,000,000 set aside for deficiencies should have been antedated upon and a dividend paid as many people had bought stock expecting a dividend. There was little or no discussion.

THREE GIRLS OF PLUCK.

They Start from Tacoma to Seek Their Fortunes in Alaska.

Special to the Times.

TACOMA, Wash., April 3.—Misses Anna K. Wicks, Eugenie Armstrong and Maggie Farrelly, of Ellensburg, Wash., left here to seek their fortunes in the gold fields of Alaska. The young women who have been school teachers, have in their outfit a small sail boat, in which they will make the trip up the Yukon river to Forty Mile Creek, a distance of over 1,700 miles. Miss Farrelly's father has been in the gold fields of Forty Mile Creek more than a year, and sent for his daughter. The other girls were eager to make the trip and seek wealth, and so joined her.

The New German Immigrant Agent. Kink, April 3.—The new German immigrant agent, designated by the letter "T" was launched this morning. As she was leaving ways Emperor William christened her Agri.

Maternity Love.

"Isn't it horrid," said the Circassian beauty, "to think of the fat lady reeling the terrified man so soon after her first husband's demise?"

"Yes, I know," replied the two-headed girl, "but she says that the baby has taken a fancy to cutting his teeth on him."—Indianapolis Journal.

The alligator never leaves fresh water, while the crocodile frequently travels long distances by sea. It has been seen 1,000 miles from land, and it is possible that these sea-going crocodiles have given rise to sea serpent stories.

The Pyrometer.

Some remarkable claims are put forth in behalf of Professor Austen's new pyrometer for the more accurate measurement of high temperatures. It is a thermo junction of platinum and of platinum alloyed with rhodium, this being attached to a galvanometer. The spot of light from its mirror is received on a revolving drum covered with sensitized paper. The curves exhibited give a 24 hours' record of the variations in the temperature of the blast supplied to furnaces smelting iron. In this way it is possible to account for the variations in the working of those large structures, and, by insuring regularity of work, to avoid the occurrence of such variations; also to effect economies of fuel, which it is anticipated will attain very large proportions, proving, it is claimed, to be of great industrial importance in conducting this branch of metallurgy.—New York Sun.

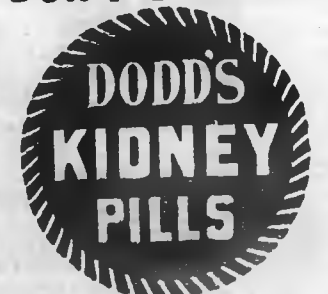

He Couldn't Help It.

"How do you feel?" asked a sympathetic bystander as a trolley victim opened his eyes.

"Quite run down," whispered the humorist, who even in his agony could not let a chance slip, and the crowd, seeing the humor of the joke, laughed merrily until the ambulance arrived.

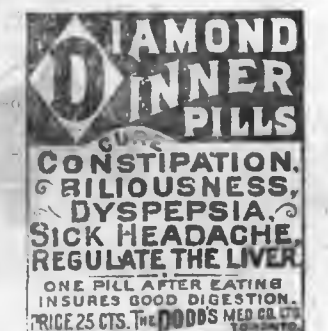

When asked for his married experience, La Bruyere replied: "You wives are so perfect that they do not give their husbands cause at least once a day to repeat of matrimony."

THE POLITICAL SITUATION

MR. C. H. TUPPER DENIES THAT HE RESIGNED.

Says Some Ottawa Newspaper Correspondents Are a Disgrace to the Profession—The Press in the By-Election.

strong speech. The electors, he said, were to be called upon to pass judgement on the Government for doing justice to the minority in Manitoba.

"The Government had had the courage of its convictions, and had staked its fate upon the decision," he said. It was not the fact, as some fanatics were pretending, that Quebec wanted to meddle with the affairs of the other provinces. That was not the question at all. The Manitoba school question had become a Federal question, and by the judgment of the Privy Council the Dominion Government had been called upon to interfere.

It would be a shame, he declared, if it could be said that the people of Haldimand, Protestant constituency, endorsed the action of the Government by electing Dr. Montague, and those of Vercheres, a Catholic riding, did not.

MR. FELLISTER, Provincial Secretary of Quebec, called on the people of the constituency to endorse the Government in the stand it had taken on the school question.

The not passed by Mr. Greenway, a Liberal Premier, was an infamous one, and he (the speaker), speaking as a public man, was free to declare that he would have no longer supported the Government if it had not seen that justice was rendered the minority in Manitoba.

(Applause.) Mr. Leblanc, Speaker of the Quebec Legislature, ordered Premier Greenway for not at once obeying the remedial order.

"NO SURRENDER." WINNIPEG, April 3.—Yesterday the Tribune, the Greenway organ, announced that there will be no compromise on the school question. It denies that the Cabinet is divided.

"Each member is resolute in his determination to stand by the national school, no matter what the issue may be. To yield to any suggestion to the appointment of a commission or making any compromise, would, it is considered, be perfectly suicidal, and would never be approved by the public. The Government fully recognizes that it has a mandate from the people of Manitoba to stand by the Public school system, and there is no more intention of departing from that mandate than there is of handing over the Government of the Province to the Roman Catholics."

A DISGRACE.

ST. JOHN, N.B., April 3.—Sir Charles H. Tupper, who has come down here to participate in the anti-imperial campaign, says the reports sent out from Ottawa about him were the work of newspaper correspondents who had little or no regard for the truth. The whole affair was an exaggeration of his views on the Manitoba school matter. He had never concealed his opinion that before taking final action on that important matter the Government should appeal to the people. He felt that such a course was proper, though not legally necessary, and said it might even yet be the result. Although he had strong hope the Manitoba Government would not, taking the broad view that if it did there could then be no Federal interference.

HE NEVER RESIGNED.

Sir Hibbert denied that he resigned or even talked of resigning over the matter, and declared he had not absented himself from the Cabinet meetings. He said if the correspondent who circulated the report that because he was not at home, or in his office, or at the club house, he therefore was in hiding, had looked in at the Cabinet meetings they would have found him there. He closed with a scathing criticism of some of the Ottawa press men, declaring them a disgrace to the profession.

IN LEGISLATIVE HALLS.

END OF THE MUNICIPAL COMMITTEE'S WORK IN SIGHT.

The Public Accounts Deliberations—Bureau of Orillia, Examined—What Our Legislators are Doing on Parliament Hill.

Toronto, April 4.—George Sleeman, George A. Sleeman, C. R. Sleeman, Wm. H. Sleeman and Sir Charles H. Tupper, are asking incorporation as the Great Railway Company, and the confirmation of an agreement between George Sleeman and the city of Orillia, the agreement to be transferred to the company hereby incorporated. Mr. D. Guthrie, C. C. of Orillia, is supporting the bill, which is introduced by Mr. Metrie through the Railway Committee this morning.

The next subject for the Railway Committee to discuss is the application of the town of North Toronto to buy the franchise of the Metropolitan Street Railway or secure running powers, to give them a more satisfactory service.

County Crown Attorney Hartley, H. Dewar and Mr. W. Metrie are favouring the bill. Mr. Walter Barwick, of Moss, Barwick & French, represented the Metropolitan Railway, and Mr. C. C. Robinson opposed the deal on behalf of the county.

The North Torontoans want to get a quicker service than the present 20-minute one and are willing to arrange to lease or buy. They also object to the two fares and want to arrange with the Toronto Street Railway so that a system of transfer may be used.

THE MUNICIPAL COMMITTEE this morning had under discussion a most interesting bill by Mr. A. Wray, which drew a roomful of auditors. It proposes to assess lands within a town or village corporation as farm lands, if they are solely used for farm lands and their owners are not to be liable to taxation to support water works, sewerage and maintain sidewalks and streets, street lighting.

They are, however, to be held still liable for any debt due that have been contracted by the corporation up to the time of passing this act.

The bill passed with some amendments, against which its mover protested. City Solicitor Macdonald, of Toronto, and City Solicitor Macdonald, of Hamilton, opposed it, and Col. Denison favored it. It was extended so as to apply to cities, and not less than five acres is affected. The clauses affecting the repairs of sewers and sidewalks were struck out.

IN THE PRIVATE HALLS.

The London and Springbank railway bill went through, and Strickland's lands separation act was passed.

Then they went at the Toronto Junction Private Bill, and Mr. A. R. Bowell removed his claim for the continuation of the special agreement with the Junction Council, under which he gets interest on his local improvement debenture half-yearly, instead of yearly, as the consolidation provides in all other cases.

THE PUBLIC ACCOUNTS.

Hon. Mr. Hartley presided over the deliberations of the Public Accounts today. Mr. T. J. Blair, barrister of Orillia, was the first witness, and was followed by Inspector Christie, Accountant J. O. Anderson of the Central Prison and Walter Scott of the wood-working department of the prison, who gave information as to the manner of estimating cost and selling price on articles of their manufacture.

Mr. Blair says that at Orillia they have 173 acres of land, partly cleared, most of which is occupied by the garden, which supplies the house. They keep six horses and 17 cows.

Great Britain's Reply to the United States Ambassador—John Bull Can Manage His Own Venezuelan Affairs.

Special to the Times.

New York, April 4.—A Washington despatch to the Herald says: Great Britain will not tolerate any interference by the United States in the boundary dispute with Venezuela. This is the reply of the British Foreign Office to Ambassador Bayard's representations of the desire to bring about a settlement of the boundary dispute by arbitration.

THE BOUNDARY LINE

surveyed in 1881 by Sir Robert Schomburgk, and would not submit to arbitration in any form that would bring that line into question.

It is claimed on behalf of Venezuela that the British position practically amounts to a declaration that if Venezuela will admit the claim of Great Britain all the territory on the British side of the Schomburgk line, arbitration may be resorted to determine whether still more territory shall not be taken by Great Britain.

The United States Government has practically made the cause of Venezuela her own. A great deal will now depend upon the action of the two Governments in the disputed territory.

Both Venezuela and Great Britain have established small outposts along the Guyana River, which flows through the centre of the territory in controversy. These outposts overlap each other, some of them established by Venezuela as nearer to the territory, which is admitted by British, than are some of the British outposts.

"The situation is such that a hostile clash may be brought on at any time."

A Despatch, via New York, Names the Grand Trunk's New President.

Special to the Times.

New York, April 4.—A report is current in Wall street, which comes from London, that Sir Charles Rivers Wilson has agreed to accept the presidency of the Grand Trunk Railway. He was born in London in February, 1831, and has held many British Government positions in India and Egypt, and was Finance Minister to Egypt, and consequently was made president of the Egyptian Debt Commission. He has been intimately connected with the affairs of the Central Pacific Railroad, and was recently in this country on a tour of inspection of that line in the interests of the English stockholders.

Key West, Fla., April 4.—For the first time today a woman appeared here who is said to be the smallest person in the world.

She is Miss Isabella Pinder, of Spanish Wells, in the Bahamas Islands, and she is thirty-five years old, 28 inches tall, and weighs less than 30 pounds. Her physical development is perfect.

She is on a visit to her cousin here, "Gen." Abe Sawyer, who is thirty-one years old, 41 inches tall and weighs 55 pounds.

George Godol Drowned Himself Because May Sullivan Refused to Marry Him.

Special to the Times.

Mobile, Ala., April 4.—George Godol, aged thirty, a handsome and well-to-do man, jumped into the Mobile river on Monday night because Miss May Sullivan, a wealthy young lady of Pensacola, Ala., refused to marry him. Godol has been missing from his boarding house for eight days. It was supposed he had gone to Pensacola to visit the young lady.

His body rose to the surface today. Godol had $100 in greenbacks, two diamond rings valued at $600 and a gold watch and chain on his person when the body was found.

He had made three trips to Pensacola to plead with the object of his affections, but each time she refused to marry him.

The A.P.A. Gets Control of the Fire and Police Departments of Omaha.

Special to the Times.

OMAHA, Neb., April 4.—A special to the Bee from Lincoln, Neb., says: The bill which will place fire and police departments in the hands of the A.P.A. passed the Legislature yesterday over the Governor's veto. The Attorney-General and the Commissioner of Public Lands and Public Buildings are A.P.A.

Every business man of prominence in Omaha protested against the measure since it cuts out the mayor of the city from all participation in the control of city affairs.

When the bill passed the House there ensued a scene of the wildest confusion. Tom Mayors sprang into the center of the aisle, waved his hat, at the same time giving a wild yell. The lobby joined and began to sing "We'll hang Jeff Davis on a sour apple tree."

All Omaha is indignant over the result and will probably carry the matter to the Supreme Court.

LONDON'S BIG SENSATION.

CONTINUATION OF THE WILDE-QUEENSBERRY LITIGATION.

The Plaintiff Subjected to a Severe Cross-Examination in the Box—A Case Which Absorbs All London.

Special to the Times.

LONDON, April 4.—The unsavoury criminal libel suit, Wilde vs. Queensberry, which commenced yesterday before Judge Collins at the Old Bailey, is attracting widespread interest. The plaintiff's cross-examination in the afternoon was severe. Mr. Carson drew out Mr. Wilde's opinions regarding literature in general, to which line of cross-examination the plaintiff made many smart responses in the same line as in his plays. "The interpretation of my work does not concern me," said Mr. Wilde. "I don't care a rap about what the Philistines think about me." But Mr. Carson repeated the levity of the witness, and he began the more serious phase of the cross-examination by questioning Mr. Wilde as to his intimacy with a new boy 18 years of age, belonging to Worthing, and brought out the fact that Mr. Wilde took the boy to a hotel in Brighton.

"Why did you seek the boy's society?" asked Mr. Carson. "Was it for an intellectual treat?"

"Oh, he was a bright, careless, amusing creature," replied the witness.

Mr. Carson here produced a silver cigarette case, a handsome silver-mounted cane and a book, the witness admitted he gave to the new boy.

The cross-examination then touched upon Mr. Wilde's relations with various new boys and men, and the questions put to the witness were so pointed as to be unprintable. Mr. Wilde, however, emphatically denied that he had done anything improper, but he was troubled and flustered about the Old Bailey in order to see Mr. Wilde leave the court.

LONDON, April 4.—The trial was resumed today, with the complainant in the witness box. Mr. Carson continuing the cross-examination.

Mr. Wilde, in answer to a question by Mr. Carson, said he had been introduced to the man called by a man named Taylor. He had frequented Taylor's house, and he had attended afternoon tea parties. Taylor, he said, had a habit of burning perfumes in the room but candles or gas were not lighted. Upon every occasion of his visits at Taylor's house he had met a youth named Mavoria, who had since disappeared. Mr. Wilde said he was aware Taylor had been in the habit of introducing to his practice of introducing young men to older ones. Taylor, he admitted, had introduced him to five young men.

None of these young men had any trade, profession or employment, as far as he knew. He had made them presents of money, for the reason that they were poor.

Mr. Wilde was requested in regard to his acquaintance with two brothers named Parker. He replied that he knew them, and had dined with them. He was not aware that one of them was a valet and the other a groom, both of them were out of employment. He had given one of them money on the occasion of his taking tea with him (Wilde) in the latter's private rooms in St. James street. His behaviour was in no way improper. When Taylor and one of the Parkers were arrested they were charged with felonious practices.

Mr. Carson—"When you read of Taylor's arrest did it make any difference in your friendship for him?"

Mr. Wilde—"I was greatly distressed, and wrote to him. His arrest did not affect my friendship for him."

KNOW MR. ATKINS.

Mr. Wilde admitted his acquaintance with a man named Atkins, who was employed by a bookseller. He first met Atkins at the rooms of a gentleman, whose name he declined to give, but which he handed up to the judge. The name was not made known by the court. Wilde said he had called Atkins by his Christian name. Atkins went to Park with him, and they stopped together there. Wilde paid the fares, but he declared that it would be an infamous lie to say that they had been guilty of any misconduct. He had given Atkins upon one occasion and £15 on another. Besides, he had given him presents of various articles.

A youth named Maher had stopped with him in a hotel in London. Wilde said he was a nice, charming young fellow.

He gave Maher a cigarette case worth £1. He knew also a youth named Grainger, who was a servant to Lord Albert Douglas, son of the Marquis of Queensberry.

Mr. Carson asked Wilde if he had ever kissed Grainger.

Wilde, who had succeeded remarkably hitherto in maintaining his composure, began to lose his temper. He declared he had never kissed Grainger, and denounced the insolence of Mr. Carson in putting the line of questioning he had followed.

Mr. Carson, he said, had insulted him throughout the cross-examination.

In answer to a new line of questioning Mr. Wilde said that a messenger had arrested him at the Savoy Hotel, but denied that that person had ever seen him in his life.

COMPROMISING SITUATIONS.

All of the young men who visited him at his rooms did so as guests. This ended the cross-examination.

It was noticed that during Mr. Carson's questioning several names were written on slips of paper and handed up to the court. These names were not made public.

Sir Edward Clark then questioned the witness in redress examination. He began by reading a number of letters written by the Marquis of Queensberry to his son, Lord Alfred Douglas, in which the Marquis condemned his son for his conduct with Wilde. He also read a letter written by the Marquis reviling Lord Rosebery, Mr. Gladstone and the Queen, because of his appointment of his son to the peerage of Drumlanrig. In one of the letters the Marquis declared that Lord Alfred Douglas was a scoundrel.

WHY HE WAS FOND OF THEM.

Before leaving the witness stand, Wilde explained his fondness for the society of males in their youth by saying that he disliked the old and sensible, while the company of the young, happy, careless and original had a wonderful charm. The mere fact of their youth was amusing.

At the conclusion of Mr. Wilde's redress examination the case for the prosecution was closed.

South Australia Bill to be Abolished.

LONDON, April 4.—The Times' correspondent in Melbourne says: South Australia has decided to abolish her militia, thus saving £10,000 annually. The colony will rely in the future for defence on the gunboat Protector, the forts and artillery and naval brigades. The course is justified while England commands the sea. The only danger is from foreign cruisers.

PETERBOROUGH, APRIL 6 1895.

Good morning!

The speech of Mr. Ouimet at the Con servative nomination in Vercheres makes
it clear that the Government expects to capture that Liberal but Catholic county
on the cry of Separate schools for Mani toba.

Long words are not often sent by cable, for obvious reasons. The new cable vocabulary of 250,000 words of less than ten letters each, which has been adopted in Europe, has reached America,
and will probably have to be adopted by
business men here.

Gatling Gun Howard wants possession
of 70 miles of the Labrador coast for his lobster fishing operations. Gat. appears to think that his services in the North west entitle him to the fee simple of the country he saved.

The process of "knifing" the Town So licitor is evidently not making much progress, even although a certain Coun cillor, just after the municipal elections,
boasted about how far he proposed to in sert the cold steel into the vitals of the Corporation Counsel. Mr. Edwards is still on deck, and where he is likely to re main at least for the balance of the pres ent year.

It is now a question whether Prince Bismarck would prefer to have an eighty first birthday. The hundreds of presents
that he received are no doubt valuable,
but when it is remembered that he was
the recipient of over 300,000 letters and
over 1,000,000 post-cards, the possibilities
of another celebration are somewhat ap palling. He may possibly prefer to post pone the next until another eighty years
have passed.

While the New England papers are urging Newfoundland to become a State
of the Union, some of their contemporar ies in the west are making declarations to the effect that Uncle Sam will not take the island even as a gift. The Detroit Tribune for instance says: "We don't propose to let Great Britain abandon any such sickly infant as Newfoundland on our doorstep." There is however no rea son for alarm, as Newfoundland is going to remain British.

The Government is deserving of com
mendation for its announced intention to curtail the Mounted Police force in the Northwest. The expenditure on this ser vice is one which has been generally com plained of and with reason. The outlay up to it having run up from $477,000 in 1883
to $615,000 in 1893. We should, a speed
ily as possible, get back to the figure of
twelve years ago, and the sooner the Gov ernment makes the reduction the greater
will be the praise accorded.

Opinion in favor of the abolition of all
religious teaching in the Public schools
is rapidly taking form. This develop ment, although receiving impetus from
the discussion of the Manitoba school
question is practically independent of the latter. Thousands feel that the purely formal exercises now required are really
an injury rather than aid to the propaga
tion of religious truths and that the church would be more efficient and ear nest if forced to do without State aid al together. And those who hold this view
are undoubtedly right.

The possibilities of electricity as a means of transportation are shown by
the proposition to build an electric line
from New York to San Francisco which is now being seriously considered in the States.

It is proposed to establish a telephone line between England and Holland. The London Chamber of Commerce and the Netherlands Chamber of Commerce are trying to ascertain if the time is yet ripe for this undertaking.

Every manufacturer encouraged in our country makes part of a market for pro visions within ourselves, and saves so much money to the country as must otherwise be exported to pay for the manufactures he supplies.—Benjamin Franklin.

A new outer sole is being tried on the boots of the German soldiers by direct order of the Emperor. It consists of a paste of linseed oil varnish and iron fil ings, which is said to render the sole flex ible and make it more durable than the new aluminium boot nails.

The appointment of Mr. Creighton to
the office of Deputy Receiver-General
will give general satisfaction. The late manager of the Empire is well fitted for
the post, and his long and faithful
party service in the Legislature and in the press fully entitle him to the consid eration he has received.

It is reported that C. W. Ashford is preparing to make war upon the Hawa
ian provisional government. If the old
Port Hope boy does take this step the Hawaiian usurpers will find a much more serious difficulty on their hands
than they had in the late outbreak of a
few misguided natives.

The midland districts of England was assailed by a hurricane last week that is said to have been the most destructive in
the memory of living man. The Peter borough Cathedral lost three of its spires.
The Cedars of Lebanon at Warwick Cas tle and many of the beautiful and historic groves in the district were destroyed.

Councillor Mills appears to have given considerable offense in the strenuous op position which he gave to the grant to the bicycle meet. Although he finally voted for the grant, it was not until he ex hausted every argument against it. Mr.
Mills may feel that he has acted in the best interests of the people whom he rep resents, but we fancy a large majority of his constituents are not of the same opin ion.

ENGLAND AND VENEZUELA.

The dispute between Great Britain and Venezuela, which may involve a war, and
in which the United States is taking a deep interest in virtue of the Monroe doc trine, arises over the territory on the west side of the Essequibo River. Great Bri tain claims that this land is a part of Bri tish Guiana. Venezuela's expectation that the Monroe doctrine will compel the United States to interest itself in the con troversy has stiffened the little Republic
up wonderfully, and she is not only defy ing England, but has been exceedingly sassy to France and Germany as well.
Venezuela declared her independence
from Spain on July 5, 1811, but did not win it completely until June 25, 1821,
when General Bolivar overwhelmingly defeated the Spanish army at Carabobo.
In 1814 Holland ceded to England the
country east of the Essequibo River, now known as British Guiana. Lying along
the Atlantic between the Orinoco delta
and that portion of the Essequibo from its junction with the Cuyuni, is about one half of what up to 1840 England had claimed as that part known as the Delta
territory. In 1841 an English commis sioner went so far as to survey a boundary
line, which took in a large part of Vene
zuela, including all the Delta territory up to the Orinoco. England receded from this claim in 1844, and proposed a divi sion line beginning slightly west of the Pomeroy. In 1881 she insisted on fur ther shifting the line, this time 25 miles west of the Moroco River. In 1890 she demanded another change, and three years later proposed a line beginning at a point on the Orinoco and sweeping west ward to the Usumamio mountains and the Caroni river.

If England's latest claim should be de cided in her favor she would virtually con trol the delta of the Orinoco, a river navi
gable by the largest vessels for four hun dred miles, and which has over a hundred navigable tributaries, some extending into
the interior of the continent. In other words she would hold the key to over one quarter of South America, and be able to control the commerce if not the politics of three republics. After many fruitless at tempts to have the boundary dispute ar
bitrated, Venezuela eight years ago severed diplomatic relations with England. The present dispute has arisen over the im prisonment of some British Guiana po licemen who were asserting their authority in Venezuelan territory. France is also involved in the dispute and has sent
a war vessel after her minister, who was dismissed because he was alleged to be playing into the hands of the British. Be cause of the same influence, doubtless,
Germany is about to make naval de monstration to secure payment of debts
due by the Venezuelan Government to her subjects.

THE LIME JUICE CLUB.

REGULAR WEEKLY MEETING OF THIS CHASTE SOCIETY.

A Mass of Important Business Discharged of—A Few Words of Wisdom From the Presi dent—Large Attendance and Much Enthu siasm.

When the meeting had opened in due and ancient form the President looked up and down the aisles and said:

"There are many strange things about this thing called human nature. I pay a barber double price for a shave to-day and four weeks hence he will have the cheek to ask you for a cash loan.

"If I lend Cripes Mulcahey a dollar and he can conveniently pay it back he is grateful. If he wants to use that dollar for something else he looks upon me as an oppressor.

"Clip in and feed and clothe a poor family out of charity, and they at once jump to the conclusion that the world owes them a living.

"A citizen with a thousand dollars in his pocket won't walk two blocks without having his boots blacked.

"A citizen with a $10,000 house will keep an old picket fence standing in front of it year after year as an ornament.

"You will find the chap who wants something to keep off the cold for January calling for something to ward off its heat in July, and the curious part of it is that he calls for the same sort of whiskey.

"When a man has slandered and lied about you, you can and do forgive him.
When you have slandered and lied about somebody else, you wouldn't forgive him if they came to you on bended knees.

"We argue that it makes no difference to our pocket what our neighbor earns, but if we learn that it is greater than ours
the least that we can wish him is three months' sickness.

"The howling of my dog never disturbs me in the slightest, but let my neighbor's cat but utter one 'meow' and I'm on end in bed and fighting mad.

"Taking us from top to bottom, and from side to side, and we are a poor, mean, hungry lot, and the wonder is that the Lord did not get disgusted and shut down on us long ago. Let the regular business now proceed."

NOTHING PERSONAL INTENDED.

Cripes Mulcahey at once arose and asked for an explanation. He had been pointed out as a doubtful debt payer, and he wanted to know by what right. Had he ever borrowed a dollar of the Presi dent and refused to repay it?

"You never have, Bro. Mulcahey," re plied the President "you have now and then borrowed a dollar and been a little slow in turning over, but I used your name simply as an illustrative sense. Sit down, Bro. Mulcahey. If you want a dollar this evening come to me after the meeting has adjourned and you shall have it."

NOT SO BASE AS THAT.

The following letter was read amidst profound silence:
PETERBOROUGH, April 5, 1895.
DEAR SIR,—Rumors of a startling na ture have been circulating in this town of late to the effect that a syndicate of local capitalists are forming a "sewer trust" for the purpose of securing control of the entire crop of law expenses in connection with the gigantic enterprise known as the outfall sewer, which is so essential to the health and happiness of the citizens of Peterborough.

An agent of the syndicate recently re marked in the hearing of the writer, that in case the trust was formed, several pro minent leaders of the Lime Juice Club would take a large block of stock. It is proposed to fund the costs so as to make a first mortgage on the corporation.

If you join this inequitable scheme be ware of the storm that will surely descend upon you from the four quarters of the land. The late destruction of the Hall of Wisdom will be but a gentle sepher com pared with the blizzard of wrath which an indignant and outraged people will visit upon you. Beware, I say and go no far ther in this matter.

Yours, etc.,

SEPTIMUS SMITH.

"I am sorry that any friend of this club could for a moment entertain any such thought of us," said Sir Richard, in reply. "So far from any representation of this club going into any such trust it is a matter to excite our inmost indigna tion."

Bro. C. LeBrun then presented the fol lowing resolution:
Resolved, that this club condemns any sort of trust except that by which a man can get his beef for his Sunday dinner, provided he don't get his wages on Satur day night.

The resolution was carried by a vote of 1143 to 1. Bro. Snowden voting contrary to spite Bro. Croft for spitting on his new waterproof overshoes.

which he called an idyl:

He was about to read on when the President called him down.

"Bro. Watson, stop!"

"Yes, sir."

"What are you reading to this meet ing?"

"I call it an idyl, Sir."

"Oh, you do, do you? Sit right down on your chair sir! Don't you see how you have excited all the members? You are forthwith fined $1,600 and costs, and let me here remark that the costs are $300 extra."

THE G. R.

The following postal card was mailed at Fenelon Falls:

Dear President McBride:—
Prof. Ambrose King will soon appear before your august body, to solicit the sympathy of the Lime Juice Club on be half of women's rights.

I would respectfully ask that you re ceive my compeer with due consideration for age, and give your earnest support to the measure presented.
N. E. D. FITZWILLIAM.

The janitor was called in and asked if he had seen any distinguished stranger hanging around the place, and it appeared that he had. A person, who was probably Professor King himself, had come upstairs soon after the opening of the session, but being taken for the person who stole three of the rat traps he was given the bounce in a way to keep him mad for the next four weeks.

"I have great pleasure in stating," said the President, as he slowly arose to his feet, "that Prof. Talkaway Johnston, of Montreal, generally known as the 'Do mosthenes of the East,' will be with us next week to deliver his oration on 'The Great men of the Past.' He will come from Montreal for this special purpose, paying his own fare part of the way and walking the rest."

"Did I understand the chair to say if there was no objections?" asked Sawtem perer Brown, a member from Keene, as he suddenly hopped up.

"You did Sir."

"Objections—ah. Didn't the chair mean to say if there was no—"
"Brother Brown" interrupted the Presi dent, "when this chair says 'objections,' it don't mean 'infections' 'directions' or 'defections.' The last time you interrupt the proceedings of the meeting you were told that the next display of capful ness on your part would result in a fine.
Painful it is to me, and as much as I feel for you, I shall impose a fine of $400 and costs. The costs as near as I can figure will be about $900. You will confer yourself relieved from membership until the fine is paid."

Bro. Brown sat down on his chair.
His eyes rolled, his breathing was labored, and he suddenly fainted away and dragged famed Jones with him on the floor.
During the excitement eight or ten per sons received the contents of the water pail. Bro. Brown finally revived and bound a wet towel around his head, and Cautious Miller arose to make a state ment. He was intimately acquainted with the pecuniary resources of Bro.
Brown. His earnings for the past year were exactly $483.29. His expenditures were exactly $483.29. The balance on hand was therefore only four cents. This year the balance would be closer still,
and even in the best year to come there was no hope of a great increase. Giving four cents as the average yearly balance, it would take Bro. Brown 250,000 years to pay his fine and secure his restoration to membership. The speaker hoped that mercy would prevail and the fine be with drawn.

After a brief consultation with several of the old members, the President arose and announced that he would remit the fine and costs, and that the member's narrow escape from being killed stone dead would be a great moral warning to him throughout the rest of his days.

Visitors to the Great Convention Take Away Valuable Information.

TOLEDO, April 5.—The question of the best scheme for a deep channel to the At lantic has been for sometime a matter of much consideration to Toledo business men and engineers. The city was well represented at the great convention held in Toronto and in addition to other valu able information they became while there strongly imbued with admiration for the new remedy for Bright's disease and diabetes known as Dodd's Kidney Pills.
It is stated that the sale of the specific has increased very appreciably of late and that it is being highly recommended in many cases with undoubted success.

LIVE STOCK MARKET.

April 5.—Local cattle shippers are very indignant over the action of the Government in reducing cattle space on the ocean steamships from 2 ft. 8 in. to 2 ft. 6 in. According to evidence which was taken when last the question was brought up, the leading shippers here are almost unanimously in favor of allowing at the very least the present space allotted to cattle. Shippers are buying up a few cattle here and there. At Lancaster Mr.
Ironside picked up a nice bunch of steers, numbering probably 90 head, at a little over 5c, and 5c was quite freely paid for export stock at the East End market, to-day. A cable from Liverpool received here yesterday noted a decided improve ment in the state of affairs in that market.
Best American cattle were quoted at 6 1/2d, and sheep at 7 1/2d. There were about 350 head of butchers' cattle, 500 calves, 50 sheep and 100 spring lambs offered for sale to-day at the East End Abattoir.
The butchers were out in full force and trade in cattle was brisker, and prices were higher than has been the case for a long time past, and most of the drovers had sold out by 11 o'clock at prices about 1/4c per lb higher than on Monday. Com mon to good cattle sold at from 3c to 4 1/4c per lb. Extra beefs for Easter markets sold at from 4 1/4c to 5c per lb.
A few large cattle were bought for ship ment to Britain at from 4c to 5c per lb.
Mr. George Nicholson bought seven of the best steers on the market at 5c per lb.
Teary were very few rough half-fatted beef and there seemed to be not much demand for this kind of stock. The calves were nearly all of indifferent quality and sold at low figures. Mr. Joseph Richard paid $8 each for two good calves, and $4 each for four good spring lambs. Sheep sold at from 3c to 5c per lb, and spring lambs at from $2 to $4.50 each. Fat hogs sell at from 5c to 5 1/2c per lb.

A Metal Breadboard

THE WOMAN WHO HAS BEEN USED to kneading dough on the old fashioned wooden breadboard knows what a bother it is to get them clean and how cumbersome and heavy they are. When they begin to crack or decay, they are almost impossible to clean, and they may easily become dangerous sources of disease. It is left for a woman of common sense to see to it that she has a metal breadboard in her kitchen. It is light, does not absorb grease, does not adhere to it, and while it possesses all the advantages of the marble breadboard it is much cheaper and easier to handle. It renders work so much easier and so much more pleasant. It is a most useful and practical addition to the kitchen. It is a most useful and practical addition to the kitchen. BANK TELLER'S SUICIDE.

SPANCER MILLICHAMP SENDS A BULLET THROUGH HIS BRAIN.

The Paying Teller of the Bank of Toronto in the Presence of a Dozen other Clerks Places a Revolver in His Head and Ends His Life Special to the Times.

TORONTO, April 7.—C. Spencer Millichamp, paying teller of the Bank of Toronto, committed suicide by shooting at 2:30 Saturday afternoon. The tragedy was enacted within the walls of the bank, and in the presence of a dozen other clerks.

The bank was closed for business at 1 p. m., and the clerks employed were engaged at their desks. Their tasks were almost completed, and the time was drawing near for closing the bank when Hector Head, receiving teller, who was at work close to Millichamp, heard a sound resembling a man's fall. He turned and saw a man lying on the floor, his head in a pool of blood.

He rushed to the man, and found that he was dead. He called for a doctor, and the man was taken to the hospital. The doctor pronounced him dead.

The man was identified as C. Spencer Millichamp, paying teller of the Bank of Toronto. He was 34 years of age, and had been in the bank for several years.

He was a quiet, unassuming man, and was well liked by his colleagues. He was a native of Ontario, and had been in the bank for several years.

The Times.

PETERBOROUGH, APRIL 8 1895.

Good morning!

The Legislature is to be commended on its refusal to put a licence fee on bicycle riders. Users of the wheel are taxed heavily enough as it is in the form of 30 per cent. customs tax on imported machines.

That everybody reads THE TIMES is evident. On Saturday last, although a very large number of extra copies were printed, the number fell short of the demand. Peterborough's brightest and best paper is being appreciated.

During 1894 there were 3,190 temperate persons sent to jail in Ontario and 6,260 intemperate persons. Which our temperance friends will point to with pride as showing the evils of intemperance. But of the same persons 7,719 could read and write, while only 1,731 were illiterate. Are we to view these figures with alarm, as indicating that ability to read and write fosters crime?

This journal agrees with the Toronto News that a sensible amendment to the libel law would be in form of a clause declaring that before a writ can be issued the Crown Attorney, Police Magistrate, Master in Chambers or other public official shall be satisfied there is sufficient cause for action. This would prevent the starting of suits that are entered for the sole purpose of making costs for shyster lawyers.

The Hudson Bay fur sales this year have been more favorable to the sellers than in 1894. Several grades showed enormous advances of price. Marten was doubled, and while fox brought 150 per centage more, the rise of Marten was owing to the popularity of the collarette, made of a single skin, nearly 100,000 of these skins being sold. The company must have netted £40,000 by them alone.

The 91 members of the House during last session drew $56,679 in sessional indemnity and mileage. Assuming that all the members drew the full payment of $600 each for attendance at Parliament, this would leave a balance of over $2,000 allowed for the payment of railway fares in going to and from the session. But these fares were not paid. The members traveled dead-head and still charged the public full price for transportation. Was this honest?

The adoption of the bicycle by the military authorities of Europe has led to a discussion in the war departments of Berlin, Paris and Vienna as to the way in which the soldiers are to salute their officers. Several ridiculous accidents have already occurred because the military cyclists, when mounted, attempted to salute their superiors. The problem is a hard one, for the military authorities are great sticklers for form, and cycling and saluting at the same time seems a physical impossibility.

A POPULIST STATE.

Mr. Lewelling, late Populist Governor of Kansas, does not give a very cheerful description of the condition of that state. It is immersed in debt. The state, municipal, railway and individual debts, secured by mortgage, represent a liability of $500 for every woman, man and child in Kansas. Mr. Lewelling adds the railway debt to the per capita liability, and excuses the addition by the plea that the interest upon the debt has been increasing, the capacity to pay the debt has been decreasing. When many of these liabilities were assumed, the Kansas farmer could buy $5 with two sacks of wheat. Now if he wants $5 he must pay six or seven sacks of wheat for it. When he went into debt, one horse was considered good collateral security for a loan of $50. Now the man who lends $50 wants a chattel mortgage on five or six horses.

There are no eagle screams in Governor Lewelling's description of the actual conditions of life surrounding the average man and the average woman in a great state of the American union. By way of proving that his effort is not a dream of statistics, but a sober reality, he cites the fact that mortgages are being foreclosed and Kansas people turned out of house and home at the rate of ten thousand per annum.

A SELF CONSTITUTED SPONSOR

Our American neighbors are talking a good deal of nonsense about Nicaragua, Venezuela and other republics on this side of the Atlantic from the consequences of their own acts. If the South American and Central American republics will not pay their debts to foreign nations, and if they will not observe the treaties they make, it would hardly become the United States to be their champion. If the great republic takes the little republics under its protection it must teach them to be honest and to respect the treaties they make. If it finds itself unfitted to be their teacher in morals, if it designs to save them from punishment when they do wrong and from the inconvenience of paying their debts, then it must go their security—it must be a party to every treaty they make and must bind themselves to pay their debts when they become due. The position of sponsor has its duties as well as its privileges. No American bleat with common sense can imagine that his wonderful Monroe doctrine binds the United States to back up the little republics, no matter what they do or refuse to do. If it is determined to be in loco parentis with respect to the queer little brood it should keep a rod or several rods, in pickle, and should not hesitate to administer chastisement when and as often as it is deserved.

This Monroe doctrine business, as some United States citizens understand it, is very absurd. The United States, if it is wise, will give the republics distinctly to understand that they must pay their debts and fulfill their other obligations or take the consequences. This is what it will have to do if any of the republics has a serious misunderstanding with a first-class power. Just now the relations of Venezuela with Great Britain, France, Germany and Belgium are somewhat strained, and Great Britain has a crow to pick with Nicaragua. If the Government of the United States tries to prevent these nations settling their disputes with Venezuela and Nicaragua in the way they think best, it will have enough to do.

AROUND THE GAME LAWS.

Sportsmen of Rice Lake and elsewhere are just now making vigorous efforts to impress upon the Minister of Fisheries to have fishing start on May 24th, instead of on July 1st, as formerly, and a petition is now going around for signers. It is to be sent to Ottawa by April 18th.

On Monday last several of the young men of this place left for Dorset, where they intend to engage with the Gilmour Co for the season.

Miss Virtue, of Toronto, is the guest of Mrs. Sam Carrier.

A FALSE ACCUSATION.

Substitution of Inferior Remedies in St. John Strongly Denied.

ST. JOHN, N.B. April 6.—A report has been circulated in this city to the effect that there had been a systematic attempt on the part of a certain druggist to palm off upon his customers an inferior imitation of Dodd's Kidney Pills with the statement that they are equally effective. An investigation has shown however that there is no truth in the report, druggists invariably declaring that the remedy is the best they can sell and that as one purchase of the medicine invariably leads to another it would be contrary to their interests to attempt the substitution of anything inferior.

Twenty Thousand Roses.

There are nearly 20,000 rose trees in bloom now at Danby's conservatories, Elbow street, Toronto. Visitors are always well come. Mr. Danby is proud of his establishment and takes pleasure in speaking of his business. PETERBOROUGH, APRIL 8, 1895.

TORONTO S. C. COMPANY.

GREAT TROUBLE IS LOOMING UP FOR THE CORPORATION.

1,000,000 of Stock May Be Cancelled if Edward Trust, of the Monetary Times, Has His Way—That Amount Said to Be More than the Law Allows.

Special to the Times.

TORONTO, April 6.—It was only last week that an announcement was made that probable steps would be taken to cancel the franchise of the Street Railway Company.

This week the statement is made that Edward Trust, of the Monetary Times, has through his solicitor, asked the Attorney General for authority to bring an action for the cancellation of $5,000,000 of the Company's stock.

Section seven of the charter granted to the syndicate says the corporation may issue 10,000 shares of $100 each or $1,000,000 in all. In the face of this restriction the Company has, it appears, issued stock to the extent of $5,000,000, and it is to reduce the amount to the limit fixed by statute, viz., $1,000,000; that it is proposed to bring action.

In this connection it may be pointed out that the railway property represents $35,000 a mile for 80 miles of road.

MAIL ROBBERY CASE.

A Thief Cuts Open a Mail Bag and Steals Registered Letters.

Special to the Times.

BREMEN, April 6.—A mail robbery was committed here on Thursday morning, supposed to be between the town post office and the railway station. The first train going east leaves here at 6.50 a.m., and while it was being carried by the conductor to this train the theft must have occurred.
The mail clerk that received the bag reported that there was a slit made in the side of the mail bag, about four inches long, large enough to allow of the abstraction of registered letters, of which there was a number missing, but their value is not at present known. The suspected party left here on the next train, and the authorities have been notified at the principal points to be on the look out.

PRISONERS OF WAR.

Two British Officers Reported Killed Are Now
Said to Be Alive.

Special to the Times.

CALCUTTA, April 6.—Advices have been received from Calcutta that Eusta. Edwards and Fowler, of the British column, who have been missing for a fortnight, and were believed to have been killed, are in the hands of Umra Khan, who holds them as prisoners, but treats them well.

SAYS FRANCE TO BRITAIN.

Official Announcement of the French African Policy.

Special to the Times.

PARIS, April 6.—M. Hanotaux, Minister of Foreign Affairs, in the Senate last night said that France opposed the Royal Niger Company's pretensions, and demanded an explicit statement of England's claim in the Upper Nile region. France would reserve her decision and liberty of action, and maintain her plain rights. He thought a reconciliation would be affected.

Money for Canadian Sealers.

LONDON, April 6.—Sir George. Baden
Powell will ask in the House of Commons if the Government will advance as a loan to Canadian sealers a portion of the sum awarded as indemnity by the Paris Tribunal, pending a final settlement of the award by the United States.

Robert B. Will Go Down.

NEW YORK, April 6.—The motion to commit Aitor Robert B. Mantell for contempt of court, for failing to pay his wife, Margaret A. Mantell, the alimony, was awarded to her under the decree of divorce which was granted to her on July 17, 1893, has been granted by Judge Beckman in Supreme Court Chambers.

In Memory of Isak Walton.

LONDON, April 6.—At St. Dunstan's Church Fleet street, yesterday, a memorial service, in memory of Isak Walton, author of "The Compleat Angler," was unveiled.
The famous angler lived for many years at the corner of Fleet street and Chancery lane. His first wife and children were buried in St. Dunstan's churchyard.

Miss Galsford.

CHANGSVILLE, April 6.—Miss Harriet, or Whitmore, who is serving a six month sentence for bigamy, is causing the officials much anxiety. Since receiving sentence her health and vigor have been steadily declining and yesterday she fainted.
It was some time before she showed signs of life and for a time things looked serious.

CLEVELAND'S PUZZLE.

Supreme Court Judges Opposed to the Income Law.

Special to the Times.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—President Cleveland was informed yesterday by one of the Justices of the Supreme Court that the court stands five to three against the constitutionality of the income law and that in all probability the decision will be handed down by the court. It is hinted that the advisability of an extra session of Congress was considered, but at the present writing the outcome as to the future of the conference is not at present known. It is understood that the Court will delay the handing down of opinion in this case so as to give the administration time to recover its breath and prepare for the loss of expected revenue.

Salute at the Bar.

COATCOCK, Que., April 6.—While drinking at the Grand Central hotel bar last night, Len Davis, one of the best known young men in town, put two bullets in C.
Lyons. He then fled and has not yet been captured. There was bad blood between the two men. Lyons will likely recover.

Zimmerman Remanded.

TORONTO, April 6.—Art. F. Zimmerman, who attempted to kill his wife with a hammer at their house in Brant Place, and then stabbed himself in the left breast, pleaded not guilty in the Police Court yesterday to the two charges of attempted murder and attempted suicide, and was remanded until Wednesday.

Old Rates Restored.

CHICAGO, April 6.—The Grand Trunk R. R. which has been the leader in the recent heavy cutting of east bound grain rates, today gave notice to the Interstate commerce commission that it will cancel its 12 cent rate on grain between Chicago and New York on April 15. The rate has been in force via Grand Trunk, Lehigh Valley and Erie since last Monday. The Erie East of Buffalo was by the arrangement made to unwillingly take grain over its lines at the reduced tariff. It made a strong protest and it is in part due to the opposition thus developed that the rate was withdrawn. The Grand Trunk claims it was justified in cutting the rate to secure large shipments of oats, which in a few days would have been taken by boat at very low prices. Erie took one shipment of 550,000 bushels at 10 cents per hundred pounds.

Field Will Give $5,000.

CHICAGO, April 6.—A generous offer of Marshall Field to the Woman's Christian Temperance Union is announced. Mr.
Field promises $5,000 with the proviso that $275,000 more be raised by January 1, 1896. It is intended that this total sum be applied on the debt overhanging the Women's Temple.

The Times.

PETERBOROUGH, APRIL 9 1895.

Good morning!

State control of the liquor traffic is to be tried on a large scale in Russia. In the government of Perm, Ufa, Orenburg, and Samara, in east Russia, drinks are to be sold only by the State.

An English translation of "The Tibetan Life of Jesus," which M. Notovitch, the Russian traveller, says he discovered in a Lamas' monastery in the Himalayas, will be published soon.

It is true that Japan demands a good deal of Chinese territory. But it also true that the more territory rescued from Chinese rule and placed under Japanese rule, the better for the territory and for the world at large.

In rotten New York the people last fall adopted an amendment to the constitution making the acceptance of passes by legislators an offence. In pure Ontario the old parties, with the honorable exception of one man, united in declaring that legislators may with propriety accept free transportation.

Not one of the least advantages following the acquisition of Newfoundland will be the establishment of a new line by ferry over the Straits of Belle Isle and rail across the island which will make the Canadian Atlantic route shorter by two days than any other which can be established.

Mr. Haycock should now move to strike out the appropriation for the allowance of mileage to the Reform and Conservative members of the House. Since these members have acknowledged by their votes that they travel deadhead they surely will not have the hardihood to vote down a resolution to cut off the appropriation heretofore allowed from the public treasury to pay for their transportation.

A statistician in the employ of the German Government three years ago determined to make a careful investigation of the superstition regarding Friday as an unlucky day. As a result of his exhaustive labors he has given the world a book of queer tables and figures which prove that it is Monday and not Friday that is the most fatal or unfortunate day of the week. But all the maxims to the contrary that may be offered will not make Friday popular with those inclined to be superstitious.

Here is the way they propose to treat bachelors in Missouri:—Those between the ages of 30 and 35 years are to be taxed $10; between the ages of 35 and 40, $15; between 40 and 45 years, $20; between 45 and 50 years, $25; between 50 and 55, $30. Bachelors over 60 years of age are required to pay 25 per cent. of their taxable wealth. It will be seen by the above ascending scale of assessment that in the opinion of the Missouri lawmakers there is no bachelor so deserving of the penalties of taxation as an old bachelor.

JUSTICE TO CANADA.

There are no "Separatist" schools in the United States, say the Telegram, but theorists who argue that because of this the American people are free from troubles of race and creed are not familiar with the facts recorded in the newspapers across the line.

New York papers in almost every issue print news of trouble between Catholic children and the Protestant teacher, or a Catholic teacher and Protestant children. In districts where Catholics are in the majority, in New Jersey, nuns, dressed in the religious habit are brought into the public schools as teachers. A week or two ago the New Jersey Legislature was wrangling over a bill forbidding public school teachers to wear any religious emblem. This bill was aimed at the nuns, but it failed largely because its Protestant opponents pointed out that it would deprive Protestant teachers of their right to wear the little silver cross which is the badge of the Daughters of the Kings.

And in Savannah the postal service is disarranged, and the postmaster has had to suspend Protestant clerks who were organizers of a conspiracy against Catholic and negro clerks. The battle-cry of this league was "Catholics and coons must go."

These facts are mentioned in the hope of correcting an impression that the United States is free from Creed troubles. The truth is that, in spite of all the tumult and clatter, Canadians of different races and creeds live together more harmoniously than Americans differing in race and creed. Protestants and Catholics in Canada exhibit an earnestness of opinion that is sometimes mistaken for bitterness; but in the relationships of every day life they are kinder and more brotherly than Catholics and Protestants in the United States.

WARNING TO SELLERS OF LIQUOR.

Section 122 of the License Liquor Act provides that when a man meets his death as the result of excessive drinking in a place where liquor is sold the legal representatives of the deceased may recover a penalty not exceeding $1,000 from the keeper of the place in which the drink was supplied.

Acting under this section a widow in Wellington county has just secured damages to the extent of $600 in one case and $300 in another against two hotel keepers who supplied her late husband with the liquor which the jury say caused his death by drowning.

The punishment, while altogether inadequate for the irretrievable injury done the plaintiff in the case, should be sufficient to serve other hotelkeepers as a warning of the financial risk incurred in supplying men with liquor in such quantities as to endanger the lives of the persons consuming it.

NOT A SOLID VOTE.

Those who count on the Catholic vote going solidly for the men who favor interference with Manitoba are making a mistake in their calculations.

While many Catholics in Ontario and other Eastern Provinces would doubtless like to see Separate schools restored in the West, still they do not wish to see this accomplished at the cost of the right of Provincial self-government. Catholics know as well as Protestants that the one possible basis for confederation is the recognition of the right of each province to manage its own local affairs; they know that if this principle is violated in one instance it is likely to be violated in others, and knowing this they prefer to see their people in Manitoba left to look for redress from Winnipeg rather than to see them seek relief from Ottawa.

WORD FROM CALGARY.

Another Town in the Northwest Prairies the New Remedy.

CALGARY, N.W.T., April 8.—There are a number of people in this neighborhood who have been much interested in noting the recovery of Mr. Arthur Coley's recovery from Bright's disease through the use of Dodd's Kidney Pills. The remedy is already very well known here and quite a number of residents in the town and vicinity have received the greatest benefit from their use. It is expected that several people who have been restored to health will communicate the details of their cure to the general public, particularly as there will probably be a considerable amount of sickness this spring of a kind which the remedy is calculated to cure.

Peart, Esq., Ex-Mayor of Toronto Junction and J. B. Brooks, Esq., Grand worthy Patriarch of the Sons of Temperance for the Province of Ontario, Toronto. HARRY GREEN'S WAY

HE PLAYED HIS FAVORITE GAME ON MR. SMITH OF CHICAGO.

How does it always end? Four Kings, but in this case there was another hand, held by an "outsider," that was in at the showdown.

Do you know how to play poker? If you do and chance to meet an old man who looks like a stockman from Montana, with money to burn, just looking for a good time, don't. If you do, you will be sorry.

A well known business man, who at one time kept a furniture store on State street and has retired from business, paid $1,400 for his experience with the Montana stockman.

As every one knows the furniture man, he may as well be called Smith. Mr. Smith, since he is not engaged actively in business, has been spending a share of his time in a downtown bucket shop every day. One morning while Mr. Smith was watching the market and listening to the voice of the caller a stranger who "supposed" to sit next him engaged him in conversation.

"What's all this today, isn't it?" said the stranger.

"Yes," drawled Mr. Smith.

The two had been broken, and the stranger, whose appearance indicated that he was a westerner, became communicative.

He told Mr. Smith he had just come from Montana and was taking a little rest. He declared he had enough money to have come from Montana and was taking a little rest.

"My good, I will have a pocket of mine," said the Montana man, as he got up to take a walk about the room.

Mr. Smith paid little attention to the incident until a man who had just entered and was leaning against the wall, and who had seen the Montana man display his money, stepped up to him. He said to Mr. Smith if he knew the "old fellow," Mr. Smith said he did not, but the man had told him he was from Montana and had a good deal of money.

"Yes, I saw it," said stranger No. 2.

"And do you know I think I could get it if we could get into a pocket of mine."

After considerable persuasion Mr. Smith consented to ask the stockman if he would play a little poker.

"Well, I don't mind," said the stockman, and arrangements were made to play in a downtown hotel in the evening.

In the meantime the stranger who had seen the Montana man display his money, stepped up to him. He said to Mr. Smith if he knew the "old fellow," Mr. Smith said he did not, but the man had told him he was from Montana and had a good deal of money.

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

MAIL ROBBERY CASE.

A Thief Cuts Open a Mail Bag and Steals Registered Letters.

Special to The Times.

REUTERS, April 8.—A mail robbery was committed here on Thursday morning, supposed to be between the town post office and the railway station. The first train going east leaves here at 6.55 a.m., and while it was being carried by the contractor this train the theft must have occurred. The mail clerk who received the bag reported that there was a slit made in the side of the mail bag, about four inches long, large enough to allow of the abstraction of registered letters, of which there was a number missing, but their value is not at present known. The suspected party left on the next train, and the authorities have been notified at the principal points to be on the look out.

CHICAGO, April 8.—John Tobin, Danny Shoey, John McManus and John Riddon, boys whose ages range from 15 to 18 years, and whose homes are in Toronto, were found to day in a box car in the Chicago yards in a nearly famished condition. The youths started from Toronto four days ago to see the world. It was their intention to travel on freight trains at night, but when they left Toronto they were locked in a box car and could not get out until this morning. They suffered severely from lack of food and water, and Riddon says McManus became very ill. They were released from their confinement one at a time by the railroad officials, and in this manner became separated. Riddon applied to the police today for help and told the story of their sufferings. The police are endeavoring to find the missing boys and return them to Toronto. Riddon was turned over to a charitable institution until arrangements can be made to send him back.

NOT BIGAMY.

In Canada for a Married Foreigner to Re-

Special to the Times.

of Women passed the following resolution:
Whereas, it has lately been decided that a married person, being a British subject resident in Canada, who goes to the United States or any place out of Canada, and there goes through a form of marriage with another person, cannot, in Canada, be convicted of bigamy, and it is desirable that steps be taken to remedy this unsatisfactory condition of the law.

It is hereby resolved that the National Council of Women do respectfully draw the attention of the Dominion Government to the matter, and earnestly request them to promote such an amendment of the criminal law of Canada as will meet the difficulty, if that is deemed possible, and if not, that they will urge upon the Imperial Government the necessity of supplementing in that respect the law of Canada by an Act of the Parliament of the United Kingdom, or, if necessary, to provide a remedy by international agreement between Great Britain and the United States and other States, and that a copy of this resolution be forwarded for submission to the Privy Council of Cana-

QUININE GATHERERS.

HOW THE HARDY CASCARILLEROS OF PERU OBTAIN THE BARK.

A Culling That Is Full of Danger—How the Chinaman Traps Are Laid and Stopped—The Hard Work of the Wonderful Hunters.

It was while sitting on the South American station, with the comfortable old man sitting beside me, that the writer, in company with a party of friends, took a walk to witness the operations of the quinine gatherers or cascarilleros of Peru. The scene was a most wonderful one, which is only distinguished from surrounding foliage by its beautiful landscape and magnificent vegetation. They frequently reach a height of 10,000 feet as a house, and are built with thatched roofs. The houses are built of a deep, glossy green, and are built on a steep, rocky slope, reaching a height of 10,000 feet. The houses are built of a deep, glossy green, and are built on a steep, rocky slope, reaching a height of 10,000 feet.

The life of the cascarillero is one of peril, constant toil, and hunger. But it is in his life that he finds his only pleasure. He is a man of a deep, glossy green, and is built on a steep, rocky slope, reaching a height of 10,000 feet. The houses are built of a deep, glossy green, and are built on a steep, rocky slope, reaching a height of 10,000 feet.

The hunter plunges suddenly into the dark and misty forest, striking well known trails, which lead far beyond the pale of civilization or even traces of human life. With scarcely a change of clothing, he is seen in the heart of the forest, surrounded by a dense growth of trees and vines. He is a man of a deep, glossy green, and is built on a steep, rocky slope, reaching a height of 10,000 feet.

Although the life of the quinine gatherer is a life of hardship, it is a life of constant activity. He is a man of a deep, glossy green, and is built on a steep, rocky slope, reaching a height of 10,000 feet. The houses are built of a deep, glossy green, and are built on a steep, rocky slope, reaching a height of 10,000 feet.

Occasionally a number of hunters will pool their interests, starting out in company on a greater expedition against disease. Upon reaching a desirable spot, where the signs of paying trees are seen, they will set to work, and the work of the quinine gatherer is a life of constant activity.

Then it is the musical, deep-toned voice of the cascarillero that is heard in the forest. The voice is a deep, glossy green, and is built on a steep, rocky slope, reaching a height of 10,000 feet. The houses are built of a deep, glossy green, and are built on a steep, rocky slope, reaching a height of 10,000 feet.

THE HYAMS TRIAL.

Defense Will Ask for a Postponement—Mr. Hyams Ready.

Special to the Times.

Toronto, April 9.—It is understood that the defense in the Hyams case will ask for an adjournment from the Spring Assizes, which open on April 10, to the Fall Assizes, but the Crown will not grant the adjournment. William Joseph G. C. Hyams was added to the counsel retained for the defense.

HYPNOTISM AND CRIME.

A Man Convicted by Causing a Man to Be Hypnotized While Hypnotized.

Special to the Times.

Toronto, April 9.—The Supreme Court today rendered a decision in which hypnotism was recognized both as a defense and ground for conviction of crime. The case passed upon came up from the County Court of Ontario. On May 1 last Thomas Patterson, without apparent provocation, shot and killed Thomas Patton near his home in Windsor. He was arrested, and charged with murder. He set up a defense that he was under the influence of a hypnotist, Gray, and was not responsible for his act.

He was acquitted, and then Gray was put under arrest and charged for the murder. He was found guilty of murder in the first degree, notwithstanding the fact that he was not present when the crime was committed, the evidence for the State only going to show that he caused McDonald to do the deed through hypnotic influence. An appeal was taken to the Supreme Court, and in an opinion rendered today the ruling of the Lower Court was sustained.

DEATH FROM ASPHYXIATION.

Special to the Times.

Mrs. Elm dropped in a chair and died. Mr. Elm fell to the floor. They were found in these positions when the neighbors broke in after church Sunday morning. Mr. Elm is very ill, but is expected to recover. Both are over 70 years old.

TAX ON RENTS

Is a Direct Tax and Therefore Unconstitutional.

Special to the Times.

Washington, April 9.—Chief Justice Fuller has just finished reading the decision of the Supreme Court in the case of the tax on rents from real estate. The tax is a direct tax, and is therefore unconstitutional. The opinion of the Chief Justice also declares that the tax on municipal and Government bonds is unconstitutional.

Wages on the Halfpenny Contract. Toronto, April 7.—At the Walker House yesterday a well known Port Hope Conservative won $600 against $200. Dr. Montague would be elected in Hamilton by a majority of 300 over McCarthy. The short end of the wager was taken by a local sport.

James Balfour Extradited. Buenos Ayres, April 8.—James Balfour, whose extradition to England was granted a few days ago, sailed hence this morning on the steamer Tartar Prince. Despite the fact that it was generally believed that he would not be extradited, he was extradited. He was extradited. He was extradited.

Armed with knives and even edged hatchets, the tree is quickly felled with all hands cutting, stripping and clearing the trunk from all foreign growth encumbering the trunk. This is a task of no small magnitude, frequently consuming days of constant and patient labor. The sharp edges of lance-like leaves, mixed with thorns and huge briars, lacerate and wound the hunters' flesh, who are not overburdened with clothing, their dark bodies exhibiting a network of scars and wounds, the result of their encounters with parasites and creepers as well as attacks from their savage jungle prowling under cover of the jungle.

The bark is removed, cut into thin strips, and piled in some convenient spot, where it is left to dry. The bark is a deep, glossy green, and is built on a steep, rocky slope, reaching a height of 10,000 feet. his staff, are confined in a narrow space at the center of the town.

The Times correspondent at Kobe says:
"It is reported that four hundred troops of the Pescadore have cholera, and there have been one hundred deaths. The Chinese of Formosa are said to be ill-affected toward the Government, thinking that their contention from the armistice indicates a desire of their interests by the Peking authorities."

A SUICIDAL WAVE.

Three Victims in the Neighborhood of Buffalo.

Special to The Times.
Buffalo, April 9.—John Macho, a single man, steady, having a good position and a known reputation, ended by drowning this morning.

John Winter, aged 30, a tailor, attempted while in a drunken frenzy, to murder his mother, who had sought to turn him from his evil habits.

Wringer Co., at Canandaigua, Ont., an artery in his wrist yesterday evening with suicidal intent. He claims his wife desired his death, as he had recently, secured his life in her favor.

tried the Indian route. He is still unconscious, but may recover.

The Work of a Fool.

CHATHAM, April 9.—In Pawnee county yesterday an unknown person set fire to the dry grass during a high wind and the country was devastated for many miles.
Seventeen farmers lost everything they possessed, having hard work to save the lives of their families. The village of Chilcoun was almost entirely destroyed.

What Steamer is This?

HALIFAX, April 9.—Advices from St.
Mary's Nfld., says that considerable wreckage has recently been washed ashore near there, including the deck of a steamer, indicating that a steamer has been lost in that vicinity.

Martin Will Aid McCarthy.

WINNIPEG, April 9.—Mr. Joseph Martin, member for Winnipeg and author of the Manitoba School law which is now circling up so much trouble, leaves tomorrow for Haldimand to deliver a series of lectures in the interest of Mr. McCarthy, the opponent of Dr. Montague. Attorney-General Sifton goes with him, and will also speak several times in Haldimand. The principal object of Mr. Sifton's tour, however, is to consult with Mr. McCarthy and other eminent lawyers on McCarthy's position in regard to the remedial order in the school case.

THE CHEESEMAKER'S COM- MANDMENTS.

The following are the cheesemaker's ten commandments.

I. Thou shalt arise early in the morning and deliver thy milk to the factory, for he that goeth late causeth the cheesemaker much trouble.

II. Thou shalt slaughter thy calves not on the third day, and hasten unto me, for no more than one round from each carcase.

III. Thou shalt take no cream from thy milk, even for thy tea or thy coffee, for when thou givest thy dividends, one shall say to the other, why taketh it more milk here for a pound of cheese than in other syndicates. Then shall the cheesemaker rise up in his might and smite thee to the earth.

IV. Thou shalt not put water in the milk, thou, nor thy man servant, nor thy maid servant. When thy dividend cometh and thou goest forth to seek into the committee, they shall say unto thee, smelt thou anything in our cup of an emerald color? Then thou shalt get no shekel from thy milk, not if the court knoweth itself, which cheese thou hast made.

V. Thou shalt not kill thy deacon, and leave the carcass to rot near the barn, for the stench thereof shall reach the milk.
When thou shalt see a deacon, salute him.
If thou shalt see a deacon, salute him.
If thou shalt see a deacon, salute him.

VI. Thou shalt not carry off more than thy share of whey, but one should say unto thee, carry off thy whey, but one should say unto thee, carry off thy whey.

VII. Thou shalt not carry off more than thy share of whey, but one should say unto thee, carry off thy whey, but one
should say unto thee, carry off thy whey.

VIII. Thou shalt not carry off more than thy share of whey, but one should say unto thee, carry off thy whey, but one
should say unto thee, carry off thy whey.

IX. Thou shalt not carry off more than thy share of whey, but one should say unto thee, carry off thy whey, but one
should say unto thee, carry off thy whey.

X. Thou shalt not carry off more than thy share of whey, but one should say unto thee, carry off thy whey, but one should say unto thee, carry off thy whey.

THE FIGHT IN HALDIMAND

J. A. MCCARTHY OF BARRIE NOMINATED TO CONTEST THE BY-ELECTION.

Yesterday was Nomination Day at Cayuga. Patrons agreed not to enter the Contest—A Straight Conservative and McCarthyite Fight it will be.

CAYUGA, Ont., April 10. OR the eighth time in eight years Haldimand is embroiled from centre to circumference in a parliamentary contest.

The contesting parties are straight Conservatives and McCarthyites, the issues being the Manitoba school question and remedial legislation. Dr. Montague, the member, and Secretary of State for Canada, who is seeking the endorsement of his constituents on account of his elevation to the Cabinet, is putting up a strong fight.

The county is overrun with Tory stumpers and expert organizers and side line workers. Mr. J. A. McCarthy is stamping the riding with a number of speakers. The trade issue is side tracked.

The McCarthy battle cry is not interference with Manitoba in the matter of school legislation. The strong platform in Dr. Montague's platform is not the Conservative party policy, but the advantage obtaining to the constituency through the election of McCarthy.

Present indications point to a close contest, with Montague as a probable winner, due largely to effective organization in which respect the McCarthyites are sadly lacking for effectual work.

Liberal leaders here predict a majority of 80 for Montague in Cayuga village, consisting of the entire Catholic vote and the votes of some Liberals who will support Dr. Montague, because rumor attributes to him assistance that helped to elect Dr. Baxter in the last by-election for the House of Commons.

Conservative leaders here predict a majority for McCarthy, because rumor attributes to him assistance that helped to elect Dr. Baxter in the last by-election for the House of Commons.

A TWO-CENT FRAUD.

A Wholesale Issuing of Counterfeit Postage Stamps—A Hamilton Man Under Suspicion—Letters Which Came for Him Were to Be Given to "99.25."

Special to the Times. HAMILTON, April 10.—Nothing else is talked of here hardly but the alleged gigantic swindle on the United States Government by wholesale issuing of counterfeit 2-cent stamps.

Less than two weeks ago a man of about 30 or 35 years, who said his name was George Morrison and that his business was buying and selling bankrupt stocks, came to the city and engaged office rooms at 23 King William street, right in the centre of the city. He entered into possession on April 1st, opening a Canadian Novelty Supply Company agency.

Next day he engaged Mrs. M. T. Mack as clerk, telling her that he bought and sold anything from a nail to an elephant. Next day he departed, saying that he was going to Toronto to establish a branch there.

On April 5th Mrs. Mack got instructions by letter to send an advertisement to "Printer's Ink," offering $115 worth United States 2-cent stamps for sale for $100. She was to believe that Morrison got the stamps in payment for goods.

DUPED BY HER EMPLOYER. At any rate, under his instructions she sent away seven closely sealed express packages, all addressed to different people in Chicago. Since that time she has received a letter from Buffalo, signed by Morrison instructing her to pay all the money she had belonging to him to a man who would identify himself by asking for "99.25."

Up to date, however, she has not received any money nor had any person come to identify himself by asking for "99.25."

Mrs. Mack gave the reporter some United States 2-cent stamps which Morrison had sent her. The only other communication she has had from him was a letter instructing her to send all his mail matter to the Toronto general delivery office.

THE OTTAWA BANQUET.

DELEGATES FROM NEWFOUNDLAND ENTERTAINED IN OTTAWA.

A Reception Against Confederation Passed by Several Settlements—A Question of Principle, Not of Terms.

Special to the Times. OTTAWA, April 10. HE visiting Newfoundland delegates, Messrs. Bond, Morris, Evers, and Horwood, were entertained at the Russell House last night.

Among those who were there were the Governor General, Sir Mackenzie Bowell, Sir A. P. Caron, and Messrs. Haggart, R. N. Scott, Costigan, and Wood, and Mr. Justice McMillan.

Hon. Robert Bond, in reply to the toast of "Our Guests," said: "There never was a better prospect of establishing peace with honor between Newfoundland and Canada than there was at present. He said Newfoundland covered 45,000 square miles. It was equal to the size of Denmark, Norway and Sweden. Its position at the mouth of the St. Lawrence made it the key for England to its North American possessions. Being within three days' steam of England it was the natural terminus.

There were engaged in the fisheries some 30,000 fishermen. The value of the fisheries annually was $6,700,000. There were 5,000 square miles of white pine and the output of the forests this year was valued at $800,000. There were 4,700 square miles of mineral land unexplored. In already explored operations there were $9,500,000 invested. The fourth largest export to any country from Canada were sent to Newfoundland, and still there was only a population of 27,000 people.

The debt of Newfoundland was only in the neighborhood of $10,000,000 and that included the cost of its railways up to the present time. There were also dry docks and a municipal debt of $1,250,000 included in these figures. The fact was that Newfoundland had assets for all its liabilities. When the crash came there were $4,000,000 deposits in the banks, or about $50 per head. Newfoundland also had a dominion of 140,000 square miles. The timber land was of great value.

ALL AGAINST CONFEDERATION. ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., April 10.—The people of St. John's, Nfld., have, at a meeting held at the City Hall, passed a resolution opposing the proposed union with Canada, and have elected a committee to carry out the same.

Resolved—That the people of this province are unanimously opposed to Confederation with Canada; that with us it is not a question of terms but a matter of principle; that we are content with our present form of government and also time have we ever signified a desire to have it altered or amended any person to seek terms of Confederation; that we will use all lawful means to oppose such an appeal to the Governor in Council to aid us in doing so.

Special to the Times. TORONTO, April 10.—Detective Davis, of the Toronto staff, this morning arrested Isaac Schaefer, father of the junior partner in the late firm of Rittenberg & Schaefer, of Front street west, on the charge of setting fire to the firm's premises a few weeks ago. Schaefer was arrested at No. 16 Soho street and locked up at police headquarters. The arrest was made on a warrant.

CULLY IS SPEAKER. The Nominee of the Recovery Government Elected by a Small Majority.

Special to the Times. LONDON, April 10.—William Cullery, M.P. for Carlisle, the Government candidate, was elected Speaker of the House of Commons today, in succession to Mr. Henry Campbell-Bannerman, who resigned on Monday last, by the narrow majority of 11.

The Parliaments voted against the Government. Mr. Cullery, in politics, is a liberal who supports Mr. Gladstone's Irish policy.

THE GOVERNMENT MUST RESIGN. If It Order to Manitoba Is Not Endorsed by Parliament.

TORONTO, April 10.—There is a bye election in Antigonish too. In that constituency, which is overwhelmingly Catholic, the Government's action in reference to the Manitoba school question is interpreted as a mere compliance with the constitution. It is construed as an order to be backed up, if necessary, by Federal legislation. This is shown clearly by the following quotation from the Outlook (Can.)

"The cabinet, by adopting this order, has pledged itself to the introduction of such (remedial) legislation if Manitoba fails to accept it, and must of course resign if Parliament refuses to sustain it."

A PRIEST IN THE DEBRIS.

TEN LIVES LOST IN VIRGINIA BY THE COLLAPSE OF A BUILDING.

Father Parke Crushed to Death—After the Collapse the Building Caught Fire and a Number are Burned.

Special to the Times. WHEELING, April 10. HE five-story building, Nos. 1220 and 1222 Main street, occupied by the J. J. Hutchison & Co. wholesale hardware and sundry dealers and W. H. Chapman & Sons, wholesale dealers in painters and builders' supplies, a few minutes past eleven o'clock this morning, collapsed with a deafening report, burying ten men beneath the ruins. To add to the horror of the situation the debris took fire from a natural gas leak and a dense cloud of smoke arising, the efforts of the rescuers were greatly impeded. The greatest damage to life was among the employees of Hutchison & Co. all of whom were at work. At 9 o'clock tonight.

THE LIST OF DEAD was as follows: Father F. H. Parke, vicar general of West Virginia diocese; Benjamin Pritchard, carriage builder, of Buckhannon, W. Va.; E. Wincher, Eugene Birch, Michael Hirsch, carpenters, of Chesapeake & Co.; Harry Cowie, W. A. Mansinger. The injured are as follows: J. J. Hutchison, senior member of H. & Co., two ribs broken and head cut; M. J. Ford, employee of H. & Co., slightly bruised and cut; O. E. Williams, carpenter, head cut and severely bruised about the body; G. W. Clifton, carpenter, slightly hurt. All the injured will recover.

W. H. Chapman, of Chapman & Sons, and Frank Haller and Adam Blum, employed by H. & Co., escaped comparatively unharmed. A general alarm brought the fire department promptly to the scene and the work of rescuing the victims was commenced; but after the bodies of Benjamin Pritchard and Father Parke had been taken out of the debris the fire had gained such headway that the rescuers had to give their entire attention to subduing it. After one and a half hours' hard work they got the flames under control.

A building across the alley, occupied by S. M. Rice, wholesale millinery, was struck by the falling walls and a big hole knocked in the side. The building next to that was also badly sprung and many persons entertained for its safety. Altogether the loss will amount to over $200,000. Insurance unknown.

PRIEST CRUSHED TO DEATH. Father Parke, who was the oldest Catholic priest in the state was in neither of the buildings, but was walking up the alley when the accident occurred. Harry Cowie, the messenger boy, was also killed in the alley, while returning from a call. A rumor was circulated this evening that an explosion was imminent in the Chapman building is a carload of turpentine and oil. At 7.30 however, Chief Healey claimed to have the blaze cut off from the oil. The cause of the fire was the defective construction of the Hutchison building, which was condemned two years ago.

WAR NEGOTIATIONS. The Times correspondent in Kobe says that Japanese statements declare that the negotiations with China are progressing successfully, but their efforts are thwarted by the war party. The newspapers are virtually unanimous in deprecating peace at the present time and deny that the armistice indicates an imminent outlook in that direction. Some influential papers demand that Peking shall be occupied and the northern portion of China subjugated.

Rescue the Wife. LONDON, Ont., April 10.—The most recent kind of elopement is reported from Belconn street, South London. The wronged husband is an estimable working carpenter, about 50 years of age. His wife is much younger. The husband's brother came as a guest last fall, and on the plea of being ill, imposed all winter upon his brother's hospitality. Two or three days ago he eloped with the latter's wife, who has been missing for five or six months. Prior to going the husband had borrowed $10 from a prominent citizen on the plea that a bailiff was in the house.

The Times.

PETERBOROUGH, APRIL 15 1895.

Good morning!

What is the particular objection to calling Jeffrey McCarthy, of Barrie, Jeff McCarthy? Jeff is a good name, Jeff is a better one?

Dr. Montague is arranging for a series of meetings at which three big cards from the Government's pack will do the speaking. We suppose it will not be long before some one will be called them three and Monty men.

A contemporary recently decried some official space to advising people not to put their matches and their cough lozenges in the same pocket. We think that advice is sound. Every one knows the bad effect that cough lozenges have on matches. They make the matches cough. Another good scheme is not to put both your feet in the same boot.

The lively way in which the Haldimand campaign is being conducted at the start is a fairly good hint of the sort of cyclone that will be raging there by voting day. Both Dr. Montague and D'Alton McCarthy are hard fighters, and they both have their coats off and are determined to win. Mr. McCarthy is cold and critical in his style, but the doctor has a rough and tumble flow of ready wit and eloquence that stirs everybody up and makes him friends with "the crowd." Haldimand will see some fun before the campaign is over.

A RADICAL CHANGE.

A resolution affirming the principle of the payment of members passed the British House of Commons. This is a sign of the times. Payment of members was part of the Chartist programme, which at the time was considered too radical and too republican for any loyal Englishman to support. But now no one seems to be at all surprised to find that a majority of the House of Commons is in favor of the principle. The question to-day is, when will it be practicable to embody the principle in an act of Parliament. Sir William Harcourt promised that such a measure would be introduced as soon as it became practicable.

It may be taken for granted that the time is not far distant when members of the Imperial Parliament will be paid just as members of Colonial Parliaments and of the United States Congress now are. It is not likely that the change will effect Parliament very materially. The people will then, as they do now, elect the men whom they like best. Members being required to serve their country without pay have not kept poor men out of Parliament, and the experience of the United States and the Colonies has proved that the payment of members does not crowd rich men out of representative bodies. The complaint is that money has too much influence in constituencies, and men are elected simply because they are rich. In fact, the possession of a "bar" appears to be the only qualification that some men have for seeking legislative honors, and in too many cases it is, on this continent, considered quite sufficient. It will, no doubt, be the same in Great Britain when members are paid.

There are many wealthy men in England who consider that the social advantages which a seat in Parliament carries with it are inducement enough to enter upon a parliamentary career. This will continue to be the case after the members are paid.

CHINESE GIRL BABIES.

How They Are Married About in the Streets and Sold.

Miss Adele M. Fields recently lectured on "The Women of China."

The manner of disposing of Chinese girl babies was first told of. It was said that they were taken to a foundling hospital, and when 12 days old were put in a covered basket and taken away by a huckster, who bore a long pole across his shoulders, with a basket hung on each end, and hawked his wares about the streets, the price of an infant being the same as that of a spring chicken. The infants were usually bought by mothers who had sons of about 2 years, and were brought up as future daughters-in-law.

A personal anecdote was told of a twilight walk at Swatow, south China, and an encounter with a huckster who was carrying three feeble moaning infants in his basket. He had been out since morning and had disposed of three. When asked to show his wares, he offered to sell the three girl babies for $1, which was, according to the usual rates, twice their value.

These children were married between the ages of 15 and 17 and were said to be happier many times than brides who met their husbands just previous to the marriage ceremony. Foot binding among Chinese women was said to begin between the ages of 6 and 12. The suffering continued for about two years, when the artificial feet were formed. It was said to be most remarkable that, although the women of successive families for 900 years had had bandaged feet, no child ever was born with unnatural feet. This was said to be the custom of all women of China, excepting the Tartars and highlanders. The latter work in the field, while the men care for the children. Few of the women, it was said, were able to walk more than a few steps and were taken about in sedan chairs, accompanied by their bondsmen, who were natural footed.

The women of China were said to be fortunate in their dress, as the style never changed, and they could afford much better quality than is used by the women here. A large and elaborate wardrobe might be packed in three cubic feet of space, and the more closely packed the smoother it would come out. Polygamy was declared to be lawful, but not usually practiced, the men of China asserting that it "took a very wise man to manage a harem, a much wiser man to manage a raft and a wiser man than either to manage two wives."—New York Tribune.

The Microscopic Yeast Plant.

Antonius van Leeuwenhoek, the Dutch naturalist whose microscopic studies are familiar to scientists in almost every branch where the lens is a part of the apparatus used, discovered the yeast plant in the year 1680. Another student, Fabrian, in 1787 gave it as his opinion that the yeast plant was a vegetable animal organism, while later scientists, Thérard, Desmoulières et al., believed its functions to be chiefly of a chemical nature. In 1837 De la Tour, studying from outlines laid down by Van Leeuwenhoek, rediscovered the identical plant described by that authority in 1680. He subsequently studied it carefully and gave many odd facts concerning it. He declared that it was through its action that the molecules of sugar were broken up, thus permitting that substance to "sour." He measured the cells of the plant and found them to only be one-two-thousandth of an inch in diameter. He was also the first to recognize the fact that they developed by budding.

The investigations of Professor Mitscherlich have led chemists to distinguish two kinds of yeast—"surface" yeast, which collects on the surface of fermenting fluids, and "sediment" yeast, which is found growing at the bottom. The former is propagated by buds, the latter by spores. Its use in the preparation of foods is very ancient, but today it is not known positively whether yeast is the "cause" or the "effect," or simply an accompaniment of fermentation.—St. Louis Republic.

Rossetti's Use For an Elephant.

Gabriel Rossetti had a penchant for wild animals. He was with difficulty prevented at one time from purchasing for a very large sum a young elephant. Browning said to him, "What on earth will you do with him, Gabriel?" and Rossetti replied: "I mean to teach him to clean the windows. Then, when some one passes by the house he will see the elephant cleaning the windows and will say, 'Who lives in that house?' and people will tell him, 'Oh, that's a painter called Rossetti,' and he will say, 'I think I should like to buy one of that man's pictures.' So he will ring to come in, and I shall sell him a picture."

DOURO.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Mr. John O'Gorman is again packing up his summer kit to go back fishing on Georgian Bay.

Several of the boys refuse to hire on the farm this summer, as they expect to get a good snap on the Trent Valley Canal.
The Times is getting to be a very popular paper in this neighborhood, and seems to be a general favorite. Mr. Postmaster wishes that several of the subscribers were willing to let it every mail from Thursday evening till Saturday night. At present it has more subscribers here than any other paper, while two months ago it had only two or three. These facts speak well of its merits.

Don't be discouraged if eggs are low.
Our friend, Mr. F. D. Towse, will soon be on the egg route again. It is expected that he will receive a warm shake-hand and hearty welcome from every farmer's wife and daughter in the township, for right well they know who pays the highest and best price for eggs.

Our well known horse trainer, Mr. Wm.
E. O'Brien, is again open for another contest. He has finished training the "black" at the stock barn of Mr. Michael Walker, or, as he is better known in the sporting circles as "Mick Walker," the jockey. Mr. O'Brien has been successful in getting Mr. Walker's colt, "Firecracker" down to the creditable low rate of a mile in 2:10.

ASHBURNHAM COUNCIL.

Special Meeting on Saturday Evening—

By-law Authorizing the Treasurer to Borrow Money From Its Several Readings—Miscellaneous.

A special meeting of the Ashburnham
Council was held Saturday evening.
There were present: Rev. Mr. Barnham in the chair and Councilors Smith, Collett, Craig and Rutherford.

A by-law authorizing the treasurer to borrow $3,000 for school purposes and to meet the general expenditure of the current year passed its several readings.

STREET WATERING.

On motion of Councilor Smith, seconded by Councilor Craig, the clerk was instructed to advertise for tenders for watering the following streets: Elmwood street, from Bridge to Stewart street; Stewart street, from Elmwood to Clifton street;
Brown street, from Elmwood to Dover street; Mark street, from Elmwood to Robinson street; Robinson street, from Mark to Lake street; Lake street, from Robinson to Elmwood street. Tenders to be addressed to John West, village clerk, and open until the 15th day of May at 7 o'clock p.m.

DOG TAGS.

The clerk was also instructed to post up notices to the effect that all owners of dogs are requested to procure tags for the year 1895 on or before the first day of May next.
The Council then adjourned.

Caught in the Act.

Two young men halting from Oshawa and Oshawa were on Friday caught in the act of violating the game laws on Big Lake. Game Warden Wm. W. Woodcock and Mr. John King, of Kenna, brand of the offenders. The two were trawlers and the law enforcers broke through several times before overhauling the culprits, who, in blissful ignorance for whom benefit they were expending powder and shot, had succeeded in securing nineteen fine plump ducks. The warden took possession of the birds and sent them to the Nicholls Hospital; he also took the young men's names. Mr. Woodcock is determined to enforce the law, and has reported the case to Provincial Game Warden Smith, of Belleville.

INDIAN GAMBLERS.

ALWAYS READY TO RISK THEIR ALL IN A GAME OF CHANCE.

Indians Who Villages Are Improving
by a Game of Luck—They Rely Upon Chance and Their Ability to Guess—They Are Good Losers.

As eagerly as a duck dips into the water does an Indian jump into a game of chance. Unbounded belief in luck and the natural devilry of the man who makes the game, are the two main reasons why Indians are so fond of gambling. There is nothing in an Indian's possession that he will not readily wager on a game of chance. Nearly every noble red man is the possessor of an individual charm or fetish which enables him to do things that other Indians cannot do. This fetish is of value exclusively to the owner, and according to their belief would be of use or advantage to any other Indian. No person besides the possessor knows what the fetish is and were it to become known it would immediately lose its power for good. No Indian will knowingly steal another Indian's fetish. Such theft is considered the power of the chief's fetish and is held over him as a hoodoo.

Having full faith in the ability of his charms to bring luck to him, the Indian never fails to place all his possessions in the balance when there is a bet on. If he loses, he takes it philosophically and at once he has lost to the greater power of his adversary. If he wins, he is not so easily satisfied. He is in the power of his own charms. Indians have been known to wager all their earthly possessions, even to their squaws and children and horses, on the fall of a stick in one of their games. Indian villages have become pauperized and dependent upon charity for months because the inhabitants had everything they had on the result of games with other villages. Such occurrences were common several years ago, and were it not for the restrictions of government regulations would be so still.

Gambling is not a game among the Indians. It is a religion. It is all the sum of the tribe, and the more the gambler the higher he stands in the estimation of his fellows. To have the name of being a successful gambler causes an Indian to look up to almost as much as if he were a success in war. There is no fear of shooting the members of even the most famous Indian gamblers. In fact, the invitation pleases him. One point of advantage held by the red man over his white brother is in the fact that when he is gambling he possesses the much more potent than was before, and he can readily reap himself by making a suit upon some fortunate white man or upon a weaker tribe. The white man may commit suicide, but the Indian simply looks for a victim and seldom fails to find him.

Before the government tightened the laws on the Indians professional gamblers were plentiful. Of late years their number has decreased greatly. The most famous Indian gambler of today is Qualeph, a Comanche. His game is monte. He is about 30 years old, tall and straight, with a thin, narrow face. His eyes are sunken like those of a consumptive. He never smiles and seldom speaks. Like all Indian gamblers, his dress is rich in bright colors. He usually rides a white pony and is attended by two Apache Indians, both famous for deeds of prowess. He travels from village to village and from tribe to tribe. Everywhere he is well known. When his approach is made known, the Indians wait for him to appear, saving their money to play with him, for it is an Indian maxim that "in the game of Qualeph the play is honest, and the winner is what you please."

Qualeph once appeared at the Cash Creek village. He rode into the village shortly before sundown. One of his companions opened a bright red blanket on the ground. Qualeph knelt before it. As he knelt down on his haunches and began to play with his hands, a crowd of Indians gathered around him. He was surrounded by Indians crowding three and four deep. And behind them stood other Indians eager for an opportunity to play. The long, thin fingers of Qualeph moved the cards with marvelous rapidity. The interest in the game was so great that the crowd of Indians was so packed that it was impossible to stand in the crowd. By their shining light Qualeph could be seen paying his bets and pushing the cards. He was both dealer and gambler. Behind him on his right and to his left crouched his two Apache followers. As dawn was breaking Qualeph looked about him. He had stripped all save two Indians. One of them was a heavy winner. Laying down $100 for each of them to cover, Qualeph announced that it was his last bet. The cards were dealt and the game was over. The crowd of Indians led on the ground. The two Apache followers pocketed his money. The village was left for the two Indians, was penniless.

Qualeph also is an inveterate gambler. It is a common sight to see a dozen young and old, their pockets full of money, gathered around him. He is surrounded by a crowd of Indians, many of whom are gamblers. But they seldom have money of their own sufficient to play for high stakes.

One peculiarity of Indian gambling is their interest in the game. It is a common sight to see a dozen young and old, their pockets full of money, gathered around him. He is surrounded by a crowd of Indians, many of whom are gamblers. But they seldom have money of their own sufficient to play for high stakes.

He is surrounded by a crowd of Indians, many of whom are gamblers. But they seldom have money of their own sufficient to play for high stakes.

These playing cards have become common games taught by the whites and Indians are generally the devotees of these games. Monte is played for these amounts. Sometimes an Indian with hundreds of dollars will become impoverished in a single evening by trying his luck against a dealer. An especially skillful Monte dealer, more skillful than most, has been known to win from tribes to be in the mountains of New Mexico and make his headquarters there with his winnings. Many Mexicans devote almost their entire time to gambling among the various tribes in the mountains. They will play Monte, but they will not play the game of the white man. They will play Monte, but they will not play the game of the white man. They will play Monte, but they will not play the game of the white man.

THREE MEN CHARGED

With Criminally Assaulting a Woman in Toronto—The Prisoners Remanded
Till Next Friday.

Special to the Times.
TORONTO, April 13.—The police court was cleared of spectators this morning when three young men, named James McEvoy, William Warring and Thomas Whitehead, charged with criminally assaulting a woman named Mary Robb. The woman swore the assault took place in the Rossdale ravine yesterday afternoon. She screamed, and after a while a policeman arrived. The three men and another with them ran away, and witness pointed the three out to the officer.
To Mr. Smyth witness said she was neither drunk nor sober; had 10 cents worth of whiskey. Did not remember everything that occurred.
P. C. Walker (33) said that the affair occurred at Castle Frank, on the hill between the Don and the ravine, the woman complained of having been assaulted, but he heard no screams. Arrested the three prisoners shortly after, and the woman identified them all.
His worship asked Mr. Curry if he had any evidence, saying the corroborator has been very slight so far. Mr. Curry said he possibly might get further testimony, and the three prisoners were remanded until Friday next. Mr. Smyth applied for bail, but the Colonel said it was out of his power to grant it.

A CLOSE CONTEST.

The Usual Talk of Bribery and Corruption is Held in Veroboro.

Special to the Times.
MONTREAL, April 13.—Mr. Geoffria, Q.C., Liberal candidate in Veroboro, spoke today at St. John's, and tomorrow speaks at St. Antoine. This completes this tour of the country. Mr. Geoffria, the Conservative nominee, spoke today at St. Theodosie.
The fight is the latest in the history of the country. There are over fifty workers from the outside for each party now in the county. The Liberals are betting on 150 majority for Geoffria, but Conservatives claim 50 for Blaisland.
The majorities are always very close in this county; and it is claimed that not more than 50 votes change sides.
Talk of bribery and corruption on an extensive scale is very rife, but cannot be traced to any reliable source.

ARRESTED FOR BIGAMY.

Robert Dukes and Mary Orr, of Unionville, to Answer a Grand Charge.

Special to the Times.
TORONTO, April 13.—Constables Burns and Kennedy arrested Mary Orr and Robert Dukes at Unionville early this morning on a charge of bigamy.
It is alleged that Mary Orr was married to Robert Dukes on December 20, 1894, that she lived with him for a year, and then he went to the Northwest. It is also stated that Mary Orr subsequently married Robert Dukes on September 13, 1895.
The pair will be brought up for trial at Stouffville next week.

AN IMPORTANT DECISION.

Judge Morris of Toronto Defines the Duties of Lodge Masters.

Special to the Times.
TORONTO, April 13.—David Mason is the unfortunate laboring man whose left hand was crushed while he was working at the new Court House last summer. For that injury he recovered $250 from the city. He is a member of the Northern Star, L.O.J., and Dr. R. L. Burton is its duly accredited physician and surgeon. The doctor sent Mason in the Division Court to get $100 for surgical and medical services; his bill was $20 more, but he assigned that part to the Northern Star. Dr. Burton's Company. This company also sued poor Mason. But that wasn't all of it. Dr. Burton assigned Dr. Burton in the jurisdiction of Mason's injury and charged $20 for his agency besides $20 more for attendance as a witness in Mason's suit against the city; so he, too, sued Mason.

MASON IS THE WINNER.

The matter of the three suits came before Judge Morris on Tuesday and was fully reported. Dr. Burton's claim was that he was not to do surgical work for lodge members; he was to do only medical work. Upon this point the Judge reserved his decision. Today he handed down judgment in favor of Mason in the three suits, but without costs. The ground of his judgment is based upon the by-laws of Northern Star Lodge, which state the lodge doctor must be duly qualified "physician and surgeon," the implication being that he must give surgical as well as medical attendance. Again, another by-law mentions, "sickness or accident," the latter reading in his honor holds, that the doctor must give surgical treatment as a part of his lodge duty.

Joseph Morris at Ottawa.
OTTAWA, April 13.—Joseph Martin, M.P. for the riding of Ottawa, is not going to Hamilton, as he had in advance of the session to attend to legal business.

Speech from the Throne.
OTTAWA, April 13.—The speech from the throne, which His Excellency will open Parliament in Thursday next will contain in its chief themes references to the two leading questions of the day, Manitoba school and the admission of Newfoundland to the Canadian Confederation.

The oldest citizen of Peterborough died today. A Frenchman named Hyacinthe Lalonde, aged ninety-nine years and six months. The old gentleman was never sick all three days before he died.

COURAGE, ANXIOUS MOTHER!

TRY LACTATED FOOD FOR YOUR HALF-DEAD BABY.

There are thousands of half-dead babies in Canada to day who need Lactated Food more than they do medicine, to make them well and strong.

Could mothers only see the letters that pour in from week to week testifying to the fact that Lactated Food saves babies' lives, they would not rest a moment until they had given it a trial.

Again we repeat: Lactated Food is not a medicine in any sense, but simply a purely prepared food possessing life-giving qualities. It differs from all other foods, for in hundreds of cases Lactated Food has saved the child's life, after other foods proved useless.

PERILS OF THE SEWER.

A Fatal Early Morning Journey—One Man Dead—Two Almost Overcome.

Special to the Times.

LONDON, Ont., April 12.—About 3 o'clock this morning Hugh O'Meara, brother of Ald. Stephen O'Meara, Harry Wallace and M. Miller, of William street, entered the sewer at the corner of King and Rideout, and were working their way eastward, when O'Meara found himself becoming dazed by the effects of the gas, and started to leave the scene of danger. Wallace also realized his peril. Miller, however, was by this time completely prostrated, and he was found by his companions lying in the filthy water. In endeavoring to convey Miller to the manhole, Wallace, too, was overcome. O'Meara, by a desperate effort, succeeded in climbing the ladder and reaching the manhole. He found Miller and O'Meara reached the surface where he, too, became unconscious, but soon revived. The rescuing party entered the sewer and brought out Wallace in an unconscious condition. Engineer Graydon arrived on the scene shortly after and at once took steps towards searching for the unfortunate man Miller.

STRAUSS AND HIS DOG.

A Story of the Wain King, a Retriever and His Feud with a Dog.

"The Strauss jubilee," said a New York Impresario to a reporter, "reminded me of an incident of the visit of the great composer to Boston at the time of the Gilman jubilee which I do not remember over to have seen in print. At that time Johann was in the full bloom of his glory, and the 'Blue Danube' waltzes were as well known in this country as 'Yankee Doodle,' and so when the composer was found to be handicapped, dapper little man, with lovely eyes and a mass of wavy black hair that was almost as extravagantly long as Paderewski's, the Boston musical women went wild over him. He was courted and caressed and fêted and followed until it was a wonder his head—hair and all—was not turned, but Strauss had too much good business tact to let control of himself, and he accepted everything—civility and compliments—with a smile that was as comprehensive as it was stereotyped.

"Strauss was a great dog fan at that time and was accompanied by a magnificent black retriever. Toward the last of the great concert days some enthusiastic young woman among the throng of waiting a look of Strauss' hair for her jacket—looks were worn by everybody in those days, you remember. The fashion grew into a fad, and from a fad blazed up to fury, and with his comprehensive smile Johann promised every applicant a memento. And in due time the looks were distributed—how many hundreds of them I don't know—each one accompanied by the compliments of the wain king. Some stalwart ones said that enough hair had been cut off and distributed to make Strauss look as though he had been sand-papered, yet when he left Boston for New York his locks were as bushy and profuse as ever. It was remarked, however, that when Johann's beautiful black haired dog was put into the baggage car the poor creature looked like a shorn poodle."

A Cool Man.

"He was a cool man, was the colonel of my regiment," remarked a long legged old chap to a militia youth in a great display of uniform. "I never seen his like."

"Was it in the late war?" inquired the youth.

"The same, and he was the dandydest little fellow you ever saw. That's the reason I don't laugh when I see you fellows in the old ones encouragingly. 'Clothes ain't no sign of what kind of a soldier is inside of them.'"

"Thanks."

"Don't mention it. As I was saying, my colonel was the coolest man you ever saw." Down there before Richmond once, when he was only a captain, he and his company covering a hill that was in the range of the enemy's shells, and they were dropping them there thicker'n potatoes. He had on a brand new uniform and was looking like a bean on parade, but he stood right out where the shells was plowing up the ground all around him, and when fired over in everything, but he never moved except to knock the dirt off his clothes about every minute. After while the general in command sent for him to come back out of range behind the hill."

"What do you think of it?" asked the general, meaning the outcome of the fight, I suppose.

"It's perfectly outrageous, general," says the captain, "and I don't see why in thunder they don't throw what becomes along with their shells."—Detroit Free Press.

Miss Olga Kotherns.

Miss Olga Kotherns is one of the English women who believe in high thinking and simple dressing, for off the stage her garments are almost Puritanical in their sobriety of color and plainness of fashion. They are mostly tailor built, and, notwithstanding to subtle, these women who have taken admiring note of her slender waist, straight back and well defined curve, she wears no corset.

A costume which buttons in front is the nearest approach to that bulwark of the French dressmaker. Miss Kotherns thinks the corset is ungraceful, injurious and not quite neat, since her belief is that every article of one's underwear should pay a weekly visit to the washbasin. Indeed her fingers, if one can call it by that name, can easily be pushed in a handkerchief box, for it is woven of silk and wool, a beautiful fabric, warm, fine and soft, leaving her body free for active movement. Miss Kotherns is a tremendous worker in and out of the theater, as much manager as actress, and her capacity for the daily achievement of her really tremendous labors she attributes to her simple dressing. She fully recognizes that postures are part of a woman's life, unbecome and yet impossible to avoid, but her effort is to mitigate their weight and bulk as far

DEATH OF R. B. MCCKEY.

The Manager of the Bank of Commerce at Galt's Passes Away.

Special to the Times.

Galt's Pass, April 12.—R. B. McKee, manager of the Bank of Commerce here, died yesterday after a three weeks illness from erysipelas and liver complaint. He was an enthusiastic cricketer and was president of the Guelph Cricket Club, president of the Guelph Central Exhibition and also of the Guelph Hunt Club at the time of his death. He was 40 years old and a son of George McKee, of Barrie. The only member of his father's family surviving him is Mrs. Plummer, wife of Mr. J. H. Plummer, assistant general manager of the Bank of Commerce at Toronto. The funeral takes place today from St. George's church.

A PUBLIC BENEFACTOR.

Mr. Robert Moore, of St. John's R. C. Confers a Benefit on Humanity.

St. John, N.B., April 12.—The use of that valuable and well tried remedy for kidney diseases of all kinds, Dodd's Kidney Pills, is becoming general throughout this country. Since the publication of dispatches relating to the recovery of Mr. Robert Moore, of Indian town, a great many enquiries regarding the details of his cure have been made, and so satisfactory have the answers proved, that the pills may be said to have become the household remedy in all the neighboring villages. Mr. Moore has also come in for a good share of the praise for having been the means by which the admirable qualities of the remedy have become so well known throughout the district and he is looked upon as a public benefactor.

THE YELLOW FLAG.

Smaller Brought from China by the Steamship Coptic.

Special to the Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 12.—The steamer Coptic, the latest addition to the Pacific Mail Steamship Company service, made her first trip from Hong Kong and Yokohama to this port today, bringing the yellow flag. Soon after leaving Hong Kong two of her firemen were stricken with smallpox. On her arrival here the Coptic was fumigated and sent into quarantine for fourteen days.

Jumping Hurdles.

In jumping hurdles the one thing which is imperative is not to jump them. Hurdle racing has become entirely an artificial sport. It was discovered that by taking off from one foot and landing on the other, and by covering the ten yards between each hurdle in three strides, the hurdles could be run over, instead of jumped, and it was also discovered that the man who couldn't perform this acrobatic feat was not in the same hunt with the man who could. A long jumper, with a turn of speed, has a much better chance of becoming a good hurdler than a high jumper. It is a pastime which requires much practice. You must harden your shins and keep as near to the top bar of the hurdle as you can. If you are clearing the hurdles by too much, you must practice leaving part of the skin of your leg on the top bar.

A famous hurdle racer, H. K. Upcher of Oxford, who, by assiduous practice, brought the surmounting—one could hardly call it the clearing—of hurdles to the highest point of perfection, was in the habit of bumping each hurdle in practice to make sure he was not going too high, and of going through the top rail when it was movable, and sometimes when it was not, in order to be quite certain that there was nothing unnecessary to spare.—Fortnightly Review.

The Books Were Shaved.

Here is a funny little story which is told of a would be literary young man whose face is familiar around the various newspaper offices and who aspires to be witty. Some time ago in course of conversation with a prominent magazine writer the subject of authors and their works was being discussed. The young man, after the manner of all would be literary young men, was criticizing the various writers and among others Ouida, whose works he declared were being laid on the shelf. The journalist, punning upon the well known surname of Ouida's hair, said, "Well, if her books are not read, her hair is."

This struck the would be literary young man as a most happy pun, and he resolved to appropriate it to himself at the first opportunity. A few evenings later while out in company he fortuitously turned the conversation onto the same subject, and when the proper time arrived sprang the pun in this manner, "Well, she's got red hair if her books haven't."

He is still wondering why no one applauded the brilliant bonnet.

Now at Rest.

Respected as a citizen and warmly sympathized as a bard, the funeral of the late Mr. William Telford was attended by a large gathering of residents of Smith and other localities yesterday morning. The services were held in the Little Lake Cemetery. The Rev. A. McWilliams conducted the service. The pall-bearers were Messrs. John Forster, Charles Campbell,
Dr. Carmichael, Dr. Caldwell, William Maclean and Alexander Gibson.

The Right of Way Settled.

At a meeting of the Railway Committee held in Ottawa on Wednesday last, the objection of the G. T. R. in reference to the O. N. & P. R. crossing the tracks of the former at Campbellford was overruled and permission granted. The above was said to be the last straw in the way of beginning the work, but it is feared that the low state of the money market in England will be the greatest drawback to the construction of the road just at present.

Death of J. E. Dolan.

The news of the death of Mr. Joseph Edward Dolan, which occurred in Dublin, Ireland, on April 8, has just reached his relatives in Peterborough. Dolan was widely known in Peterborough for a number of years. He filled the position of bookkeeper in the clothing establishment of Mr. T. Dolan, who is a cousin. About two years ago he left Peterborough to take a position in Chicago, and never returned to his home in Dublin.
His father was the late J. E. Dolan, supervisor of Island Revenue for Dublin.
Dolan had many friends in Peterborough who will be pained to hear of his untimely death. During his residence here he took a prominent part in social circles and was very popular. Mr. J. Dolan, of the City Hall, is a cousin of the deceased who was in his thirtieth year at the time of his death.

Wedding Bells.

At the George street Methodist church, yesterday morning, Mr. W. J. Embury, of the Belleville postoffice, was married to the Miss M. Knight, daughter of Dr.
Knight, of Belleville. The Rev. Mr. Young acted as officiant. The wedding was held in the presence of only their relatives, and the ceremony was a simple one. The bride was not in white, but in a dress of blue and black, and the wedding was a very quiet affair. A bouquet of flowers was presented to the bride, and the wedding was a very quiet affair.

Another Summer Resort.

On Thursday last a gentleman from Rice Lake, informed us that Mr. T. Harris, of Rice Lake, Wis., was preparing to build a summer hotel at that place. He has been engaged for some time drawing plans and other building material, with a view to erecting a fine house for the accommodation of tourists and visitors. There is no finer island place in Canada for a hotel of that description, and we believe that if Mr. Harris pushes his undertaking, he will be well repaid for his outlay.
George's Landing is one of the most delicious places in Ontario, and it is only lacking a hotel of that kind to place it where it belongs. It is a beautiful place, and we believe that it will be a great success.
There are nearly 20,000 acres in bloom now at Dunlop's conservatory. It is a great sight, and visitors are always well served. It is a great sight, and visitors

HE STOLE A COAT.

Tom, the Hobo, a Prisoner at the Police Station.

"Tom, the Hobo," is the only known name of a man who will appear before Magistrate Dumble this morning on a charge of stealing a coat.
Yesterday morning a poverty-stricken man drove into town and put up his team at the Holland House. The hobo was sitting in the capacity of hostler and into his hands
the farmer gave his heavy Irish frieze coat for safe keeping. About noon it began to rain and the farmer repaired to the stables for his coat. He could neither find it or the hostler, and immediately reported the loss to Proprietor Holland.
The hostler was made for the missing comedian of the stables, but he could not be found. Mr. Holland came to the conclusion that the man had slipped out. In the hope of overtaking him a pair of horses and the pair drove out to the "diamond" at Ashburnham. A man was met who had seen a man with a coat making off down the road, and Mr. Holland immediately took another road in the hope of heading the hobo off. He was successful and returned to town with his prisoner and the coat. The farmer was turned over to the police and locked up.
The prisoner applied at the Holland House for work about a week ago and was employed. The only name he would give was "Tom, the Hobo," and this was the only name he would give the police.

VESTRY MEETINGS

Of St. John's and St. Luke's Churches—Encouraging Reports.

The annual vestry meeting of St. John's church was held in the school house last evening, the rector, Rev. J. C. Davidson in the chair. Mr. H. Bash was appointed vestry clerk and the minutes of the several meetings of the last year were read and approved.

Mr. Fair read the warden's report for the year ending March 31st. The report showed a considerable increase of revenue both from pew rents and from the envelope system, particularly the latter.

Mr. Hamford read the financial report of the South Ward Mission, which also proved very satisfactory. The reports show that the parish of Peterborough is the largest in the diocese of Toronto, outside a few parishes in the city of Toronto itself, both in number of adherents and in the number of communicants.

Moved by Mr. R. M. Denniston, seconded by R. Fair, that the warden's report be received, and be further considered at the adjourned meeting. Carried.

The rector warmly thanked the retiring wardens for their work of the past year, and the vestry unanimously voted to the effect.

Mr. Long was then elected people's warden, and the rector nominated Mr. R.
M. Denniston as his warden. Messrs.
Hamford and Pearson were elected assistant wardens to take entire charge of the South Ward Mission finances. The sides men were re-elected, and Messrs. E.
Pearce and P. Campbell were elected auditors. The business of the meeting was then closed.

It was announced that Mrs. Hamilton had presented the deed of her house to the church. The meeting then adjourned.

The congregational meeting was held immediately after, and Messrs. Dr. Boncher, H. Bash and Dr. Halliday were elected lay delegates to the synod.

ST. LUKE'S VESTRY.

PLEASING UNANIMITY EXHIBITED—THE RECTORY TO BE ENLARGED.

The annual meeting of the Vestry of St. Luke's was held last night. The church warden's report showed a satisfactory financial condition of the church, and the rector reported steady progress and a condition of great unanimity between the churchwardens and other officers, the congregation and himself.

Messrs. Burroughs and Strickland were elected churchwardens, and Col. H. C.
Rogers and Mr. F. Adams, assistant wardens. Votes of thanks were passed to the churchwardens, the Ladies Aid and the various members of the Guild, the churchwardens, and the sexton.

The meeting then adjourned and the election of Synod representatives, Messrs.
Burroughs, Jamieson and Rogers were elected.
Plans for the enlargement of the rectory drawn by W. Blackwell were presented, and it was unanimously decided to proceed with the work at once. A prayer meeting was elected and met at the close of the vestry meeting.

Y.P.S.C.E. CONVENTION.

Fourth Annual Session of the County
Union Endeavorers.

The Young Peoples' County Union of Christian Endeavorers met in the George street Methodist church yesterday morning for their fourth annual convention. A large number of delegates from all parts of the county were present.

Rev. W. R. Young, the president, presided and conducted the devotional services.
Communicating committees were appointed,
and then the reports of the societies were heard, all showing that the work in the county was progressing in a highly encouraging manner. Rev. Dr. Torrance outlined the vision of the Christian Endeavor movement, and the growth and wonderful progress of the society from the small beginning made in Boston, and spoke of the great good it had accomplished and
the great future it had before it.

He outlined the growth and wonderful progress of the society from the small beginning made in Boston, and spoke of the great good it had accomplished and
the great future it had before it.

On behalf of the delegates Rev.
J. E. Howard, of Kenna, replied to the address and thanked Rev. Dr. Torrance for it. Miss Kennedy led a conference of the junior superintendents before the morning session closed.

Last night the church was crowded, there being present besides the delegates a large number of townspeople. "Christian Endeavor and Growth" was the subject of a cable address by Rev. W. Limbert of Lakeland. Rev. St. Bartlett spoke on
"The Test of Loyalty," and Rev. Dr.
Tavish, of Toronto, on "Missionary."

NO SETTLEMENT YET.

The Employees Will Meet This Afternoon—A Circular Sent Out.

There were no new developments yesterday in the situation of the Canadian Electric Company and its employees. The latter are still discussing the matter themselves, and this afternoon at 4 o'clock will hold another meeting. As far as can be learned the employees are still determined not to sign the card unless some modifications on the line suggested at the meeting on Saturday, are made.

Although there are 300 men out they have conducted themselves so quietly and orderly that the streets show no signs of anything unusual. There has been an absence of undesirable demonstration and expression of hard feeling on the part of either the respect and sympathy of all.

Some time ago the girls working in the lamp department of the company were laid off owing to a lack of work. Yesterday quite a number of them received the following notification:

"Please report for work in the incandescent lamp department at once. As to the misunderstanding at present existing between the Company and its employees, I have been assured that there has been no intention on the part of the Company, and there is none now, to make any change in the method of conducting its business which has been in operation in the lamp department as well as in other departments."

This was signed by the superintendent of the lamp department, Mr. H. D. Burnett.
The employees do not know exactly how to regard it. Some think that the employees in this department will not be asked to sign the card, while others are of the opinion that those who return to work this morning will be required to sign it.

MERRY DANCERS.

The Fifth Annual Ball of the Iron Moulders' Union.

An event which is looked forward to at this time every year is the Iron Moulders' ball. The fifth of these was held last night in the opera house, where a merry assembly gathered, and where until the small hours the devotees of Terpsichore paid that fascinating goddess unrelenting devotion. In former years these events have been largely attended, and last night there was no diminishing, there being present at least 75 couples.

A program of 25 dances was carried out without omission. The opera house presented a very pretty scene, being brilliantly lighted and tastefully decorated.
The music was furnished by Butcher's orchestra and was excellent.

During intermission a delicately prepared supper was served in an adjacent room, given up for the occasion by Mr. W. Mc-Callum. The committee in charge was composed of Messrs. D. Gleason, James Hatcher, H. Woods, James E. Johnston,
James Wells, Joseph Greaves and Thomas Stanton. Mr. George Galt acted as master of ceremonies.

PERSONAL MENTION.

The Times invites all its readers to contribute to this column all items of a personal nature, such as the arrival and departure of guests, the marriage of well-known people, births, deaths, etc., and that it is desired to send a post card to or telephone THE TIMES.

Mr. L. D. Rose, of Smith's Falls, was in

PETERBOROUGH, APRIL 17 1895.

Good morning!

They are saying that a prominent Manitobian is in Haldimand just now for the purpose of sifting truth from falsehood.

Negotiations for a trade treaty with Cape Colony are again under way, and it is likely they will be carried to a successful issue in a short time. When this treaty is completed, and a reciprocal arrangement made with Australia, two long strides will have been taken towards Inter-Imperial preferential trade.

Britain's intimation that France had better evacuate Tunis before demanding the recall of British troops from Egypt will have a tendency to add to the tension on relations already sufficiently strained. But all the same the intimation will bring joy to the thousands who have grown weary of seeing the Old Land submitting quietly to the bullying of other nations.

The world seems to have been running riot in awful crimes of late, another double murder of a most revolting character having just come to light in California. These atrocities were of the type committed by that mysterious personage who was called Jack-the-Ripper for want of a better name, and whose identity is a mystery to this day. It is a strange thing that the Whitechapel fiend was never discovered. The fact goes to show that murder doesn't always out.

RELIGIOUS STRIFE.

However unpleasant the Manitoba schools matter may be to those of us in Ontario who can see no earthly reason why we should have been called upon to plunge into the thick of a question that is purely the concern of Manitoba, it is doubly unpleasant to the people of that unfortunate province. Popular feeling is worked up to a great pitch of excitement, and it is only natural that the excitement should increase as time goes on. Premier Greenway is reported as contemplating an early appeal to the country on the strength of position on the question, and this will set the politicians at work more vigorously than ever. Archbishop Langford took a hand in stirring up the excitement, when in the course of a sermon in St. Mary's Church, Winnipeg, on Sunday last he made the statement that "those of the church who continued to give their aid to the opponents of Catholic schools would no longer be considered Catholics by the Church." There can be only one meaning to this, and that is that the Roman Catholics must support Roman Catholic schools or be excommunicated. Altogether it looks very much as if life in the prairie province will be anything but pleasant for some time to come.

The interference of the Dominion Government with the Manitoba schools matter is bearing bitter fruit in the bye-elections now in progress. The Haldimand campaign is made remarkable by the appearance of Attorney-General Sifton and Chaplain Funn, of Manitoba, who are present to urge the electors of Haldimand to show by their votes that they disapprove of the Government's policy in attempting to force Separate Schools on the people of Manitoba in defiance of their wishes. The situation gives a hint of the unpleasantness that will crop up when the general election comes on. Half the politicians of Manitoba will be down here kicking up a fuss and all other heads will be lost sight of. It is a bit rough that Ontario should be made a dumping ground for the squabbles of the other provinces.

WAITING ORDERS IN THE NAVY.

A Specimen of Suspended Animation That Others Do Not Like.

When the ordinary citizen meets a naval officer in New York, the former usually has some curiosity as to what ship the man-of-war's man belongs to and is often a little astonished to learn that he belongs to none. The idea that a sailor is always at sea, or just ashore, or about going to sea, is strongly rooted in the public mind, and the landsman is even more astonished to learn that a naval officer may be neither at sea nor on shore duty, but unemployed. There are all sorts of reasons why men should be unemployed, and the record of every commissioned officer shows that a considerable percentage of his time was thus occupied. The naval orders from week to week report this or that officer on leave, with permission to leave the United States, which means nine times out of ten that the officer in question is about to take a vacation in Europe.

Much of every naval officer's time of idleness, however, is involuntary, or at least not directly sought on his part. After every cruise or tour of shore duty an officer usually has a period of waiting orders. This may be with a view to giving him a chance to catch his breath, as the phrase is in the navy, it being supposed that a man's respiration on duty is a bit hurried through the exigencies of the service. Such a time of idleness may endure for ten days or for six weeks or more, but the waiting officer must never be out of reach of orders, and must be ready if need be to start for his new post in 24 hours. He always keeps open his lines of communication with Washington, for a failure to respond promptly to orders may mean a court martial, and will certainly do him harm at the navy department. Few naval officers court a long term on waiting orders, for it means reduced pay and always the haunting sense of responsibility resulting from the necessity of being ready to go at once when the summons comes. No positive engagement can be made 24 hours ahead, and the officer must always keep pretty close to the skirts of civilization and a telegraph office. The department must know of his movements if they carry him far from his recorded address.

Waiting orders are not so frequent or so long enduring as they once were, now that the navy has begun to catch up with the size of the officers' list. But it is not always easy even now to assign a man to new duty. There are occasions, however, when an officer just relieved from a post is seized and packed off to foreign parts in 48 hours. If the need be really pressing, the new assignment is accepted without grumbling, but if it seems to be something short of essential there is likely to follow a cautious protest and a strong effort to escape from it. The trouble at the New York navy yard to find a captain for the ship that was to take Frederick Douglass to Haiti is historic. Mr. Douglass, by the way, was extremely popular in the wardroom of that ship.

There are in the navy, as in the army, men who are able constantly to secure pleasant posts ashore in or about Washington or New York. There is some bitterness on this score in the navy, though the thing hardly amounts to a scandal.—New York Sun.

A Curious Fact.

A curious fact was one performed by an electrician. He was coming home from South America after assisting in cable laying. The ship called at Lisbon, anchoring at the mouth of the Tagus. On weighing anchor up came a damaged cable on the flukes. The captain was about to cut the cable and run, but the electrician begged for five minutes' delay. It was granted. He took a bearing of the spot, improvised a battery and contrived to speak to the Lisbon office. Aware of the fault, the office was on the alert, and he received its thanks upon his tongue by the taste of the wire whenever the current passed. This ingenious feat probably saved the company several thousand pounds. Repairing expeditions are very costly, sometimes amounting to £25,000 and even £40,000. The tiny teredo will bore holes in a cable that costs £15,000 and £20,000 to repair.—London Standard.

High Aerial Navigation.

Beyond 29,000 feet above sea level, the height reached by Glaisher in 1862, man has never been able to navigate the air. Various problems concerning the regions farther away (higher up)—such as temperature, pressure, moisture and composition of the air—have been leading subjects of discussion among the physicists for years. In 1893 M. Hermite adopted the plan of sending up balloons fitted out with self-registering instruments. These balloons have been brought up to what is considered perfection. They are very light, the average capacity being only 150 cubic feet of gas. With these a systematic exploration of the upper regions of the air is being made, and it is said that some of them have attained a height of 34,000 feet.—St. Louis Republic.

Council. This is much to be regretted and it is to be hoped that the new committee to be appointed will put all their energies into the work and make the coming year the most successful in the history of the Board. During the year a new edition of the pamphlet "80 Facts" was issued, towards the expense of which the Town Council granted $25. These have proved a most useful advertising medium and have found their way to all parts of the continent.

With respect to the development of the iron ore industry, although nothing definite has resulted from the efforts of the Board in the past, the matter has not been allowed to languish. It is gratifying to notice that the Province of Ontario will have at least two furnaces going before long, and when the possibilities of manufacturing iron is established, we may hope to see furnaces in operation in our own county, as enquiries are being made, from time to time, as to the quality and quantity of ore obtainable in this vicinity.

It is to be regretted that the union of the municipalities of Peterborough and Ashburnham, so often discussed in the respective town and village Councils and favored by a large majority of the ratepayers of both places, has not yet been carried to a successful issue.

An unsuccessful effort was made during the year by this Board to obtain better railway facilities for market days. This matter should be kept well to the front and further action taken, so that Peterborough may enjoy at least the same privileges as other towns similarly situated.

The thanks of the Board are due to the Town Council for the use of council chamber and for their courtesy in receiving deputations from this Board. The thanks of the Board are also due to local newspapers for their valuable assistance and co-operation in giving full accounts of the transactions of the Board meetings.

THOMAS A. HAY,
Secretary.

THE ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

The election of officers being the next order of business, President Fair arose and thanked the members for the assistance and support they had at all times extended him, and in retiring from the office of President he would still take as great an interest in the Board and do all in his power to further the purposes for which the Board was formed. The election of officers resulted as follows:

President—Mr. B. Shortly.
Vice-President—Mr. A. L. Davis.
Secretary—Mr. T. A. Hay.
Auditors—R. Mulholland and McFarlane Wilson.

On motion of Mr. H. S. Macdonald, seconded by Mr. George A. Schofield, a committee consisting of the president and secretary was appointed to strike the council and standing committees for the coming year and to report at the next meeting of the Board.

The newly elected officers acknowledged the honor conferred upon them in brief speeches.

The question of securing reduced rates for a Wednesday market was again discussed, and renewed efforts towards

The Times.

PETERBOROUGH, APRIL 18 1895.

Good morning!

It is the terms of peace arranged between China and Japan are as announced in the despatches, there is likely to be a rumour Europe will not allow Japan to monopolize the earth if Europe can help herself. And there is an impression abroad that Europe can.

Nellie By, a Canadian girl who has made a great reputation as a newspaper woman in New York, has married Robert Seaman, millionaire, aged 78. If there are any dear, delightful old girls of 80 or 90, millionairesses, looking for newspaper husbands, we could give them a pointer.

During February, while the thermometer was ranging about 60 degrees below at White River, Algoma, pear trees were budding and snow drops and crocuses were in flower in British Columbia. The climate of Canada is almost as varied as her resources. By simply moving from one section to another, you can have anything you want, from summer warmth to Arctic cold.

Mr. Gladstone's own words to a deputation yesterday would seem to indicate that there is no foundation in the stories occasionally cabled to this country that he is likely to re-enter politics. "I am an old man," he said, "and have retired from public life." It would be an astounding thing indeed if he were to step back into the political arena at his time of life, but he is such a wonderful old chap that it is always a difficult matter to tell what he may not take it into his head to do.

The advance of the British troops to Chitral is a reminder to Britons the world over that the day is not yet past when the Empire must be protected by force of arms. Soldiers and sailors are still needed if "the meteor flag" is to continue to blaze out against the blues of the sky; to-day in the rugged passes of Northern India, men are again doing the deeds, the very records of which will stir the blood of future youths as the heroism of Luther and the stubborn courage of Lachar have stirred our own. That day will be happier when no men must die in battle that the rest may live in peace; but the environment that produces bravery has not yet disappeared.

FRANK LESLIE'S POPULAR MONTHLY FOR MAY.

Flowers, birds, and the open air are conspicuous in the subject matter and pictures of FRANK LESLIE'S POPULAR MONTHLY for May. The number opens with a beautiful illustrated article entitled "The Business of Blooms," by Maria McCulloch Williams, showing that this country maintains greenhouses, hot-houses and floral establishments whose aggregate value is over forty million dollars. Nellie Hart Woodworth, follows with some delightful "Stray leaves from the Book of Nature," illustrated by Joseph Becker, "A Modern May Day," by Mrs. M. E. Leicester Addis, in the full of the quaint legends of this vernal festival, and gives a series of photographs of May queens crowned and enthroned, amidst the fairest rural scenes of Old England. Other picturesque and interesting contributions to this breezy number of FRANK LESLIE'S are: "Athena," a Golden Myth, by Miss E. Laban Smith; "A Lovers' Daughter," by Margaret B. Wright; "A Night on the Great Pyramid," by James Rickman; "A Western Prospecting Ranch," by W. P. Rowe; "On the Plains," by Edwin Emerson, Jr.; "Persian Shrines of the Shikhs," by the Rev. James Bassett; "San Marco" (Fort Marion, St. Augustine), by Charles H. Cox; and "The Reign of the Olive," by Frederick M. Turner. In addition there are good short stories, poems and department.

TELLING THE BEES.

How They Are Notified of a Death in Their Owner's Family.

There is probably no insect in which mankind in general takes more interest than it does in the common honeybee, and of the dozens of superstitions which have been woven about bees none is more curious and interesting than that called "telling the bees" of a death.

Informing bees of a death in the family of their owner, in order to keep them from deserting the hive when they find it out of their own accord, is a custom so ancient that no antiquarian has ever been able to trace it to its origin. In this country it is only practiced by recent additions to our population from the lands across the sea, but in parts of Britain and continental Europe it is looked upon as a necessity, providing the apianian desires to keep his swarms from deserting their abodes. So universal was this custom of "telling the bees" a few years ago in Europe that an inquiry concerning bees was more than likely to elicit the reply that they had all left the place since So-and-so died, because the grief-stricken family had neglected to tell the little honey gatherers what had happened. If neighbors were talking of the death of a friend, someone in the company would most likely ask if the bees had been informed of the sad circumstance. A recent correspondent of one of the big London weeklies, who says that the custom is still practiced in Devon, tells of a funeral cortege which was halted in order that an apprentice boy might be sent back to tell the bees what was going on, a little detail which had been overlooked before starting for the cemetery.

In Austria, Italy, Poland and in parts of Russia, when the master or mistress of a house dies, not only the bees, but the livestock in general is supposed to be acquainted with the fact by rattling a bunch of keys at the hives, in the stables and among the herds. In France, when the master or mistress dies, the bees are informed and have their hives draped in mourning.

Oliver, in his "History of Beverley," says that the inhabitants of that place invariably clothe their beehives in mourning on the day of a funeral, this to insure the future prosperity of the swarm. Besides the mourning decorations, an offering of "funeral biscuit," pounded fine and soaked in wine, is sometimes added.—St. Louis Republic.

The Electric Crater. Everybody knows that an arc light is formed by causing an electric current to pass between the points of two carbon rods. One of these is called the positive and the other the negative electrode, and the current passes from the former to the latter. Particles of carbon are carried off from the positive electrode until its end becomes cup shaped.

To the little cup thus formed the name of crater is applied, and from this crater four-fifths of the light is emitted. The negative electrode does not become as hot as the other.

Between the two a little cloud of vaporized carbon is formed, rising from the crater, and this vapor gives forth a golden yellow light. But it is overpowered by the light of the crater itself, which has a violet tinge due to the incandescence of solid particles of carbon.

The arc of light extending from one electrode to the other also has an axis of a violet color which is its most brilliant part.

The fact that most of the luminosity comes from the crater explains the reason why the light does not appear equal in all directions. It is brightest from that point of view which shows the largest portion of the crater.

A very interesting effect is often noticed when flies or other insects flutter about an arc light. Their shadows, cast on a neighboring wall, appear gigantic. The reason is that the light of the crater is concentrated in a point smaller than the bodies of the insects, and the boundaries of the shadows consequently widen with increase of distance.—Youth's Companion.

Bismarck and the Bismarck.

One day the Austrian ambassador to the federal diet, Count Rechberg, received a dispatch instructing him to vote with Prussia for a certain important measure, accompanied with a confidential letter directing him to induce the representatives of the other German states to vote against the measure, and thus defeat it. In his haste he handed the wrong paper to Bismarck, who read and returned it with the remark:

"There must be some mistake here." Rechberg saw his blunder and grew pale and excited. "Don't be disturbed," said Bismarck. "You did not intend to give me this document, and therefore you have not given it to me, and I am wholly ignorant of its contents." In fact, he made no mention of it in his official reports, and thus won Rechberg's gratitude, besides having him henceforth "on the hip."—San Francisco Argonaut.

PETERBOROUGH, APRIL 19 1895.

Good morning!

We learn with alarm from the Rochester Herald that 20,000 Orangemen from the United States are to take part in a monster demonstration in Canada on the Twelfth of July, for the purpose of impressing the Canadian government and public with the necessity of going slow in the Manitoba school business.

JAPAN'S NEXT MOVE.

The war in the orient is at an end. The pearly banners of peace float far and wide and Li Hung Chang can go to sleep nights reasonably certain that when he wakes up in the morning he will not find that his head has been chopped off or his peacock feathers and things taken from him. But Japan and China will be objects of interest for some time to come. Japan's next step will be to attempt to dominate the markets of the world. The Japanese can manufacture in endless lines more cheaply than any other people on the globe for the reason that labor can be secured in China and Japan for next to nothing. Manufacturing more cheaply they can sell more cheaply, and when they begin to flood the avenues of commerce with their cheap goods, they will upset the old-established trade centers and bring about a general upheaval in the business world. There is no doubt that they have had this game in view from the start. The Japanese believe that they will some day rule the earth.

We do not know what the Newfoundland delegates have been asking for, nor what the Dominion government has been promising to give the island in case the annexation negotiations result in Newfoundland becoming a part of Canada. But it is hinted that the delegates have exacted a promise that the separate school system of Newfoundland shall not be interfered with, and that such constitutional provision shall be made as to preserve the separate schools for all time. We agree with the Hamilton Spectator that if proposition has been made it should be promptly rejected. Newfoundland should be made free to make her own educational laws as she sees fit. In the act of federation this principle should be laid down decisively and irrevocably, that in matters of education the local legislature shall be the sole authority; that there shall be no afterthought of "remedial legislation"—no appeal to the Dominion parliament. Newfoundland now makes her own educational laws, and that privilege and power should be continued. It is best to start right, and no matter what a sect in Newfoundland may desire, no matter what Quebec may demand, there should be no interference whatever by the Dominion in matters of education in Newfoundland. We have seen what a storm two little words in the British North America act have raised in the Dominion in the matter of education in Manitoba—let that be a lesson to the law makers who shall frame the act admitting Newfoundland into Canada—if she is to be admitted—and let these law makers make it perfectly plain that the right of Newfoundland to make her own school laws cannot be interfered with on any pretext whatever. If Newfoundland is to be admitted into Canada with her French where difficulty it will be bad enough; but to give Quebec the power to make a fuss over the school laws of the island would be to add very much to the danger of trouble for the Dominion. Let Newfoundland start right.

NAPOLEON'S INSUBORDINATION.

Go Contemptuously Swept Aside the Plans of the Directory.

When the news of the successes in Piedmont reached Paris, public festivals were decreed and celebrated, but the democratic spirit of the directors could brook neither the contemptuous disregard of their plan which Bonaparte had shown nor his arrogant assumption of diplomatic plenipotency. Knowing how thoroughly their doctrine had permeated Piedmont, they had intended to make it a republic. It was exasperating therefore that through Bonaparte's meddling they found themselves still compelled to negotiate peace with a monarchy. The treaty with the king of Sardinia was finally signed by them on May 15, but they had previously determined to clip the wings of their dangerous falcon by assigning Kellermann to share with Bonaparte the command of the conquering army, and by confirming Salicetti as their diplomatic plenipotentiary to accompany it.

This news reached their general at Lodi on the eve of his triumphal entry into Milan. "As things now are," he promptly replied to the directory, "you must have a general who possesses your entire confidence. If I must refer every step to government commissioners, if they have the right to change my movements, to withdraw or send troops, expect nothing good hereafter." To Carnot he wrote at the same time: "I do believe one had general to be worth two good ones. War is like government, a matter of fact. I do not wish to be hampered. I have begun with some glory. I wish to continue worthy of you." Aware probably that his own republican virtue could not long withstand the temptations opening before him, he began the latter mission, as if to excuse himself and anticipate possible accusations: "I swear I have nothing in view but the country. You will always find me on the straight road. I owe to the republic the sacrifice of all my own notions. If people seek to set me wrong in your esteem, my answer is in my heart and in my conscience." It is of course needless to add that the directory yielded, not only as to the unity of command, but also in the fatal and vital matter of intrusting all diplomatic negotiations to his hands.

In taking this last step the executive virtually surrendered its identity. Such, however, was the exultation of the Parisian populace and of the soldiery that the degradation or even the forced resignation of the conquering dictator would have at once assured the fall of the directors. They could not even protest when, soon after, there came from Bonaparte a dispatch announcing that the articles of "the glorious peace which you have concluded with the king of Sardinia" had reached "us," and significantly adding in a later paragraph that the troops were content, having received half their pay in coin.

Voices in Paris declared that for such language the writer should be shot. Perhaps those who put the worst interpretation on the apparently harmless words were correct in their instinct. In reality the directory had been wholly dependent on the army since the previous October, and while such an offensive insinuation of the fact would be, if intentional, most unpalatable, yet those who had profited by the fact dared not resent a remote reference to it.—Professor Eicane's "Life of Napoleon" in Century.

Jealous of a Stage Lover.

Too much zeal in the discharge of his stage duties led a jeune premier at a Paris preparatory theater into a disagreeable, not to say painful, adventure. The young actor was acting with a lady of his own age in a new piece and had to make a declaration of love. He held the mirror up to nature so well in the matter that the young lady's intended husband, who was looking on from the stalls, flew into a towering passion and threatened for blood. When the performance was over, the man possessed by the green-eyed monster waited at the stage door for the jeune premier and whacked vigorously at the actor's face with his cane. The player—bruised, bleeding and tearful—did not make any effort to return blow for blow, but holding up a manuscript which contained his part in the play remarked to his aggressor that he had done no more than follow the instructions of the author of the little love comedy in which he had acted with the beautiful young lady. The affair ended there.—London Telegraph.

Philadelphia Revenge.

There is a Philadelphia shopkeeper who believes that he does a public service by keeping a stock of cheap valentines all the year round. "The demand out of season," he says, "for this class of valentines is from those who have quarreled with their neighbors. They know I have the valentines, and instead of using clubs or knives on one another they come here and get something that answers the purpose just as well."—New York Tribune.

$1000.00 GOLD IN PRIZES

To introduce, advertise and quickly and firmly establish their marvellous successful curative Remedies in Canada. "The Dr. Archibald Peerless Highland Medical Company" offer 200 handsome cash prizes to the persons calculating correctly or nearest correctly, the amount of money contained in an ordinary imperial quart self-sealer jar, exhibited in their show window, filled as full as it is possible to screw the top down tight with Canadian ten cent pieces.

No person knows the sum contained, as the jar was partly filled, then taken to the Bank, and there filled tight by the Bank Manager, from a special account deposited in trust for that purpose, with the understanding that said account will not be examined or looked into until July 6th, 1895, the jar was immediately sealed in the presence of Wm. Pears, Esq., Ex-Mayor of Toronto Junction and J. B. Brooks, Esq., grand worthy Patriarch of the Sons of Temperance for the Province of Ontario, Toronto. They are entirely independent disinterested gentlemen, and have sealed the jar, marked it with their private signet, and will open it at the close of Competition, count the money and announce the winners.

Anyone may compete as often as desired, but $1 must accompany each answer for which will be sent immediately a Dollar's worth of any kind of the medicines selected by the purchaser from the list below, sealed and addressed in plain packages; names of winners will be published in the Toronto Daily Papers of Saturday July 1st accompanied by an affidavit from those receiving the four largest prizes to the effect that they are not connected with the firm in any way whatsoever nor have had any previous understanding in regard to receiving prizes; contest opens April 4th closes June 30th, 1895.

Answers received only by mail so that those living in Toronto have no advantage over those living a thousand miles away; everyone old and young, far and near have equal opportunity of winning the $500. Everyone knows the exact shape, size and capacity of an ordinary quart sealer jar, and everyone also knows the exact shape and size of a ten cent piece.

This is no Lottery, no chance work, but a splendid opportunity to exercise your mathematical talents and power of calculation with profit to yourself, not to mention the fact that you receive full value immediately for all money invested, and that your life may be saved and greatly prolonged by becoming acquainted with these extraordinary medicines vitalizing 19th century benefactors. This is not a guessing question but etc. see circulars.

These are not like ordinary Patent Medicines. We do not make the ridiculous claim that one medicine will cure every disease; but instead offer 8 of the most magnificent specifics ever discovered for the relief of suffering mankind, which effectually provide a remedy for every disease to which flesh is heir.

A MORNING BATH IN MAUI.

From cloth of gold of eastern looms
And whirled glaze of city towers
The day drew to woodland blossoms
In softly ringing halos,
Her hair fell with morning dew,
She strayed upon the hills she knew,
The dimpled sand of the waterfalls
Where streamlets from the mountain call
Amid the southern forest walls;
And as some faint light between Where forest trees together lean,
Making unbroken a perfect screen,
She staid and listened for some sound
Of men or beast that, hovering 'round,
Might trespass on her chosen ground.
The sun came then, and she was there;
An hour passed in a momentary day,
A hand rested in the sand,
The breeze ruffled the slender red,
From her hair the tide and—Ood!
Like an expectant chrysalis
She shed her clothes as things unseen
And radiant stood for winds to kiss;
She closed her dark hair to the breeze,
And so arrayed unto her knees
The chain among the whispering trees
And dimpled among the rocks that lie
In primal mystery on high
And stood outlined against the sky.
The sun shone on her body fair,
The trade winds brushed with her hair,
All nature did her homage there;
And she, there standing in the sun,
Was with all other nature one
And felt its currents through her run.
Two men, then, in a distant place
The sun with swiftly flying pace
And boldly sprang from that high plain,
And like a meteor in its flight
Or unnumbered lightning came bright,
She dashed one moment in the light
And then in watery ecstasies
From velvet toes to finger tips Went out that sweet agonized smile.

One of the most eminent architects in the kingdom once showed a photo of a column and capital to a number of his colleagues. Had they ever seen such a capital? They had not, and they said so. Then arose disputes as to the precise nature of the architecture. Finally sundry big wagers were made, and then the architect proceeded gravely to explain the structure of the column and its capital. This he did by producing his Malacca walking stick and a few sprigs of succulent broccoli. Naturally enough, however, after many abstruse disquisitions on medieval architecture had been given on the subject of the mysterious pillar, this explanation of the photograph was received in silent disgust.

An equally amusing case of the duplicity of the camera was found in a law case in London when suit was brought to tear down a court, which, it was maintained, was dingy, dirty and haunted by leaders of questionable character. The counsel on the other side, representing merchants having offices in the court, represented that the passage was well lighted and eminently respectable. Photos were handed in from both sides. The first showed a narrow, disreputable looking alley, strewn with rubbish and fallen boarding. The other picture, however, showed the court in dispute to be a fairly broad, well lighted city thoroughfare, frequented by merchants of thriving appearance. —Strand Magazine.

Modernized Holy Land.

Whatever romance and poetry were in olden times associated with pilgrimages to places reputed sacred are rapidly being destroyed by the promiscuous spirit of this very progressive and matter of fact age. Thus those who with pious intentions now visit the Holy Land are transported by rail from Jaffa to Jerusalem, where a funicular line conveys them to the summit of the Mount of Olives, while comfortable hotels on the American plan are to be found at Bethlehem and on the site of the garden of Gethsemane. A hydraulic elevator has been established at Mar-sa-el for the purpose of hoisting pilgrims to the much visited shrine of Notre Dame de la Garde, perched on the summit of the higher east rock overlooking the city and bay, and to which sailors and travelers on starting out or upon returning from sea voyages have from time immemorial been wont to ascend by the thousands of steep steps, usually on their knees. —New York Tribune.

The Main Thing.

Mrs. de Fashion—My dear, I've picked out a husband for you at last.
Miss de Fashion—Very well, but I want to say at once, mother, that when it comes to buying the wedding dress I am going to select the materials myself. So there! —London Tit-Bits.

Never did any soul do good but it came readier to do the same again, with more enjoyment. Never was love or gratitude of bounty practiced but with increasing joy, which made the practice still more in love with the fair act.

It is curious that men are not generally ashamed of any form of anger, wrath or malice, but of the first step toward a nobler nature—the confession of a wrong—they are ashamed.

Our natural and happiest life is when we lose ourselves in the exquisite absorption of home, the delicious retirement of dependent love.

BIG FIRE AT SEAFORTH.

DESTRUCTION OF THE COMMERCIAL HOTEL AND OTHER PLACES.

A $14,000 Blaze—A HOUSE of the Bank of Commerce Scorched and Damaged—Cause of the Fire Unknown.
Special to the Times.

SEAFORTH, April 17. FIRE broke out this morning at 3 o'clock in the large frame building in the rear of the Commercial hotel, occupied as a billiard, pool and sample rooms in connection with the hotel. The fire quickly spread to the hotel building, and both were totally destroyed. Logan & Co., private bankers, occupied a part of the hotel building. The Bank of Commerce building, next on the south side, also suffered damage to the extent of $1,500; covered by insurance. The hotel and frame buildings were owned by Alex. Davidson, of Seaforth. The loss on billiard, pool tables, etc., was $1,500; insurance $200 in Phoenix, of London, Eng. The loss on the hotel building was $4,000; insurance $4,000 in Western. Wm. Bishop, a tenant of the hotel, lost on furniture, etc., $3,000; insurance $3,000 in Phoenix. Logan & Co. lost about $100 on office furniture. The vault and safe were secure. The origin of the fire is unknown. Arthur Forbes, sr., received a severe blow in the face with a hose nozzle which may result in the loss of his eyesight.

HE JUMPED TO HIS DEATH.

Adelard Wolford Killed Getting Off a Train—Dr. Beasdale Reported.

MONTREAL, April 17.—Death was the result of stealing a ride on a railroad train last evening, and now in the morgue awaiting the action of a coroner's jury, which will assemble at 10 o'clock this morning, is the dismembered remains of Adelard Wolford, a young man only 22 years of age, residing in rear of 115 Panet street. Wolford, and a companion, Avila St. Amour, of St. Jacques Cartier street, had nothing to do yesterday afternoon and loafed around the Delhomme street station of the Canadian Pacific railway. About half past five o'clock they decided to go home to supper and thought the quickest way was to board the St. Jacques train which pulled out of the station at half past five o'clock. Their intention according to St. Amour, was to jump off the train at Jacques Cartier street, but as it was running fairly fast soon after leaving the station to St. Amour, who was on the switch just west of Jacques Cartier Street and alighted safely. Not so his companion, on jumping off opposite the street, missed his footing and, instead of leaving the rail on the steps, held on for just a second, but that was long enough to cause his death, as his head struck the sleepers and also threw his right arm across the track. The arm was at once amputated, but he still held on for fifteen feet, and then as his head was badly battered had to loosen his hold and was picked up alongside of the track in a dying condition. The Notre Dame hospital ambulance was at once summoned and arrived, but the man was then dead and the body was taken to the morgue.

WERE THEY ROBBERS?

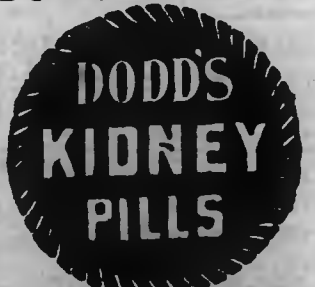

A Farmer Attacked by Masked Floods Near Windsor.

WINDSOR, April 17.—Chief of Police Willis received word today that a murderous attack had been committed on a West Sandwich farmer named Tuite, whose home is four miles from Windsor. At a late hour Tuite was summoned to his door by a loud knock, and when he opened the door there the name of one of his neighbors was given in response. He opened the door and was confronted by two masked men. As he was preparing to oppose their entrance one of them reached forward with a long bladed knife and slashed at his neck. The weapon struck Tuite's cheek and jaw, however, and though it made an ugly wound, it did not inflict serious injury. As the farmer was unarmed it was easy for the robbers to convince him that the wisest course would be to preserve silence and let them have their own way. His house was ransacked, but the game was not worth the candle, for the marauders found only $14. As soon as Mr. Willis heard the story he sent Officers Jackson and Giles to Tuite's to investigate and to make arrests if they found evidence to justify them in doing so.

TRIPOLI, April 17.—There were two earthquake shocks this morning, one at one o'clock and the other at four, at Latakia. Happily they were not of a serious nature.

PETERBOROUGH, APRIL 18, 1895.

PEACE MAY LEAD TO WAR.

The Japanese Negotiations Are Not Quite Pleasantly Settled in Russia or England.

Special to The Times.
London, April 18.—The Pall Mall Gazette, commenting on the terms of peace between China and Japan, as defined by the Imperial edict just issued in Peking, says the conditions are better than those mentioned in the Times despatch yesterday, but the question of Formosa was merely postponed, while the question of the return of the islands to the Chinese was left to the Japanese Government. The Gazette says, "It is not to be expected that the peace will be a permanent one, unless the powers take action."

The Russian Journalists, according to despatches from the Petersburg, are more vigorous in their criticisms than the English papers, and around the warlike tone of the Russian press, the Russian Government, it is said, has been very much alarmed.

The St. James Gazette says: "If Japan declines to be frightened, Russia may come to the conclusion that she would better not try to force a peace. Meanwhile Russia is not without a number of other advantages, and has no feeling of anger towards Japan. The opening of factories in China by Japan does not mean that she will have a monopoly of such industries, as England could also open factories if she chose."

A despatch to the Globe from Shimoda, says that the Japanese fleet will start for home to-day, having completed all of Japan's demands.

London, April 18.—A Central News despatch from Tokyo says the Chinese Government has started from Tientsin this afternoon, and the Japanese plenipotentiaries will return to Hiroshima to-morrow.

A despatch from Hong Kong says it is expected that a revolution against the reigning dynasty will be begun on Friday. The leading Chinese of Canton are waiting to hear of the success of the revolution.

Her Attention Too Heavy.
LYNDON, Ont., April 18.—(Special).—Miss Anna Kelly, aged 28 years, a highly educated young lady of this vicinity, who has been lately afflicted by partial paralysis and loss of speech, committed suicide yesterday about 3:30 p.m., by deliberately throwing herself into the creek. The body was recovered from the creek, and is now lying in state.

A Shot at Wyoming.
WYOMING, April 18.—This morning at about 1:30 o'clock a fire broke out in the blacksmith shop of James Smith at the north end of Mountain, and it quickly communicated with the furniture store, which was situated next to it. A large amount of property was destroyed, and the loss estimated at $10,000. The cause of the fire is not known.

A SKATING INCIDENT.

And it came to pass, there came a day when the young man with the head pencil and high water pants brought him out of the skating rink.

So he went out, and when he came again to his girl, he spoke unto her saying: "Come, Mary, let us go skating up and down the rink, for I have been thinking in my absence and have concluded to go." So they went, one with the other, for they loved each other with love, the greatness of which was like unto death.

And when they were skating, and were come unto the rink, they saw divers other young men and maidens waiting, either sitting or standing upon their seats, and awaiting themselves upon the floor to the foot of the rink.

And Mary was pleased thereat, for she saw the other maidens sitting to their seats, and standing upon their seats, and awaiting themselves upon the floor to the foot of the rink.

So she prevailed upon her lover to go and do likewise. And he went with a light heart, for he loved the sport because he had been there before and knew the whichness thereof.

And after a little while he returned and took Mary's hand and fastened the skates thereon. And in like manner did he unto his own feet. Then they smiled one upon the other and went upon their wobbly way.

And it came to pass when they got out where the eyes of the multitude were upon them, Mary forgot herself and looked back. Now this was a grievous thing to do, for it was written on the wall: "Thou shalt not look back when thou skatest, lest thy feet be turned and thou shalt be a laughing stock to the multitude." But Mary was full of joy and chocolate caramels and remembered not these things.

So when she looked back her feet flew from under her, and went up into the air, and she fell. And she was a laughing stock to the multitude.

So likewise had her lover spilt himself, but he hurt himself not for he had been like the seven who skated who had not spilt themselves in the business of their trousers.

But in an evil moment he saw Mary's feet about her neck, and he lifted on his voice and laughed and asked her from whence came the chaff.

Then was Mary wroth and she grew red in the countenance and answered saying: "Thou lovest me in almsgiving, when the floor is smooth, and striketh me with violence, then cometh not to my aid; yea, verily thou lovest me in my fourth finger, for thou wilt remain together a little longer off."

And from that day unto this she smote him by on the other side of the avenue.

TORTURED BY BURGLARS.

An Old Lady Shamefully Abused by a Band of Robbers.

Special to The Times.
CONANT, Pa., April 18.—At a farmhouse, nine miles west of here, Mrs. Hamilton, aged 85 years, lies at the point of death, from injuries received early yesterday morning. Shortly after midnight three masked men entered the house and demanded her money. The old lady protested that she had none, whereupon the ruffians choked her and then took a lighted lamp and set her hair on fire, burning her neck, face and head in a terrible manner. One of the brutes then criminally assaulted her while the other two searched the house, securing about $25 in money. The old lady was found by the neighbors almost dead, with her hair burned from her head, her teeth knocked out and several ribs broken. About two hours later the robbers appeared at the house of Tom Moore at Lehigh station, when a fight ensued, in which Moore was probably fatally injured. At Moore's house the bandits secured $16 and made their departure. They have not yet been captured.

PETERBOROUGH, APRIL 20 1895.

A PROSPEROUS INSTITUTION.

Elsewhere will be found the report of the thirteenth annual meeting of the Western Bank of Canada, which was held at the head office, Oshawa, on Wednesday, April 13th.

The result of the year's business has been most gratifying, and indicates that the affairs of this rising young monetary institution have been wisely administered. Notwithstanding the prevailing depression, the earnings of the Bank have been well maintained, the net profits on the paid up capital being a shade under ten per cent.

amounting for the year to $35,945.53. This, added to the balance at credit of profit and loss, brought the total up to $40,451.79, from which was paid the half yearly dividends of 3 1/2 per cent. each, $7,500 was added to the rest account, which now stands at $103,000, or about 27 per cent. of the paid up capital, and the balance, $6,950.10 was carried forward to profit and loss account.

A gratifying feature of the report is that no losses of any moment have occurred during the year.

Altogether the report cannot be but exceedingly gratifying to the shareholders, and reflects much credit on the popular and efficient general manager, Mr. T. H. McMillan, and his assistants.

We do not know what the Newfoundland delegates have been asking for, nor what the Dominion government has been promising to give the island in case the annexation negotiations result in Newfoundland becoming a part of Canada.

But it is hinted that the delegates have exacted a promise that the separate school system of Newfoundland shall not be interfered with, and that such constitutional provision shall be made as to preserve the separate schools for all time.

We agree with the Hamilton Spectator that if proposition has been made it should be promptly rejected. Newfoundland should be made free to make her own educational laws as she sees fit. In the act of federation this principle should be laid down decisively and irrevocably, that in matters of education the local legislature shall be the sole authority; that there shall be no afterthought of "remedial legislation"—no appeal to the Dominion parliament. Newfoundland now makes her own educational laws, and that privilege and power should be continued. It is best to start right, and no matter what a sect in Newfoundland may desire, no matter what Quebec may demand, there should be no interference whatever by the Dominion in matters of education in Newfoundland. We have seen what a storm two little words in the British North America act have raised in the Dominion in the matter of education in Manitoba—let that be a lesson to the law makers who shall frame the act admitting Newfoundland into Canada—if she is to be admitted—and let these law makers make it perfectly plain that the right of Newfoundland to make her own school laws cannot be interfered with on any pretext whatever. If Newfoundland is to be admitted into Canada with her French schools difficulty it will be had enough; but to give Quebec the power to make a fuss over the school laws of the island would be to add very much to the danger of trouble for the Dominion. Let Newfoundland start right.

They are saying that a prominent Manitobian is in Halifax just now for the purpose of Sifton truth from falsehood.

THE LIME JUICE CLUB.

REGULAR WEEKLY MEETING OF THIS CHASTE SOCIETY.

Another big crash at the Hall of Wisdom—The Spacious building filled with the Youth and Manhood of the Country—Lively and Interesting Debates.

The person or persons who, sometime during Thursday night, climbed upon the roof of the Hall of Wisdom and filled the chimney hats, straw, boots, etc., are hereby warned that it was the practice of such devilry as this that brought hundreds to the gallows. When the janitor started the fire, the spacious building soon filled with smoke, and the opening of the meeting was delayed twenty minutes by the joke. The roll had scarcely been called when Cripes Mulcahey offered the following:

"Resolved,—That we hereby express our deep indignation at this exhibition of human depravity; and

"Resolved,—That we pronounce the perpetrators of this appalling outrage as outlaws, imbeciles and orators of the deepest dye."

The resolution was adopted and tyled, and the President quietly observed that this fresh outrage was another evidence of the drift of the times towards barbarism. If the chimney on the Hall of Wisdom could be choked with old hats, what was to prevent Bradburn's Opera House from being blown up by the same gang? It was a spirit which must be suppressed and crushed at any cost, and he would authorize the secretary to offer a reward of $500 to any person who would capture, convict and send the perpetrators of this fiendish crime to Penitentiary for fifty years.

THE QUEEN'S BIRTHDAY. Jamieson Jones offered the following resolution: "Whereas, our most gracious Sovereign Queen Victoria is rapidly approaching another mile-stone in her journey along the world's rugged highway, and as she has been a good Queen and a noble woman,

"Resolved,—That the Lime Juice Club set apart Friday, May 24th as a day of feasting and rejoicing and going to a dance in the evening."

The Rev. Lookback moved to strike the words "going to a dance in the evening," and substituting the words, "take our way to prayer meeting in the twilight." But he was voted down with a pressure of 200 pounds to the square inch, and the resolution was adopted in its original form.

IT DON'T PAY. It having been officially announced that the Right Vary, Very Hon. Phosphates De Bar, of North Carolina, was in the ante room, the Reception Committee put on their white gloves and yellow neckties and proceeded to bring in the honorable gentleman. In appearance he somewhat resembled Sir John A. Macdonald, having the same generous face and arch of eyebrows. As near as could be gauged he was six feet high, and two hind pockets in his pants, and never smoked a cigar costing less than five cents, and was the sort of a man who would fish all day and never wear if he didn't get a bite. When he mounted the platform and bowed to right and left he was welcomed with a cheer while broke four pairs of glass and awoke Bro. Croft out of his first nap.

AN INTELLECTUAL AVALANCHE. "Philosophers and writers of all ages have told that the height of human ambition was to be happy. Pick up a book or a newspaper and you are confronted by the announcement that one who is not happy might as well be dead. We are advised and talked to and written to and urged to be happy, and it is all nonsense and has ever been so. In the first place no one can be perfectly happy. When you go out Bro. Fairman or Bro. Jim Dolan's for a schooner of Calcutt's Irish Ale, as it down all by yourself to drink it, your mouth waters, your back sort of humps up, and you fondly imagine that you are perfectly happy. (Great smacking of lips all over the hall.) But you ain't. You haven't taken over two swallows before you remember that the old lady wants a porous plaster, and the rent will be due on Saturday, and a dozen other things come to mind to knock you higher than Gilroy's kite. Its the same when you play pinochle and win. You feel happy for the minute, and you dance around on one leg and chuckle over your smartness. Then comes the reaction, you remember that you owe about $250, and that the wood is out, the flour barrel empty, the children have been crying for bacon.

"In the second place, what's the use of being happy? (Sobs from Cripes Mulcahey.) Happiness don't increase the price of blacking stoves; you can't charge any more for whitewashing. (Sensation behind the stove where some local artists usually sit.) You can't get any more for beating a carpet, (groans of despair.) Being happy don't help your credit at the grocer's or the butcher's (Wild cheer from the vicinity of the museum doorway where Bros. Brown and Mervin usually sit.) What they want is money and not happiness. Show me a happy man who has any more to eat and wear than an unhappy one. (Distressing coughs all over the Hall.) It has been said that happiness is better than riches, don't let them fool you. (Sensation.) The happy man is sent to jail quite as often as the unhappy one.

"In the third place, happiness is not healthy. It runs into liver complaint, consumption and palpitation of the heart. We are placed here on earth to bet on the losing horse; to marry the wrong woman—to catch on to heaps of bad weather and dead loads of tribulation. Don't go around looking for the happy man. If you find one he'll be somebody so soft that they have to put him on ice. Our greatest and best men are the most unhappy ones. Think you for your paragonic imaginations, and predicting that the times is not far distant when the honour of being a member of the Lime Juice Club will be all the honour one can lay around in hot weather. I now deliberate towards the infringement, and bid you good night.

The close was received with wild applause, during which the sacred bust of Joutius Platte fell from its bracket on the museum wall and was broke into seven pieces.

MELODY. The following touching lines were penned for the occasion by the club's own poet. They were sung with good effect by four distinguished vocalists of the club, led by Mozart Dunn.

There's going to be a dance to-night, When the silver moon is shining, So hold your horses good and tight, Shining bright above there; Like sabots we will all appear, When the silver moon is shining, Nose like us on the hemispheres, Shining bright above there.

CHORUS. For we're highly fed, highly fed, Perfect fitting clothes, Leaders we, of high degree, As everybody knows; Pratey dandy with charmed names, And aristocratic mein, Graduates of fashion plates, Attired in bomb-asen.

Then shine the alligators, And hold your head erect, We're no small potatoes, For we're bound to sweep the deck, Slam on your shiners beary, Put on you style so grand, For we've got the dancing fever, And a joy producing band.

SECOND VERSE. Select your partners for the fray; When the silver moon is shining, So graceful stand to on to-day, Shining bright above there! So vigorous we all will feel, Where the silver moon is shining, When we "hoe it down" in the old Scotch.

THIRD VERSE. Our girls will illuminate the scene, When the silver moon is shining, With graceful gambols on the green, Shining bright above there! Lift your limbs and balance all, When the silver moon is shining, Don't you have the prompter call, Shining bright above there!

CHORUS—For we're highly fed, &c.

There was great confusion for the space of two minutes, during which time the poet leaped from the back window and escaped. After the noise had subsided, the Secretary was instructed to take the poem, tie it up with a red string and store it away among the relics of Shakespeare.

BODIES FOR DISSECTION. A letter was read from the secretary of a Toronto Medical College, written in very cautious language, and signed by an initial, making inquiries of the President of the Lime Juice Club as to the average number of deaths in the club, and suggesting that the writer and the President might make a good thing by standing in with some Medical College and disposing of the cadavers.

Bushels and bushels of hair stood straight on end with indignation as the reading of the communication was finished, and the secretary was authorized to put out and post on the door a notice offering a reward of $50 for the arrest of the writer of the letter.

The Keeper of the Password reported everything clear in the west, and the meeting disrupted for one week.

THE OLD MAN PASSED

But St. Peter Had No Room for the Woman.

St. Peter stood at the Golden Gate, With solemn mien and an air sedate, And to the top of the golden stairs, A man and a woman ascended there, And applied for admission, they came and stood.

Before St. Peter, a great and good, In honest City of Peace to win, And asked St. Peter to let them in.

The woman was tall and lean and thin, The man was short and thick and stout, His stomach was built so it rounded out, His face was pleasant, and all the while, He wore a kind and gentle smile, The other in the distance the echoes woke, And the man kept still while the woman spoke.

"Oh those who guard the gate" said she, "We two come hither beseeching thee, To let us enter the Heavenly land, So that we may be with the angel band, Of me, St. Peter, there is no doubt, There's nothing from Heaven to bar me out, I've been to meeting three times a week, And almost always I'd rise and speak."

I've told the sinners about the day, When they'd repent of their evil way, I told them how Adam and Eve, and the primal fall, I've shown them what they'd have to do if they'd pass in with the chosen few, I've marked their path of duty clear, Laid out the plans of their whole career.

I've talked and talked to 'em loud and long, For my lungs are good and my voice is strong, So go on, Peter you'll clearly see, So go on, Peter you'll clearly see, But my good man, I regret to say, Hasn't walked in exactly the narrow way, He smokes and he swears, and grave faults he's got, And I don't know whether he'll pass or not.

He never would pray with an earnest vim, Or go to prayer or join in a hymn, So I had to leave him in sorrow there, While I with the chosen, united in prayer, He ate what the pantry chance to afford, While I in my party sang to the Lord; And if he comes here he'll be not, It's a chance if he merited them or not.

But, Oh! St. Peter, I love him so I For the pleasures of Heaven let him go, I've done my best, I've been so true, Won't that alone, can't you let him in, By my grim gospel, I know 'tis so, But the unrepentant must tarry below; But isn't there some way you can see, That he may enter who's dear to me?

It's a narrow gospel by which I pray, But the chosen expects to find some way Of coaxing or fooling or bribing you, So that their relations may amble through, And say, St. Peter, it seems to me, This gate isn't kept as it ought to be; You ought to stand by the opening there, And never let down in that easy chair, And say, St. Peter, my sight is dimmed, But I don't like the way your whippers are trimmed;

They are out to wide, with as outward They look better narrow, out straight across, Well, we must be gone our own to win, So open, St. Peter, and we'll pass in."

St. Peter sat quiet and stroked his staff; But in spite of his office he had to laugh, Then said, with a frown gleam in his eye, "You're tending the gateway, you or I? And then he arose in his stately tall, And pressed a button upon the wall;

And said to the lamp that answered the bell, Report this woman around to H—H."

The man stood still as a piece of stone; Swearing and shouting, he stood alone, A life-long settled idea he had, That his wife was good and he was bad; He thought if she went down below, That he would certainly have to go; But if she went down to the regions dim, There was at a ghost of a chance for him.

Slowly he turned, by habit bent, To follow wherever the woman went, St. Peter, standing on duty there, Observing the top of his head was bare, He called the gentleman back, and said, "Friend, how long have you been wed? "Thirty years" he answered with a weary sigh, And then he thoughtfully added, why?"

St. Peter was silent, with head bent down, He raised his hat and scratched his crown, Then seeming a different thought to take, Slowly, half to himself he spoke: "Thirty years with that woman there, No wonder the man has a hairy hair, To roast him on earth and the future too, They gave him a harp with golden strings, A glittering robe and a pair of wings, I And he said as he entered the realms of, Well this beats cucumbers, anyway."

And so the scriptures had come to pass That the last shall be first and the first shall be last.

The Times.

PETERBOROUGH, APRIL 22, 1895.

Japan to China: Tackles you love.

Jeff McCarthy has gone back to Barrie. He is suffering from a severe attack of Montague.

The springtime did not show any too much haste in coming, gentle Annie. But it is doing all right and somewhat abundantly so since it got here.

It looks as though the men would have to reform. The way the women are tending to live up to the masculine standard shows that if the men would avoid having the women copy them in any undesirable respect, they will have to change their own habits.

Some American contemporaries are inveighing against the silly mock-marriages which are quite popular as attractions at church socials among our neighbors. They might better train their guns against the American divorce system, under which, in a far greater degree than by the mock-marriage entertainment, marriage is made a mockery.

We beg leave to doubt the statement of the Paris Figaro that Dr. Nansen has discovered the north pole in a chain of mountains and planted the Swedish flag on top of it. But if the report be true, Canada must demand explanation. The north pole is in Canadian territory, and if it is to be used as a flag pole, the flag that floats from it should be the Canadian flag.

THE INDIANS.

From the annual report of the Department of Indian Affairs we glean the following concerning the Indians of this locality.

The Mesesagwas, of Alawick, number 228, being a decrease of 13 during the year. The Rice Lake Indians number 79—same as last year, while the Chemong Lake band number 163, being a decrease of one in the year. There is a slow but steady decrease throughout the country that it is only a matter of time until poor Lo is no more.

Those connected with the management of the Indians are as follows: Dr. Lapp, Medical officer, Alawick Indians, $300 per year; Dr. Shaw, Keesee, Rice Lake, $150; John Thackery, Agent, $1000; Amongst the payments, was $35 to Nicholas Hospital for the keep of Taylor, an Indian of Mud Lake, and $30 to T. Hendrie, of Lakeside, for coffin. Mr. C. J. Blomfield, Lakeside, receives a commission of 7½ per cent. on collections.

A REDUCTION NEEDED.

Mr. Mulock is after the Governor-General again. He proposes to reintroduce his bill to cut down the Governor-General's stipend from £10,000 sterling to half that figure, the reduced amount to include all sums for traveling expenses, wages of servants, allowance for light, heat, etc., at Rideau Hall. As it is the Governor-General not only gets his £10,000 a year but has his expenses paid besides, which involve an average annual expenditure of $114,076. This is a good deal of money for a young country to pay out as a yearly reminder of its colonial status, and there are many who think with Mr. Mulock that Canada would toddle along quite as well if its expenses in this regard were reduced by two-thirds or so. There is quite a gap between the annual earning power of a Canadian Governor-General as it is reckoned at present and the earning power of the great majority of Canadians.

AIR A STORAGE BATTERY.

A Battery That Is Cool, No Tapped For Air, No Electricity Required.

Eliza B. Dunn, the weather observer at New York, has been studying atmospheric electricity for a few years. The sergeant, as they used to call him; the farmer, as they call him now, said the other day that he will live to see the day when electricity collected from the atmosphere and stored by some means which an Edison or a Tesla will have to devise will revolutionize the world. The prophet expects that cities will be lighted and heated by atmospheric electricity; that every train and car will be run, lighted and heated by it; that coal will become a curiosity; that steam heating will be a granny talk to the children of the next generation; that the telegraphs and telephone companies will lose their monopolies; that war will become a farce, because a touch of electricity will make the British Grenadiers or the German Uhlans or the Scotch Highlanders sit down on the cold ground powerless.

Even the dreams of communication with the inhabitants of Mars will become realities, and a man will be able to strike up electricity as he does a parlor match. There will be no more trolley strikes, because there will be no more trolleys. Mankind will tap the atmosphere for almost any convenience except food and clothing, and even the clothing will be woven and the food cooked by atmospheric electricity; street cleaning will be as easy as the magician's "Presto, change!" and everybody will live comparatively happier ever after.

Mr. Dunn is sure that his ideas are practical and probable. The atmosphere is his constant study, and having introduced general humidity to the public as the principal element in uncomfortable days, he has determined that the potent element for good in the air we breathe shall no longer be wasted. Why, he said, the whole atmosphere is soaked with electricity.

The earth, as is well known, is a storehouse of electricity. That it passes from the clouds to the earth we can see in every thunderstorm. The earth is a good conductor, especially damp earth, and water is the best conductor possible. Every person is possessed of body electricity. The vital force is all in the electrical powers you contain in your body. When the day is damp, you become weakened through the loss of your bodily electricity, because the atmosphere is a greater conductor of the electrical fluid than your body, and consequently what is in your body will pass to this moist, damp air. That is the cause of that tired feeling.

This passing of electricity to the atmosphere enervates you to such a degree that a person in a naturally weak state will collapse or become much worse by the loss of this bodily electricity. The atmosphere being charged with electricity and the earth being a storehouse for it, if there were some controllable method of storage devised by which you could draw off a moderate amount of electricity at will and keep that force on tap all the time, with an appliance by which power could be generated—and there's no reason why that can't be done—then the atmospheric electricity would make all the wheels in the world go around. The barons would be done up. There would be no more need for coal. There ought to be enough electricity in the atmosphere to supply light and heat as well as to do all the work.—Boston Transcript.

Given on Her Memory.

She had been a widow a year or so, and she was dithering for a tombstone for the departed.

"Of course," said the tombstone man, "you want the date of his death on the shaft—the day of the month and the year?"

"Well," sighed the widow, "I suppose other people may like to read them, but I don't need such reminders. They are indelibly engraved on my heart and memory."

"What was the date?" asked the tombstone man.

The widow hesitated. Then she turned a riotous scowl; then she said: "Gracious goodness! I can't remember whether it was Jan. 26 or 27. I'll go home and find out."—New York Tribune.

Louis XVI.

Louis XVI had a very heavy, red, sensual face, with large Roman nose, full cheeks and lips and a double chin. There was no trace of more than ordinary intellect either in his face or conversation, the latter being always commonplace, often dull. He gave his contemporaries the impression of a man who habitually ate and drank more than was good for him.

Writing to Laura.

"You are at your best now, Cyrus," said his uncle, "and just at the right age for marrying. You ought to make hay while the sun shines."

Cyrus immediately put on his hat, went out of the house and proposed 15 minutes later to a green widow.—Chicago Tribune.

BETRAYAL AND MURDER.

IN AN OLD ATTIC

Yesterday I found a delightful book, and of course it was in an attic. Our ancestors may not have stored things in attics expressly to have us discover them, but we continue to do so from time to time, and they are undoubtedly more interesting for being a bit unobserved and unexplored. The attic in which I found the delightful book had in it hidden things which looked as if they might be the first patterns of everything we use now. Probably the most desirable trait about this attic was that it did not possess a place for anything or anything in its place.

But for the green silk strings no one would ever dream it was a bonnet. It looked much more like a coal scuttle and had as many enormous bones as a prehistoric skeleton. It must have belonged to a very great grandmother. No one would have worn that bonnet! Behind the andirons was a cradle, and in the cradle was a long pole with a red silk arrangement which once meant a fire screen. Beside it stood a clock, with a moon face and long chains and weights. It looked so much like a Dutch doll, with just head and legs, that I laughed aloud. But an attic is not a place in which to laugh unless one has company. Everything was remarkably still, and so was I immediately.

Near the clock was a table shaped like a long-legged spider. It looked as if just ready to walk off alone. I was quite sure it belonged to the bonnet and the fire screen, and that somewhere there were blue cups and saucers, which one might break by talking too loud, and that they belonged to the table.

I drew it out and rested it against the table. Of course it was dusty. I never heard of the right sort of an attic which was kept dusty. It was the picture of a lady. I knew that at once, just as we always know a lady when we see one. The picture was rather dim, but I could easily discern that she was young and slim, with a white throat and bright, dark eyes. Her hair, done very high, was of a rosy brown, and she had on a short waisted white satin frock, and held a half open fan primly in her hands.

It was easy to see that she was just where she belonged—beside the spider-legged table. I had no doubt that she could have told the whereabouts of the blue cups and saucers. Thinking about this lady, my eyes encountered another pair of eyes staring straight at mine. My heart jumped once and stood still until I recognized the eyes as my own.

I was gazing into a mirror. It was a dim, queer mirror, with a crack like an enormous smile across its face and pale enough to hold only the ghost of light which once shone in it. Two rods supported it. They held a brass candlestick apiece and rested on a little stand which had a drawer. I sat down on a hair trunk before this latter stand. The drawer had brass knobs and might have been locked once, but time or rust made it open easily, and then—such an assortment of odds and ends! Faded ribbons and flowers and beads and a feather fan, and when I opened it, filled with a mass of dusty things that made me shudder. Under these things was a box, and under the box was a book—the book—"The Black Duck," by Virginia W. Cloud, in 24. Nicholas.

There was a crowd on the street corner below a skyscraper in course of erection. A painter had let his pail of green paint fall, and the emerald liquid now streaked the sidewalk gorgeously. About this a crowd of idlers had gathered. A newsboy, trying to push his way to the unseen magnet of attention, met a man equally eager to get out and accosted him, "What's it all about?" "Nothing much," said the other. "Just an Irishman had a hemorrhage."—"Yesterday?"

"Judge Brown, whose boyhood's home was in a small New England village, had just arrived the expectation of being a man of letters and had heard man. He was always glad to see his old friends, no matter how rustic they might seem, and gave them many good times in his beautiful city home."

On one occasion the judge had some legal business in the capital of his native state, and shortly after his arrival he met an old farmer from his birthplace who was taking an extended holiday and had been recommended. The judge instantly invited the old man to dine with him at the hotel, and the invitation was gladly accepted.

When the farmer took his seat at the table, one of the waiters laid a bill of fare before him. The old man looked at it for a moment, and then, feeling around to look at the waiter, he said, "I don't know you, but you look like a man that has been through the dining room."

"If you need to guess that, young fellow, Judge Brown will tell you my bill. He came from my town, and I know his ways."

After the judge probably enjoyed this little conversation, he showed no signs of being interested in the waiter, who observed the offending guest, and the old man was leaving with a pale face as the judge ordered a dinner to which he did not feel justified.

JOHN THURD BURIED ALIVE NEAR CHESTER VILLAGE.

Playing in a Well and It Caved in—General Herbert Bodens—Wallace Will Fight Remedial Legislation.

Special to The Times.

TORONTO, April 22.—About a mile from Chester village John Thurd, aged 26, son of a farmer who has recently moved to Bellamy, met a horrible death Friday afternoon.

Thurd was digging a well and when down to the depth of ten feet the sides, which were composed of quicksand, caved in and buried him. Assistance was quickly prepared but it took two hours and a half to dig the unfortunate man out and when he was reached he was found to be extinct.

GENERAL HERBERT BODENS.—MONTREAL, April 22.—It is announced here that Major General Herbert has resigned his position as commander-in-chief of the Canadian militia force. His resignation has been accepted.

No public reasons have been assigned for General Bodens's retirement, but it is rumored that it has been caused by the non-approval of the Government of certain changes the commander-in-chief wanted to introduce.

WALLACE WILL FIGHT IT.—WOODBINE, April 22.—A confidential friend of Hon. N. Charles Wallace here told your correspondent that the Governor Grand Master would oppose by voice and vote in Parliament any attempt to pass remedial legislation, no matter what the consequences may be.

He stated that his authority for saying so was the very best, and that the Commander of Customs had determined to make this one of the fights of his life.

FIGHTING IN MADAGASCAR.—PARIS, April 22.—The Governor of Diego Suarez, Madagascar, has telegraphed the Government that the French troops have occupied the fortress of Ambodivohelo, after a spirited attack. The Hovas resisted for a short time, when they evacuated the place. A few of the French were wounded, but none were killed.

GRAND TRUNK REPORT.—The Half Yearly Report Shows a Deficiency of $97,000.

LONDON, April 22.—The half yearly report of the Grand Trunk railway shows a serious deficiency of $97,000. There was a decline in passenger receipts of $180,000. The reduction in total receipts amounted to $9 per cent, but was largely offset by a corresponding increase in freight receipts of 11 per cent. Referring to the acquisition of subsidiary lines, for which the directors have been authorized, the report says: "A further reduction in working expenses is anticipated, as well as a saving in the price of the coal consumed. The hope is, again expressed that the company is able to escape from its difficulties."

MISS STEPHENSON'S DEATH.—Wandered into a Barn and Died From Fatigue and Exposure.

Special to The Times.—SMOCKVILLE, April 22.—Dr. Vanz, coroner, yesterday held an inquest upon Miss Little Stephenson, of Frankville, found dead near that village yesterday morning. The verdict of the jury was that death came to death from the combined effects of fatigue, cold and exposure. Inquiry into the circumstances of the case could not be made until the body was recovered from the barn where it was found.

On Tuesday afternoon, when in the direction of a sugar bush about a mile distant from the village, by some means or other she got into a barn near the bush, lying on her back and alone in it. Finding her way out of the barn, it being dark by that time, she went back to the barn and lay down on the floor in the direction of the village light, which would be plainly visible from where she was. She had climbed a number of fence on the way, and what a short distance from the village wandered into a barn hole. Already weak and worn out from the shock of getting into the barn, she was unable to get out, and she died.

The remains were brought here today and interred in the Brookville cemetery.

A VERY PROSPEROUS YEAR CONFEDERATION LIFE ASSOCIATION

The Twenty third Annual Report Presented

LARGE VOLUME OF NEW BUSINESS

Substantial increase in all Departments of Business—Favorable Mortality Experience—Payments to Policy-Holders Exceeded $450,000.

The annual meeting of the above association was held at the head office of the company, Yonge, Richmond and Victoria streets, on the afternoon of Tuesday, the 9th instant. There was a large attendance of shareholders, policy holders and members of the agency staff.

Hon. Sir W. P. Howland, C.B., K.C., M.G., President, was called to the chair, and Mr. J. K. Macdonald, Managing Director, acted as Secretary.

The following report and financial statements were submitted:

REPORT.

Your directors beg to submit to the policy holders and shareholders the 23rd annual report of the association, covering the operations for the year 1894. In doing so it is scarcely necessary to state that the year was one of unusual stringency and general depression in all branches of trade. This could scarcely fail to have a marked influence upon the business of life insurance, and in view of that fact it will be a source of gratification to all persons interested in the association to observe the large volume of new business secured. It has not been deemed wise to depart from the policy which has guided your directors in the past, and therefore new business was sought for only at reasonable cost.

Your directors have had before them 2,321 applications for a total insurance of $3,631,552. Of these 2,218 for $3,469,550 were approved; 98 for $152,000 were declined, and 5 for various reasons were deferred. Adding the revived policies, which had been written off in previous years, and bonus additions, the new business for the year was 2,248 policies for $3,528,204 of insurance.

The total insurance in force at the close of the year was $25,455,342 under 16,625 policies on 14,667 lives.

The death claims for the year were light, being 93 deaths under 105 policies, calling for a total insurance of $164,287.50. Under a reassurance the amount was reduced by the sum of $1,994.50, making the net claims $162,293. This is a striking evidence of the care exercised in the selection and acceptance of new business, and is a high compliment to our field staff.

The financial statements submitted herewith fully exhibit the position of the association on the 31st December last. The auditors have continued to give close attention to their duties, and have been thorough and prompt in their work. Their report will be found appended hereto.

Your directors are pleased to be able to state that the head office building is filling up very well, considering the effect of the prevailing depression upon all property of the kind. A considerable portion has been rented during the past year, and more since the beginning of the present year.

All the directors retire, but are eligible for re-election.

W. P. HOWLAND, President.
J. K. MACDONALD, Managing Director.

AUDITORS' REPORT.

We beg to report that we have completed the audit of the books of the association for the year ending December 31st, 1894, and have examined the vouchers connected therewith, and certify that the financial statements agree with the books and are correct.

The securities represented in the assets (with the exception of those lodged with the Dominion Government, amounting to $84,500, and those deposited with the Government of Newfoundland, amounting to $2,500) have been examined and compared with the books of the association, and are correct and correspond with the schedules and ledgers.

The bank balance and cash are certified as correct.

(Signed) W. R. HARRIS,
WM. E. WATSON, F. C. A., Auditors.

Toronto, March 7, 1895.
The President, Sir William P. Howland, moved the adoption of the report and financial statements submitted to the meeting, and in doing so alluded to the commercial stringency which had prevailed during the past year, and whilst these unfavorable conditions had some effect in limiting the amount of business done by life insurance companies, yet it was gratifying to note that the amount of business on their books had not only been generally maintained, but had shown a satisfactory increase. This association during the past year secured policies representing $3,528,204. The total insurance in force at the end of the year was $25,455,342.

The company had maintained a careful and conservative policy, being determined to keep the expenses of obtaining business within a reasonable limit, and to use every precaution in the selection of risks which were taken. An evidence of the latter is to be found in the fact that we have had only 93 deaths during the year, the total claims thereunder being $162,293 only.

The business of the company continued to receive during the year the special attention of the Managing Director and staff at the head office, and the favorable results obtained must be attributed to this fact, and also to the very efficient organization which the company have throughout the Dominion.

It had always been the view of the Managing Director and the board that the statement of the affairs of the company should be placed before you in as clear, concise and simple form as possible.

That being the case, and the statements having been in your hands for some time, it will not require any special explanation from me, but if any explanation is required by any gentleman present in regard thereto I am sure the Managing Director will be happy to afford it if requested.

Mr. W. H. Beatty, in seconding the adoption of the report, said:

I think we have fair reason to congratulate ourselves upon the amount of business which has been secured during the past year, which has all been obtained in the Dominion of Canada, with the exception of Newfoundland, which we suppose will very shortly be a part of the Dominion, and where we re-established an agency during the year. The business shows an increase all along the line. The President referred to the depression which had existed in commercial affairs, but when we consider the very large amount of money that is paid for life insurance in the Dominion, aggregating yearly many millions of dollars, we cannot but conclude that it is an evidence of the very substantial financial condition of the country.

Allusion was made to the manner in which the head office building of the company was being rented, which could not fail to prove satisfactory to all interested. It was now beginning to pay fairly well, and there was every reason to expect that within a short time it would prove to be a very good investment. It was not possible to expect a large building such as this, which was not only a credit to the city of Toronto, but to the whole Dominion, to yield a large return from the outset, but there was every reason to hope that within a limited time we shall have a return from it that we cannot get from any other investment affording equally good security. I am perfectly satisfied with the report, and I have no doubt our shareholders and policy-holders will be also. I have much pleasure in seconding the resolution.

The motion was carried unanimously. Resolutions were moved thanking the directors, management and also the agency staff for their services during the past year, and carried unanimously. They were severally responded to, numerous references being made to the satisfactory report which had been presented to the meeting.

The retiring Board of Directors were all re-elected.

After the meeting adjourned a meeting of the new board was held, and Hon. Sir W. P. Howland, C.B., K.C., M.G., was re-elected President, Messrs. E. Hooper and W. H. Beatty Vice-Presidents.

Patagonia was named by Magellan from a Spanish word signifying "big foot." He formed his impression of the natives before seeing them by the imprints of their ample pedal extensions in the sand.

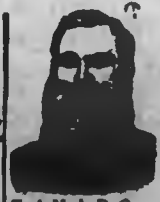

Hume, the historian, was said to be the ugliest man of his time. His face was fat, coarse and vulgar, with no striking or pleasing feature.

The earliest shoes were simply pieces of hide or skin drawn in pursu fashion round the ankle with a string.

In 1844 a "down center" invented a species of candle which he claimed did not need snuffing.

The price of a wine jug or demijohn was fixed by Nero at 7 cents.

Peers, Esq., Ex-Mayor of Toronto Junction and J. B. Brooks, Esq., grand worthy Patriarch of the Sons of Temperance for the Province of Ontario. Toronto. They are entirely independent disinterested gentlemen, and have sealed the jar, marked it with their private signet, and will open it at the close of Competition count the money and announce the winners.

THE WALLED HERD.

STRANGE STORY OF AN INACCESSIBLE BAND OF CATTLE.

A Pyramid of Bones Marks the Spot Where Their Ancestors Fell Over a Precipice.
Twenty Years Ago—Dread in Safety
Where Man Has Never Tread.

In the wildest portion of the west, 71 miles northwest of Moose, where, in 1875, the Utes massacred the Meeker family and every one of the agency, in the most wonderful cattle ranch in the world. Within a space of five miles in length and three miles in width roams a herd upon whose sides the bounding iron has never been placed and around whose horns the lariat has never tightened. But a score or even fewer of them have ever been seen by man or horse or other animal of their kind, and, in fact, their kin except at a distance of nearly 600 feet high above them. The Indians call them "pachek up," or red buffalo. And yet if an Indian who has seen them should be asked about it he would laugh and shake his head, and all the information obtainable would be, "Pachek-up, but no lariat 'um." There are more than 1,000 of this herd, and yet no man owns them, nor is there a man, white or black or copper colored, who has ever been able to possess a single head of these fat and luscious herds.

The cattle are in a prison. One of it there is one method of escape, but to travel that road means death to the adventurer. There is no way to get in except to be by use of a rope 1,000 feet in length. As the Indians say: "Hoop 'em; no lariat 'em; no come away." On the two long sides of the oblong space in which these cattle roam rise precipitous and even some rocks 500 or 600 feet—swinging, black and insurmountable. At either end stretches the Yampa or Bear river. For miles above and miles below is plunges and tumbles on in its headlong haste to reach the arms of its parent, the scarcely less tumultuous but deeper Green river. Like the wonderful flat top mountains of Colorado, this home of the imprisoned herd has no lichen in the world. It recalls in its inaccessibility the marvelous stories of the valley of verdure, into which Mayne Reid's adventures only found their way by the assistance of the balloons.

The story of the way in which these cattle came there is as strange as their existence is curious. Over 20 years ago, when the government troops were pursuing the Mormon murderers of the innocent victims of the Mountain Meadow massacre, the Danites, or Avenging Angels of the Mormons, fled for their lives into what was then their secret hiding place. A few of them who had been the blind followers of Lee, the Mormon head instructor, whose hands were red with the blood of women and children, found in their wanderings a pretty valley or stream, which flows from the Wasatch range into the Green river. They sought their shelter, built their campfires and during the night their cunning leader had a vision, which told him there to stay. They could hardly have chosen in all Utah a more fertile or more isolated spot. They called it Ashley, and about them have since gathered more of their kind until where the fugitive parties their picture on the lonely night of the first summer has grown a thriving village. It is 140 miles from the Union Pacific railroad south and 140 miles north of the Rio Grande western. Until within a few years past it has been isolated entirely, but now it is but 80 miles from the Ute reservation, and furnishing supplies for the agency forms quite a business for the community.

It is a fact of the Danites that robbing or theft from a gentle is no crime. So it was thought to be only a cunning trick when John Wycklife, one of the Mormon settlers of the new town, and his three sons made a night raid on Henry's herd in Wyoming and carried away 200 head of cattle missing there. This was in 1874. The owners of the cattle discovered their loss a few days after they were gone and started in pursuit.

The thieves and the stolen herd had reached a mass of inviting grass at sundown one day and halted to camp for the night. A terrific storm arose. The lightning flashed incessantly, and the thunder pealed and crashed with intermittent fury. The four men desperately held the terror-stricken cattle by riding around them constantly and shouting some wild tune. But the wild fierceness of the furious storm excited the brute beyond measure. They snorted and ground, every moment growing less subject to control. All at once, as if by one mad impulse, they stampeded.

John Wycklife and his sons met their fate amid the lightning's glare and the thunder's roar. They endeavored to head off the stampeding herd, but they and their horses were swept on and driven in the terror to escape the charge of the mad-demon animals over the brink of the awful precipice which frowned up from the waters of the Bear. After them plunged the whole fright-stricken herd, and down to the bottom of the fearful fall went horses, steers and horned creatures. Out of this strange prison of life to what was seemingly certain death to all a few of the herd were not killed. Those which had gone ahead formed a nucleus of death. Maimed, stunned, but still invested with a spark of life, when the dread storm was over the living cattle crept out from the mass beneath them and formed a nucleus for the herd which now roams as will within its rocky confines. On the bank of the river, stretching back a few hundred yards, grew stunted cedars, and upon this the cattle have congregated ever since. In looking over the edge of the precipice one can see that they are small as wild and agile as deer. They have been shot at as the herd and have learned to avoid the appearance of a man, whether Indian or white, as a menace from which they flee, clambering over rocks and through underbrush in the chase to a point of concealment where they hide. The place where the herd fell is plainly marked by a pyramid of bones, which rises to the height of 30 feet. The ghastly reminder and relics of the human and animal victims of the terrible leap shine forth white and gleaming when the sun is high and remind that spot with its full glare, the memory of the survivors animals from the fall are fat and sleek, though, and have their sunny beds, dewlike, where they lie the fur warmth in the winter, and to them the mountain of skeletons is no source of discomfort. There is no forest mountain here or more dangerous than, in fact, any other animal thing within this overgrown Eden. As yet, too, no man has been able to reach or disturb them.—San Francisco Examiner.

ALLIED AGAINST JAPAN.

THE POWERS THAT WILL TRY TO RESTORE THE JAPS.

Germany Never Had any Idea of Abstaining From Intervention—Treaty Ratified by the Sikoda.
Special to The Times.

BERLIN April 22.
The evening edition of the Koenigsberg Zeitung contains the statement in view of the pressure exerted by the Japanese war party, Germany urged Japan, at the beginning of March, to be moderate in her terms of peace, adding that a demand for the cessation of mainland territory would be especially calculated to hinder European intervention. When it appeared from the report of the conditions offered by Japan that she was little disposed to follow this friendly advice, initial steps were taken on March 22 to establish an understanding with European powers. A complete agreement was reached by Germany and Russia, and the co-operation of France was secured. The three powers will now proceed to take joint steps in Japan to protect their interests. The territorial changes at which Japan aims will be kept in view. The object is to prevent Japan from entangling herself around China so as to be able, in case of need, to shut off the latter entirely from Europe. Such an injury to their interests from Europe, both politically and commercially, as a result of a new order of things in East Asia. Germany's share in the European interests concerned is so important that the government would be guilty of serious neglect in case it should not vindicate our claims with firmness and determination to the full extent.

ABERDEEN BOYCOTTED.

My Ottawa Society—Is there too much Persecution?

SPECIAL TO THE TIMES.
OTTAWA, April 22.—Lord and Lady Aberdeen held a drawing-room in the Senate Chamber on Saturday evening. There was the usual dashing escort from the Princess of Wales's Dragoon Guards, and the General's Foot Guards furnished the guard of honor. Members and senators turned out in considerable numbers, but as far as Ottawa society was concerned, the affair was a failure, the attendance of city people being very small.

"The capital is boycotting the Aberdeens," was the remark heard on all sides today.

But the fact seems to be simply that people are getting tired of the stale formalities of such functions.

A DECIDED SUCCESS.

A Lady in Illinois Recovers her Health in a Remarkable Manner.

SPECIAL TO THE TIMES.
ANNA, Ill., April 22.—There is no question at all as to the truth of the Louisville recovery from a very serious state of bodily health through the agency of Dodd's Kidney Pills. Many of her friends have testified, since the publication of the despatch relating to her cure, to the absolute accuracy of the statements made. The various complaints from which she was said to be suffering at different times are found to have originated in a diseased condition of the kidneys, a distinct proof of which is the rapid manner in which they yielded to the influence of the pills. The remedy is becoming very generally and favorably known throughout this state.

SAVED HER LIFE.

John L. Sullivan's Redempting Act in Boston.

SPECIAL TO THE TIMES.
BOSTON, April 22.—John L. Sullivan saved a woman's life today. About noon while Mrs. Margaret Donnelly, a cook employed at No. 31 Dover street was preparing some food a kettle of hot fat fell to the floor and the contents scattered over her clothing setting it on fire. John L. was in one of the upper rooms of the house and the woman's screams attracted his attention. He rushed to the kitchen and quenched the flames with his hands. His hands and arms were badly burned. The woman was removed to the City Hospital where she lies in a precarious condition. Sullivan asked the police not to mention the incident as he did not care to have it set in the newspapers, but it was reported to police headquarters, where it was placed on the book. A reporter called late in the afternoon but was unable to see Sullivan.

How to Cure AN SKIN DISEASE

There are only one or two ways of curing a skin disease. The first way is to use a good skin cream, and the second way is to use a good skin ointment.

A BENEFIT CONCERT.

Arrangements for the holding of a concert for the benefit of the former employees of the Canadian General Electric Company are under way. The suggestion thrown out by speakers at the mass meeting of workmen on Monday night, has been generally approved of, and much encouragement has been given to the committee towards carrying it to a successful termination.

The employees have been put to considerable expense in taking care of, providing meals and lodging for, and in paying the return fares of the unfortunate men who have been brought here by the company to work, and who have been confronted with the agreement, refused to accept the conditions, although in many instances this refusal left them stranded in a strange land. The employees came to their aid nobly, and went down in their pockets, although their own bread winnings had been cut off. The citizens of Peterborough are in entire sympathy with the employees and approve of the course they have taken and they will now be enabled to show their sympathy in a practical manner by assisting in making this concert a great financial success. Here is what has been done towards the concert so far:

Mr. T. Bradburn has generously offered the free use of the opera house.

Mr. Finch Miller, bandmaster, has promised the attendance of the Fire Brigade Band—a concert in itself.

Mr. G. W. Mulligan has kindly offered his valuable services.

Mr. Thomas Dunn has kindly consented to sing and do everything in his power to make it a success.

This is a splendid start. Now let the talent of Peterborough come forward and volunteer their services and aid in this most laudable undertaking.

A meeting of those who care to volunteer their services in getting up the concert will be held tonight in the parlors of the Y. M. C. A. at 8 o'clock. The local talent of Peterborough will doubtless be there in large numbers.

DISHONEST GIRLS.

The Middleton Sisters in Trouble in the Queen City.

The Toronto Telegram says: "The trial of the two young girls, Edith and Ethel White, whose real names turn out to be Middleton, for stealing articles of clothing from Mrs. Ellen Dick, of 237 Jarvis street, was concluded this morning, both girls being found guilty. The prisoners came from Peterborough, and the police believe they have been in trouble before. They gave the name of Kelly at one place where she worked in Toronto, and White at a couple of others. They cannot explain why they did this. It is also said the two have stolen goods from other places where they worked for a short time."

The girl Edith was also convicted of stealing clothing from Mrs. Eagle, 123 York street, with whom the two roomed for a short period. Both girls were recommended for a week for remembrance.

These girls will be remembered as the persons concerned in an incident which occurred here several weeks ago, when the police seized a trunk at the C. P. R. station, the ownership of which was in dispute.

A NEW BASEBALL CLUB.

The Veterans Nisse Organized Under Favorable Auspices.

The Veterans Park Baseball Club met last night and organized for the season. The following officers were elected: President—H. Neil; Vice President—R. A. W. Hay; Manager—Bert Dolan; Captain—Geo. Riley; Secretary—E. Desautel; Treasurer—F. Lynch; Executive Committee—S. White, F. Brown, W. Jackson, W. Hedraan, M. J. Connor.

The Club decided on a uniform of white flannel shirts, white canvas pants, black stockings and white caps, with black trimmings. It must be distinctly understood that the treasurer has six pockets in his pants, lined with tin, and a padlock on each pocket. The next meeting will be held in the room over the Palace restaurant on Wednesday evening, May 1st, when the committee appointed to secure grounds for practice will report.

Spring Fashion Notes.

In spite of the influence of the new women's gowns will be worn this spring as usual—bustlers may be worn on the head, unless they are sun bonnets. The latter may be worn hanging down the back. It is still good form to wear black gloves when cleaning the kitchen stove. At other times colors may be worn by those who prefer. It is not necessary for ladies to be in full dress when hanging out the week's washings. The essential thing about a costume for marketing is a pump. At theatre parties ladies will wear open glasses and their own hair, if they have plenty. If not, they may wear some one else's. When long skirts are selected for washing costumes the wearer should be particular to cut handsome hose and well fitting shoes. Slippers are not suitable for street wear at this season.

THE LOCK-OUT.

Yesterday's Developments—Some Resignations Withdrawn.

The lock-out situation is practically the same as far as the relations of the former employees and the company are concerned, but there is a side issue development to chronicle.

We understand that a number of the clerical staff have withdrawn their resignations and will remain in the employ of the company. These we understand, are the men who put themselves foremost in the movement which was taken when the resignations of that staff and the foremen were handed in, and who were most persistent in expressions of sympathy to the employees, and who also were very plain spoken in denouncing the company. It was common rumour amongst them that some of the clerical staff had flunked. We endeavored to learn the facts in the case, but were unable to do so. The employees' committee had not been officially notified although that committee was cognizant of the report. For the sake of those members of the clerical staff we trust they will be able to relate reasons for their action that will place them right in the eyes of the public. But, if the rumor of the withdrawal of their resignations be true, we fear they will have a hard time in making the public look upon their conduct other than as cowardly, contemptible and disgraceful.

These men, when they resigned out of sympathy for the employees, or, as stated in the form of their resignation, because they believed they had been treated with injustice, won the admiration and commendation of a good portion of the community. They lost no opportunity, either to dip their hands in the sunshine of public approbation, and assumed the air and mien of sacrificing heroes. But if report be true, the role of hero belittled them as truly as if it were a defeat. These men resigned of their own free will and, evidently, in a spirit of magnanimity that soon evaporated. Had they been over-ruled or coerced into resigning, their conduct would not be so bad.

We do not desire to do these men an injustice and sincerely trust there are extenuating circumstances. If they can vindicate their conduct, these columns are at their disposal to do so, and if we have misrepresented them, we will willingly give them an opportunity to show it.

The entire clerical staff have not withdrawn their resignations. We are informed that Messrs. A. V. White, Bert Gieson, McEvoy, and H. D. Dunford refused to withdraw theirs, and there may be others of the same mind. The names of those who have withdrawn will be published as soon as they can be learned.

WILL THEY CLOSE DOWN.

It was also reported yesterday afternoon that the Works would be closed down until July. Mr. J. C. Macdonald, in answer to a letter from the company offering him work at from $1.50 to $2 per day. He says, when he applied at the Works, he was told that there would be no work until July as the concern was going to close down until then. Macdonald brought his wife and furniture and spent all the money he had in the way of getting home—some $40. He asked the company for his expenses, in view of the fact that he had been promised work, and they gave him $2.50. He is indignant at the treatment he received.

The employees do not think it very probable that the works will close. It appears that the clerical staff was given until 6 o'clock last night to withdraw their resignations. The company's desire to retain this staff and the announcement of closing down hardly reconcile.

AN OLD EMPLOYEE TRICKED.

Philip Taylor, salesman, has been in the employ of the company for several years. On Monday night one of the clerical staff, who has since withdrawn his resignation, called at The Times office and left a list of the names of those who had resigned. Mr. Taylor's name was included in the list and was published in yesterday's issue. Last night Mr. Taylor informed us that he had not resigned his position nor had he authorized this gentleman to include him in the list of those who had. As a result of his name appearing in this connection in the local papers he has been discharged.

A PUBLIC MEETING.

The requisition to Mayor Kendry asking that a public meeting be called to discuss the lock-out will be presented to the mayor in a day or two. It is very likely that a public meeting will be called for some night this week.

The Bicyclists' First Outing.

Wreathed in smiles and pushing along at the rate of 200 a minute, a majority of the bicyclists of the town "put in their best looks" to reach the prescribed spot of concentration at 7 o'clock last night, preparatory to invading the city and the roads of the town. The postoffice sidewalks presented an animated appearance by the time the last wheelman had arrived at "camp." The assembled wheelmen made an interesting picture, for in it there were old and young, short and tall, lean and fat, good looking and common-looking, fair-haired and dark-haired—and one or two carrying (O yes, that is the word of command, the "wheelers" started off in grand style, and they were lost to view, but not "to memory dear"—bless the ladies! It is presumed that the "wheelers" became very tired before they had returned to their respective domiciles—so many indications are there to "take a rest" by the wayside in journeying so far from home and watching "parade."

Government Notices.

The last Government notice announces that Mr. Joseph Lawson of Chesley has been appointed clerk of the twelfth Division Court of the County of Bruce, and that the following joint stock companies have been incorporated by letters patent: The Money and Bids Printing & Publishing Company of Toronto (Incorporated), with a capital stock of $10,000 for the purpose of manufacturing and selling electrical storage batteries, etc.; the Geopha Pavement Company (Incorporated), with a capital stock of $50,000, for the purpose of doing in asphalt cement, etc., and to lay asphalt, cement and similar pavements, sidewalks and steps.

In yesterday's Times appeared an item relating to the arrest of Michael Murray, of the Bridge Works, called last night in reference to the item. He stated that he had not the individual mentioned, and that he has not been in Buffalo since 4 years ago. Nobody who knows Mr. Murray would think of connecting him with the person arrested.

THE DOMINION HOUSE.

THE ADDRESS ADOPTED BY THE HOUSE OF COMMONS.

McGregory Returns to Public Life - Debate on the Manitoba School Question - Montague introduced to Parliament.

Special to the Times.

OTTAWA, April 24.

THE flag was at the masthead on the Parliament building yesterday, for it was St. George's day, and many of the members did honor to the anniversary by sporting a rosette as a button-hole decoration.

A general air of welcome pervaded the House as the members took their seats, for the debate on the "address in reply" had dragged itself out to an extent that surprised everybody except, possibly, the party leaders.

When the debate opened on Friday afternoon last the general opinion was that it would not last more than two or three days, but it was not so. The Opposition "showed fight" to an unexpected extent.

They have to make planks for their platform in the coming election - so a conservative member put it - "and they were getting to work on the contract with the 4th day."

THE ADDRESS IN REPLY was introduced by Mr. McCreedy, and was a most able and comprehensive statement of the position of the Government.

WILDE'S TRIAL TO PROCEED.

The Application for a Postponement Refused - The Court's Reason.

LONDON, April 24.-Counsel for Oscar Wilde made application in the old Bailey Court this morning for a postponement of his client's trial. Taylor's counsel, however, was desirous of proceeding, and the prosecution lawyer argued in opposition to postponement, saying Wilde had ample opportunity to prepare for trial. The court refused to grant a postponement and fixed Friday as the day for trial.

The sale of Oscar Wilde's effects by auction upon the order of the sheriff is regarded as indicating that his pecuniary means are exhausted.

AGAINST THE COUNTRY.

LONDON, April 24.-The jury in the case of Countess Russell against her husband, Earl Russell, for restoration of her conjugal rights, this morning returned a verdict in favor of the husband.

New Farm Residence a Total Loss - Brick Block in Worcester, Mass. Destroyed.

Special to the Times.

GROUNTSWORTH JUNCTION, April 24.-At midnight last night the new farm residence of Mr. C. H. Murray sixth line, Worcester, was totally destroyed by fire. Mr. Murray had just moved in. The family largely occupied with their lives, saving nothing. Loss $10,000; no insurance.

Worcester, April 24.-The four-story brick block at 107 Foster street, occupied by J. W. Bishop and Company, contractors and builders, was destroyed by fire this morning, entailing a loss estimated at $30,000.

SMUGGLED IN COFFINS.

CELESTIALS ENGAGED IN THE TRADE UNHEARD OF IN MONTREAL.

Their Clever Method Concealed - Opening of Navigation on Lake Superior - Toronto's Speculation in Newark.

Special to the Times.

ONTARIO, April 24.

A gang of Chinese smugglers has been unearthed here and some arrests are expected. There are said to be 30 or more of them in a different part of the country.

The modern operandi is as follows: The Chinese come from Vancouver to Montreal, then they are shipped in bunches of five to Quebec, where they are dressed up as women. In this disguise they are forwarded to St. John, N. B., where they are kept in hiding for a day or two. Venetian blinds are now provided, and in these the "corpses" are shipped to Vancouver, Me., where they are claimed by another of the gang who arranges for their distribution through the States.

OPENING OF NAVIGATION.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., April 24.-Lake Superior navigation will be opened by the steamer Diamond which will leave Lake Linden for the lower lakes. She will have no trouble in getting through the rapids here, as the channel is open. The tug Merrick has arrived at the campment. The draft of water at the canal is 13 feet 10 inches. This will probably be the opening depth as the ice gorges have broken and the water has reached its normal level. Advice from Algoma Mills and other Georgian Bay ports is that the opening will open on April 25. At Port Arthur the ice is yet solid and crafts cannot get in there before May 1st.

FIRED UP BY THE FIRE.

NEWARK, April 24.-Hard hitting by local players were the features of the game of ball between Toronto and the Newark team to-day. The visitors went in for their half of the eighth inning with a score of 17 to 0 against them and it looked as though they were hopelessly beaten, but by hard hitting they scored 7 runs, and followed this up in the ninth with four more runs, making a total of 24 runs. The game was called on account of darkness. Score, Newark 24, Toronto 22.

Walked off the platform.

HAMILTON, April 24.-Last night, when a Grand Trunk express train was running at a high rate of speed a few miles east of Oakville, George Collier, one of the passengers, deliberately walked off the platform and was killed. He was on his way from South Sea, Marie to Baffin, and it is believed he had been drinking. A pension cheque for $20 was found on the body. An inquest will likely be held at Oakville.

LORD DOUGLAS ARRESTED

HIS ESCAPE WITH A PRETTY DIVE WAITRESS.

Tramway Strike in Paris - The Belmont-Vanderbilt Rumor - Andrews Shot by Jules Savre in a Cowardly Way - A Fool Deed.

Special to the Times.

NEW YORK, April 24.

SPECIAL to the Recorder from Berkeley, California, says: Sholto Douglas, a son of the Marquis of Queensbury, himself the bearer of a title, was arrested here today on a warrant charging him with insanity. Lord Sholto has been here for several months and has got the reputation of being a sport. Yesterday he was licensed to marry a notorious woman, but before he could arrange the marriage he was arrested on charges of insanity. He was in the county jail holding with rage at the friends who prevented his escape. If they had not interfered pretty Loretta Addis a waitress in a dive would now be his wife. Douglas met her some months ago. Shortly after he came here to manage a forty acre ranch belonging to his mother, the Marchioness of Queensbury, and at once became infatuated with her. He is of course perfectly sane and will soon secure his release, for which purpose he has engaged counsel.

Last night Lord Douglas was swindled out of six hundred dollars by a crowd of tin horn bluffers and gave them checks on a bank in which he has no deposit.

BRITAIN NOT IN IT.

LONDON, April 24.-The Daily News will say: We understand that the government will not join any combination of European powers in interfering with the people of Japan, while the ministers are willing and anxious to avert war.

NOT THE SAME GIRL

But the "Old Girl" Time Made No Change in Her.

The following anecdote has both a comical and pathetic side. What a long time 30 years is in the life of a human being! And how far apart, how unlike in tastes, feelings, opinions and habits men and women can become who in childhood sleep under the same roof, attended the same school and dreamed of nothing but of being friends forever! A gentleman whose "society manners" were mentioned in all the newspapers when he died, a few years after this incident, faded in his old age that he wished to see his boyhood friend and most of all the fair young girl whom he long years before he almost, but not quite, had dared to ask.

He forgot country manners and called at half past 11 in the forenoon. He was asked to wait "right out into the kitchen," as there was no fire anywhere else. His early admiration stood before him in a worn calico dress, no collar and a wide and not faultlessly clean apron. Her half combed grizzly hair was tucked under a rusty black lace cap trimmed with faded purple ribbon. She had no teeth, and a huge pair of silver bowed spectacles were pushed up on her brows, wrinkled forehead.

Thirty-four years before they had parted with a kiss, and he had been intending to meet her with one, and thus bridge the chasm of years, but he changed his mind when through his gold bowed glasses he took in the picture before him.

Wiping her hands on her apron, she gave him a hearty handshake and bade him "sit right down," adding that they were "killing boys and trying to land," but if he would "stay to dinner," she would have "a fire put in the front room."

Of course he declined the invitation, and for his own comfort as well as for the convenience he determined to make his call short. Still he must say something complimentary before leaving, but what could he say?

Just then the land boiled over, and with a shrill cry she jumped up and caught hold of the bottle. The smoke and perfume were in themselves far from agreeable, but they were grateful to the caller, as they gave him a chance for the desired compliment.

"Your step has lost none of its elasticity since the evening we parted, together along the banks of the R," he said, "while this," holding out his gold headed cane—"is needed to support mine."

"Yes," answered the woman, "I'm as spry as a kitten, and I have thought ever since you've been here that I was glad enough time hadn't changed me as it has you."

"—You're the companion."

COOKS AND THEIR DRINKS.

Why the Boss of the Kitchen Goes on an Occasional Drunken Binge.

"You ask if she is a drinking woman, me'am?" said the proprietor of a restaurant to a lady who had inquired about the character of a cook. "Why, yes, to be sure, she has her spots, but she always comes up enough to do her work well. I gave her a recommendation as a first class cook, and I didn't think it necessary to say anything about her drinking, for they nearly all drink. They need it to keep themselves up, because they swallow so much hot air. We give them spirits on principle, and other houses do the same."

Various reasons have been given for the intemperance of this class. It is said to be due to the testing of manna, etc., flavored with spirits, to the lack of appetite which the constant sight and odor of cooking produce, and the consequent necessity for stimulants to give strength to continue work, or to the exhaustion of the system by the high temperature, which produces a craving for spirits. Whatever the cause, it is pitiable to know that many cooks habituate their bright lives and entail a miserable old age.

Women who cook for small families and whose work is not exhausting are not specially prone to the excessive use of stimulants. The trouble is with those who in hotels, restaurants, large boarding houses, etc., are in the kitchen and over the stove from morning to night. Undoubtedly there are temperate women among them, but many are intemperate.—New York Tribune.

Netting Malay Taps.

Colonel Charles B. Hicks has arrived in this city after spending two years in the orient. The colonel has been hunting tigers and wild boars with the rajah of Jodhpur, and has also been pursuing tigers in the Malay peninsula. He said: "In starting out after tigers we take a flat bottomed boat, with a bamboo house on it, lights in the stern and equipped with a crew of natives. This provided the hunter sails up the river. Now, there is a head of a peculiar tree in Malay, which, if burned, emits an odor which can be smelled for miles and miles. The smell draws the tapers. So no taper hunter omits to keep a supply of these leaves."

"We were supplied with nets, and whenever a tiger was caught in a net we had a lively time. The tiger would flounder and fight. It took the skill of the natives to hold him till he could be towed to land and secured. However, the natives seem as we were had had so much experience that they managed the work well."

"If we ever came unexpectedly upon old and young tapers together, the old ones would immediately kill their young to prevent their capture."—San Francisco Examiner.

Keep the Feet Warm.

It is the great secret of health, I firmly believe, to keep one's feet warm and dry and then not to indulge oneself otherwise. So far as I have been able to observe, the feet require different treatment from all the rest of the body. Woolen is good for the feet, but beware of it elsewhere. Father Knapp is undoubtedly right in forbidding flannel next the skin in the form of underclothing. It makes most people tender and gives some of them the feet. But the writer has seen so many people who have adopted woolen stockings who have not been glad of them, all this on the supposition, of course, that people do wear shoes, for if they could discard these utterly and go barefooted, as they do in Woorahofa, no doubt that wool would be better still.—Boston Transcript.

Buried in Her Best Dress.

Being buried in a sashkin sack is not half so droll as the Boston woman ordering she should wear a certain particularly becoming bonnet on her last journey, an order, too, that was religiously carried out by her family when the time came for burial.—Boston Journal.

A Postal Order Is Better.

In sending money in a letter, if it is folded inside a card, likewise folded, there is very little danger of even the postoffice finger tips of the postoffice clerks discovering its presence in the envelope.

BURDOCK'S BLOOD BITTERS

THE FIRE RECORD.

Canadian Statesman Office at Bowmanville, Ontario.

BOWMANVILLE, April 23.—Within ten minutes of the time that the staff of The Canadian Statesman left the office tonight the fire bell pealed forth an alarm, and before the fire brigade reached the scene of the fire the office was enveloped in flames and the plant, including the type, smaller press, stock, and also the whole furniture and equipment of the business office, were completely destroyed. The Wheatfield power press, engine and boiler in the press room are considerably damaged, but will not be useless.

There were two complete printing office plants in the building, the plant of the Statesman having been purchased by the proprietor of the Statesman a few months ago, and only a trifling part of it had been disposed of. Mr. M. A. James, owner of the office, will be a heavy loser, as the insurance was only $5,000, divided equally between the Western and the Northern.

The building belongs to the estate of the late John Simpson, and the damage is covered by insurance. The lodge room used by the Ontario Masonic Society, in the third story, is almost completely destroyed. Considerable damage was done to the adjoining block, owned and occupied by Mr. Lewis Quirk and used as a harness shop and stove depot. The damage here is also covered by insurance. Mr. James and the assistant editor left the office together, and as there had been no fire in the building except in one stove and that was very low when the man in charge left, the cause of the fire is a complete mystery.

DEAD ON THE TRACK.

Near Rodney, Ont.—Supposed to be Charles Schneider of Detroit.

RODNEY, Ont., April 23.—The body of a young man about 20 years of age was found on the Michigan Central railway track a short distance west of here this morning.

From papers found in his pockets he is supposed to be Charles Schneider, of Detroit. He was about 5 feet 7 inches tall, weight 140 pounds, dressed in black tweed suit, black derby hat, index finger of left hand is off at middle joint. He has dark sandy hair and mustache.

AFTER THE DIRECTORS.

Action Taken Against the Officers of a Detroit Bank.

DETROIT, Mich., April 23.—A bill for an accounting by its directors and officers of the affairs of the Third National Bank of Detroit was filed in the Federal Court yesterday by James W. Flynn on behalf of himself and several other stockholders. The complaint charges the directors with mismanagement, and states that the Controller of the Currency has been credibly advised of the fact that the bank was ruined by negligent mismanagement, and that the receiver, J. L. Hudson, with the other defendants charged by shareholders with responsibility for the loss suffered by them, have taken no steps to put the matter into shape for investigation of a disinterested receiver or complainant.

WHAT KILLED HER?

Mysterious Death of Mrs. Harry Rathbun at Her Home near Bloomfield.

BLOOMFIELD, Ont., April 23.—At West Lake Shore, about four miles from here, last evening, Mrs. Harry Rathbun was found by her husband on her coming in from his work on the farm lying dead in the dooryard. There was no apparent cause.

The deceased was a young woman, only two months married, and was a niece of Capt. H. H. Wilson, of the steamer "Varna. Her husband works the captain's farm.

HARRIS SCOTT'S SUICIDE.

A Young Man Hangs Himself on His Uncle's Farm Near Newmarket.

NEWMARKET, April 23.—On Monday afternoon a young man named Harris Scott, about 11 years of age, committed suicide on the farm of his uncle, Charles Wilson, lot 12, 3rd concession, Whitby, hanging himself in the barn.

He was in a fit of despondency over some fancied troubles. He has threatened to take his life on several previous occasions.

Death in a Breakdown.

RICHMOND, Que., April 23.—Conductor Marchand's special on the Grand Trunk broke in two parts while descending a grade near the American line yesterday evening this way. Again the front part of the rear portion broke clear, leaving the rear behind in the valley of the river. The car, uncontrolled, rushed down the grade and overtook the engine and front cars, colliding with a fearful bang and knocking the engine into the ditch and making a complete wreck of fourteen cars. Driver George Parsons was crushed between the tender and engine and killed. Fireman Lockwood escaped with but slight injuries. Brakeman Leggett jumped and was saved. Mr. Parsons was 45 years of age and married a widow and five children here. The funeral, with Oddfellows' honors, will take place on Wednesday.

Mrs. Mack's Record.

HAMILTON, April 23.—The adjourned proceedings in the extradition case against Mrs. M. T. Mack, or Mrs. Timney McMullen, in connection with the counterfeit United States stamp, will be resumed before Judge Blair tomorrow. The American secret service officers are here and it is understood will be prepared with witnesses to prove Mrs. Mack's connection with the case.

HARRY GREEN'S WAY

HE PLAYED HIS FAVORITE GAME ON MR. SMITH OF CHICAGO.

Four Aces Will Always Beat Four Kings, but in this case, Harry Green was another hand, held by an opponent, that was in at the showdown.

Do you know how to play poker? If you do, and chance to meet an old man who looks like a stockman from Montana, with money to burn, just looking for a good time, don't. If you do, you will be sorry.

A well known business man, who at one time kept a furniture store on State street and had retired from business, paid $1,400 for his experience with the Montana stockman.

As every one knows the furniture man, he may as well be called Smith. Mr. Smith, since he is not engaged actively in business, has been spending a share of his time in a down town back shop every day. One morning, while Mr. Smith was watching the market and listening to the voices of the caller and stammer who "happened" to sit next him engaged him in conversation.

"What is dull today, isn't it?" said the stranger.

"Yes," answered Mr. Smith.

The two had been broken, and the stranger, whose appearance indicated that he was a westerner, became conversational. He told Mr. Smith he had just come from Montana and was taking a little rest. He declared he had enough money to have some fun and pulled a big roll of fifties and hundreds out of his pocket to prove it.

"By gosh, I will have a good time, and if I don't it won't be no fault of mine," said the Montana man as he got up to take a walk about the room.

Mr. Smith paid little attention to the incident until a man who had just entered and was leaning against the wall, and who had seen the stockman display his money, stepped up to him. He asked Mr. Smith if he knew the "old fellow."

Mr. Smith said he did not, but the man had told him he was from Montana and had a good deal of money.

"Yes, I saw it," said stranger No. 2. "And do you know I think I could get it if we could get him into a poker game?"

After considerable persuasion Mr. Smith consented to let the stockman if he would play a little poker.

"Well, I don't mind," said the stockman, and arrangements were made to play in a down town hotel in the evening.

In the meantime the stranger had a quiet talk with Mr. Smith. He told him he was a gambler and knew how to "fix" the cards. They went to get the old man's money and divide the spoils.

The plan was as follows: A deck was to be fixed up in which were two hands. Mr. Smith was to get four aces and the stockman four kings. The hands were to be sprung in the stockman's own deal. Stranger No. 2 said the stockman said: "Now, you keep the cards on your lap, and when it is the granger's deal I will attract his attention when he gives the cards to you to cut, and at that moment you substitute this deck for the one he hands you. But we must have another man. We can't play three hands."

Mr. Smith knew a great many men, he said, but they were all business men, and all of them were too busy to play. At the stranger's suggestion they started out together to look for the fourth man. They dropped into the Burnside hotel, and stranger No. 2 saw a man who appeared much better suited than the others.

"Perhaps he will play. Shall I ask him?"

"Go ahead," said Mr. Smith.

Stranger No. 2 said he played poker, but not for money or with strangers.

No. 2 produced the card of an Iowa farmer. "That's my card," said he.

"You're all right, then," said the stranger.

Mr. Smith then said, "I'm Mr. Smith, and every one around here knows me."

RUSSIANS TALKING WAR

A NAVAL DEMONSTRATION TO SCARE THE JAPANESE.

French Police Play Full with the Omaha Strikers - Gen. Macle's Dislike - One Man One Vote in Australia - Japan's Special Envoy to China.

Special to The Times.

St. Petersburg, April 22.

HE Novosti says that diplomatic action in the East will not be slow, and that the Government will make a naval demonstration in the East Asiatic waters.

The Novoye Vremya says: "In return for Germany's and France's support as to territorial concessions Russia will firmly back Germany's demands regarding commercial interests, and will support any action that France may take to guarantee the position of Indo-China."

SPECIAL ENVOY TO CHINA.

LONDON, April 22.—The Central News correspondent in Tokyo says that Ito Miyagi has been appointed special envoy to China for the purpose of exchanging ratifications. The Japanese Legation here has not been notified of any joint action contemplated by the European powers. It is denied by the officials of Great Britain is negotiating independently with Japan for commercial advantages.

INDIGNITY TO ITALIANS.

ROME, April 22.—An official despatch from Caracas says Venezuela is about to pay the Italian Legation in that city $100,000 indemnity for losses suffered by Italian subjects in the last war.

MELBOURNE, Victoria, April 22.—Premier Turner outlined, in a public speech to-day, the work of the parliamentary session. There would be a revision of the tariff, he said, but the Government would oppose wholly the free trade movement.

While willing to remove anomalies from the tariff, the Ministers were duly bound to maintain the protective system, which had greatly benefited the colony. The Ministerial program included also measures for "one man one vote," and the introduction of the referendum.

MACAO'S SUICIDE.

SANTIAGO DE CUBA, April 22.—It is reported that Gen. Macao, the insurgent leader, has committed suicide because of chagrin at the failure of his expedition. It is not believed to be his fault.

GERMAN PRISON.

BERLIN, April 22.—The Berlin press does not discuss, condemn, nor commend explicitly, the entrance between Russia, France and Germany in the east. The Vossische Zeitung says England refrains from joint action through the thoroughly krasse situation in the east. The editor asks what would happen if Japan should refuse to yield to the demands of the other party.

The Volks Zeitung says, under the caption "A leap in the dark" Russia would reap the main advantage from any joint action. It has not been proved that the new treaty injures Germany's interests in any way.

CUT UP BY POLICE.

PARIS, April 22.—The strikers attacked an omnibus this evening. The police charged with water and two strikers were arrested. The most ardent socialists in the municipal council are moving to obtain a special sitting to consider the advisability of repressing the company of its conduct.

The public supported the strikers in 1890, but now oppose them inasmuch as the company has fulfilled the conditions then imposed.

CABLE NOTES.

The Sun says that the life of the Prince of Wales is insured for $2,500,000.

The Queen has decided to discontinue herafter the early drawing rooms. She will hold four drawing rooms after Easter. The Queen's cabinet, which was presented to Her Majesty by a South African queen and which was recently given to the Zoological Gardens, is dead, much to the Queen's regret.

The Worth of Paris have just created a stained glass window. The different lights are marked out by raised piping of a contrasting color to the glass. The panels are exquisitely painted in rich, subdued colors. The owner of this remarkable production paid a large sum to have the model destroyed.

ANOTHER CIVIL WAR.

Ecuador the Latest State to be Shaken by Civil Strife—To Prevent Spillage of Arms.

Special to The Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 22.—A. F. Balboa, Consul for Ecuador at this port, has received a cablegram announcing that a rebellion conducted by General El Alvaro is in progress in Ecuador.

He is instructed to see that arms and ammunition are not shipped to the rebellious forces, but he has called on the collector of the port to assist him.

He has with confidence, and so did the stockman, and, to Mr. Smith's continued delight, the stranger kept coming in. He didn't raise any fuss just now about the stockman's money and lost until Mr. Smith came to the end of his pile and had $1,400 on the table. He was kicking because he didn't have more, but had to call for a show.

"Well, I am sorry for you, my friend," said the stockman, "but you've got big things, and he started to take in the pot."

"You needn't feel sorry, old man," exclaimed Mr. Smith triumphantly. "I have four aces. The money is mine. Did you think I was bluffing?" and he started to grab the money and checks.

"Hold on, hold on!" said up No. 2. "Ain't it this? Two got a straight flush." It was like a word from the tomb to Mr. Smith, and the game broke up.

An adjournment was taken to the bar, but the straight flush man and the stockman got away as quickly as possible, leaving Mr. Smith and his friend. His friend proceeded to give Mr. Smith a terrible beating.

"Command you," said he, "I thought you said you knew how to play poker. You've made a nice mess of it. Here we are broke, and the mahogany that we played up gets all the money. We might just as well have had all the stockman's money and the other fellow's too!"

Mr. Smith's friend talked in this manner until Mr. Smith was convinced that it was a double distilled trick and knew nothing about the noble American game. Then Mr. Smith's friend bade him a sorrowful and indignant good night and left him to wonder how the outsider and the stranger would.

If Mr. Smith had only known that the stockman was Harry Green, one of the wealthiest confidence men and gamblers in the world, all would have been different. He has played that same kind of a game for 30 years and in that time has caught many a fish. Stranger No. 2 was his old-time partner, Fred Porter. He and Harry Green made barrels of money years ago on the big Atlantic liner, and stranger No. 2 was a well known Chicago gambler who came in for a share of the "divvy."

A PUBLIC MEETING

Called for this Evening to Discuss the Electric Trouble

In compliance to a largely signed requisition of ratepayers, Messrs. Mayor Cahill has called a public meeting for this evening to discuss the existing trouble between the Canadian General Electric Works and the former employees. The meeting will be held in the market building, and no doubt it will be crowded with citizens who are greatly interested in the settlement of the present difficulty. The front seats have been reserved for ladies and their escorts.

It is expected that the Company will be represented, and that the difficulty will be discussed on both sides.

NOTHING NEW

In the Electric Works Situation—The Bazaar Concert.

Yesterday was productive of no new developments in the electric works lock-out situation. The intentions of the company are not known. Whether they propose closing down or intend to make any effort in the way of a settlement cannot be learned, as they have held no conference with the employees' committee. There are still a certain number of men at work, and while they are there and the machinery in operation the works cannot be said to be closed.

The report that a number of the clerical staff have withdrawn their resignations is also correct. Their extraordinary action is the subject of unfavorable comment among former employees.

Quite a number of the local talent of the town have volunteered to take part in the bazaar concert and the committee has in hand the arrangements. It is likely a program committee consisting of the volunteer talent will be formed at a meeting to be held shortly and a splendid program arranged. The concert cannot be held until the week after next as the Opera House is engaged for the balance of this and all of next week. This will give those in charge abundant time to perfect arrangements.

A SPECIAL MEETING.

Of the Council to Deal With Important Matters.

The Town Council held a special meeting yesterday morning at which were present Councillors Sprague, Best, Dene, Mills, Phipps, Chisholm, Hawry, Stone, Mason and Brady. Councillor Cahill occupied the chair in the absence of the mayor.

The Sewerage Committee brought in the following report which was adopted:

1. Your committee having received notice that there was an application to a bill to amend the Public Health Act which was before the Ontario Legislature, and which this town desires to see passed, your committee sent a deputation to Toronto to endeavor to get the bill amended so that it would be of benefit to this town, and we recommend that this action be approved and that the payment of the expenses of the deputation be authorized.

2. Your committee submit correspondence in reference to the appeal to not void the award, which is now before the courts.

The following report of the Street and Bridge Committee, relating to street widening, was adopted:

"Your committee, as instructed, advertised for tenders for street widening and received the following tenders:

FOR SOUTHERN DISTRICT.

Thomas McWilliams $150 00

W. J. O'Connell 21 75

Charles Henry 25 00

Charles Brown 20 00

M. Bellot 245 00

FOR NORTHERN DISTRICT.

Edmund Hodgson $104 50

John O'Connell 25 00

John O'Connell 25 00

Wm. Yelland 275 00

Your committee recommend that the contract for the northern district be let to Thomas McWilliams at the amount in his tender, provided he give satisfactory security, and that the contract for the southern district be let to Edmund Hodgson at the same condition.

LOCKING COMMITTEE.

The report of the Locking Committee was submitted by Chairman Sprague as follows:

1. That Francis Faxon be refunded $25, a portion of the fine imposed for a violation of the Billiard Bylaw, and that a cheque be issued to him for that amount.

2. That the Billiard Bylaw be amended so that billiard rooms may remain open until eight o'clock on Saturday nights instead of until seven o'clock as at present.

Clause one was referred back to enable the town solicitor to consider legal points, and clause two came in for much discussion.

An amendment to the effect that no change be made was moved by Councillors Mason and Brady, to a motion made by Councillors Sprague and Dene that the hour be extended to 9 o'clock.

The amendment was lost, and the motion was carried.

A motion (carried) by Councillors Mason and Stone abolishing pool tables was left over for future discussion.

THEY WANT TO SEE IT.

Editor Morning Times.

DEAR SIR:—The former employees of the Canadian General Electric Company, and the old workmen who would like to know just exactly what the terms were upon which the Company secured the large house from the corporation. I understand a public meeting will be held Thursday night, and I think no better opportunity could be had for explaining these terms to the ratepayers. Let the town solicitor bring down the agreement and let it be read at this same meeting.

Peterborough, April 24.

CAN THEY REMOVE?

Editor Morning Times.

DEAR SIR:—I understand that a workman who applied at the Electric Works yesterday for employment was refused, the reason being that the works would be removed to Toronto. Can this be true?

After securing a large bonus from the town can the company remove their works to another place? Is it possible that the agreement between the company and the town that the company shall remain here for a certain number of years?

WANTS A CELEBRATION.

Editor Morning Times.

DEAR SIR:—A few weeks ago the Town Council voted $400 towards defraying the expenses of the C.W.A. meet in the event that Peterborough secured it. We all know that the meet is not to come here. I understand that the local militia is endeavoring to get a celebration for the 24th of May, and has invited several outside battalions to visit Peterborough on that day. It is very probable that this invitation will be accepted, and the 5th battalion of Belleville will accept it. I do not see why we should not have a big celebration on Queen's Birthday and I understand a local celebration has already been arranged for the 24th of May. I think the Council should give part of the sum voted for the C.W.A. meet towards getting up this celebration, which would not only bring a large number of outsiders to Peterborough but would also keep citizens here.

WITH THE SPORTS.

The R. C. C. C. will have their first race of the season on Saturday next. The race will be from Broadview to High Park and the winner will be $100.

The Duke's first race will take place on Independence day, when he will meet the Vigilant in the annual regatta of the Larchmont club.

At the next bazaar show of the Industrial Exhibition Association, Toronto, there will be a donation to the prize list of the program a number of classes open exclusively to local exhibitors.

As Inquisitor at the County Jail.
The county jail being the only strong building in the town in which to temporarily hold an inmate, Mr. Martin Robinson, a young farmer, of Chatham, was placed there yesterday afternoon. For several days back he had exhibited signs of mental disturbance, which so alarmed his relatives that they concluded to put him where he could not injure himself. It is hoped that the young man may soon recover from the affliction. His relatives cannot account for the disturbance—so far as the county jail is concerned, the man is a prisoner, and the county jail is a place of confinement.

ATTEMPT AT ABDUCTION.

A Strange Man Tries to Entice an 11 Year Old Girl From Home.

The police are on the look out for a young man of whom they only have a very slight description. Last night about 8:30 o'clock an attempt was made to entice away the 11 year old little girl of a citizen living in the north end. The purpose of the man is simply a matter of conjecture as the individual was frustrated before he had shown any intention.

The little girl was playing in front of her home when a young man came along and coaxed her to go with him, promising that he would buy her some candy and give her 10 cents. The child went along and when out of sight of her father's house, the man picked her up in his arms and started off down the G. F. R. track. He had proceeded only a short distance when the child's brother, who was returning home, met the man and took his sister away from him. The brother then went to the nearest telephone and called up the police. In the meantime the man made off, and when the police arrived he was nowhere to be found.

The child was not alarmed, believing that the man was going to buy her some candy, until he took her in his arms. Then she was too frightened to cry out. Both she and her brother say they would know the fellow if they saw him. He had been noticed hanging around the neighborhood, and is believed to be a stranger.

Public Opinion With the Men.

The Electric Works' Difficulty Discussed by Citizens at a Public Meeting Last Night.

A Committee of Citizens Appointed to Confer With Either the General or Local Management With a View of Terminating the Differences Now Separating the Company and the Employees, and Inducing a Reconciliation and Resumption of Work.

That the interests of the working men of Peterborough are the interests of the citizens as well, was certainly demonstrated by the large attendance at the public meeting last night. The market hall has the largest seating capacity of any hall in Peterborough, and the audience last night filled it to the utmost, a great many being obliged to stand. The former employees of the company were nearly all present, and the rest of the audience was composed of business men and citizens. The feeling evinced was of sympathy for the employees and everyone of the speakers unhesitatingly pronounced the agreement unjust. The Canadian General Electric Company had no representatives at the meeting.

THE CHAIRMAN'S REMARKS.

Acting Mayor Cahill presided at the meeting. In his opening remarks he expressed pleasure at the large attendance, especially at the presence of the employees of the company. He stated that he was not in the least biased, and that he was not in the least biased, and that he was not in the least biased. He stated that he was not in the least biased, and that he was not in the least biased. He stated that he was not in the least biased, and that he was not in the least biased.

He complimented the mention their conduct since the trouble began. They had acted without violence—there had not been one instance of violence. Certainly the ladies had behaved properly—they always did. In this case, he understood, they had stood by the men nobly. To an invitation to take seats on the platform the following gentlemen responded: Rev. C. B. Kendrick, Rev. E. F. Torrance, Rev. F. B. Scott, Rev. W. R. Young, Mr. Mackenzie, Mr. George Ball, Rev. J. J. Young, Mr. Goldsmith, Mr. A. V. White, Town Clerk S. H. Armstrong, Mr. W. S. Johnson.

The chairman invited anybody who wished to speak on behalf of the company to take seats on the platform. There was no response.

MR. MACKENZIE.

Mr. Mackenzie, chairman of the employees' committee, was the first speaker. He began by reading the agreement which had been the cause of the trouble, and explained it clause by clause. The first clause was as follows: "No one would object to doing the work in a skillful and workmanlike manner, if the schedule of prices were all right. But at the present schedule of prices if a workman put two miles of wire he would not make his salt. He had worked in many shops but never in one conducted as this was. The company employed a place work that those duty assigned to him. He was to be paid for the work he did. He was to be paid for the work he did. He was to be paid for the work he did."

He showed the senselessness of that clause which made a workman responsible not only for the work he might do, but also for the value of the work done by other employees on the particular job.

No company had a right to ask its employees to sign an agreement which debared them from a strike at law. That was the intention of the company. He instanced a lawsuit brought by an employee against the company for wages. The employee won. That suit had been the cause of the company getting up the agreement. It would be the employee's head and foot—it was intended to do that.

Mr. Nicholson had admitted to Acting Mayor Cahill that the company had gone too far in getting out the agreement. He told the committee that. He promised the committee nothing. This was done to place the company right in the eyes of the public, and to cut the ground from under the feet of the men. He pronounced the agreement a glaring injustice.

The committee had done everything in their power to bring about a settlement. He had tried to get the company to agree to a settlement. He had tried to get the company to agree to a settlement. He had tried to get the company to agree to a settlement.

Rev. Mr. Torrance asked Mr. Mackenzie if the men would sign a modified agreement. He replied that they would, but that the only modifications permitted by Mr. Nicholson were to delete the clause about the value of the work done by other employees, and to delete the clause about the value of the work done by other employees.

Rev. Mr. Torrance asked if Mr. Nicholson would agree to a settlement. He replied that he would, but that the only modifications permitted by Mr. Nicholson were to delete the clause about the value of the work done by other employees, and to delete the clause about the value of the work done by other employees.

Rev. Mr. Torrance asked if Mr. Nicholson would agree to a settlement. MENTION THIS PAPER.

THE TIMES.

PETERBOROUGH, APRIL 26 1895.

It is given out for publication that the Prince of Wales is coming to America this year to witness the races for the America cup.

But the people of Toronto believe that the real object of the Prince is coming over is to be present at Toronto's great fair.

They are going to have a regatta in Belleville some time this summer, and the Belleville folks are calling in a great Summer Carnival.

Belleville is the site of Corby's distillery, and the people down there think they can run a carnival on water.

The rise in oil began in Japan immediately after an agreement between the standard and the Russian companies for a division of territory. This is proof that the rise was due to manipulation and not to natural causes.

Badinquet, the nickname still applied to Napoleon III. in France, is not, as is usually supposed, the name of the workman in whose clothes Louis Napoleon escaped from Ham, but a common Picard word meaning a simpleton, and first used of him by the soldiers who guarded him.

When he landed at Boulogne he wore a blue coat and military cap, and not the cocked hat, green coat, and white breeches of his uncle. The story of the tame eagle, however, is true; it was carried in a cage.

A PROSPEROUS COMPANY.

Elsewhere will be found a report of the twenty-third annual meeting of the shareholders of the Confederation Life Association, which took place at the head office of the Company, on Tuesday, 9th inst.

Notwithstanding the prevailing depression, the company has made a splendid record for the year just closed. During the 12 months there was received by the company 2,311 applications for a total insurance of $3,631,550. Of these 2,218 were approved for $3,409,550, and 93 were declined, and five deferred. Adding the renewed policies, which had been written off in previous years, and bonus additions the new business for the year was 2,248 policies for $3,528,304 of insurance. The total insurance in force at the close of the year was $25,455,342, represented by 16,625 policies on 14,667 lives. During the year there were 93 deaths, involving $1,994.50 reinsurance. This speaks volumes for the care exercised in the selection of new business, and is very complimentary to the representatives of the company who have charge of this important department of work.

Taken as a whole the report is exceedingly satisfactory, and bears ample testimony to the faithful and prudent management. Mr. J. K. Macdonald, the popular general manager, and his able staff of assistants, have every reason to feel proud of the high position attained by the Confederation.

OURSELVES.

For the past few days, notwithstanding the large number of copies printed, the demand for the Times has exceeded the supply. We have been increasing the number by a couple of hundred daily, still we are usually sold out before noon. This speaks volumes for the people's paper, as the Times is read in all the towns and villages. Advertisers should make a note of this.

THE LIME JUICE CLUB.

REGULAR WEEKLY MEETING OF THIS CHASTE SOCIETY.

Another Bumpster Attempt to Destroy the Hall of Wisdom—The President in Good Form—Large Attendance of Members.

When the Janitor opened the Hall of Wisdom yesterday afternoon to make ready for the evening gathering he discovered that the big bear trap set under the middle alley window had been sprung. A further investigation proved that the window sash had been pried up from the outside with a chisel. The miscreant, whoever he was, doubtless intended to fire and destroy the hall, but his evil intentions were defeated by the presence of the trap. He was barefooted and as he dropped a leg through the window his foot hit the trap. It was a close call for him—so close that the jaws shaved off a piece of his big toe nail as they came together. This fragment, which is about the size of an old fashioned 20-cent piece, is the only clue left behind, and unless the villain become conscience-stricken and reveals his identity he will probably escape detection.

The matter created a good deal of excitement when the members began to gather in the evening. The President, and leading members carefully examined the fragment and gave it as their opinion that the former owner was a lop-shouldered man with very prominent ears and a cast in his left eye. When the meeting had been called to order the President said:

"We must expect such things, and I am in no way surprised. From the time Cain killed Abel the bad has always been trying to make it unpleasant for the good, and no doubt they will continue to do so to the end of time. I shall appoint Tiedup Garley, Sendown Hartley and Bombshell Macnaughton committee to investigate and report on the advisability of purchasing a burglar-alarm and four spring-guns for the further protection of this hall. Let us now proceed to business."

EAST AND WEST POLES.

Bro. Ticket Agent Hurley, a distinguished member of the Peterborough Fortnightly Club, ascended the dias to present his views regarding a very important matter. Mr. Hurley is a gentleman of fine education and liberal views, and is now seeking to stir up the public on the subject of discovering the East and West Poles, leaving the North and South to be found by other people. In his brief speech to the Club he stated his belief that an open sea existed around the West Pole—a sea whose waters were as tranquil as a meadow, and tasting like gin and sugar with nutmeg grated in. The bark which entered this sea would pass over beds of purest coral, be surrounded by mermaids, move in an air of choice flowers, and be certain to return laden with diamonds, rubies and pearls. Mr. Hurley was solicited aid to enable him to charter a vessel and buy provisions, and it had been his idea from the first to invite at least two members of the Lime Juice Club to accompany a ship. He left a description paper on the Secretary's desk, and less than two hours the following amount were subscribed: Crispien Mulcahey, 2c; Poney More, and Landon Kennaley, Keene, 1c each; and Jamfied Jones, 4c.

AN APPLICATION.

The Secretary then read the following: Threeply Smith, a citizen of Lindsay, approving of the principles and aims of the Lime Juice Club, do hereby offer myself as a candidate for membership. I am 40 years of age, and my health is Al. Beran Veritas. I am subject to neither corns, bunions, pneumonia nor rheumatism. A part of my occupation at one time was that of teamster. The boys used to call me "Caw!" at my old horse, thus endeavoring to convey the impression that the cows have a bill of sale on him. But Lord bless you, it would give Martin Connors, a headache to hear that 'ar horse chewing hay. If any one is foolish enough to think that his teeth are no good they are woefully mistaken. I guess he's good enough for another season anyhow.

I am a true born British subject of the Canadian type; but am in perfect accord with the Sir Richard on the Fishery and childless questions, and I have the highest respect for all his rulings, whether relating to science or matters pertaining to the Constitution and by-laws of the Club.

I am a member (in apparent good standing and condition) in the Methodist Church, and I chew nigger-head tobacco. I do not particularly hanker after hen-roots unless under exceedingly favorable circumstances.

I celebrate Dominion Day and Twelfth of July by getting full—of good resolutions. But my highest aim and noblest ambition in life is to get initiated into the Lime Juice Club, and then get a dispensation from President McBride, and organize a branch here for the benefit of Cautious Miller, Gignarale Kennaley, and other worthy citizens. If however, Carole Le-Bron, Givedam Slabs, Samuel Shin or Shidley Watson should drop any black bomb in the ballot box the night of the election, let them beware! I will start for Peterborough as soon as the "Northern Light" runs in the spring gentle Annie, armed with a razor that never opened an oyster or cut a corn, and will wipe out the whole trash. That's the kind of a British subject I am. So I say let them beware!

Should I, however, have the extreme honor of being elected I presume the initiation ceremony will have to be conducted by telegraph, as I cannot very well appear in person. So I just wish to ask that the club will kindly not turn too much electricity on the battery, as the shock might be too much on my constitution and by-laws.

For further information respecting my character or temperament I refer you to Mayor Walters, or Ed. Daly.

(Signed) THREEPLY SMITH.

This 18th day of April 1895.

A DANGEROUS FAILURE.

At this juncture the Keeper of the Password announced that Prof. Boliver Jackson, of Cobourg, was present with his back action, Threeply, full jewelled, heel compressor, and would like to give an exhibition before the Club. The President explained that the Secretary had had some correspondence with the inventor, and that the gentleman had come at his own expense. There were people just foolish enough to feel ashamed of the long heels given them by nature to make their mark in the world, and this heel-compressor had been invented to reshape the foot. He was perfectly satisfied with his own feet, but he would have the machine brought in and let any member of the club try it. Prof. Jackson was accordingly admitted, and he placed his room and delivered a short lecture on his long struggle, to secure what the human race had so long sighed for. He warranted it to work smoothly, evenly and satisfactorily in all respects, and Tiedup Garley volunteered his feet to be experimented on. Pulling off one of his cowhides, he placed this right foot in the box, and the Professor began turning the crank and singing: "We Shall Never Meet Again." At the seventh turn of the crank the springs encountered a corn fourteen years old on Bro. Garley's heel, and an explosion took place which knocked the Professor down, pitched Bro. Garley in the wood box, and sent Bro. Carole Le-Bron headlong down the hall on his stomach. Five of the lamps were extinguished, one of the bear traps thrown down, and 116 new cracks appeared in the ceiling. It was a great wonder that no one was killed, as pieces flew here and there, and one cog wheel weighing four pounds was hurled through a window and knocked a shower of shingles of an adjoining building. There was great confusion for two or three minutes, during which time the Professor leaped from a back window into the alley and escaped.

WHAT THE CLUB HAS DONE.

"Gentlemen," began the President as he slowly rose to his feet and rubbed a clump out of his left leg, "I wish to say a few words before we go home. I was called out last night by Hon. Samuel Jackson, who dropped over to see me on his way to the meeting of Parliament in Ottawa. I believe that he is one of the greatest orators in the country, and that what he don't know ain't worth knowing. After we had talked and talked, he squared off to me and says he: 'Bro. McBride, you have been running that Lime Juice Club for five full years. The proceedings have proceeded regularly, and heaps of business has been split to pieces, but what has been gained? What good has the Club done? Who has been made gooder? I could have made the old sinner a speech four hours long in reply. What has this great Club done? Only a few years ago the men of this town were pulling and hauling this way and that way, cutting prices in different lines, including whitewashing and blackening stoves. Nobody seemed to know nothing. Our Crispien Mulcahey didn't know enough to peel an onion, and now he is leader of a string band, belongs to the church, and keeps a horse. Jamfied Jones couldn't even read, and was in rage; to-day he can read and write and figure, wears good clothes and who keeps a better butcher shop than Jamfied? Tiedup Garley over there was in the jug, his wife had run away, and life was nothing to him. And where is there a happier man in this town than Tiedup? I can show you 50 men who have earned to read. I can show you big changes home circles. I can show you that this club has paid off debts, re-united families, clothed children, helped the suffering and put pride into low-down hearts. Let that enough? Is there any member who could ask for more? (Immense applause.)

Speeches were made by Anvil Davis, Henroost Bell, Cautious Miller and others, and every member of the Club seemed satisfied that the workings of the Club was all that could be expected.

A RARE GIFT.

The President announced that he had received notice of the shipment to the Club of a rare gift to the museum, being a No. 8 shoe unearthed from the ruins of Troy by Dr. Schliemann. The sole of this shoe bears the letter 'H,' and is supposed to belong to Helen of Troy, as she is known to have worn a shoe of that number. The gift is from the Society of Bright Fellows of Lindsay, before which society Sir Richard is deliver an essay on "Ancient Bunions."

The Secretary was directed to return thanks, and the music was duly labelled and placed on the museum shelf. The meeting then fell asunder for one week.

THE INFORMER.

The trial in Montreal of railway conductors, charged with having conspired to defraud a railway company, has resulted in the disagreement of the jury. There were eleven jurors for acquittal and one for conviction. The evidence in the case seems to leave no doubt that the railway company was defrauded; that the company did not receive payment for carrying the informer. He is not a lovable person who, on pretence of being hard up, inducing a conductor to pass him free, or on payment of a portion of the regular fare, and it is hard to convince the average jurymen that the temper is not more to blame than the tempted. It is the same way with the case of the whiskey informer. This particular sort of informer induces the liquor seller to violate the law, and then lays information against the dealer for having broken the law. Before a police magistrate the evidence of the whiskey informer is generally accepted, but were the whiskey seller's case to be decided by a jury the chances are there would be no conviction. In fact the average juror would with much pleasure condemn the informer to fine and imprisonment, and allow the seller to go free. The result in Montreal may be taken as a protest against the system of employing informers to induce people to do that which is wrong.

Twenty Thousand Trees.

There are nearly 20,000 trees in bloom now at Dunlop's conservatories Bloom-st. west, Toronto. Visitors are always well come. Mr. Dunlop is proud of his establishment and takes pleasure in speaking on his beauties. He ships them by sea and express to all parts of Canada, and as these orders are filled direct from the trees, he guarantees them to arrive in good condition. See. A VERY PROSPEROUS YEAR

CONFEDERATION LIFE ASSOCIATION

The Twenty-third Annual Report Presented

LARGE VOLUME OF NEW BUSINESS

Substantial Increase in All Departments of Business—Favorable Mortality Experience—Payments to Policy-Holders Exceeded $438,000.

The annual meeting of the above association was held at the head office of the company, Yonge, Richmond and Victoria streets, on the afternoon of Tuesday, the 9th inst. There was a large attendance of shareholders, policy holders and members of the agency staff.

Hon. Sir W. P. Howland, C.B., K.C., M.G., President, was called to the chair, and Mr. J. K. Macdonald, Managing Director, acted as Secretary.

The following report and financial statements were submitted:

REPORT.

Your directors beg to submit to the policy holders and shareholders the 23rd annual report of the association, covering the operations for the year 1894. In doing so it is scarcely necessary to state that the year was one of unusual stringency and general depression in all branches of trade. This could scarcely fail to have a marked influence upon the business of life insurance, and in view of that fact it will be a source of gratification to all persons interested in the association to observe the substantial progress made and the large volume of new business secured. It has not been deemed wise to depart from the policy which has guided your directors in the past, and therefore new business was sought for only at reasonable cost.

Your directors have had before them 2,311 applications for a total insurance of $3,631,550. Of these 2,218 for $3,409,550 were approved; 93 for $152,000 were declined, and 5 for various reasons were deferred. Adding the revived policies, which had been written off in previous years, and bonus additions, the new business for the year was 2,248 policies for $3,528,304 of insurance.

The total insurance in force at the close of the year was $25,455,342 under 16,625 policies on 14,667 lives.

The death claims for the year were 93, being 93 deaths under 105 policies, calling for a total insurance of $164,287.50. Under a reinsurance this amount was reduced by the sum of $1,094.50, making the net claims $163,193. This is a striking evidence of the care exercised in the selection and acceptance of new business, and is a high compliment to our field staff.

The financial statements submitted herewith fully exhibit the position of the association on the 31st December last.

The auditors have continued to give close attention to their duties, and have been thorough and prompt in their work. Their report will be found appended hereto.

Your directors are pleased to be able to state that the head office building is filling up very well, considering the effect of the prevailing depression upon all property of the kind. A considerable portion has been rented during the past year, and more since the beginning of the present year.

All the directors retire, but are eligible for re-election.

W. P. HOWLAND, President.

J. K. MACDONALD, Managing Director.

A Silver Wedding.—A number of the friends of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Kindred assembled at the Temperance House last night the occasion being the silver wedding anniversary of the host and hostess. A very pleasant evening was spent.

The Business World.—Stewart Howard & Co., Orangeville, are financially embarrassed.

J. D. Mills & Co., paper box men, Hamilton, are to be sold out by the fall of April 30.

Calcutt's Porter.—H. CALCUTT, Esq., Dear Sir—I had a fit of cholera last fall that reduced me to 171 pounds. I was recommended by my physician to use Calcutt's Porter, and, as medicine, it seemed to do me no good at first, but after using a glass a day during the winter I now weigh 187 pounds. F. W. St.

Horses Wanted.—Mr. W. J. Pearson will be at White's hotel, Peterborough, Wednesday and Thursday, May 1st and 2nd; Crocker's hotel, Millbrook, Thursday, May 3rd; and McGowan's hotel, Newmarket, Friday, May 4th, for the purpose of buying a car load of good sound horses of all classes. Parties having horses to dispose of should bear in mind that Mr. Pearson pays the highest prices obtainable in the Dominion.

Want to Play Ball.—Secretary Buchanan of the Peterborough Baseball club has received a letter from A. S. Pearson, secretary of the Peterborough Gladiators, colored baseball team, stating that he is desirous of getting a game on with the Peterborough club. The colored team of ball players will come here on June 1st if a guarantee is offered them. They travel in a Pullman private car and have a band of their own. The Peterborough club will hold a meeting to discuss the advisability of securing a game with them.

The Private Secretary.—Bay's Players presented "The Private Secretary" in the opera house last night to a full audience. The play is one of the best comedies on the stage today, and as yet by this company have nothing of the importance or humor. The spectacle consisting of songs and song dancing are good. May A. Bell in her songs and dances was generous applause last night. Under and Perry do a good deal of turn, and Fred Percus demonstrates his right to rank as a high-class comedian.

Editorial Hotel For Sale.—The particular attention of those interested is directed to an advertisement in another place in this issue announcing that that well known hotel, opposite the railway station, the Editorial Hotel, is for sale. The building is large, recently built in the most modern and convenient style, and is furnished complete in every particular. It contains 20 large bedrooms, three parlors, billiard room, and all other appointments in large, comfortable hotel. A fresh clean hotel. Particulars as to terms may be learned on application to Messrs. Farnsworth & Ward, Water street.

Accident.—On Monday last Mrs. W. Harper met with a severe accident. It appears that Mrs. Harper wanted a view window taken down, and as there were no men around the place at the time she undertook to take the window down herself. She had got it unhooked and left it hanging in the air while she stepped down a short ladder to the ground. Before she got quite to the ground the window fell out, and to save herself Mrs. Harper put her hands above her head, the window falling on her head, breaking her head, fracturing a number of vertebrae and bruising on her head, face, neck and hands, several of which required stitches. It will be some time before Mrs. Harper gets over the effects. —Lakeland News.

No Dork Like Us Any More.—There is a milk and water blanket sheet, calling itself a newspaper, issued weekly in the thriving village of Millbrook, known to a few as the Millbrook Reporter. The misapprehension who is responsible for the issue of its columns thus goes out of his way to jump on THE TIMES.

"The Peterborough TIMES is just now running a voting contest as to who is the most popular bachelor in Peterborough, and while it may be amusing to the readers of the town to enjoy the discomforts of prominent citizens, we think it unbecomingly of bachelor journalists and is altogether out of keeping with the progressive spirit of the town and our day of generation."

The Reporter is over interfering with outside newspapers, and it is little wonder its editors remain on its hands and its other friends it necessary to advertise on papers.

"We have a quantity of newspapers at the Reporter office suitable for wrapping paper, putting under carpets, etc., which will be sold cheap."

From a sample of the last issue the Reporter would make mighty poor wrapping paper, too.

"How to Cure All Skin Diseases."—Shanty copy "SWATERS' OINTMENT." No internal medicine required. Open sores, ulcers, itch, all eruptions in the skin, itching, etc., leaving the skin clear, white and healthy. Its great healing and curative power makes it a household necessity. Milligan was chosen to take charge of the program and any who wish to take part in the concert and aid in making it a success are requested to send in their names to him.

THE GIRLS HAVE A RECORD.

Their Name is Not White and They Have Been in Trouble Before.

Chief of Police Gannett is in receipt of a letter from Chief Constable of Peterborough, giving the records of the girls, Edith and Ethel White, who were convicted in the Police Court a few days ago of the theft of a quantity of clothing from a house in Jarvis street. Their proper name is Middleton, and these methods of dishonesty in Peterborough were similar to those practiced here, seeking employment in private houses and hotels and stealing whatever clothing or money they could lay hold of.

At the time of leaving Peterborough for Toronto, several weeks ago, they took with them for the C. E. H. station, a trunk of clothing which was not their own. The trunk was claimed at the station by its lawful owner before it could be taken away, but the girls escaped arrest. They will appear in the Police Court for sentence on Tuesday next.—Toronto World.

HORSE THIEF CAUGHT.

An English Boy who Says he Cannot help Stealing.

Some time in November last, Chief of Police Jarvis received word from the Post Office police to look out for a horse which had been stolen from a farmer named Robert Martin in the township of Hope. The thief was supposed to be a lad named Richard Newton, who had been living with him up to that time. He was not found until the time passed on the Post Office police gave it up. Chief Jarvis has been keeping his eyes open, however, and a short time ago, he received information that the party he wanted was living in the township of Hope, about forty miles north of Toronto. He was also suspicious that this Newton was the same party he had a warrant for, in connection with a robbery committed at Hampton, about a year ago, and in order to make things certain, he left here on Tuesday afternoon of last week, and was back the next afternoon, bringing the thief with him, and had also located the horse and a bridle and saddle. He sent word to Mr. Martin, who came up the next day and proceeded to Markham, where he secured the horse, which was a valuable one when he lost it, but which has had some hard usage since. Newton, who is only 17 years of age, was up before Police Magistrate Holmes on Saturday, who committed him to custody for trial. He said that Chief Jarvis that he could not help stealing, as when the temptation came on him he could not resist it. He is an English boy and his parents reside in the old country.—Bowmanville News.

A Providential Escape.

Mr. Wm. Flavelle received a letter from Montreal yesterday giving particulars of the wonderful escape of his little three-year-old nephew, Jack Aird, from instant death the day previous. His nephew had gone driving, leaving him in charge of the horse. Before they had proceeded a mile they were halted by an acquaintance and informed that there had been an accident at their home, and accordingly they drove back at a rapid pace, not knowing what to expect. As they approached their residence they saw a crowd of people gathering up at a third story window, the which was missing, and when they entered the house they learned that Master Jack had perished himself of the half of a pair of shears and smothering himself in the window room had begun playing with the shears holding the cord in position. In some way he managed to undo them while the nurse was temporarily absent, and boy window and shears were precipitated to the ground below. Wonderful to relate, although rendered terrible for a time, he speedily recovered, and no ill effects have been developed. Even the glass in the window which escaped being shattered. —Lindsay Post.

DR. CAMERON'S CASE.

The Case of Stamps Seizing in Montreal Investigated.

Dr. Charles Cameron who was arrested in Montreal on a charge of stealing a valuable collection of postage stamps is known in Peterborough. The case was investigated in the police court on Thursday and the Montreal Gazette gives the following report of the evidence.

The seizure in the case of Dr. Charles E. Cameron, charged with stealing four thousand dollars worth of postage stamps from Edgar Norton, was contained in the Police court yesterday morning. High Constable Bismont was the first witness, and said that the album of stamps produced he had secured at the residence of the prisoner in a search warrant, and that the complainant had recognized in his presence some of the stamps in the album as belonging to him. Mr. Chapman, stamp collector, said that certain stamps had been offered him for sale by Mr. Katschman, of Belleville, and he recognized some of them on certain ones that were in Norton's collection, and which were also identified by Norton. Katschman had told him (witness) that he had got them from the accused. The complainant was then examined, and said in his evidence that on the day the stamps were stolen he was invited by someone to take dinner with him at a club, and to be sure to be there by noon sharp. He went to the place but prisoner had not arrived, but came soon after, and then they dined together. These both went for a drive, and prisoner went back with him to his boarding house, and it was when he went to pack his suitcase that he missed the stamps. He had been told by the landlady that a man had called about the stamps, and he had been shown to his room and that he had every reason to believe that it was the accused.

After cross-examination by Mr. R. A. E. Greenfield, the charges were adjourned.

LITTLE LOCAL LINES.

Items of Interest Intelligently Presented for Busy Readers.

Market day. The newspaper A.A.A. will meet to-night.

A meeting of the cricket club will be held to-night.

Beware of counterfeit quarters. They are dated 1888.

The Rev. J. J. Rao will preach the evangelical sermon for the Independent order of service on Sunday next in the Methodist church, Millbrook.

It is said that the man who won't take a paper because he can borrow one, has invented a machine with which he can cook his dinner by the smoke of his neighbor's chimney.

Capt. Mason, Adjutant of the 57th has received the certificates of Sgt. A. G. Phillips, of "C" company, and Pte. H. Phillips, of "B" company, who attended the war hospital in France, and both passed highly creditable examinations.

Mr. Thomas Treanor, of Ball Lake, has been furnishing citizens with spruce trees and other shrubbery for spring planting. Proprietor Holland, of the Holland House, has just received a consignment of a new lot of young trees, which add greatly to its appearance.

The first boat to pass through the Lindt lock this season was the Waterwitch, which steamed up the river yesterday afternoon for Carleton Place. To conform with the custom in vogue at large ports, Lockmaster Currie should present the captain with a new hat, and no doubt he will do so.

A teacher in Montreal has been ordered by the courts to pay $100 for injuries caused by opening a window near which a child was sitting and then causing the child a severe illness. The parents were just and should serve as a warning to other teachers who do not show sufficient regard for the health of the pupils under their care.

The law of libel is spreading at a galloping pace all over. Last week a clergyman in California got into a church meeting for the reformation of a certain woman, the poor good man thinking very naturally that such a course was on the line of duty and privilege. He ended about John Bull, and when he said, the court remarked that libel at a prayer meeting is now in vogue.

One day last week, while Mr. Daniel Henderson, east ward, was engaged in clearing a lot of brush on the north side of the Burnt Co's mill on the end of his work he struck upon a rough box about three feet long, and upon examining it found it contained the remains of a child which apparently had been buried many years ago. The box was only about six inches beneath the surface of the ground. —Lindsay Post.

WITH THE SPORTS.

Cyclists in class B who will compete in the five mile championship race at Waterloo on Dominion Day will likely have something worth racing for. Joseph E. Seagram, the horseman, has made an offer of a $1,000 purse for the winner of a five mile race on the end of his work he struck upon a rough box about three feet long, and upon examining it found it contained the remains of a child which apparently had been buried many years ago. The box was only about six inches beneath the surface of the ground. —Lindsay Post.

The different clubs are evidently chasing after the "long green" if the applications for sanction for racing meets are an indication. The Wanderers want three or four more, and the other clubs are not far behind.

Somebody thinks it could stand the same number, on June 8, August 15, and September 8. Hamilton is modest, wanting but more, and that on August 15. Seagram is after the 15 mile and 10 mile championship races, and the Wanderers have put a claim for the latter.

Seagram is the favorite for the Brooklyn Race.

The National League scores were: New York 3, Boston 1; Brooklyn 14, Baltimore 6; Philadelphia 14, Washington 10; Pittsburgh 7, Cincinnati 1; Louisville 14, Chicago 4; Cleveland 4, St. Louis 2.

Ernest D. Rogers, of Schuyler, Saratoga county N. Y., wants to see John Gauder for a $1,000 and the championship of America. Mr. Gauder is held to open the summer at Belleville in training on the Bay of Quinte but this challenge, if it is earnest, will likely alter his plans.

The Toronto local players will open their local season in Springfield on Monday. The balance of the practice games this week have been cancelled.

The score of the last shoot of the Gun club is as follows:

Fryer 20
Terry 17
James 14
Dayman 9

Mr. Maurice O'Brien spent last Sunday in the village.

Messrs. Quinn, Sullivan & Co., of Lakefield, have just completed a neat woodshed for Mr. Wm. Condon, on his farm about two miles from town.

Sir Richard McBride, president of the Limerick Club, has been in the village. He received a hearty welcome during his sojourn here, and has succeeded in establishing a prosperous branch here, which is a credit to the village. It will hold its first meeting Monday.

We understand that one of our leading merchants has got despatched on the road to investigate as to how low the I. L. L. and Combination plough points can be sold.

An agent, introducing a new scheme by which merchants could increase his sales and profits, paid a visit to the village last week. The plan was to place a large tin pail or diaphan in the window with a light on it, on which a very low price was to be set, and cheap string beads and other trifles were to be treated in the same manner. "This," he said, "will throw the farmers into an ecstasy of surprise, and you can easily persuade them to take something else on which you can make double profit." He did not succeed very well in the west side of the village, as P. O. gave his scheme the appropriate title of "the one best kept secret."

Every Need Anticipated

That's the sum and substance of this store news. No occasion for a pyrotechnic display. It's no news to you. Heads of families appreciate the fact more than they can ever tell, and more people are finding us out every day.

Every possible clothing need of man, woman and child has been anticipated. You can't think of a thing that we haven't got. And the prices we ask are a direct bid for twice over the trade we have now.

Things for Men

Friday and Saturday are the getting days of the week. We have about everything that young men need, and prices never were so low before. Call the roll:

—Suits —Overcoats
—Trousers —Hats
—Neckwear —Shirts
—Collars —Cuffs
—Underwear —Shoes
—Handkerchiefs —Furnishings

In addition to Bicycles and Sporting Goods. Of course we have all we can do. Men are not so fond of throwing money away as to be indifferent to their own interests.

Newest Millinery

Styles you'll see nowhere else, at least for another month. That's the way our millinery stock leads. This has reference to goods that have only just been opened. If we were sure you wouldn't all come at once we'd tell you more about them.

Good Shoes

We've been on a foraging expedition—took along all the money we wanted and turned it into shoes. Surprising what ready cash will do when it comes to making a bargain.

In addition to the regular stock we have certain special lines, good enough to be printed in big, black type. The only trouble is we haven't enough of them. But there's nothing to hinder your getting here first.

TALK UNITED STATES

THE AMERICAN LANGUAGE COMPARED WITH THE ENGLISH.

A London Publication Calls Attention to the Difference in the Names Applied to Ordinary Articles—With Some Remarks on "Speak United States."

"I am from, white, 51, and I speak United States," is the modern declaration of independence of every native adult American citizen.

The traveled American—everything by turns and nothing long—who aims at cosmopolitanism and invariably misses the target altogether, and the naturalized creature of indefinite origin, may not proclaim for "United States," but they adopt it all the same, in deference to the subtle power politicians call the vis major.

The American language used to be English, of course—English pure and simple, if English ever was either pure or simple—but it has prospered on its own account, like other things American, and now the English language is being Americanized, like the English nobility, and its vivacity is considerably benefited by the process.

That English is still the basis of "United States" the most thoroughgoing American never denies, but the game never being worth the candle, and he never plays games in the dark. The language is the same, with a difference, and in that lies the root of the matter and this article, for though London and New York speak a common, very common, Anglo-Saxon, if we forget for the moment the veneer of French, Latin, Greek and other languages with which it has been polished, yet the meaning of many words, from which language derives its significance, is considerably modified and altered in their passage across the Atlantic, and they become nearly if not quite as unintelligible as the cockney would find the dialect of a Northumberland village.

Thus, if a Londoner is fortunate enough to cross the Atlantic and be introduced to a sky which has not been discovered by smoke, a sun which has not been dimmed by fog and an atmosphere which the powers have not forgotten to dry and is as stimulating as champagne, but is unfortunately enough to have to buy a frock coat—a most expensive article—or to order tea—as a rule, quite a different matter—he must call it "a Prince Albert."

Prince Albert coat it is in republican America, whatever it may be in monarchical England, where "Albert the Good" is occasionally remembered when the anniversary of his death comes round.

If he wants a billycock hat, he will never get it if he asks for it by that name. He must request the shopman to bring him a derby.

Should the coverings of his feet be worn out and he orders a new pair of boots, he will be given Wellingtons, which are "boots" in the American language. If he wants English boots, he must ask for "boots," while if he likes to show pretty socks and wear Oxford shoes he must call for "ties," or "low cuts," and "slippers" if he needs pumps.

He will find, too, that he does not buy articles in a shop, but at a "store," and he will be sent to the different departments by a "shopwalker," not a shopkeeper.

If he would travel in the city, and he desires to use the most decided of New York's public conveyances, which luckily for them whose time is valuable play only up and down aristocratic Fifth avenue, he must forget that such an abomination as an omnibus ever existed and hail a "stage," while if he wishes to go by rail, he must be careful to say "express" or "smoke car" for train have no existence in the American vocabulary. If, further, he would, when in Rome, do what Rome does, let him forego the use of railway until he returns home and train himself to say "railroad," and let him never forget that he walks on the "sidewalk," not on the pavement.

Should he unfortunately happen to get ill, let him boldly declare that he "feels sick," entirely devoid of what he would be understood to mean home, or it will be taken that he is nauseated, for the words sick and ill mean just the reverse of what they signify in London, and if his doctor gives him a prescription let him not ask to be directed to a chemist, or he will be sent off to a manufacturer of chemicals, if any one knows the address of such a firm, but let him seek for a "pharmacy" or "drug store."

Instead of a draper's shop he will find a "dry goods store," and if he desires to go to one of the upper floors he will take the "elevator," though, as is so frequently the case, the reverse is the truth, for he will certainly not discover a lift, while, if his wife has requested him to buy her some hairpins, books and eyes, cottons or other small articles, he will find them at the "notion counter."

As, being a stranger, he will not have his own carriage, he will, if he wants a drive, "hire" a "coach," which is not a cart for carrying packages, but a very comfortable, light, open vehicle, or else in a "buggy," an equally light conveyance with a hood, but open at the sides. If he professes a single horse brougham, he will do well to call it a "coupe," and if he asks for a "carriage" he will get a Victoria with a pair of horses.

In the evening he will naturally go to the theater, but he must be careful to ask for "orchestra seats" if he wants stalls, while if his tastes are not for drama proper, and he prefers a music hall entertainment, he should invite his friend to go to a "variety show."

If a play is advertised as a "farce comedy," and he imagines he will see a farce, comedy, he will be doomed to disappointment, for a farce comedy is only an alleged play in which the characters are taken by variety show "artists" who introduce their "specialties"—song and dance—in scenes and out of scenes. In other words, it is a comedy in a farce, or a farce in a comedy, without the divinity in the programme.

In the pronunciation United States is a law unto itself, and if the aforementioned Londoner gets "busted" or wants employment as a clerk let him not call himself a "clerk," for people will open their eyes at his peculiar pronunciation, and let him also remember that he wears a derby hat, not a derby.

Above all, let him avoid as he would a plague the nasal twang which passes current for the American accent on the London stage unless he happens after being mistaken for a denizen of the "wild and woolly west," or as halting from Oklahoma or Kalamezon, both of which places, in spite of a popular belief to the contrary, will be found on the map of the country over which the stars and stripes float and the bald-headed eagle cums—London Saturday Review.

One Hundred Rebels Defeated by Twenty-two Soldiers.

Special to The Times.
SANTIAGO DE CUBA, April 28.—One hundred insurgents, under Ramon Llanos, attacked Dos Caminos, 18 or 20 miles from here, last Saturday. There were 23 Spanish soldiers in the town. They stood together and kept up a steady fire on the storming party until Llanos gave up the attack and sent a hasty retreat with his men. The insurgents lost seven killed and fourteen wounded. Gen. Balboa, commander in chief of the troops in this province, has given medals to the 23 men who defended the town.

OTTAWA GOSSIP.

The Hudson Bay Project Likely to be Abandoned by the Government.

Special to The Times.
OTTAWA, April 28.—The Government will abandon the Hudson Bay Railway project. That is what Ontario Conservatives are saying. The order in council passed a short time ago authorized a loan of $2,500,000, but the indications are that no steps will be taken under the order in view of the present financial outlook. There is a strong opposition in Conservative ranks to the proposal.

J. W. W. Gage, of Toronto will prepare a statement to submit to the Government, asking aid for a Conservative Home. He returns to Toronto to night.

Mr. Gillies, M. P., left today for Boston on a private visit. He will return on Tuesday.

Ident. Col. Tisdale, M. P., made his first appearance today for the season, and received a warm welcome from his colleagues.

THEY WANT TO FIGHT.

Most of the Chinese Generals Want Somebody's Blood.

Special to The Times.
SHANGHAI, April 28.—A despatch received here from Peking says that affairs there are in a critical state. The Chinese generals are in favor of continuing the war. The emperor's object to Viceroy Li Hung Chang and the terms of the treaty of peace between China and Japan, and some of the officials are claiming that the Emperor alone should decide upon the terms. The ratification of the treaty, consequently, is uncertain, and if it is ratified it is feared that there will be trouble with the army.

Newfoundland Won't Come In.

OTTAWA, April 28.—It is stated here that all hope of bringing Newfoundland into Confederation has been practically abandoned for the present.

The Agent for the "Salvo" on the Editor.
GUTHRIE, O. T., April 28.—John Tishner, editor of Weekly News, at Pawhuska, Okla. nation, has been banished from the Okla. country by the Indian agent, John Freeman. John Tishner has been "banished" Freeman in his paper. Under United States laws he cannot run a newspaper in the nation without the agent's consent.

A Cripple and His Two Children Cremated.
FRANKFORT, Ky., April 28.—Five cheap stores in this place, on Bridge street, South Frankfort, were destroyed by fire last night. George Yager, a cripple, and his two children, aged 5 and 8 years respectively, it is thought, were burned to death. The loss was $6,000.

Not too Insignificant to Behave Recently.
LONDON, April 28.—The Pall Mall Gazette, commenting on the trouble between Great Britain and Nicaragua, says that nothing could be more courteous than the attitude of the United States in the difficulty, adding, "It is a good omen for a close understanding upon the Chinese Japan question. Our action may be expected to teach the Spanish American states that none of them are too insignificant to behave decently to foreigners."

The Ottawa Star Again.
OTTAWA, April 28.—Hon. J. C. Patterson, Minister of Militia in the present Government, has resigned his portfolio and will leave for California tomorrow. Friction between himself and Major-General Herbert is the cause of the resignation. Mr. Patterson has large interests in the Pacific States and has announced to his friends that at least as Canada is "England's donkey engine" he will not live in the country.—Rochester Herald.

A New Yorker's Suicide.
NEW YORK, April 28.—John McCabe, 60 years old, ex-chief of the fire department, committed suicide shortly after noon today in the Mulholland club rooms by shooting himself in the right temple with a revolver.

Wandered from Home—Found Drowned.
HARTFORD, Conn., April 28.—Mrs. F. Girard, aged 64, during a fit of temporary insanity, wandered away from her home during the night and was found drowned in the river here this morning.

Peers, Esq., Ex-Mayor of Toronto Junction and J. B. Brooks, Esq., grand worthy Patriarch of the Sons of Temperance for the Province of Ontario, Toronto. They are entirely independent disinterested gentlemen, and have sealed the jar, marked it with their private signet, and will open it at the close of Competition, count the money and announce the winners.

SALA'S MOTHER.

Her Experiences With Pagani and Malibran in Giving a Concert in London.

In the "Life and Adventures of George Augustus Sala," written by himself, the following concerning his mother, a gifted songstress and pianist of her day, appears: In addition to her annual concert in London my mother used to have a yearly musical recital at Brighton either just before Christmas or just before Easter. She always took care to engage the brightest musical talent, both vocal and instrumental, that she could possibly secure. Sometimes she had to pay the great artists she engaged, but in a great many more instances they generally gave their services quite gratuitously to the poor widowed gentlewoman with the five children, "clamoring," as Lady Combermere used to tell me in after years, "for large slices of roast mutton." For one of her concerts my mother had the hardihood to engage the greatest cantatrice of her day and perhaps of this century, Maria Felicia Malibran, the daughter of the famous Spanish tenor, Manuel Garcia.

To show the difference that existed between artistic remuneration in 1865 and that which now prevails it will be sufficient to say that Malibran's fee was only 30 guineas. Pagani, the mere announcement of whose name was sufficient to sell half the tickets for the concert, consented to play a solo for 50 guineas, but my parent nourished a fond hope that both artists would waive their rights and decline the money she offered.

My mother, a lady of great sagacity and fertility of resource, thought that something might be done in the way of exciting lenitive influence in the minds of the two great musicians if she took me with her when she called to pay her dues. So I was duly washed and waxed and polished up, and in a new skeleton suit and a very large white cambric collar with a frill round it I was taken first to the hotel where Malibran was staying. The renowned singer smiled, patted me on the head, chucked me under the chin, told me to be a good boy and very calmly took the £31 10s. which, with trembling hands, my mother placed on the table. She had a good cry, poor woman, in the sky which conveyed us to the Old Ship, where Pagani was staying.

I can see him now—a lean, wan, gaunt man in black, with bushy hair—something like Henri Rochefort and a great deal more like Henry Irving. He looked at me long and earnestly, and somehow, although he was about as weird looking a creature as can well be imagined, I did not feel afraid of him. In a few broken words my mother explained her mission and put down the 50 guineas on the table. When I say that he washed his hands in the gold—that he scrambled at it as David of old did at the gate—and grasped it and built it up into little heaps, panting the while, I am not in any way exaggerating.

He bundled it up at last in a blue pocket handkerchief with white spots and darted from the room. And we, my poor mother convulsively clasping my hand, went out on the landing and were about descending the stairs when the mighty violinist halted again from the bedroom door. "Take that, little boy," he said; "take that," and he thrust a piece of paper rolled up almost in a ball into my hand. It was a bank note for £50!

Little Things Tell.

We wonder, we who are the most wasteful nation in the world, how it is that the French and German housekeepers become owners of the large mansions and the fashionable restaurants of the city. I will tell you why it is. They consider the day of little things. Not long ago I sat in an American bathhouse that three of a certain kind of rolls he sent to me. I was told that unless I ordered 12 it would be impossible. It was not a question of cost, but I didn't want them. Leaving the place, I went to one kept by a German. He was civil, perfectly willing to send me the small quantity that I asked for, thanked me very politely for the few cents handed him and said he would be glad at any time to take an order, no matter how small. His civility and courtesy made me his permanent customer.—Philadelphia Times.

To Lesson Your Plaster.

One of the small things to remember is that alcohol will quickly remove an obstinate porous plaster whose period of usefulness has expired and will also cause all unsightly traces of its use to disappear. As soap and water are often entirely inefficient in such offices, a valuable agent should be noted.—New York Recorder.

Her Name.

"Henry Ritter Emma Ritter Donna Ritter Sweet Potato Cream A Tartar Caroline Otto" was the name of a 5-year-old negro girl buried at Wetumpka, Ala. The name is inscribed in full upon a marble slab in a local cemetery. The slab gives the further information that she was the daughter of Bob and Smiley Cullen.

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

A BUCKET SHOP RAID.

J. C. ALLEN, A STOCK SPECULATOR, IN THE TOILS OF THE LAW.

A Printer Shot by His Wife—New York Central Railway and Electricity—Archbishop Ryan Visits St. Louis, Mo.—Bell's Brooklyn Record.

Special to the Times.

BUFFALO, April 28. R. John C. Allen, the proprietor of the biggest bucket shop in the business in this country and Canada, was arrested today on a charge of grand larceny and admitted to half. Mr. Allen had a branch office at Elmira in which U. S. Marshal had at various times deposited $1,500 odd dollars at margins on wheat. Some time ago Allen's manager notified Mettger that his margins were exhausted and informed him that his deal had been closed. Mettger replied that this could not be correct, as his trades were right and should show a handsome profit. Allen's Elmira office has been closed and Mettger came to Buffalo to seek the recovery of his money. The case will be tried next Tuesday at 2 o'clock.

N. Y. CENTRAL BY ELECTRICITY. BUFFALO, April 28.—The New York Central recently announced that it would use electricity on its line between here and Niagara Falls and today the Niagara Falls Power Co. made the railway company a proposal to furnish it with power free in return for the right of way for the power company's conduit along the roadside of the company's track where there is a strip of land 6 feet wide not used by the railway company. It is not probable that the offer will be accepted.

LOOK TO THEIR MERITS. CALICUTTA, April 28.—General Sir Robert Low, commanding the British expedition, telegraphed that Col. Fry, with his command, reached Calicut last Saturday. He found that the siege of the place had been raised, and that Shu Afsar, uncle of the late Mahar of Calicut, who had invaded the place, heily evaded his position, and his whereabouts are unknown.

ANNEXATION WITH CANADA. ALBANY, N. Y., April 28.—In the Senate today Mr. Grady's concurrent resolution favoring Canadian annexation was received with laughter. Senator O'Connor did not think it becoming for New York State to invite Canada to sever its connection with England.

Senator Pond said the resolution was backed up by thousands of prominent names, and asked its immediate consideration. Senator O'Connor protested. He did not want to stir up discord in a neighboring country. He did not think the names of Mr. Dewey, Mayor Strong, Mr. Platt and others which go with the resolution, should carry the Senate off its feet.

Senator Carter was surprised to see Senator O'Connor go back on anything favored by one of those named.

WILDE AND TAYLOR

Were Placed on Trial Today—Both Fined Not Guilty.

Special to the Times.

LONDON, April 28.—The trial of Oscar Wilde and Alfred Taylor, for unnatural offenses, was begun in the Central Criminal Court, Old Bailey, today. Charles Parker and the other witnesses who testified at the preliminary hearings were called to the stand and they repeated the stories they had previously told.

Wilde looked nervous and anxious and was much thinner than usual. The fact that he had had his hair cut short added to his attenuated appearance. Taylor looked calm and collected. Both prisoners pleaded not guilty. The opening speech of counsel for the prosecution was a repetition of his previous arguments. The evidence given by the young man Parker was rather more disgusting than the testimony he gave at the hearings in the Bow Street Police Court. Upon cross-examination he swore that Wood and Allen had received £200 blackmail from a gentleman in the latter's lodgings. He himself had received £200 from the same person.

STRUCK AN EDITOR.

Lord Sholto Douglas Says he Did and Gets Himself Fined for the Offense.

Special to the Times.

BAKERSFIELD, Cal., April 28.—Lord Sholto Douglas, son of the Marquis of Queensberry, appeared yesterday in the Superior Court to answer to the charge of insanity. No sooner had Judge Conklin took his seat than he said: "There being no complaint against this party he will be discharged." and the case was ended.

Subsequently Lord Douglas went into the California office and assaulted, or said he assaulted, one of the editors. He was thrown out of the building, but picked himself up and ran to the office of Justice Fox and said to His Honor: "I hit the editor three times in the face, when four or five men set upon me from behind and put me out. I desire to plead guilty, Constable Sawyer over to the complaint and Douglas was fined $5.00, the exact sum.

The newspaper men say that Douglas struck at one of them, but missed his aim and was thrown bodily out of the office. His subsequent actions, they say, justify the police in holding him as a lunatic.

WORD FROM THE CAPITAL.

The Results of the Number of Canadian Papers Taken by Residents of Washington.

Special to the Times.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 27.—Quite a number of interesting cases have occurred in this city, of cases from several of the numerous forms of kidney complaints through the use of a Canadian remedy called Dodd's Kidney Pills.

A very large number of Canadian newspapers are daily received by residents of the Capital, and as these invariably contain an account of some recovery, many of them from a state of ill health considered hopeless by the doctors, the matter has been brought prominently before the Washington public.

Many people have tried the remedy and in every case it has proved eminently successful.

PETERBOROUGH, APRIL 29, 1895.

For two months' service as Li Hung Chang's diplomatic adviser in the recent peace negotiations, John W. Foster, the American politician, will get over $100,000. If he earned this money, the only inference is that without him Li would have handed China over to Japan, and kept Formosa.

HOW IS IT TO BE ENFORCED?

A remedial law passed by the Federal Parliament might be pleaded by a Manitoba Catholic as his defence in proceedings to enforce payment of a Public school tax, as provided by a provincial statute.

The Dominion Parliament, then, can pass an act justifying the Manitoba Catholics in their passive defiance of the provincial school law. A federal statute could be pleaded as reasons for disobedience to the provincial law, but no federal statute can force a Legislature to obey the terms of a federal statute.

The farmers of the Canadian constitution apprehended that the federal authority would settle all its difficulties with the provincial authority by exercising the power of disallowance. Certainly the constitution makers never thought that laws held to be within the competence of the Provincial Legislature would have to be modified by legislation at Ottawa. The Federal Parliament has power to pass a remedial law, but the constitution provides no means of coercing a Legislature that will not obey those remedial laws. The most that a federal statute can do is to protect a Roman Catholic here and there from the consequences of disobedience to the provincial school law.

The Federal Parliament may say that Roman Catholics shall be exempt from Public school taxation. Roman Catholics may plead that act of the Federal Parliament in answer to the demands of the Public school tax-gatherer. But when the Federal Parliament says that the Provincial Government shall give the Roman Catholics a special share of the funds under the exclusive control of that Provincial Government, how is the mandate to be enforced? By what process of a law can the Government of a province be coerced into obeying a law passed by and interposing authority like the Federal Parliament?

THE CHANGES OF NINE YEARS.

Nine years ago there was published by Grip a group photograph of the leaders of the Conservative party. Included in this group were Sir John A. Macdonald, Sir Charles Tupper, Sir Leonard Tilley, W. R. Meredith, J. A. Chapple, Sir Hector Langevin, Alex. Morris, Sir Alex. Campbell, John Costigan, Sir A. Cahan, J. H. Pope, Mackenzie Bowell, Sir D. L. Macpherson and Sir John Carling.

Where are they all now? Sir John Macdonald, Alex. Morris, Sir Alex. Campbell, and Pope, have gone over to the silent majority. Sir Charles Tupper is snugly housed in the mansion of the High Commissioner; Sir Leonard Tilley, and Hon. J. A. Chapple, are buried, the one in the Governorship of New Brunswick and the other in that of Quebec; W. R. Meredith has received well-deserved promotion to a judgeship; Sir Hector Langevin is under a cloud; Sir D. L. Macpherson is in retirement in Italy; Sir John Carling is laid away on the shelf, while Mackenzie Bowell has been advanced from a back corner to the party leadership.

Nine years is a very short time, but within that period we have seen some mighty changes among the group of politicians which in 1886 stood at the head of the Conservative of Canada.

A WINTER NIGHT ON THE FARM.

Keep up the legs still higher and higher,
Till up the chimney roars the fire,
And spread around the ruddy glow
To make our hearts with joy leap so.
The myriad shadows on the wall
Dance mirthful steps without our call,
As through the room the soft warmth creeps
And frolics gay its revel keeps.

Here gathered round the old hearthstone
Are six boys. We're not alone,
For sitting in her big armchair
Is mother, smiling, sweet-faced, fair,
And father listening to our jokes,
Which we relate through numerous chokes
In trying to swallow as a round
The big soft pipkins, plump and round.

Soon corn is popping o'er the coals,
A snow white feast for hungry souls,
And hickory nuts and chinkapins
That autumn ricks had gathered in
Are cracking merrily. Then, just brought up
From cellar's depths in foaming cup,
Is spicy cider, like sparkling wine,
Causing lips to smooch and eyes to shine.

Thus speeds each happy hour,
While howling storms spend all their power
Outdoors in vain. With cheer and fun
Our evening's sport its length has run.
When father says, "The growing late!"
Then work begins with look and state,
And problems rack each stalwart brain
Which drowsy grows beneath the strain.

Soon snug beds are mental care,
And clambering up the old back stairs
We tumble in big feather beds
Like downy nests beneath our heads.
Lulled by the winds with waiting song,
To dreamland fair we're borne along.
Thus ends, unknown to care and harm,
A winter night down on the farm.

—Robert Brumby.

The Fall of Athens.

The fall of Athens was due to a combination of causes. But what lay at the root of it all was the weakness of the Athenian navy and the refusal of the necessary supplies for placing it in a state of efficiency. In the earlier stages of the struggle with Macedonia a sufficient armament could have been provided without recourse to the theories or any increase of the property tax.

Then it was exclusively to the decay of public spirit, the aversion to military service and the general deterioration of the national character, aggravated, if not originated, by the new tastes and habits and the fastidious skepticism engendered by the new culture, to which the misfortunes of the state are to be attributed. Afterward, when the force which would have been sufficient at one time was no longer adequate to the crisis, and it became necessary to provide for a much larger one, the apathy which had already done so much harm was rendered doubly mischievous by the false economy to which we have already referred.

Finally, when at length the two contending parties had laid aside their jealousies, and Athens had fitted out a force worthy of her ancient fame, there was no one to command it. When she had generals, she had neither ships nor soldiers. When she had both, she had no generals.—Macmillan's Magazine.

Retrayed.

A stylishly dressed young woman was brought up before the police magistrate at B— for stealing ribbons out of a shop. The clerk of the court had seen her converse with her lawyer, and was therefore greatly surprised when, in reply to his inquiry as to her name and address, she merely shook her head.

"She is a Frenchwoman," the lawyer explained, "and does not understand German. Just put down Marie Latouche."

The clerk was incredulous. "How old is she?" he asked.

"Twenty-two," replied the legal adviser.

The clerk pretended not to have heard correctly and said, "Thirty-two?"

"No, twenty-two," the fair captive blurted out as she clapped her hand on her mouth and burst out laughing.

"Ah!" said the clerk, "then you can speak German, though you don't understand it?" — Tagliche Rundschau.

German Proposals Are Serious Matters.

In Germany a man always makes a proposal of marriage a very serious ceremonial. He dresses himself in evening clothes and takes his way to the home of the lady in question for that particular purpose and for no other. So that when a woman sees an admirer enter her drawing room clad in evening attire in the afternoon, she knows that something is afoot.—Berlin Letter.

A Perfect Substitute for Nature's Food.

Doctors Say: It is the Best in the World.

In the study of what constitutes proper infant nutrition, the most eminent medical authorities find there can be no correct theory except it be founded on the study of the composition of human milk. A perfect infant nourisher has been given to mothers in the form of Lactated Food; and the success that has attended its use proves it to be the most successful ever introduced. Lactated Food is the nearest approach, of all infant foods, to pure mother's milk, and possesses every important element found in nature's food.

Canada's best and ablest physicians are prescribing Lactated Food every day knowing it to be the best. Thousands of mothers throughout the country know well that Lactated Food is the life of every baby that cannot be fully nourished on mother's milk.

EXPENSES OF A DINING CAR.

Costly Service Maintained For the Convenience of Travelers.

A modern dining car of the most approved pattern costs $15,000 to build. Next come the kitchen, the table furniture, the silverware and linen, averaging about $3,000 worth to a car. Each car must have a steward, who usually gets $100 a month, and a head cook, who values himself at $75 a month. There must also be one or two assistant cooks and three or four waiters. Three hundred dollars a month is the very smallest outlay for wages, while the cost of raw food material, breaking of dishes and the board of employees is about $3,000 per month additional. An average five days' run costs very nearly $600 for food and service, so that it would take 40 persons at every meal on the run to pay the daily expenses without allowing anything for interest on the investment or for wear and tear on the furnishings. The kitchen of a dining car contains every convenience except room. There is a range capable of doing all the boiling, broiling, baking and stewing for hundreds of people, yet occupying comparatively no space at all. There is a board for the server, a bin and table for the baker and a sink for the dishwasher, with shelves and imperishable supplies, all in an area of 5 by 15 feet at most. Every inch of space is carefully utilized. Under the car is the cellar or refrigerator, where ice, beef, mutton, poultry, milk, butter and other perishable supplies are kept.

The steward, who is in charge of all this, must be a good general. To be sure, the dining car is run on the principle that no money will be made anyway; that one need not run it because a competing road does; that the traveler must therefore have the best in the market for a fair price, and that it is better to throw away unused and spoiled material at the end of a trip than to run out of some necessary on the way. Yet I imagine that the steward who has the lowest average of wasted food stands highest in his employer's regard. The first thing he has to do is to make out the bill of fare for the trip. These must be approved by the head of the commissary department. The chef buys the necessary supplies, but the steward has to turn in an inventory of them at the starting point, and also a statement of what has been used on route and what is left at the end of the run. There is no method of estimating the exact number of meals that will be served during the run, particularly if it is a short one. Sometimes it is to be made from Washington to New York. Individual methods of economy are very different. While some prefer to pay $1.25 for the extra comfort of a seat in a parlor car, there are others who think the common coach good enough and prefer to spend their dollar in the dining car. Again, there are some who frequent both parlor and dining, and others who for neither. For a journey every berth in the sleeper may be occupied, and yet the dining car may be practically tenanted, or the sleeper may be nearly empty and the diner full of people from the day coach, or it may be crowded with the occupants of both. As the steward goes through the train at the hour of inspection or in giving his first call for a meal, he must note the number of luncheoners and guess from the faces and dress of the passengers how many orders he will have. But even his best judgment will be far off of the way, for the luncheon may be for the next day's light repeat, or some of the best dressed passengers may not have decided whether to patronize the dining car or not. —Kate Field's Washington.

How a Fish Breathes.

The gills of a fish are situated at the back part of the sides of the head and consist of a number of vascular membranes, which are generally arranged in double, fringed rows, attached to the parts by the base only. In some cases these membranes are feather shaped, in others more folds attached to the sides of the gill cavity. The fish is a cold blooded animal—that is to say, its temperature is seldom more than a degree or two higher than the water in which it lives. This being true, the creature needs but a very small amount of oxygen to keep the blood at a temperature sufficiently high to sustain life. This oxygen is supplied to the blood of the fish by respiration, large quantities of water, or rather drinking large quantities of water, and respiring the air separated from it by the gills. This explains why a fish cannot live in a tank of water which has been sifted through the gills time and time again any better than a human being or other animal can in air that has been deprived of all its oxygen by being taken in to lungs and expelled without being aerated. Fish that die in the stale water of aquariums may be properly said to drown, because they perish for want of air, the same thing which occasions death by drowning in man and other lung breathing animals. —St. Louis Republic.

The Order of the Garter.

An evening journal, in a dissertation on the Order of the Garter, states that it consists of 35 ordinary knights and 25 extra knights, which is quite wrong. There is no fixed number of extra knights, who are all royal personages, and there were only six of them when the queen's reign commenced, whereas there are now 28. During the last two financial years $1,000 has been paid by the public to the dean and chapter of Windsor and to the Garter officers in respect of fees and expenses in connection with the creation of three extra knights. In all other countries such payments are made by the new knights themselves, but here the taxpayers find the money, and last year the loss chamberlain received $2,000 to provide and repair insignia of the various orders of knighthood. —London Truth.

Last Letter of Emin Pasha.

Mr William Flower has communicated to the Zoological society some posthumous tidings of Emin Pasha. This was a letter concerning some zoological specimens which never arrived in England as all, having been lost at the time of Emin's murder. The letter and the journal—principally relating to observations upon birds—which accompanied it were written in a fine and minute hand, like copper plate engraving. The letter had the additional and melancholy interest of being perhaps the last that Emin Pasha wrote. He was in constant correspondence with the president of the Zoological society about matters of zoological interest and always wrote in English, of which apparently he knew nothing until he went to Africa. —New York Times.

WORD FROM THE CAPITAL.

The Result of the Number of Canadian Papers Taken by Residents of Washington.

Special to The Times.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 27.—Quite a number of interesting cases have occurred in this city, of cases from several of the numerous forms of kidney complaints through the use of a Canadian remedy called Dodd's Kidney Pills. A very large number of Canadian newspapers are daily received by residents of the Capital, and as these invariably contain an account of some recovery, many of them from a state of ill health considered hopeless by the doctors, the matter has been brought prominently before the Washington public. Many people have tried the remedy and in every case it has proved eminently successful.

Did Not Know His Name.
The man of the Light division in the Police always spoke of Sir George Brown as "the general," as was then and is still, though in a lesser degree, the habit of soldiers, possibly from not knowing the name of the immediate superior. This ignorance cost Sir George a great deal of the respectability of his showing himself more frequently in the column.

"What good will it do?"
"Oh, 'twill show the man up! Why, sir, members of my men don't know your name."

"But they don't know your name, George."

"Every man in the Light division knows my name."

"I'll bet you'll find the first man we ask does not."

"Does," said Sir George, and they rode to the Light division camp.

"Come here, my man. Who am I?"

"You're the general, sir."

"But my name?"

"You're the general, sir," and nothing more could be elicited from him. Sir George Brown paid up on the spot.

No one who saw him ride straight toward the fox, without an indication that he was in any danger, is likely to forget the animating effect of his bearing on the soldiers.—Sir Evelyn Wood in Fortnightly Review.

The Lady of the Plains.

A young woman from the western plains of the west had gone to Boston to a music school on her first trip east, and among the first persons she met at her boarding house was a youth from Bangor. As their acquaintance ripened she told him of what had interested her on the journey.

"Why," she said, with an enquiring spirit, "I saw at one place in Pennsylvania a hundred saw logs in one pile."

"A hundred?" he asked, with a tinge of a smile.

"That's what they told me. You know, we don't have saw logs where I came from."

"In that case, you ought to come to Maine once."

"Do you have them there?"

"Do we?" he replied magnificently.

"Do we? Why, my dear young lady, saw logs grow on trees in Maine."

"Really?" she asked in open-eyed astonishment.

"It's a literal fact," he asserted positively.

"Well, I don't believe it," she contended, "and what he could, he could not convince her that he was telling plain, unadorned truth.—Detroit Free Press.

Twenty Years Hence.

Mrs. Newen (entering kitchen hurriedly about 8 p. m., yesterday day)—Alfred, dear, I am going to disturb you, but if we don't register every vote we've got in the ward they are going to kick us out! Take off your apron and come along. There's a carriage at the door.

Mr. Newen—Ethelbert, I've tried to be a good husband to you. I've never refused to do anything reasonable you have required of me. I have taken care of the house and kept the children out of mischief while you've been at the club or hobnobbing with the candidates down town, and I've never complained, but I'm right in the middle of the fruit canning season, and if you think I'm going to leave this precious kettle full of peaches all ready to put in the jars and let the six gallons of apple butter in this washbowl burn and go to waste just for the sake of going out to register you don't know me, madam, that's all. Now, you get out of my way and go on about your business, or I'll throw a dipper of hot water on you!—Chicago Tribune.

Comparative Strength of Materials.

Cast iron weighs 444 pounds to the cubic foot, and an inch square bar will maintain a weight of 10,000 pounds; bronze, weight 880 pounds; tenacity 8,000; wrought iron, weight 480, tenacity 60,000; hard "struck" steel, weight 490, tenacity 78,000; aluminum, weight 168, tenacity 84,000. We are accustomed to think of metals as being stronger than wood, and so they are, generally speaking, if only pieces of the same size be tested, but when equal weights of the two materials are compared it is then found that several varieties of wood are stronger than ordinary steel. A bar of pine just as heavy as a bar of steel an inch square will hold up 150,000 pounds, the best oak 175,000 pounds and some hemlock 800,000 pounds. Wood is bulky. It occupies 10 or 15 times the space of steel. The best steel castings made for the United States navy have a tenacity of 80,000 to 75,000 pounds to the square inch. By solidifying such castings under great pressure a tensile strength of 80,000 to 100,000 pounds may be obtained.—Railway Review.

The Old Time Hunking Bee.

A story is told of hunking bee devoting to the pioneer days of Dexter. Captain Small, one of the first settlers, after he had grown to the dignity of having a big barn, gave a hunking, to which a large and merry party gathered. While the supper was being served and the crowd was clear around the "hog" drove one of the captain's steers into the barn door, and attaching a rope to him lifted him up over the high beams to the top of the haymow. They were so busy about it that the joke was not discovered. The steer was missed, of course, and search of it was made. The country was made without success. The animal was given up for lost when one day, a week after the hunking, the captain was in his barn and heard a long "moo" up in the ridge pole. Looking up, there was the missing steer galloping down from him over the high beam. Such was the sport the Dexter had in their young days. Modern hunkings are more serious.—Lowell Journal.

Sufficient Reason.

An exchange remarks of John Quincy Adams, recently deceased, that he was very fond of fishing and not especially fond of his legal profession.

One day a case in which he was counsel was down for trial in a Boston court. Mr. Adams did not make his appearance, but sent a letter to the judge. That worthy gentleman read it and then postponed the case with the announcement:

"Mr. Adams is detained on important business."

The note read as follows:

"Dear judge, for the sake of old Isaac Walton, please continue my case until Friday. The minnows are biting, and I can't leave."

Not Hasty.

A very small boy was trying to lead a big St. Bernard up the stairs.

"What are you going to do with that dog?" asked a kindly gentleman.

"I can't make up my mind," was the answer, "not tell I find out what the dog thinks o' doin' with me."—Washington Star.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., April 27.

THE circumstances of what will probably prove another murder mystery have just come to light.

The victim, Henry Mosher, N. Y., 23 years of age, who left his boarding house with about $150 in his pocket, and whose body was picked up a few hours later near Lake Side Park minus money and watch. Mosher was until two days ago the captain of the diningroom waiters in a hotel in this city. He left the hotel and was about to go to Rochester, N. Y., to visit his parents. He had his trunk packed and intended to leave in a day or so. Mosher did not talk much about his business, but on Thursday he had drawn thirty-three days' pay and besides that had $120 in cash on his person. It was also said that he had a bank account and carried the bank book in his pocket. When the body was found it was thought to be a case of suicide, but there were heavy bruises on the side of the face. The only motives which can be ascribed for the murder, as it is now believed to be, are that he was killed for his money or that some waiter bore him a grudge.

A HAMILTON BARBER.

Who was Killed at Rockport, Ohio—No More Knock Out Fights.

Special to the Times.

HAMILTON, April 27.—The man Kirk reported killed on the Lake Shore road, at Rockport, Ohio, was William Kirk, barber of this city. He did a good business up to a year ago and then got dissatisfied, falling from a hayloft in which he had gone to sleep. He broke a leg in three places and was found afterwards by a policeman almost dead. Three months later he was discharged from the city hospital, full among old companions and had his leg broken again. A month ago he left Hamilton to look for work. His relatives here have ordered the body to be sent to Hamilton. He was 30 years old.

Chief of Police Smith announced this morning he would permit no more knock out fights or slugging matches under the recent athletic tournament, like the one last night, to take place in public halls here.

It has been learned that the Buffalo bucket shop man Allen had no agent and no victim in Hamilton.

OSCAR WILDE'S CASE.

The Trial of the Disgraced Leader of the Aesthetic Cult.

Special to the Times.

LONDON, April 27.—The trial of Oscar Wilde and Alfred Taylor, charged with serious and indecent misdemeanors, was resumed at the Old Bailey today with a large attendance. A youth named Alfred Wood was examined and a variety of intricate cross-examinations by Sir Edward Clarke, Q. C., counsel for Wilde, but his evidence was not shaken. Frederick Atkins, another youth, deposed as a variety of intricate evidence as to knowing Alfred Taylor and others mentioned during the trial. This witness was also questioned by counsel with the view of showing that he received £200 from a foreign count whose yacht was lying at Scarborough, but the witness denied having received the money. The trial was finally adjourned until Monday.

LINKED FOR LIFE.

Two Babies in New York Joined Together by a Ligament.

Special to the Times.

NEW YORK, April 27.—Two children born to the wife of S. Koehler, of No. 243 East Forty-second street, on Monday last are considered by the medical fraternity the most extraordinary children ever born in this city. They are both girls, healthy as babies usually are, and are linked for life, as far as present medical investigation goes. The babies are attached to one another from the lower part of the spinal column to the upper part of the pelvis. It is believed that the bones known as the sacrum and coccyx are identical in both bodies. Another feature of the case is that the children, though joined at the back, are able to face to the front, owing to some elasticity of the ligaments and flesh at the place of the juncture. They have each the complete quota of organs and limbs separate and distinct.

Mrs. Rank has had one of her paintings accepted by the Hanging Committee in Paris.

To introduce, advertise and quickly and firmly establish their marvelous successful Curative Remedies in Canada. "The Dr. Archibald Peckless Highland Medical Company" offer 200 handsome cash prizes to the persons calculating correctly or nearest correctly, the amount of money contained in an ordinary imperial quart self-sealer jar, exhibited in their show window, filled as full as it is possible to screw the top down tight with Canadian ten cent pieces.

No person knows the sum contained, as the jar was partly filled, then taken to the Bank, and there filled tight by the Bank Manager, from a special account deposited in trust for that purpose, with the understanding that said account will not be examined or looked into until July 6th, 1895, the jar was immediately sealed in the presence of Wm. Peck, Esq., Ex-Mayor of Toronto Junction and J. B. Brooks, Esq., grand worthy Patriarch of the Sons of Temperance for the Province of Ontario, Toronto. They are entirely independent disinterested gentlemen, and have sealed the jar, marked it with their private signs, and will open it at the close of Competition, count the money and announce the winners.

1st correct or nearest correct answer, $500 in Gold. 2nd correct answer $100. 3rd correct $50. 4th correct $25, next five correct $10 each, next ten correct $5 each, next 15th correct $2 each, next 131 $1 each.

Anyone may compete as often as desired, but $1 must accompany each answer for which will be sent immediately a Dollar's worth of any kind of the medicines selected by the purchaser from the list below, sealed and addressed in plain packages; names of winners will be published in the Toronto Daily Papers of Saturday July 13th accompanied by an affidavit from those receiving the four largest prizes to the effect that they are not connected with the firm in any way whatsoever nor have had any previous understanding in regard to receiving prizes; contest opens April 4th closes June 30th, 1895.

Answers received only by mail so that those living in Toronto have no advantage over those living a thousand miles away; everyone old and young, far and near have equal opportunity of winning the $500. Everyone knows the exact shape, size and capacity of an ordinary quart sealer jar, and everyone also knows the exact shape and size of a ten cent piece.

This is no Lottery, no chance work, but a splendid opportunity to exercise your mathematical talents and power of calculation with profit to yourself, not to mention the fact that you receive full value immediately for all money invested, and that your life may be saved and greatly prolonged by becoming acquainted with these extraordinary peerless vitalizing 19th century benefactors. This is not a guessing question but etc. see circulars.

These are not like ordinary Patent Medicines. We do not make the ridiculous claim that one medicine will cure every disease; but instead offer $ of the most magnificent specific ever discovered for the relief of suffering mankind, which effectually provide a remedy for every disease to which flesh is heir.

LETTERS FROM OSCAR

To Young Men Read in Court Today—A Witness Shames—Sympathy for Wilde.

Special to The Times.
LONDON, April 29.—The trial of Oscar Wilde and Alfred Taylor was resumed in the Central Criminal Court, Old Bailey today. A number of letters written by the prisoners to young men and others were read.

When Edward Shelly, the former employee of the publishers, Matthews and Lane, was testifying on Saturday, and was asked to tell the jury what had taken place in Oscar Wilde's rooms, the witness pathetically appealed to counsel to read it from his previous deposition, and thus spare him the shame of repeating it. The counsel, however, made the witness repeat his story.

The judge said he had read a letter from a distinguished literary man expressing sympathy with Wilde and hopes that the charges against him would be disproved.

LASHED BY WOMEN.

A Wife Dealer Receives a Dose of His Own Medicine.

Special to The Times.
PORT TAMPA, Fla., April 29.—Edward Tucker, a merchant of this place, was taken from his home last night and mercilessly whipped by female white-slavers, because he had been in the habit of going home drunk and abusing his wife. Tucker was stripped to the waist and lashed to a tree. Then the women, each of whom was armed with a rawhide, began to lash him. Tucker screams were heard for miles. When the women finished the man's back looked as though it had been knouted. The skin had been cut in a dozen places and blood was streaming from the cuts. Tucker promised never to abuse his wife again. It is thought that some of the most prominent ladies of the place were engaged in the affair.

The Great Spring Medicine Sweeps Away These Troubles

In almost every Canadian home, one or more members suffer from indigestion, dyspepsia, headache, nervousness or sleeplessness. In the great majority of cases the doctors have failed to effect a permanent cure, and the common patent medicines of our times have only prolonged suffering and agony.

How different the results with those who have used Paine's Celery Compound; they have in every case been raised to condition of perfect health, robustness and mental vigor. Thousands of renewed and re-created men and women in Canada, will forever remember that their lives were saved and made happy by Paine's Celery Compound.

Mr. Hugh J. Riley, of 42 Agnes street, St. Henry, Montreal, is one of the many who have given public testimony for the benefit of sufferers in Canada. Mr. Riley writes as follows:—

"I wish to publicly acknowledge the fact that I am indebted to your Paine's Celery Compound for health, strength and life. For over three years I was a terrible sufferer from indigestion, severe pains in the stomach and headache. In addition to these serious troubles, I had no appetite or relish for food, and hardly knew what it was to have a full night's rest. This condition of sleeplessness and anxiety made me very nervous, and I was fast becoming unfitted for my daily work. After all other medicines had failed, I was fortunately advised to use your Paine's Celery Compound, and now I am delighted to declare that it has no equal in the world for removing such dangerous troubles as I suffered from. I am daily gaining in strength, sleep well every night, and my appetite is good and healthy. I strongly recommend Paine's Celery Compound to all who need a reliable and honest medicine, and one that is sure to cure."

The Times.

PETERBOROUGH, MAY 1 1895.

Good morning.

The British lion has sent a navel Corinto Corinto.

The MORNING TIMES is a great paper. On Saturday last our regular edition, as usual, was up to high water mark. This week we intend to increase the circulation by several hundred copies.

Clifford Sifton just said what the country thinks about the Orangemen of Haldimand. If he had expressed more faith in their integrity of purpose, this country would now express less faith in his veracity.

We don't think there is any truth whatever in the story that Lieutenant Governor Schuch, of Manitoba, to please the Dominion government, will dismiss Attorney-General Sifton for having spoken during the Haldimand campaign. We don't think the Dominion government has so little regard for the freedom of speech as to permit anything of the kind.

The TIMES has received an anonymous letter, enquiring as to who was responsible for the contract between the town and the Electric Company. The writer complains bitterly of the one-sided arrangement, which permits the closing of the works. We may tell our unknown correspondent that it is the same old story. The present solicitor is responsible for much of it, but the members of the council of that time should secure a still greater amount of censure. The fact is, they all ought to be ashamed of themselves.

A strong feeling exists throughout the town in favor of the late employees of the Canadian General Electric Company, and in the light of very recent events it is not to be wondered at that the local management are not as popular as they might be. It is said that the General Electric Company, of Schenectady, N. Y. (formerly the Edison General Electric Company) has a controlling interest in the local concern. If so, it is possible they may have something to say in the settlement of the present difficulty. This journal intends that the management of the New York concern may be kept posted, and for this purpose THE TIMES will be mailed regularly, address to the general manager, while the difficulty continues.

ENNISMORE.

Mr. Maurice O'Connor, has in his possession a ewe that recently gave birth to three lambs, while Mr. Thomas Galvin has a cow that gave birth to twin calves last week. Both mothers and offspring are alive and doing well.

Fish Inspector Cogswore, who has charge of these waters, is on the alert, and some parties who he is anxious to find the names of, got a bad fright on Tuesday night of last week, he being camped on an island close to Gean's Narrows; he saw what he supposed to be a Jack light, and he hurried in that direction, but as it was only a false light, the parties kept out off his way. But Dick was not far behind, however. When close to the Indian Village point the light was thrown in the lake, and whoever was in the boat made good their escape. If those parties are found out they will be brought to justice.

Mr. P. J. Galvin, has so far recovered as to be able to leave his room.

Twenty Thousand Roses. There are nearly 20,000 rose trees in bloom now at Dunlop's conservatories. Blooms of all colors. Visitors are always well come. Mr. Dunlop is proud of his establishment and takes pleasure in speaking of his beauties. He ships them by sea and expresses to all parts of Canada, and as these orders are filled direct from the trees, he guarantees them to arrive in good condition. Sale room, 40 Yonge-st., and 40 E. King street west.

COLUMBUS OUTDOONE.

Edmund Andrews' Log Reads Like a Romance of the Sea.

In a little book entitled "Columbus Outdone" Captain William A. Andrews, who has acquired fame by crossing the Atlantic in small boats, tells of his adventures in the little 14 foot boat Sapolo, in which he crossed from Atlantic City to Palos, Spain, in 1893. The voyage occupied 60 days, including a stop at the Azores islands.

During all of his four voyages he never tasted warm food. His "stores" consisted mainly of canned beef, condensed milk, s'lip biscuits, beef extract and canned beans. Nearly all his meals were eaten while he had one hand on the boat's tiller.

Alone on the ocean for weeks at a time, without sighting a vessel, he sailed day after day. Columbus himself would scarcely have ventured on such a trip. America's discoverer had three good sized vessels, 150 men, the best equipments of the time, and in addition the blessing of the church. Captain Andrews had nothing but a coffin shaped boat 14 feet long, a little store of provisions, an old quadrant, a compass and a chart. But through all his dangers and lonely hours Captain Andrews' cheerfulness never deserted him.

"She looks like a coffin," said many who gazed at the little craft before she started. "So she does," replied her captain, with a grim smile, "and as I built her myself I will be my own undertaker if she sinks."

One week after leaving port, when the little old tub was leaking badly and death stared Captain Andrews in the face, this entry was made in the log:

"No mail today. Can't understand why my best girl don't drop me a line."

Another entry describes a bath the captain took and comments on the fact that "when you're traveling this way no bathing suit or bathtub is necessary."

One dark night a big sea nearly swamped the little craft, and this is how the log describes the event:

"I have just turned in. I have just turned out again. As soon as I closed my eyes a big sea came over and elapped me on the 'ooceanut.' As I bail her out I am singing that good old song so popular among the Hibernian gentry of the pick and shovel who reside near Harlem, New York: 'Work, ye terriera, work! Bail, ye terriera, bail!'"

Three weeks out this entry appears: "Sighted lots of little fishes swimming about my boat, waiting for a dolphin to come along. Then they will go away on the inside of the dolphin."

A novel way to keep boots from wearing out is thus mentioned in the log: "Have discovered a new way of keeping boots from wearing out. Don't put them on. Haven't had mine on for a week. They are wearing splendidly."

And so on goes the log, day after day, nearly every entry containing some attempt at humor, showing the fearlessness and buoyant disposition of the lone mariner.

Philosophy In the Saloon.

The saloons, which had been the centers of intellectual life since the days of Louis XIV, took the fever seriously. They were seized with a passion for philosophy, for philanthropy, for all the whims which were taking shape in the storm laden air of those days before the flood. They embraced the deism of Voltaire, the materialism of Diderot and Rousseau, the pure atheism of Helvetius, or they dreamed of humanity yielding to every impulse of nature, and by that means returning to its pristine innocence.

It is not only Walpole who grumbles that the French were no longer the same people; that they had lost their vivacity and were forever drowsing. "They talk philosophy at balls," says Segur again, "and moral science in boudoirs." These people of quality, "who know everything without the trouble of learning," established clubs for the study of natural science. They attended the most learned discussions at the academies. One marquise goes to see dissections performed. Another dissects with her own hands.—Macmillan's Magazine.

Whittier's Way.

John G. Whittier was greatly loved by strangers, who not only called on him, but thrifly insisted on putting up with him all night. "There has no idea," said his sister, "how much time Greenleaf spends trying to lose these people in the streets. Sometimes he comes home and says: 'Well, sister, I had hard work to lose him, but I have lost him. But I can never lose a her. The women are more pertinacious than the men. Don't thee find them so, Maria?'"—San Francisco Argonaut.

"It seems," sadly mused the postage stamp that had been bought at the corner drug store, "that I am driven from pillar to post."—Cincinnati Tribune.

HOW TO CLEAN HOUSE

THE WAY ONE WOMAN MAKES HARD LABOR SEEM EASY.

She Learned to Economize in Strength and Use a System—Taking Up Carpets and Scrubbing Floors—Rattling With Mops and Getting Rid of Rubbish.

I always begin to clean house at the top—in the attic, which is the storehouse for cast-off things of the year in clothing and furniture. In the course of six months an awful lot of rubbish accumulates there, and at housecleaning is a good time to get rid of it. In a house where there are children there is always considerable cast-off clothing to look over. Some of it will do very nicely to cut over for younger children, and that should be brushed and altered, then folded away in a box kept for that purpose. The garments that are outgrown and cannot be remodeled should be put in another box, ready to bestow on some worthy person less fortunate than yourself.

Do not hoard up old garments against possible need "next year." If you do not use a possible chance of making use of them in the next six months, put them in the porters. They will bring you a richer blessing than. Examine the broken furniture that has been stowed away. If it can be mended, have it done at once, before knocking about has destroyed the usefulness of a piece to which you are attached. If you find that it is too worn and shabby for your own house, perhaps you know some deserving person who is ingenious enough to fix it up and would be very glad to do so for the gift of it. Otherwise throw it into the kindling wood heap. There isn't a particle of sense in cluttering up a house with a lot of useless old rubbish. Unless you are sure the dilapidated furniture can be fixed up it is bad judgment to send it to the attic anyhow.

Look over the old papers and magazines and make a package of those you do not intend to have bound to send to the hospital or some institution, where a bit of reading material is a perfect boon. After sorting over and putting away all the trash in the attic you have a heap of litter that it is useless to try to put away. Dump it on the ash heap or bribe your scrubwoman to relieve you of it. Then sweep and dust and mop out the attic all ready to receive the stores that will come up from the lower part of the house. It will probably take you a whole day to go over the attic properly. If you discover any signs of that terror of the housewife—bedbugs—make war on them at once. A machine oil can of gasoline is a good companion in such an emergency. Use it freely on infected spots. It will kill eggs and insects instantly and evaporates almost as soon as applied. Do not have a lighted lamp or gas around when you use it, though, nor for some time after, unless you have masked the windows and aired the attic.

If you have found moths, take all the infected clothes out into the sunshine. Beat and shake them well, then brush off all possible dampen and run a hot iron over them. Moths are the meanest pests that ever got into a house. They do more damage in a day than can be repaired in a year, and there is absolutely no way known yet, except vigilance, that will keep them out of wooden clothing and furs. After you have everything cleaned and swept smelling in the attic, get a pint of sulphur and put in an old iron kettle and set it over an oil stove or charcoal fire in the attic. Close the windows and doors and let it burn itself out.

Then you may be reasonably sure that there are no microbes or bacilli lurking around to descend upon and destroy the family. Be sure to remove all clothing that sulphur will be apt to discolor. It will injure nothing else. After cleaning the attic I go through every closet in the house next and give each the same treatment. Then I begin on the house proper. In cleaning the other rooms of the house I seldom attempt more than two at once. I select one room on the floor to be cleaned—that I want for a workroom—and have the carpets taken up and the furniture covered. Into this room I have all the pictures, bric-a-brac and furniture carried and piled up out of harm's way. The carpets from the two rooms are carried out to be shaken and dusted, and then I have the dusty floors sprinkled with bits of torn paper that have been dampened. When swept, no dust is raised to penetrate other portions of the house. The walls are swept down with a broom, over which a flannel cloth is pinned, and an application of elbow grease.

If there are green spots, I take them out with an application of pipe clay made into a paste and applied damp. The green is generally extracted by the time the clay is dry. Where there are smoke stains from gas or from the register I have the places rubbed with a rag and corn or oat meal. This will not remove the stains always, but will act as a general tip. I have taken such stains off with a rag saturated with gasoline, but that has to be done very carefully, or you will smear the paper. After the walls are cleaned the woodwork should be washed with ammonia water, or kerosene if you like. I use borax for everything because I like its action better. If you have soap suds, use that; it is not a soap, because that will take the life out of the paint and make it look dead. It will soon wear off, too, after being washed with strong soap.

Then have the floor scoured with good strong lye water unless it is stained or oiled; then of course you will have to wipe up with hot water only, as anything else would extract both color and oil. If you have feared that there might be moths in the edges of the room, the hot water should be used freely and then a train of gasoline put around all the cracks. As soon as the floor is dry have the carpets put down.

While the carpets are being put down you can be cleaning the pictures. Remove the backs and wash the glass and dust the picture, then clean the frame carefully and hang as soon as the carpets are down. Dust and rub up the chairs, using some good furniture polish if necessary, or if there are no scars a rubbing with a kerosene rag and an after polish with a flannel cloth will benefit almost all kinds of wood. Clean the bedstead and other furniture the same way. Clean everything before you carry it back into the room, and for this purpose you will find the workroom quite handy. Put up your curtains and drape the last thing. Some housekeepers do not take up their chair or hall carpets till the lower floor is realized in the process of cleaning, preferring to cover them with linen. I always take mine up the first thing and wipe up the halls and stairs, for the tramping and dragging of heavy furniture over the carpets wear them out.—Washington Star.

BURDOCK'S BLOOD BITTERS

VILLAGES SWEEPED TO RUIN

GREAT HAVOC THROUGH THE COLLAPSE OF A RESERVOIR.

The Death Dealing Torrent—Upwards of 20 Lives Sacrificed—Double Murder in Paris—Bicycleist Shot by His Jealous Wife.

PARIS, April 29.—HE burst Bouzey reservoir had a capacity of seven million cubic meters. The torrent carried off bodily some houses in the villages of Bouzey, Dainville, Euxegney and Dommeville and swamped many others, besides demolishing walls, bridges, roads, crops and farm buildings. The railway between Epinal and Nancy is deeply flooded and breaches have been made in the road. Assistance was sent from Nancy this afternoon, but as yet it has been found impossible to reach the point where the break was made.

The accident occurred at 5 o'clock this morning and the rush of water through the village was so sudden that there was hardly any chance to escape, many persons being drowned in their beds. The number of deaths will exceed 60.

VILLAGES DISAPPEARED.—The Bouzey reservoir was on the southern branch of the eastern canal, the water followed the valley of the Aisne, the sudden action of the canal burst its banks and the water poured from it over six miles of country till the channel was empty. The torrent hemmed in by high hills, rushed down the valley like a cyclone, sweeping the villages, and after a course of ten miles emptied into the Meuse and Chatel. Every house at Bouzey was demolished and very few remain at Les Forges where there are 1,400 inhabitants; at Euxegney 23 persons were drowned. Every building was destroyed in Dainville where the population numbers 600. Notwithstanding the fact that Nomeny is ten miles from the dam many had no time to reach the upper portion of their buildings before the rent was upon them. The corpse of eight persons were found.

A JEALOUS WOMAN'S DEED.—PARIS, April 29.—The French bicyclist Mediager was shot and killed by his wife in this city yesterday afternoon. The woman then turned the revolver upon herself and fired with fatal effect. It is believed that jealousy was the cause.

BURIED IN THE WRECK.—BRUSSELS, April 29.—While a gang of workmen were busy on an immense new building the roof collapsed and many men were buried in the wreck. Fifteen were seriously injured and several others badly hurt.

MAY DAY MANIFESTATIONS.—ROME, April 29.—Vigorous measures are being taken by the authorities throughout Italy to enforce the law prohibiting May day celebrations. Many anarchists and socialists have been arrested and are temporarily confined. Reports from the various prefects throughout the country are that no disorders are anticipated.

DURANT SPEAKS!

The Alleged San Francisco Murderer Makes His First Statement—Says he is Innocent.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 29.—For the first time since the charge of murdering Miss Marion Williams in the Emmanuel Baptist church, of this city, was formerly made against W. H. Durant, the prisoner has been permitted to talk. He spoke first of the Lamont case, saying:

"Poor Blanche, I am accused of strangling her and then remaining unmoved at the details of the most horrible crime in history. No one will ever know the sorrow I can, and no one can begin to comprehend my thoughts, even if I were to tell all the anguished and terrible facts I was told. I could not have murdered the girl; I liked her too well—not better than any one else in the world, but I respected and admired her and was good friends. Judging by newspaper communications, I am looked upon as a cold-blooded, diabolical monster. I am painted as a devil in human shape and very little is said in favor of the possibility of any other person having killed these two girls; but when the trial is over the world will know that I am innocent. My conscience and self-control since my arrest are held against me, but no person will ever know the terrible ordeal I am undergoing. It is said that I use opiates to induce sleep. That is a lie. I am able to sleep well because my conscience is clear of all crime. I am not of a nervous temperament and have always been able to keep cool."

He accuses the police of working solely from the premise that he was guilty of the crime and ignoring all other clues.

LETTERS FROM OSCAR

To Young Men Read in Court Today—A Witness Shame—Sympathy for Wilde.

LONDON, April 29.—The trial of Oscar Wilde and Alfred Taylor was resumed in the Central Criminal Court, Old Bailey today. A number of letters written by the prisoners to young men and others were read.

When Edward Shelly, the former employee of the publishers, Matthews and Lane, was testifying on Saturday, and was asked to tell the jury what had taken place in Oscar Wilde's rooms, the witness pathetically appealed to counsel to read to him his previous deposition, and thus spare him the shame of repeating it. The counsel, however, made the witness repeat his story.

The judge said he had read a letter from a distinguished literary man expressing sympathy with Wilde and hopes that the charges against him would be disproved.

The death of Miss Dickens, a former school teacher at Burlington, who swallowed a spoonful of ammonia by mistake, occurred in a Toronto hospital yesterday morning.

Grand Lodge of True Blues.

The Grand Lodge of Loyal True Blues meets in Lindsay on the first Tuesday in June and will remain in session until Thursday. The True Blues in Lindsay are making great preparations for their reception and entertainment. Several energetic committees are at work making all preparations.

Presented With a Watch.

Mr. Theodore Landman who has recently resigned his position in the Crown Land Department, to accept a position in Michigan and who was here shortly to assume his new duties, was last night made the recipient of a handsome gold watch and chain and an address from a number of his warm friends in Peterborough.

Have'n't Had It Here.

Motor men on electric street car lines are afflicted with a new malady termed "butterfly legs." The electric car is run by pressing a button in the floor of the platform, and the constant exercise brings new muscles into play and the men are troubled with soreness and stiffness in the right foot and ankle. Of course the soreness soon wears off.

Look out for Him.

A shabby pedlar who has been travelling through Western Ontario, selling twines, is heading this way. His goods, said to be the best in the market, and so home ideas, gives an address in Toronto where they can be exchanged for the money refunded if they do not prove to be as represented. The alleged place of exchange in Toronto turns out to be a flour and feed store.

The Day to Take Out Licenses.

The License Commissioners of West Peterborough meet at 10 o'clock this morning. All licensees have to be taken out by Wednesday, May 1st, and the license will be in his office all day for the accommodation of those coming in at the last moment. Mr. Cochrane says he wishes it distinctly understood that he is not taking out a license today will be closed up.

The Potatoe Bear Mining.

A gentleman living in the suburbs, who farms and gardens on his own account, gives the interesting information that the potatoe bugs have failed to make their appearance this season. For the past ten years these insects have been a source of loss and expense to farmers, and the information that the pest is probably over will gladden the hearts of the agriculturists all over the country.

Government Fish Fry.

Mr. Charles Wilmot, of the Credit Fortis trout preserve, has sent out this morning more than five millions of fry to various parts of the Dominion. Tuesday Mr. Wilmot sent out the largest single shipment of speckled trout ever recorded in this country. It consisted of more than a quarter of a million of fry, in 47 large cases of water, and was to the order of Mr. W. F. Wilmot, for deposit in his fish ponds at Uxbridge.

The Benefit Concert.

The benefit concert will be held on the evening of May 10, and the arrangements are progressing accordingly. The townspeople should turn out on mass to the concert, the proceeds of which are for the former employees of the Electric Works, who are locked out until the first of June at least. The employees are deserving of the warmest sympathy and support of the citizens for their conduct has been highly commendable and their untimely action in receiving a flagrant injustice entitles them to the respect of everybody - their present position, certainly to the consideration of citizens. It has been suggested that this concert be followed by another, and that similar concerts be held weekly until the difficulty is settled. The idea is an excellent one.

A Handsome Canoe.

The war canoes of the aborigines of Canada are coming into use again. All the trading states of both Canada and the United States are ordering these famous craft. The dimensions chiefly in use are the thirty foot canoe, which is of old, has its crew seated sternward, and is being built at the present time at the factory of the Wm. English Canoe Co. a thirty foot war canoe which is being made for the Vaudreuil Canoe Club. It is made of British Columbia cedar and it is going, metaphorically speaking, into the war, for the members of this club are determined if possible to conquer the champion Loch Lomond crew and if fine lines and beautiful model count for anything they will certainly do it. The canoe is one of the prettiest ever turned out of the factory and will dazzle the eyes of the people of Montreal's favorite suburb. Anyone taking an interest in canoe would do well to walk down and see this magnificent canoe before it leaves town, as it may be a long time before they will have the chance to see such a huge boat. The canoe factory will be open every night until 10 o'clock in order to enable everyone to see it.

ELECTRIC WORKS TROUBLE.

The freezing reception which the conciliatory committee of the citizens' committee was given by the local manager of the Electric Works, has been the subject of much comment with citizens. In view of the large bonuses which the company represents to Peterborough, citizens are entitled to some consideration at the company's hands. The citizens' committee was shown but scant courtesy. Mental maledictions, no doubt, are being showered upon the man who sat on the council board and gave freely of the town's substance to this company without retaining the slightest hold upon the company whereby Peterborough could claim its demand that these employees be dealt justly with.

We understand that Mr. Stephens has claimed to have been grossly misrepresented to the citizens of Peterborough. We do not see that he has. He did not state whether by the press or by the former employees. The press, as far as The Times is concerned, has not sought to misrepresent him, in fact, we have happily looked for something to say in his favor. For the former employees, we will say, that their utterances have been tempered with extreme mildness. The speakers at the public meeting spoke their feelings in a straightforward manner and presented the employees' side of the case without that bitterness which might have been expected when all things are considered. Mr. Stephens had the same opportunity to present the company's position, but he did not avail himself of it. Now he claims he has been misrepresented. The citizens will draw their own conclusions.

Mr. Cox told the committee that the company had the fullest confidence in the local management and would uphold any action the latter decided to take. The committee waited upon Mr. Stephens, and he met their overtures with the reply that the works would be closed until June 1st. Three hundred men and women are cut off from a living for one month by this determination. Yet, Mr. Stephens claims that he has been misrepresented. There is this to be learned from the developments of the past two days: Mr. Stephens either has not the power to effect a settlement, or he won't. In either case we think the course for the citizens' committee is plain: Go direct to the general management and lay the matter before the directors. Mr. Stephens' stand will be an answer to them if they refer the committee to him. Let the committee make it plain who is responsible for the strike, in the first place, and in the second place, the shut down of the works.

THE WHEEL.
President Donlittle of the Canadian Wheelmen's Association has returned from Montreal, where he has been interviewing the railway authorities with reference to the accommodation of touring wheelmen. An arrangement will be made whereby every station agent will be supplied with the name and address of the local C. W. A. agent. Tourists leaving the railway at any station will be able to find at once the local representative of the C. W. A. who will furnish all information as to routes and roads.

In addition the president will be able to furnish to all parties of eight or more who may give him ten days' notice guides who will pilot tourists in any part of Ontario without any expense to the tourists.

The necessity of applying to every municipality and every toll road company for permission to erect the C. W. A. guide boards will prevent that scheme from being carried out in its entirety this season. In the meantime all the main roads will be placarded by permission of the owners of the adjoining lands, the signs being put up just inside the fences. Next year the C. W. A. will have a bill put through enabling the association to put its signs along the roads without a special and individual application, as in the case of telephone and telegraph companies.

WEDDING BELLS.

The McCallum-Lambe Nuptials Yesterday Afternoon.

A quiet but very pretty wedding took place yesterday afternoon at the residence of Mr. Robert Morrison, Westcott street, when Mr. William J. McCallum was married to Miss Annie Lambe. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. J. Eas in the presence of a few intimate friends and relatives. The groom is widely and popularly known in Peterborough, where for a number of years he has successfully conducted a restaurant and confectionery store. The bride is a winsome and popular young lady, and a cousin of Mr. Morrison at whose residence the ceremony took place. She was adorned in a dress of cream satin. Immediately after the ceremony the wedding party partook of an excellent dinner, and then the newly wedded pair left on the 4.30 C. P. R. express on a bridal tour to Toronto, Hamilton and Brantford. The numerous friends of the bride and groom will congratulate them and wish them every success.

TWO BAD DOMESTICS.

Edith and Ethel White Sent to the Mercer For Six Months Each.

The two dishonest domestics who gave the names of Edith and Ethel White, convicted of stealing a number of articles from the houses in which they were employed, came up in the police court yesterday morning for sentence. The Magistrate read to them a letter from Chief of Police Rossel, of Peterborough, in which it was stated that they had correct names were Mary and Martha Middleton, natives of the Township of Dummer, in the County of Peterborough. On July 26th, 1893, Mary had served a term for robbing her mistress, and both sisters, when about to leave Toronto, had been arrested at the C. P. R. station with a trunkful of stolen property. They had changed their names about as often as they had changed their situations, and the town considered itself lucky to be rid of them.

Col. Denison gave them each six months in the Mercer Reformatory. Both prisoners laughed at this sentence. "That's not so bad at all," said one of them. "I could stand in a hole that long." - News.

A MARYLAND HOME.

FAMOUS WYE MANSION, WITH ITS GRACIOUS MEMORIES.

A Sturdy Domestic and its Outbuildings and "Quarters"—A Land of Mini-Jules and Winesap Makers—Fred Douglass Visits His Boyhood's Home.

If one might be frisked by the mere thought of a wish away from the vulgar, commonplace and the din and all the heartless impertinence of this impatient time back to those ways of pleasantness and paths of peace which were the familiar conditions of old Maryland, he might choose to find himself trundling in an antiquated gig through the long, dim stretch of woods and the double colonnade of locusts and larches which formed the approach to the "great house" and ended in the gravelled drive that belted the noble lawn—from five to seven acres of close, clean sward, dotted with firs and cedars and terraced from end to end. Here stood the sturdy domicile, broad and square, built of bricks brought over from England in the ships that came for tobacco. It was flanked on each hand with offices and strung out to the very edge of the woods with outbuildings—kitchen, dairy, larder, over the door and the "quarter" for the dusky colony of slaves. This latter might be either a group of cabins or a single spacious tenement of logs or stone, affording one big sitting room below, stored with earth and rude dormitories, banked and blanketed above. On the ground floor the negroes loved to lie around the great hearth, with their feet to the fire, and to sleep that sleep of innocent bewilderment which was broken only by the familiar cry of warning, "Some fool nigger's heel a-burnin'!"

In the distance was the clumsy windmill for the grinding of the maize which was presently to find itself transformed and famous in confectionery of Johnny cake and pone, and flapsacks flattered with golden butter, and beyond, between the willows by the creek, glimpsed and glanced the rippling silver of the bay, with its sleepy coves and inlets dotted with canoes and barges, and with the slender spars of pines in among the cuddling little lakes, where Sambo longed for "eyebetchers" in the sun and the larger fisher took his flaky treasures from the water.

Here was a land flowing with mini-jules and blooming with delectable damasks. Mistress Rebecca Lloyd, beautiful and gracious, greeted the newcomer with a winsome courtesy on the broad piazza, and the grizzled butler, who had "bored" his young mistress around so long that there were still times when he forgot himself and called her "honey," brought you the beguiling beverage on a silver salver engraved with the family arms and was distressed if your straw refused to draw. That broad piazza was burned, with the rest of the noble house of Wye, on March 18, 1861, when a British marauding party booted the plantation and the mansion and carried off plate, jewelry and watches, swords, spurs, sashes and cocked beavers, muffs, turbans and tippets, wigs and embroidered waistcoats, plumed hats and cardinals, the whole splendid plunder of brave apparel and dainty bedeckings. The fair Rebecca has long since been shrouded among the angels and the grizzled butler sleeps with his toes turned up to the mint, but when I crossed the lawn one kindly day in December I was greeted as graciously by Rebecca's later mistress and conducted into the great hall, which never yet, whether in the parent house or in this, was big enough for the hospitalities it has harbored. The grand old mansion house gave its body to the flames, but the soul survives in the later mansion, where its traditions of courtesy and kindness are proudly cherished.

Near the site of the historic domicile, a fragment of which still remains, stands the beautiful structure, impressive by its proud simplicity, which invites the wayfarer today in the name of eight generations of Maryland worthies who have kept house there since Edward Lloyd I, the Puritan, in 1668, set up his son Philemon to be lord of the manor of Wye and master of Wye House—incumbent majordom. The main building of two lofty stories, including the hall, drawing room, parlor, dining room and chambers, all of noble proportions, is connected by corridors with one storied wing, which are the library on one side and the domestic offices on the other, presenting a pleasing facade of 800 feet, looking out upon the lawn and the leafy avenue, and over the woods to Wye river and the bay.

In Governor Lloyd's time there was a certain steward, or bailiff, at Wye, one Captain Anthony of St. Michael's, at one time master of a bay craft in the service of the governor. This man was the owner of a lively negro boy who escaped from bondage, and by his remarkable powers, acquisitions and address became known to the world as Frederick Douglass. In 1851 Mr. Douglass, being then marshal of the District of Columbia, was moved to revisit the scenes of his childhood and his thrill, and one day found himself on the porch of Wye House where he was received by the sons of Colonel Lloyd, their father being absent, with that courtesy which is extended to every stranger who finds his way thither. When he had made known the motive of his visit, he was conducted over the estate, from spot to spot that he remembered and described with all the childish associations there a spring, there a hedge, a lane, a field, a tree. He called them by their names or recalled them by some simple incident, and all the glowing heart of the man seemed to go out to the place as he passed from ghost to ghost in a dream. And then a strange thing happened. Standing mute and musing for awhile, he said slowly and low, as one who talks in his sleep, "Over in them woods was war me and Mass Dan uster trap rabbits." "Mass Dan" was the governor's son. Was it the man's half playful, half pathetic sense of the grotesque incongruity of the situation, or was it glimmered all the tremendous significance of a phenomenal life compacted into the homely reflection and phrase of a barefoot "darker"?

He plucked flowers from the graves of dead Lloyds he had known and as the tale drank to the health of the master of the old house and of his children, "that they and their descendants may worthily maintain the character and the fame of their ancestors."—Dr. John W. Palmer in Century.

His Descendants.

Page—They say that Dr. Capelle has made a fortune within the last five years. Gags—Gracious! What a lot of people he must have cured! "You're away off. He didn't cure anybody. He discovered a new disease."—New York Tribune.

Keweenaw Point, in Michigan, was so called by the Indians. The word means "a postage."

PETERBOROUGH, MAY 1, 1895.

NICARAGUA'S PROPOSAL.

ZILAYA APPEARS ANXIOUS FOR A COMPROMISE.

Election Reform Bill—A Grief-Stricken Mayor—A Counterfitter's Resort Raided—The Result in East Leeds. Special to the Times.

WASHINGTON, May 1.—The Nicaraguan Minister to England and France, Mr. Medina, who also acts as a friend of Nicaragua, has been notified of Nicaragua's willingness to compromise the difficulty with Great Britain, as set forth in the despatches from Managua. Lord Kimberley with a view to secure his consent that the ships be withdrawn from Corinto, and the indemnity paid in London. All the despatches from Managua state that the continued presence of British forces at Corinto is deeply irritating to the Nicaraguans, and that the longer they remain the stronger becomes the determination of the Nicaraguan people not to yield. Nicaraguan despatches say that the British consuls at the various ports in the republic are protected by the local troops, but it is feared grave trouble will follow if the present tension be not relaxed.

The Nicaraguan Minister, Dr. Guzman, was an early visitor at the State department today. He had a conference with Secretary Graham, and at its close immediately left the building. The nature of the conference could not be learned.

VALUABLE NECKLACE.
LONDON, May 1.—A necklace formed of 300 pearls which the Duchess of Montrose bequeathed for the benefit of the poor of East London, was sold at auction today and brought £11,500.

ATTACKED BY PIRATES.
LONDON, May 1.—The Dutch brigantine Anna was towed into Gibraltar today, after reports that on the afternoon of April 28th, while becalmed off the Riff coast, a party of Moors attacked her and shot and killed members of the crew and seriously wounded the captain and mate. After manœuvring the crew the pirates carried off the provisions and cargo.

ELECTION REFORM.
LONDON, May 1.—In the House of Commons today Mr. Shaw-Lefevre, president of the Local Government Board, introduced a bill providing for the abolition of plural voting and for the holding of all elections on the same day.

PRELIMINARY FOR TITLES.
LONDON, May 1.—The Times will congratulate Sir Henry Tyler and his colleagues in the management of the Grand Trunk railway on resigning. It will say that they managed the line to the best of their ability and that the proprietors were partly to blame for tolerating them so long, notwithstanding the constant attempts of the misery to open their eyes to the existing danger.

THE GLADSTONIAN WOE.
LONDON, May 1.—A parliamentary election was held in the east division of Leeds today in the vacancy caused by the death of Lawrence Gane. The result of the poll was as follows: T. R. Leaty, (Conservative) 3,900; J. Danvers Power, (Conservative) 2,800.

EMMA HALL'S INDIGNANT FRIENDS.
LONDON, May 1.—There is a feeling of indignation among the friends and relatives of Miss Emily Hall, at Halesowen, home of the dead girl's father, over the failure of the authorities in Detroit to take more active measures to secure the case of the alleged victim of Rev. Jonathan Bell, Friends of Miss Hall are trying to induce the British government in the matter. The police here cannot see they have no official proof of the death of the girl. A case of betrayal does not amount to a crime unless there is proof that the betrayer connived at the procuring of an abortion. Bell's whereabouts are still unknown. The police are satisfied that he has not committed suicide. Letters written by Miss Hall show that Bell was in Detroit on Jan. 10th, and that Miss Hall left Liverpool on Jan. 15th. Miss Hall's letters suggest that a woman connected with a religious movement in Leeds proposed the girl's removal to America.

THE DURANT MURDER.
Medical Evidence—Judge Postpones His Decision.

Special to the Times.
SAN FRANCISCO, May 1.—Durant's examination on the charge of murdering Minnie Williams was resumed in the police court this morning. Dr. Barrett, the autopsy physician, was called to the stand and testified that the murdered girl had been outraged prior to the murder, and that her death was caused by suffocation and hemorrhage. In his opinion the wounds of the body were antemortem. The prosecution then rested and the defence waived all testimony in its behalf. Judge Conland denied the motion of Gen. Dickerson for a dismissal of the case, as well as the application for bail. The case will be heard on Thursday next.

Twenty Thousand Buses.
There are nearly 20,000 buses in bloom now at Danlop's conservatories in Bloomsbury, Toronto. Visitors are always well come. Mr. Danlop is proud of his establishment and takes pleasure in speaking of his beautiful flowers. He ships them by train and express to all parts of Canada, and as these orders are direct from the trees, he guarantees them to arrive in good condition. Sale room, 45 Yonge-st., and 45 E. King street west.

Balmoral Hotel For Sale.

The building is large, recently built in the most modern and convenient style, and is furnished complete in every particular. It contains 50 large bedrooms, three parlors, billiard room and all other apartments necessary to the equipment of a first-class hotel. Weak, Tired, Nervous

Women, who seem to be all worn out, will find in purified blood, made rich and healthy by Hood's Sarsaparilla, permanent relief and strength. The following is from a well known nurse:

"I have suffered for years with female complaints and kidney troubles and I have had a great deal of medical advice during that time, but have received little or no benefit. A friend advised me to take Hood's Sarsaparilla and I began to use it, together with Hood's Pills. I have realized more benefit from these medicines than from anything else I have ever taken. CITY AND COUNTY NEWS

LOCAL AND DISTRICT HAPPENINGS OF THE DAY.

The Weather.
Fresh to strong easterly winds, fair, and at most points cooler.

The Oakville Gold Cure.
Information regarding the above will be given with pleasure to all parties desiring such information. A. H. McVILLER.

Officers Installed.
The officers of City Lodge No. 304 as published in THE TIMES a week ago were duly installed last evening by Bro. Jas. Struba, P.D.G.C.T.

Death of an Infant.
The infant son of Mr. W. G. Randle died very suddenly yesterday afternoon. The funeral will leave the family residence No. 61 Lock street this afternoon at 4 o'clock, to the Little Lake Cemetery.

Look to Your Premises.
Every person who occupies a dwelling should now enter upon the work of clearing up every particle of rubbish and garbage to be found. Rake every inch of the ground, burn every particle of rubbish and every the garbage. There is no time like the present for improvement of this kind. Not only for the appearance of clean premises is this urged upon the people, but for the healthfulness of the place. Fever germs lurk where the rubbish and dirt heaps abound, and for this reason everything should be cleaned up without delay. Do not let the health inspector threaten you; but do the work of cleaning cheerfully, for your own benefit.

Is He a Fake?
A man has been in this neighborhood lately selling cloth to farmers. This he does in perfect confidence, of course, but we understand, there is a fraud in the deal, owing to the methods which he resorts to in order to make his sales. He approaches a man by representing himself as an agent for a large concern which desires to purchase the farmer's produce at a higher figure than local buyers will pay, and claims that the farmer can leave his produce as such and such a place and receive for it certain high prices. Of course this seems reasonable, and the man then unrolls a piece of cloth and tells the farmer he ought to patronize his generous firm. The farmer gives an order for the cloth, which is to be made up into suits in some instance, and the man takes a note for the goods. This he demands, and that ends the deal. He is not, as any man, nor is the high priced market for produce ever found. There is little doubt our farmers could get their cloth as cheaply, if not cheaper, from local dealers. When this man can afford to shave his notes it shows he must have a very large profit. A word to the wise ought therefore to be sufficient. This man has in this way got hundreds of dollars that ought to have gone into the pockets of our merchants.

Planet Notes for May.
During May some of the planets will be interestingly situated, especially Jupiter and Venus in the west and Saturn in the southeast. At the beginning of the month Mercury will be behind the sun, reaching superior conjunction on May 4 at 7 o'clock in the evening. Twelve hours later he will pass the ascending node of his orbit, crossing the ecliptic from south to north. Perihelion he will reach on May 9 at 9 p.m. On the evening of May 19 at 7 o'clock he will pass by the planet Neptune, and at about 10.44 on the night of May 15 he will be in conjunction with the moon, just 9 degrees 41 minutes south of Libra. Toward the end of May Mercury will be visible as an evening star shortly after sunset, situated in the western sky, between the fixed stars gamma Geminorum and beta Tauri. Neptune is also in the same region of the heavens, but he cannot be seen, because he is so distant at present. Beside these planets, Luna, Venus, Jupiter and Mars will be in that vicinity of the sky at one portion of the month, so that, if conjunctions of the planets have any effect on terrestrial weather, we had better "look out for squalls" of a severe character. Mars has lost so much of his brilliancy that he now appears as but an average star of the first magnitude, a most remarkable color and brightness Aldebaran in Taurus or Betelgeuse in Orion. Venus and Jupiter are much alike in both color and brilliancy, but the brightness of Venus will surpass that of Jupiter this month. These two planets will be in conjunction on May 12.

TWO CLEVER SWINDLERS.

Peterborough Merchants Should Be on Their Guard.

The Belleville Intelligencer says: Early Friday morning two respectable dressed men were about Front street, and they were apparently strangers to the city. One of them was about 5 ft. 7 in. in height, weighed about 140 lbs., light hair and mustache, while the other was about the same build, but dark complexioned. During the day the former called upon several merchants, among whom were Thompson & Co., Tickell & Sons and W. R. Riggs. He was professionally looking for furniture and a piano, stating that he was going to live in the city. At the former house he looked over a lot of furniture and said he would come back and pay for his selections within an hour. At Tickell & Sons he gave a cheque for his "purchase," signed John McKay. He brought a piano from Mr. Riggs for $275, and also gave a cheque on the Bank of Montreal for the same amount. On leaving the latter place he asked Mr. Riggs to lend him $5 till today, but the request was promptly refused. This morning he called at Foster's and tried to make a bargain for a stove, offering $17 for one valued at $25. His game is this: He goes among the prominent business men making purchases and giving out his cheque in payment, and when he finds one that he thinks "easy," he endeavors to get a loan of say $5 or $10, often offering to include it in the cheque. So far as we are aware he found no victims in town. They tried the game in several eastern towns and not without success.

PURELY LOCAL SPORTS.

The first baseball game of the season was played yesterday afternoon by the wine clerks and a team composed of former employees of the Electric Works on the P. A. A. grounds. The latter showed superior batting and fielding qualities and easily defeated their opponents in a score of 22 runs to 17. Holland and Politics was the battery for the wine clerks and Pomfret and Gordon for the opposing nine. The lines took the field as follows:

EDMOND'S WINE CLERKS
Thorne First Base LeBar
Metherall Left field Dora
McMillen Second base Hardick
Shawley Short stop Carroll
Rabidge Center field Simons
Adams Right field Blaine Elliott Third base McCabe
Gordon Pitcher Holland
Pomfret Catcher Politics

This afternoon the same teams will play on the P. A. A. grounds.
THEY WANT A GAME.
Secretary A. M. Terrill, of the Peterborough, is in receipt of a communication from C. D. McDonald, secretary of the Madoc Lacrosse Club, conveying the club's wish to arrange home and foreign matches with the Peterboroughs. Madoc has always possessed a crack lacrosse team, and if a satisfactory arrangement can be reached doubtless several good games will result.

The Newspaper A. A. A. and V. V. V. will meet over the Palace Restaurant tonight when arrangements will be made to leave the Riverside Park grounds.

A HOT FIRE.

400 Cords of Wood Burned at Massey's Station.

At Massey's station on Tuesday night a spark from the smoke stack of Collier's mill set fire to a large quantity of wood piled in the yard. The wood caught fire in several places and in a few minutes was blazing furiously and hotly. There were about 10 hundred cords in the yard and it looked as if all of it as well as the mill would be consumed. The heat was so intense that it was almost impossible to do effective work in the way of extinguishing the flames. A telegram was sent to Peatypool for help and a large number of men from there came over and aided the mill men in subduing the flames. About 400 cords were consumed.

"Lost in London."

The above drama was presented by the Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Houghton Company in the Opera House last night to a good audience. It proved to be a strong dramatic production and was the best effort of the company during their engagement here. The character assumed by Mr. Houghton gave him wide scope in which to demonstrate his splendid dramatic powers and this he did to the satisfaction of the audience. As Nellie Armory, Miss Virginia Houghton did an excellent piece of acting. The catchy songs of Gordon McDowell brought down the house and he was encored. The rest of the company took their parts well.

Volunteered Their Services.

Arrangements for the benefit concert are progressing. The following ladies and gentlemen have signified their willingness to assist on the program of this most laudable undertaking: Mrs. W. A. Sanderson, Miss Hanson, Miss Lila Ostrom, Mrs. Stepien, Mr. G. W. Mulligan, Mrs. Thos. Dunn, Mr. John Miller, Miss Clarke, Miss Boswell, Mrs. G. A. Smith, Mrs. T. Dunn, Mr. John Crane, Miss Vink, W. H. Manning and the Fire Brigade Band.

DURWARD LELY.

The sale of tickets for the Lely Musical opens this morning at 10 o'clock. The reserved seats plan will be opened at the same time at Stratton's bookstore. Tickets have been placed on sale at the stores of Messrs. H. B. MacDonald, Clarke & Gibson, Salisbury Bros. and A. H. Stratton & Co. The prices are: Reserved seats, 50c; unreserved elevated seats, 35c; gallery 25c. Mr. Lely has kindly consented to place the songs of his repertoire at the disposal of the management, who have arranged a program of Scottish, English and Irish songs, which is certain to delight all lovers of music.

When so many people are taking and deriving benefit from Hood's Scurvy Pills, why don't you try it yourself? It is highly recommended.

LITTLE LOCAL LINES.

Items of Interest Intelligently Presented for Busy Readers.

Arbor Day.
Lacrosse match on the P. A. A. grounds this afternoon.

The quarterly business meeting of the Murray street Baptist church was held last night.

The benefit concert for the S. S. Orchestra of the Charlotte street Methodist church last night was largely attended and proved a great success.

From the report of the Registrar General for Ontario for 1894 we quote the following particulars: Total births, 54,461; marriages, 24,400; deaths, 23,331.

It is difficult to recall an April that was accompanied by so little moisture and brought forth as much warm weather as the month which ended on Tuesday.

Every man who has a garden is now at work spending the ground and putting in the seed. The many burning rubbish heaps show that gardening operations are in progress everywhere.

Confirmation services in connection with the parish of Peterborough will be held in St. John's church on the evening of May 12th. The candidates will receive Holy Communion in a body on Whitsunday, June 2nd, in St. John's at 8 a.m.

It is now in season to pluck the savory watercress with which the creeks of this locality abound. During the early days of summer is the time to gather it, as then the plant is crisp and tender, and free from the infestations of flies which feed upon the leaf.

Night Watchman Gordon's report for the past four months is as follows: Number of front doors found open, 14; number of back doors found open, 25; names of articles (found), two rolls of felt paper, one ham, one dozen brooms, two coal sifters, one suit of clothes, one basket, one suit of clothes, six brushes, three baskets.

A leading church member of Wainapig is in bed with a nervous shock. He happened to be out late Saturday night, and when passing his church going home was astonished to find the organist in her usual place playing lively music, to which the members of the choir were holding a dance. There will be an advertisement in the papers now calling for applications for organist and choristers. As may be imagined, "It's all the talk, overshadowing for the time the school question."

A rather amusing incident occurred in the Bowmanville Methodist church, on Sunday morning last. At the close of the service, when the officials went forward to take up the collection, the plates were all missing. After looking from one to another for a moment and somewhat bewildered, a search was made in the school room where the plates were kept. "It's rather a serious affair," remarked Pastor Parker, "when the collection plates in a Methodist congregation get astray."

This is the closing week of the great removal sale which China Hall has so successfully held for the past three weeks. You can always get a bargain there, but rarely such bargains as are now being offered in all lines of China, Glassware, and Lamp goods.

Every thing is being sold at cost price to avoid moving large stock and every one should take advantage of the opportunities offered.

A Wedding at Warsaw.
On Wednesday, Miss Friedella Payne, daughter of Mrs. Sidney Payne, of Warsaw, was married to Mr. Richard Hume Kidd, a flourishing young farmer of Desermer, son of Mr. A. B. Kidd, of Warsaw.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. E. Robeson, pastor of the Warsaw Methodist church, at the residence of the bride's mother, and it was witnessed by a large number of the relatives and intimate friends of the bride and groom. The bride was very tastefully attired. Miss Bertha L. Kidd, sister of the groom, was the bridesmaid, and Mr. W. E. Wilson, of Warkworth, officiated as best man. A most appealing repast was served after the ceremony had been concluded, following which the happy couple received a shower of congratulations from those present. The wedding presents were numerous, and they were greatly admired by one and all.

A Journalistic Nonentity.
Last week the Millbrook Reporter tried to tell THE TIMES how to run a newspaper. We gently admonished the handy man, who, in his blustering manner, for his unbecomingly interference. This week's issue of that antiquated sheet contains about two "sticks" of misapprehension, incoherence and a few delusions. We doubt if it is much more coherent, laudatory and lying trash was ever before crowded into similar space. "There is no space wanting," where the Reporter's brains ought to be; and, judging from the paper, the balance of his cranium is filled with mayonnaise dressing instead of the gray matter commonly known as brains. Our roving content is no "pen in a bottle scheme," nor is it concocted for the "riff-raff" (spelled with one f) of the town, although it seems to have aroused the spleen of the "riff-raff" of Millbrook. This is the season for snakes to jump—and the Reporter is jumping. In the language of the Bobcaygeon Independent, we advise it to take out itself and jump on itself. When THE TIMES starts voting content for the biggest liar in the county, we have no doubt the handy man on the Reporter will head the list and capture the prize.

SAUGEEN MINERAL WATER

ONLY

The Water is from a Mineral Spring on the shores of Lake Huron, 1500 feet deep, and is recommended by all physicians as a sure cure for Dyspepsia. Not only that, but it is the most pleasant of all Canadian Mineral Waters to drink. It has not got that nasty salty taste the others have. It is saturated and sold in pint bottles, and is sold in all grocery stores and hotels in Ontario.

CROWN CASE ALL IN

Clara Ford's Fate Will Soon
Be in the Jury's Hands.

EXAMINED 34 WITNESSES

THE EVIDENCE AGAINST THE AC-CUSED NOT AS DAMAGING AS AT FIRST APPEARED.

The Prisoner's Confession the Chief Evidence Against Her—The Defence is Making a Strong Fight for Acquittal—Right Cross-Examination of Crown Witnesses.

Toronto, May 3.

GREAT and stubborn defence is being made by E. B. Johnston and W. G. Murdoch for the life of Clara Ford, and the result will be decided by the jury at the present proceedings.

The Crown's case, except the story obtained under circumstances which will make its acceptance by the jury a matter of doubt, and the admissibility of which as evidence has yet to be decided by a higher court.
Libby Black's evidence did not strengthen the case for the Crown. She swore that she spoke to a man calling himself Frank Westwood and whom she saw with Clara Ford. Her description of him was sworn by Frank's father to be wrong.

THAT ALLEGED CONFESSION.
But it was over the confession that the greatest fight was made. The Crown scored heavily when it secured its acceptance, but the defence also scored by showing that the confession was not free or voluntary, and that it was obtained under duress.

A strong argument, based upon one of Inspector Stark's replies in cross-examination, will be made before the High Court as to the confession's validity. It is understood that the question discussed was as to whether the accused admitted or denied committing the crime, and if admitting, whether she was free or not.

THE CROWN'S CASE FINISHED.
In order that the jury be satisfied as to the conditions and results of the shooting experiments made by shooting bullets at meat out of Clara's revolver.

WILKIE'S SENTENCE.
Alexander C. G. Wilkie goes to the Kingston penitentiary for five years—He Pleaded Guilty—The Magistrate Expressed Sympathy for Wilkie's Family.

Special to The Times.
TORONTO, May 3.—Confession in Kingston penitentiary for five years is the penalment meted out to Alexander C. G.
Wilkie, who was brought before Police Magistrate Denison this morning, who, on being arraigned on a charge of having stolen $500 from W. D. Matthews & Co., pleaded guilty. James A. Macdonald appeared on his behalf and asked for leniency. The prisoner, he said, had a wife and six children who, during his absence, had to depend upon the charity of the community. Mr. Macdonald appeared for Mr. Matthews, also asked for consideration.

As I understand it," said the magistrate, "you have stolen $500 from W. D.
Matthews & Co., a small portion of the amount stolen."

THE ASSASSIN'S HAND.

A PROMINENT Y. M. C. A. OFFICIAL DISAPPEARS.

Trapped by a Flood and Killed—Murdered on the eve of securing a Big Fortune—Body Found Floating in the River—Great Sensation in Rochester.

Special to the Times.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., May 2.—The finding of the body of Roy M. Culver, the missing secretary of the Y. M. C. A. at Newark, in the Clyde river today, is but a chapter in one of the most mysterious murders that has ever taken place in this state. Roy M. Culver left his home to go to Syracuse, on March 27th last, and was never again seen alive by persons knowing him. Three days later the following letter was received by his uncle:

SYRACUSE, N. Y.,—To Mr. Ammerman: Dear Sir,—Perhaps by this time you will be somewhat worried about the absence of Roy M. Culver. I have this much to say in regard to the matter. In searching through the genealogical records he discovered my family secrets. It is this wholly: About three years ago a large property was left to Mr. Culver's ancestors. He was never informed of this fact. His father at that time as a lawyer had entire charge of the transaction and he arranged matters so that Mr. Culver's ancestors were deprived of their right inheritance. Mr. Culver has, through the assistance of a lawyer, worked diligently to prove his claim to this property. He has succeeded to a certain extent and an appointment was made to meet at Syracuse. We met there and you will soon know the consequences. Mr. Culver's claim to this property was well founded and he proved beyond a doubt that this property belonged to his family. To make a long story short, will say this much:

"I HAVE INFORMED OF HIM" and you will see him again. I was obliged to do this in order to save myself. He leaves no papers throwing light on this matter. I had everything of this nature brought to Syracuse, and I have everything in my possession and I will write in this manner to disguise my writing. The fortune referred to was an immense property consisting of lands, houses and money well invested, and today it is one of the largest estates in existence. He has not spoken to any of his friends, intending to surprise them very soon. His last words, when I asked him if he wished to say anything to his friends, were: "Tell Leath to take charge of the place at Stab City until I call." He finally said: "Good bye to all my friends. This is the end of my story, and you will never hear from me again."

Yours truly, A STRANGER.

P.S.—He also told me to instruct Leath to pay the Y.P.C.K. $30.00. She will find $30 in cash and to make up the balance, and she will get it back at the final settlement. He seemed very particular about these last words.

NO CLUE AS YET.

Culver's relatives paid but little attention to the letter believing that the boy had become temporarily insane and wandered away. A search of his trunk was made and the money and letters found just as stated in the anonymous communication.

This morning the passengers on an east bound Central Hudson train saw a body floating in the Clyde River, and the coroner was telegraphed for. The body was recovered and proved to be that of Culver. It was found that the man had been strangled to death and then weighted down with railroad iron and thrown into the river. The crime has caused an immense sensation. There is no clue to the murderer.

WESTWOOD MURDER CASE

CLARA'S CONFESSION ADMITTED AS EVIDENCE FOR THE CROWN.

A Woman Who Saw the Prisoner and Young Westwood Together Gives Evidence—Yesterday's Proceedings in the Case.

Special to the Times.

ORONTO, May 2.—Constables who serve the county of York as far as locally as $1.25 per day will permit stand guard at every entrance to the room in the Court House, where the trial of Clara Ford for the alleged murder of Frank Westwood is in progress.

Although they use the utmost vigilance the seats are soon filled and gradually the aisles are choked up with curious onlookers who listen with avidity to the evidence. Perhaps a score of women are scattered among the audience. They evince much interest in the proceedings. Outside of the terrible confession the prisoner is said to have made to Sergeant Reburn and which that officer has sworn to be true, there is little for the Crown to rest its case on. The evidence of Mrs. Libby Black, a debauched looking female who said she twice met Frank Westwood and the prisoner together, was not believed by anyone who heard it. She contradicted herself half a dozen times in her attempt at the identification of either of the parties was so futile as to lead one to wonder at the nerve of the woman who would give such testimony. The cynical smile which constantly rests on Clara Ford's clear cut features grew firmer when this woman was on the stand. The prisoner indignantly denied that there was an atom of truth in the statement.

NOT A DESCRIPTION OF FRANK.

Benjamin Westwood was recalled by the defence and stated that the description given by Libby Black of his son Frank was not at all correct.

Edward Low stated that he knew both Frank Westwood and Giv Clarke. He was the only Low working in the city who was chummed with Giv Clarke, but he had nothing to do with the theft of the boat by Clarke. He said he was at the Academy of Music on the night of October 6. The witness was the Low mentioned by Frank Westwood in his dying moments as being like the person who shot him.

REBURN ON THE STAND.

Detective Henry Reburn took the stand. He said that Clara Ford was brought in on the 10th of Nov. 30. He asked her if she knew what she was brought there for. She replied: "For the murder of Frank Westwood." He cautioned her that anything she might say would be used against her, to which she replied, "that she did not care, that she was innocent and could prove it." He asked her who was with her and she replied: "Florence McKay."

At this point the defence interposed and it was arranged that Reburn should tell all that occurred leaving out all statements in order that his Lordship could judge of the admissibility of the evidence.

CLARA WANTED TO MAKE A STATEMENT.

Proceeding Reburn said that Clara was detained, and Mrs. Crozier and Florence McKay sent for. The former made a statement and Clara was about to reply but the sergeant stopped her with a warning. Similarly Reburn again stopped Clara when about to reply to a statement of Clara's. Mrs. Crozier and Florence McKay and Clara were about to reply but the sergeant stopped her with a warning. Similarly Reburn again stopped Clara when about to reply to a statement of Clara's. Mrs. Crozier and Florence McKay and Clara were about to reply but the sergeant stopped her with a warning.

THE CAPS TO BE FILLED.

"Now, my lord, I propose to fill up the gaps after the defence have examined Sgt. Reburn on the preliminaries," said Mr. Oiler.

In accordance with this arrangement, the witness said that Clara Ford was not under arrest, but she was not a free agent. Had she attempted to leave he would have placed her under arrest. She was under his charge from 4 o'clock till 11:40 p.m. when she was locked up. She had supper with the matron. The witness swore that Clara mentioned the tragedy first. Mr. Johnston confronted him with his evidence in the police court, showing that he spoke of it first, but Reburn said this was not correct. He admitted that the prisoner was alone in the police court for several hours with him without any other woman and without a lawyer. He did not suggest that she should get a lawyer until the following morning.

The cross examination was very lengthy and severe and was intended to show that Clara Ford's statements to Sgt. Reburn were not free and voluntary, but were obtained by undue pressure.

A far much argument the Chancellor said he would allow the alleged confession to go in, subject to a reserve case to the Superior Court.

Finally Chancellor Boyd stopped the cross examination. He said that it was fragmentary and gave no clear idea of what had happened. He said that if the Crown pressed the question he would admit the evidence, and a case would be reserved upon the point. As to the sergeant's questioning, Chancellor Boyd said that if crime was to be found out detectives must make inquiries, and personally he did not see why a certain sanctity should be thrown around criminals more than in any other case. He would receive the evidence and a case would be reserved for a higher court. It was necessary that detectives should know how far they could go.

Lawyer Johnston replied that he had shown that Clara Ford was there in the police headquarters, alone from four till half past eleven, without a lawyer; that she was pined with questions; that in fact, she was on her trial. He said that the principle was that the confession must be voluntary, and the crown must show it. He held that this had not been shown by the crown.

Chancellor Boyd's next remark was a strong one:—

"If it is a reprehensible practice for detectives to question, then the courts should rule all confessions out, as they are not admissible, but under the present questions put by a person in authority."

Mr. Oiler replied, quoting numerous authorities, and Chancellor Boyd decided to accept the confession, but said he would reserve a case for the Superior Court.

MAGNA EST VERITAS.

Mr. Edward Clarke Evidently Believes in His Client's Innocence.

Special to the Times.

LONDON, May 2.—When the news of the disagreement of the jury in the Wilde case reached the outside of the court room there was great excitement among the crowds in the streets, and the extra edition of the evening newspapers, which were issued within a few minutes after the result of trial became known, were bought up quickly by throngs of people who were not in the courtroom. When Sir Edward Clarke, counsel for Wilde, asked for bail, Justice Charles said that the application must be made in chambers.

Wilde will be tried again at the next session of the Central Criminal Court. Throughout the proceedings he was very pale, but he did not show any signs of elation when the result of the deliberations of the jury was made known. As Sir Edward Clarke, counsel for the prisoner, left the court, he was heard to remark to a friend: "Truth is mighty, and will prevail."

The disagreement of the jury caused much surprise in London. Several newspapers incline to the opinion that Wilde's speech, which elicited applause from the court, may have saved him from a verdict of guilty.

TELEGRAMS TWIN

Mr. Sutherland Comments Upon a Couple of Ottawa Despatches.

Special to the Times.

WICKHAM, May 2.—The Tribune last night published an Ottawa despatch to the Toronto World, stating that report said the Government had decided not to bring down any proposals to Parliament, re the Hudson Bay Railway, and had instructed contractors not to begin work till the order had passed Parliament.

An Ottawa despatch from the Tribune's own correspondent stated that the same issue stating that the Government had advised the contractors not to begin work till the order had passed Parliament.

Mr. Hugh Sutherland, president of the railway, says there is no truth in either of these telegrams, and they were made up to suit Mr. Mackenzie, the disappointed contractor, under whose wing rests Mr. Fred Cook, the correspondent of the World.

Mr. Sutherland says if the contractors had been notified or any such notification had been contemplated, he would know it, and that reports have been sent out even worse than these.

NEWFOUNDLAND NEWS.

Sir Herbert Murray's Measures for Relieving The Fishermen.

Special to the Times.

Sir JOHN, May 2.—Sir Herbert Murray, the British consul-general, has taken measures for the assistance of distressed Newfoundland fishermen fully matured. He will make advances to aid the holders of fishing vessels to buy them from the merchants holding them, and will also arrange for the cash purchase of fish, paying half now and the balance at the completion of the fishery.

The custom fishery returns, especially prepared for him, set forth that 9,9 vessels and 14,872 persons were engaged in the Labrador fishery last year, and that about fifty thousand persons were actually dependent upon these actively engaged in the fishery. The corresponding fishery figures for this year will be scarcely more than half those of last year, owing to the impossibility of obtaining the requisite supplies, unless immediate steps are taken to restore Newfoundland's credit.

The Colonial Government expect to receive Canada's confederation terms in full by tomorrow's mail.

Sir Henry Trier denies that the Board of Directors concealed anything concerning the affairs of the company.

A NATIONAL BLESSING

Palne's Celery Compound is Used in Thousands of Canadian Homes

Wherever Physicians Practice It is Freely Ordered

It Is Generally Used All Over Three Continents of the World.

The greatest national blessing of the present day is Palne's Celery Compound, now so generally used in thousands of Canadian homes. The reputation and popularity of this wonderful medicine is now fully established over three entire continents, and able physicians freely prescribe it from day to day. A noted physician recently wrote to the proprietors of Palne's Celery Compound as follows:—

"In torpidity of the liver and nervous debility and kidney disorders, Palne's Celery Compound acts like a charm, restoring the general nervous system and these organs to their normal activity very speedily. It is of inestimable value, and possesses a wider range of action by far than any of its kindred remedies."

It should be carefully noted that all testimonials published in favor of Palne's Celery Compound come from men and women who are well known in their respective localities. When a testimonial comes from anyone outside of Canada, it comes from some individual of national reputation. No doubtful or manufactured testimonials are ever submitted to the public; every letter is vouched for before it is used.

Mrs. Alex. Allen, of Ramsey, Ont., who was cured after ten years of suffering from nervousness and neuralgia, writes as follows:—

"It gives me great pleasure to testify to the fact that Palne's Celery Compound has caused a remarkable change in my condition. For ten years I have suffered from nervousness and neuralgia, and have used medicines of all kinds without finding relief. Your Palne's Celery Compound was recommended to me, and after using seven bottles I find myself well and strong and can rest and sleep with ease and comfort. I believe it to be the best medicine in the world and I always recommend it with pleasure."

CYCLONE OUT WEST.

A Passenger Train's Narrow Escape—Immense Damage Done.

Special to the Times.

WHITTA, May 2.—The cyclone which crossed so much havoc in the vicinity of Halesford crossed the Santa Fe railroad, about three miles west of Halesford. The engineer of a west bound through Pacific express saw the storm coming from the south and stopped his train and backed out of his path. This prompt action prevented a wreck. The pathway of the storm is strewn with the wreckage of houses, barns and outbuildings, among which are hundreds of cattle and swine. Orchards were ruined, trees torn up by their roots and stripped of foliage. In the line of the cyclone, telegraph poles were knocked down and wires were broken and twisted in every shape imaginable, rendering telegraph communication almost impossible.

CITY AND COUNTY NEWS

LOCAL AND DISTRICT HAPPENINGS OF THE DAY.

Officers Installed.

The officers of City Lodge No. 504 as published in The Times, were installed last evening by Bro. Jas. Stubbs, P.D.G.C.T.

Death of an Infant.

The infant son of Mr. W. G. Randle died very suddenly yesterday afternoon. The funeral will leave the family residence No. 61 Lock street this afternoon at 4 o'clock, to the Little Lake Cemetery.

Hides Advance in Price.

Hides have gone up in price—away up. They now fetch 65 per 100 pounds, while a few months ago they were being picked up at $3.50 and even lower, and several of our tanners are discomfited over their failure to gauge the market properly. One dealer says he would be $100 better off had he held the hides he had picked up during the past year.

Volunteered Their Services.

Arrangements for the benefit concert are progressing. The following ladies and gentlemen have signified their willingness to assist on the program of this most laudable undertaking: Mrs. W. A. Sanderson, Miss Hansen, Miss Lola Ostrom, Mrs. Stapleton, Mr. G. W. Milligan, Mr. Thos. Dunn, Mr. John Miller, Miss Clarke, Miss Boswell, Mrs. G. A. Smith, Mrs. T. Dunn, Mr. John Oran, Miss Vink, W. H. Manning and the Five Brigid Band.

A Unique Paper Weight.

We have been presented with a very handsome paper weight by the Dominion Brewing Company, of Toronto, which in design is both novel and pretty, and as an advertisement is the most unique we have seen. It is a bottle of glass and contains the cat of the buildings of the brewery and the company's card on the bottom in the solid glass. It is the design of Mr. William Ross, the popular secretary of the company, and is, indeed, as effective as well as a useful and beautiful advertisement for the company.

The Soger Boys Can't Come.

The following is from the Belleville Intelligencer: There was a good turnout of the different companies of the 18th Batt. at the drill shed last evening. The question of going to Peterborough on the 24th of May was submitted to the men and, while they were not unanimous, the majority wished to go. The officers met immediately after the men were dismissed and decided that it was not advisable to accept an invitation at present, as they felt it would not be just to ask any to go who did not want to.

Look to Your Premises.

Every person who occupies a dwelling should now enter upon the work of clearing up every particle of rubbish and refuse to be found. Rake every inch of the ground, burn every particle of rubbish and bury the garbage. There is no time like the present for improvement of this kind. Not only for the appearance of clean premises is this urged upon the people, but for the healthfulness of the place. Fever germs lurk where the rubbish and filth hangs about, and even this small amount of filth should be cleaned up without delay. Don't let the health inspector threaten you; but do the work of cleaning cheerfully, for your own benefit.

The Benefit Concert.

The benefit concert will be held on the evening of May 10, and the arrangements are progressing encouragingly. The townspeople should turn out en masse to the concert, the proceeds of which are for the former employees of the Electric Works, who are leaving on the first of June at least. The employees are deserving of the warmest sympathy and support of the citizens for their conduct has been highly commendable and their unanimous action in resigning a flagrant injustice entitles them to the respect of everybody—their present position, certainly to the consideration of citizens. It has been suggested that the concert be followed by another, and that similar concert be held weekly until the difficulty is settled. The idea is an excellent one.

Amendments in the Game Law.

The following amendments were made to the game law at the last session of the Legislature: The prohibition against killing or taking moose, elk, reindeer and caribou has been extended five years longer, namely, until November 1st, 1900.

The open season for deer has been changed. It is limited to the first fifteen days of November.

The limit as to number of ducks that one person may kill in a season has been abolished.

Specimens from the United States who pay the $25 license will be, no far as the power of the Legislature extends, allowed to take home with them the two deer each which they are allowed by law to kill. The Dominion authorities, however, are in export of game, and the law at present forbids it.

Durdard Lely Coming.

It is gratifying to learn that nearly sufficient signatures have been secured to the guarantee list which bears in circulation, to warrant the engagement of Durdard Lely, the eminent Scottish tenor, well known from his engagements with Patti, and other famous sopranos, to sing in Peterborough and sing in the Opera House on Thursday evening May 9th. Mr. Lely is admitted by Scotchmen all the world over to be the finest living exponent of Scottish song, and in this respect the genuine successor of their great national vocalist, Thomas, Wilson, Kennedy and Corbett. For the last few months he has aroused Scottish sentiment to white heat in all the leading cities of the United States. The guarantee list is still open for subscribers at Mr. H. S. Macdonald's drug store, and although an unusually large number of signatures have been secured, more are needed. The plan of the reserved seats will be open for one week, commencing Friday morning at ten o'clock. It is expected there will be a large and successful attendance at this concert. The tickets have been placed at 50c, 35c and 25c, and a rare treat may be expected by all lovers of artistic singing.

A Wedding at Warsaw.

On Wednesday, Miss Priscilla Payne, daughter of Mr. Sidney Payne, of Warsaw, was married to Mr. Richard Hume Kidd, a flourishing young farmer, of Dumfries, a son of Mr. A. R. Kidd, of Warsaw. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. E. Robinson, pastor of the Warsaw Methodist church, at the residence of the bride's mother, and it was witnessed by a large number of the relatives and intimate friends of the bride and groom. The bride was very tastefully attired. Miss Barbara L. Kidd, sister of the groom, was the bridesmaid, and Mr. W. E. Wilson, of Warsaw, officiated as best man. A most appetizing repast was served after the ceremony, and the evening concluded, following which the happy couple received a shower of congratulations from those present. The wedding presents were numerous, and they were greatly admired by one and all.

TWO LETTERS.

Mr. Dumble Considers Quiet Behavior—The Employees' Reply.

Mr. John McKenzie, chairman of the Employees' Committee, received the following letter from Mr. D. W. Dumble Wednesday:

PETERBOROUGH, April 30.

The Chairman of The Canadian General Electric Co. Committee.

DEAR SIR,—I beg to advise you that the Citizens' Committee yesterday waited upon Mr. Stephens and we are sorry to say that we did not succeed to our satisfaction in reference to the difficulty between them and their employees. The committee after fairly submitting the matter and their views concerning it, were advised by Mr. Stephens that the company had determined to close down the works for one month; that he was not then at liberty to make known the probable action of the company in regard to their employees, but that the company would consider the matter, and make known in writing their conclusion. We were unable to get a promise of an early answer, Mr. Stephens intimating that the company might take a month to make up their minds.

I am your obedient servant,
D. W. DUMBLE,
Chairman Citizens' Committee.

MR. MACKENZIE'S REPLY.

Mr. Mackenzie, on behalf of the employees, forwarded Mr. Dumble the following reply:

PETERBOROUGH, MAY 1st, 1895.

Mr. D. W. Dumble, Chairman Citizens' Committee.

DEAR SIR,—I have received your letter in reference to the action which the citizens' committee have taken, and the result of which I wish to thank you for your courtesy and only regret that Mr. Stephens did not have a more satisfactory termination.

I trust that your committee will still continue their exertions on behalf of the locked out employees and that you will be able to settle matters to the benefit of all. I would like to call your attention to the fact that notwithstanding Mr. Stephens' statement to your committee that the works would be closed for 30 days they are still running and engaging men.

Your obedient servant,
J. MACKENZIE.

EXPRESSED INDIGNATION.

At a meeting of the Montreal Trades and Labor Council held last week, the case of the employees of the Canadian General Electric Company and their refusal to subscribe to the Iniquitous contract proposed by the company was brought up, and a copy of the proposed contract was read and read to the meeting, and much indignation was expressed thereat.

A LABOR JOURNALISTS' VIEW.

The Saturday Times, of Montreal, a journal of earnest thought and opinion, has the following editorial bearing upon the difficulty:

"The strike of the employees of the Canadian General Electric Company, Ltd., of Peterborough, Ont., and the cause thereof places capitalism in an odious light as it has ever yet appeared and it shows that the aspirations of the people, it is determined to seize every opportunity to erect the chains that will bind them as far as they are able. The cause of the trouble at the Peterborough works the following agreement, the signing of which by every employee was compulsory if he desired to remain in employment. It speaks for itself thus: No one will be surprised to learn that the employees in a body refused to work under such conditions as those involved in the above contract. The company is determined to degrade the worker to the lowest level and still further enslave him and the man who undertakes to work under such unfair restrictions must be hard pressed indeed. If public opinion had any effect upon corporations the matter would soon be settled, for no company would dare to face the storm of indignation which has arisen over the affair. Sympathy with the employees is not wanting, but sympathy is not all that is needed in a case of this kind, and something should be done to support them in resisting such an outrage."

Electric Works Closed Until June 1st.

The following advertisements appeared in Wednesday's issue of the Toronto World:

WANTED—TINSMITH, BENCH hands. Apply Box "E," Peterborough, Ont.

WANTED—MACHINISTS, TOOL MAKERS, Brass Finishers, Lathe, Planer and Bench Hands, Car Builders and Cabinet Makers. Address Box "E," Peterborough, Ont.

TWO CLEVER SWINDLERS.

Peterborough Merchants Should Be on Their Guard.

The Belleville Intelligencer says: Early Friday morning two respectable dressed men were about Front street, and they were apparently strangers to the city. One of them was about 5 ft. 7 in. tall and weighed about 140 lbs., light hair and mustache, while the other was about the same build, but dark complexioned.

During the day the former called upon several merchants among whom were Thompson & Co., Tickell & Sons and W. B. Riggs. He was professedly looking for furniture and a piano, stating that he was about to take a trip to the States and would be looking over a lot of furniture and would come back and pay for his selections within an hour. At Tickell & Sons he gave a cheque for his "purchase," and at John McKay's he bought a piano from Mr. Riggs for $275, and also gave a cheque on the Bank of Montreal for the same amount. On leaving the latter place he asked Mr. Riggs to lend him $5 till today, but the request was promptly refused. This morning he called at Foster's and tried to make a bargain for a stove, offering $17 for one valued at $25.

His game is this: He goes among the prominent business men making purchases and giving out his cheque in payment, and when he finds one that he thinks "easy," he endeavors to get a loan of say $5 or $10, often offering to include it in the cheque. So far as we are aware he has found no victims in town. They tried the game in several eastern towns and not without success.

A HOT FIRE.

400 Cords of Wood Burned at Mauver's Station.

At Mauver's station on Tuesday night a spark from the smoke stack of Conliffe's mill set fire to a large quantity of wood piled in the yard. The wood caught fire in several places and in a few minutes was blazing fiercely and hotly.

There were about 15 hundred cords in the yard and it looked as if all of it as well as the mill would be consumed. The heat was so intense that it was almost impossible to do effective work in the way of extinguishing the flames.

A telegram was sent to Pontypool for help and a large number of men from there came over and aided the mill men in subduing the flames. About 400 cords were consumed.

WEDDING BELLS.

The McCallum-Lambe Nuptials Tuesday Afternoon.

A quiet but very pretty wedding took place Tuesday afternoon at the residence of Mr. Robert Morrison, Westcott street, when Mr. William J. McCallum was married to Miss Anne Lambe. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. J. Has in the presence of a few intimate friends and relatives. The groom is widely and popularly known in Peterborough, where for a number of years he has successfully conducted a restaurant and confectionary store. The bride is a winsome and popular young lady, and a cousin of Mr. Morrison at whose residence the ceremony took place. She was attired in a dress of cream satin. Immediately after the ceremony the wedding party partook of an excellent dinner, and then the newly wedded pair left on the 4:30 C. P. R. express on a bridal tour to Toronto, Hamilton and Brantford. The numerous friends of the bride and groom will congratulate them and wish them every success.

TWO BAD DOMESTICS.

Edith and Ethel White Sent to the Mercer For Six Months Each.

The two dishonest domestics who gave the names Edith and Ethel White, convicted of stealing a number of articles from the houses in which they were employed, came up in the police court yesterday morning on a charge of stealing a diamond ring from a letter from Chief of Police Housel, of Peterborough, in which it was stated that their correct names were Mary and Martha Middleton, natives of the Township of Dumfries, in the County of Peterborough. On July 25th, 1893, Mary had served a term for robbing her mistress and both sisters, when about to leave Ontario, had been arrested at the C. P. R. station with a trunk of stolen property. They had changed their names about as often as they had changed their situations, and the town considered itself lucky to be rid of them.

PETERBOROUGH CHOSEN

By the Eastern District Chorus as the Place for Their First Gathering.

The choir of Western Ontario have met in annual gathering on three occasions, and last year's gathering was so numerous a one that ten trains were chartered to convey the members thereof to Sarnia, the place of meeting. On that occasion the combined choruses were taken part in by 1,500 voices, accompanied by more than 50 instrumental and four mixed choruses of 40 to 50 voices each. This season the choir of Western Ontario will meet in London. Not to be behind the times, the Eastern Ontario choir will have a gathering, and this choir has been chosen in which their first coming together will take place.

A meeting is to be held tomorrow evening at which the movement is to be fully explained. The candidates will receive the citizens in making the first gathering of the Eastern Ontario choir to be pleasantly remembered. Mr. Charles A. Winter, secretary of the Western choir, will preside at the meeting.

A WEDDING AT 5 O'CLOCK A. M.

It Took Place at St. Peter's Church Tuesday Morning.

Miss Ellen M. Delaney, daughter of Mr. John Delaney, of Brock street, was married to Mr. A. D. Ward, a prominent physician of Montreal, at St. Peter's church, Chapel, by the Ven. Archdeacon Casey, at 5 o'clock yesterday morning. The church was prettily decorated for the occasion, and the music by the organist befitted it admirably.

The bride, elegantly attired, entered the chapel leaning on the arm of her brother, Thomas Delaney, V. S., of Detroit, who gave her away.

Miss Helen E. Muncester, a niece of the bride, was the bridesmaid, and Mr. Wm. Curran, of Montreal, was the groom.

Before leaving the residence at which the house of the bride's parents, and it was a sumptuous affair.

The wedding gifts were many and they included a number of valuable articles. At 8:30 a. m. Dr. and Mrs. Ward were escorted to the G. T. R. station by friends and acquaintances, and soon afterwards the happy ones were on their tour.

Dr. and Mrs. Ward will return and spend a few days in town.

SWALLOWED AMMONIA.

The Fatal Mistake of a former Burleigh Falls Teacher.

As the result of a mistake in taking medicine, Miss Dickens, of 215 Galloway avenue, Toronto, is now lying at the point of death in the Toronto General Hospital. Last November Miss Dickens had a severe cold, for which she was taking a cough mixture.

One evening she went to the cupboard with the intention of taking a dose of the mixture, and, being in the dark, she picked up a bottle of a similar kind, and took a portion of it in mistake.

Emetics were applied promptly, but since the accident Miss Dickens has had a severe illness, and she is suffering from bronchial pneumonia, and her present condition is very serious.

She has, however, been in apparently first class health, and for the past three or four months has been teaching school at Burleigh Falls, a small place about 25 miles west of Peterborough, and she came to Toronto before the Easter holidays, and while here her throat became suddenly very bad and she was admitted to the hospital on Wednesday last. She is suffering from bronchial pneumonia, and her present condition is very serious.

A Journalistic Noceutry.

Last week the Millbrook Reporter tried to tell The Times how to write a newspaper. We gently admonished the handy man, who edits his wily, waxy columns, for his unseemly interference. This week's issue of that antiquated sheet contains about two sticks of misspelled gibberish, intended solely for our delectation. We doubt if as much venomous, slanderous and lying trash was ever before crowded into similar space. "There is no space wanting" where the Reporter's brains ought to be; and, judging from the paper, the balance of his cranium is filled with maynastic dressing instead of the grey matter commonly known as brains. On voting contest is no "pos" in the bottle scheme, nor is it conducted for the "riff" (spelled with one f) of the town, although it seems to have aroused the spleen of the "riff" of Millbrook. This is the season for suckers to jump—and the Reporter is jumping. In the language of the Hobokeny Independent, we advise it to take out itself and jump on itself.

When The Times starts its voting contest for the biggest liar in the county, we have no doubt the handy man on the Reporter will head the list and capture the prize.

When so many people are taking and deriving benefit from Hood's Sarsaparilla, why don't you try it yourself? It is highly recommended.

HAS RESIGNED.

Rev. C. B. Kenrick will go to Port Hope in June.

At the adjourned Eastern Vestry meeting of St. John's Church, held last night, Rev. C. B. Kenrick read a letter from Rev. C. B. Kenrick, curate of St. John's, stating that he had accepted the rectory of St. Mark's, Port Hope, and that he would leave Peterborough about the middle of June to assume his new work. In his letter of resignation, Rev. C. B. Kenrick stated, that despite the fact that some pressure had been brought to bear upon him to remain here, he could not alter his determination, as he was acting entirely in accordance with the dictates of his conscience.

Rev. Mr. Davidson stated that he was very sorry to prevent Rev. Mr. Kenrick's resignation, and referred in most complimentary terms to his work in the choir and among the young men of the parish, and it was with a great deal of regret that he accepted the resignation.

Mr. A. P. Foussette, Q. C., was appointed trustee for the congregation on the Nicholas hospital trust.

The wardens' report, left over from the last vestry meeting, was read and adopted. Mr. H. Long wanted the opinion of the vestry upon the advisability of incurring a debt of $25 for the purpose of painting and otherwise beautifying the interior of the church. The feeling of the vestry, while strongly in favor of the proposed improvements, was against incurring such a debt. It was thought advisable to wait until the money required was on hand. A congregational meeting will be called at an early date to consider the matter.

Mr. Fred Foot's name was added to the list of sidesmen.

The rector's annual report was read and accepted.

On motion of Mr. R. M. Dennistoun, seconded by Mr. Long, a committee was appointed consisting of Messrs. A. P. Foussette, H. Rush and the wardens to prepare a suitable resolution to be presented to the Rev. C. B. Kenrick.

Reports were read from St. John's Sunday School and Mission, St. John's choir, the Women's Auxiliary, Children's Mission, High Commission, Home Front, the Young Men's Association, the Brotherhood and St. John's Young People's Association.

Mr. R. M. Dennistoun was asked to edit the year book, upon motion of Messrs. A. P. Foussette, seconded by Robert Fair, and kindly consented to do so.

LITTLE LOCAL LINES.

Items of Interest Intelligently Presented for Busy Readers.

From the report of the Registrar General for Ontario for 1894 we quote the following particulars: Total births, 51,401; marriages, 26,400; deaths, 23,831.

Every man who has a garden is now at work spading the ground and putting in the seed. The many burning rubbish heaps show that gardening operations are in progress everywhere.

Confirmation services in connection with the parish of Peterborough will be held in St. John's church on the evening of May 15th. The candidates will receive Holy Communion in a body on Whitsunday, June 2nd, in St. John's at 8 a. m.

It is now in season to pluck the savory watercress with which the creeks of this locality abound. During the early days of summer is the time to gather it, then the plant is crisp and tender, and free from the deprecations of flies which feed upon the leaf.

Night Watchman Gordon's report for the past month is as follows: No burglaries, no front doors found open, 14; number of back doors found open, 25; names of articles found: two rolls of felt paper, one ham, one dozen brooms, two coal sifters, one suit of clothes, one basket, one suit of clothes, six brushes, three baskets.

A leading church member of Winnipeg is in bed with a nervous shock. He happened to be out late Saturday night, and when he returned he found his house surrounded by a mob of men who were trying to find the organist in his usual place playing lively music, to which the members of the choir were holding a dance. There will be an advertisement in the papers now calling for applications for organist and chorists. As may be imagined, the affair is all the talk, overshadowing for the time the school question.

A rather amusing incident occurred in the Methodist church, on Sunday morning last. At the close of the sermon, when the officials went forward to take up the collection, the plates were missing. A fellow looking from one to another for a moment, and then he was bewildered, a search was made in the school room where they were found. "It's rather a serious affair," remarked Pastor Palmer, "when the collection plates in a Methodist congregation get astray."

Is He a Fake? A man has been in this neighborhood lately selling cloth to farmers. This is in itself perfectly legitimate, of course, but we understand, there is a fraud in the deal, owing to the methods which he resorts to in order to make his sales. He approaches a man by representing himself as an agent for a large concern which desires to purchase the farmer's produce at a higher figure than local buyers will pay, and claims that the farmer can leave his produce at such and such a place and get for it certain high prices. Of course this seems reasonable, and the man then unrolls a piece of cloth and tells the farmer he ought to purchase his goods from him. The farmer gives an order for the cloth, which is to be made up into suits in some instance, and the man takes a note for the goods. This he discounts, and that ends the matter. The farmer is left with a note for the goods, and the man has made a profit. A word to the wise ought therefore to be sufficient. This man has in this way got hundreds of dollars out of the pockets of the farmers.

Planet Notes for May. During May some of the planets will be interestingly situated, especially Jupiter and Venus in the west and Saturn in the southeast. At the beginning of the month Mercury will be behind the sun, reaching superior conjunction on May 7 at 7 o'clock in the evening. Twelve hours later he will pass the ascending node of his orbit, crossing the ecliptic from south to north. Perihelion he will reach on May 9 at 9 p. m. On the evening of May 19 at 7 o'clock he will pass by the planet Neptune, and at about 10.44 on the night of May 15 he will be in conjunction with the moon, just 3 degrees 44 minutes south of him. Toward the end of May Mercury will be visible as an evening star shortly after sunset, situated in the western sky, between the fixed stars gamma Geminorum and beta Tauri. Neptune is also in the same region of the heavens, but he cannot be seen, because he is so distant at present. Besides these planets, Luna, Venus, Jupiter and Mars will be in that vicinity of the sky at one portion of the month, so that, if conjunctions of the planets have any effect on terrestrial weather, we had better "look out for squalls" of a severe character. Mars has lost so much of his brilliancy that he now appears as but an average star of the first magnitude, a most resembling in color and brightness Aldebaran in Taurus or Deneb in Orion. Venus and Jupiter are much alike in both color and brilliancy, but the brilliancy of Venus will surpass that of Jupiter this month. These two planets will be in conjunction on May 14.

WHOLESALE THIS PAPER.

The Times.

PETERBOROUGH, MAY 4 1895.

Good morning.

The British Lion has sent a navel Corinto Corinto.

Mr. Foster will make his budget speech on Friday or Tuesday next at latest.

The Legislative Committee of the Dominion Prohibitory Alliance has been called for May eighth.

May came in bright and sunny as a fine dollar gold piece fresh from the mint. Weather like this is about the only thing most of us have to remind us that there are fine dollar gold pieces in the world.

Mr. Harry Brown, of Peterborough, writes as follows: "Send the MORNING TIMES to my address; I would not be without it for $10 per year. It is one of the brightest and best newspapers in the country."

Clifford Sifton just said what the country thinks about the Orangemen of Halimand. If he had expressed more faith in their integrity of purpose, this country would now express less faith in his veracity.

Several of the whisky commissioners have reported against prohibition: one of them has reported in favor of it. It is therefore clearly the duty of the Dominion parliament to pass a law which will permit those who want to drink whisky to drink it, and those who don't want to drink whisky to go without it.

We don't think there is any truth whatever in the story that Lieutenant-Governor Schultz, of Manitoba, to please the Dominion government, will dismiss Attorney-General Sifton for having spoken during the Halimand campaign. We don't think the Dominion government has so little regard for the freedom of speech as to permit anything of the kind.

The report of the commission appointed to investigate the affairs of the University of Toronto has been published. It exonerates Hon. Edward Blake absolutely from any suspicion of influence in connection with the appointment of Prof. Wrong, and generally fails to find any foundation for the charges preferred by the students against professors and council.

The TIMES has received an anonymous letter, enquiring as to who was responsible for the contract between the town and the Electric Company. The writer complains bitterly of the one-sided arrangement, which permits the closing of the works. We may tell our unknown correspondent that it is the same old story. The present solicitor is responsible for much of it, but the members of the council of that time should secure a still greater amount of censure. The fact is, they all ought to be ashamed of themselves.

A correspondent writes as follows: Please send $4 renewal of my subscription to your paper. The TIMES is no doubt the brightest and most entertaining little paper in the Dominion, not even excepting the Toronto papers. Even when we are anxious to read other papers, if we allow our eyes to linger a moment on one of its many special articles, at either end or the middle, we are caught. The style is so enchanting, we have to read the article through. Nothing shows the perfection of knowledge more than this great Journal. The mastery with which it has handled the electric difficulty is known to and appreciated by everybody. "Long may it prosper and do good."

THE LIME JUICE CLUB.

REGULAR WEEKLY MEETING OF THIS CHASTE SOCIETY.

A Large Amount of Business transacted—A Close Shave—Don't Need any—Social Evolution.

When Sir Richard McBride returned to town from an official trip amongst some of the branches of the Lime Juice Club, a large number of members met him as he entered the town by C. P. R. gravel train. He was escorted to the Hall of Wisdom, just previous to the opening of the proceedings.

Every seat in the vast building was filled while the visitors' gallery was filled with strangers.

A CLOSE SHAVE.

"Is Bro. Blue Glass Clarke in the Hall?" blandly enquired the President, after the meeting had been called to order.

"Yes, Sir."

"Will you please step this way?"

The brother stepped. He didn't seem easy in his mind, and he kept his eyes on the coffee pot, on the museum shelf, owned by Shakespeare, instead of facing the President.

"Bro. Clarke, you were in Harry Winch's butcher shop last Wednesday forenoon?"

"Yes, Sir."

"When you went out Tenice Guerri missed two slices of ham, and you were followed and searched?"

"Yes, Sir."

"In one of your coat tail pockets they found, not the two slices of ham, but a pound and a half of beef."

"Yes, Sir."

"You couldn't tell where you got the beef to save your life, and you let the butcher keep it?"

"Yes, Sir, but the charge was stealing ham."

"Just so, Bro. Clarke, just so. They missed ham but they found beef. It is plain enough that you did not take the goods charged, but I want you to understand that when they miss ham and find beef on a member of this Club, that member has had the very closest sort of a shave from being bounced off our books and out of the Hall. Take your seat, sir, and let this be the awfullest kind of a warning to you."

WILL SEE ABOUT IT.

The secretary announced the receipt of the communication from the Douro Prevaricator Society, asking to be taken into the Lime Juice Club as a body.

Bombshell McNaughton moved to suspend rule no 346703, and take the society in, but Rev. Toothpick objected. He said that a prevaricator was a liar, and he thought the club had all the liars it could take care of (sensation).

Four brothers jumped up and wanted to know if that was a personal fling at them, while some more followed suit and in a minute over 340 members were on their feet waving their hands, shaking their fists and yelling at the top of their voices. During the parliamentary excitement which followed one of the bear traps fell down and struck Bro. Frank Fairman on the neck, and the bust of Columbus made a jump for Bro. John Mervin and laid him out, and somebody upset Bro. Dr. Beatty, who had incited him to yell "murder!" at the top of his voice. Order was not restored until the President had picked up a ten-pound weight and threatened to let it slide down the centre aisle. It was decided to refer the matter to a special committee, and the President added,

"Bro. Toothpick, do not be too ready to charge humanity with lying and deceiving, and you other 340 brothers, do not be too quick to believe that you are the only liars and prevaricators in the Club. All men, and all women prevaricate. We expect them to, and in many cases poor weak human nature respects them for it."

DON'T NEED ANY.

The Secretary announced a communication from Prof. Johnson, of Toronto, offering to come to Peterborough and deliver five lectures on the subject of "The Benefits of Philosophy," providing the club would pay his expenses while here and pay him $2.50 in cash. "We can't spare the money, and don't want the philosophy," said Sir Richard in reply. "No doubt philosophy has its benefits, but a determined man, armed with the Baptist religion and a new whitewash brush, can work all around philosophy six days in the week, and wake up with a clear head on Sunday morning. When the town is bound head and foot to a huge electric monopoly, that tries to enslave its employees, fifty cents in cash will go further than sixteen lectures on the prettiest philosophy ever stood up in a ninepenny alley to be knocked down by the cold hand of hunger."

SOCIAL EVOLUTION.

A letter was read from Bro. Schofield, offering to deliver his celebrated lectures on "Social Evolution" free of charge. The writer was a very distinguished orator, and handled his subject with great skill, commencing with the time when he himself was

"A youth to fortune and to fame unknown," or when in that verdant spring-time of life as he trudged barefooted and alone over the hills of Douro in search of "the lowing herd," which, as Grey puts it, "winds slowly over the sea,"—he would deal with the question from actual experience.

The secretary was instructed to write to Bro. Schofield with the largest kind of a pen-writing blue paper and red ink, and inform him that this club never monkeys with social evolution, and to thank him all the same for his generous offer.

AN IMPOSTER.

The following was received from Port Hope: Sir Richard McBride, President: A DEAR SIR,—There is a man in this vicinity selling a patent belt for the cure of corns, bunions and chilblains. He calls himself Hemlock Bell, is about five feet four inches high, has an old gold moustache and claims to be a member of your great club. He says he was sent out by you because your club disdained advertising the belt through the medium of the press.

He also has a tabular sheet in red ink by which he claims the owners of poultry can tell at a glance if any of his fowls have been "lifted" the preceding night. I think the latter marks him as fraud. Please advise. Yours, etc.

CRIPES DOLITTLE.

NO ELECTION.

The chairman of the Committee on Applications rose and said he desired to make a statement. Two days previous to the meeting his committee had decided favorably upon a batch of thirteen applications, and he had tied up the letters with a piece of rope and placed them in his boot-leg for safe keeping.

"And they are missing?" asked the President.

"Yes, sir, I reckon that the time I was run over by Bro. Jim Baptie's flyer, and had two ribs splintered, those applications must have been lost in the snow."

"Tied up Garley, no man's ribs must be allowed to interfere with the regular business of this club. Thirteen people anxious to join us are delayed and disappointed because you stopped in the middle of the road to hear the band play and was run over by a trotting horse and left for dead. In the future all papers belonging to this club must be left at the hall, and can only be removed in case of fire."

MELODY.

Mozart Dunn and his select quartette of musicians now secured the floor and tuned up as follows, the words being a special composition, of the advertising manager of the Morning Times:

The constant drop of water
Wears away the hardest stone;
The constant gnaw of Towser Masticates the toughest bone.
The constant cooling lover
Carries off the blushing maid;
And the constant advertiser
Is the one who gets the trade.

During the excitement which followed Bro. F. D. McKay, of the Review, accidentally shoved his elbow through a pane of glass, and was promptly fined $400 and costs.

NO GOOD.

The Committee on Anatomy reported that they had given the twenty-two remedies for chilblains sent into the club a fair trial and that not one of the lot was of any account. The secretary was instructed to offer a reward of $25 for an effectual remedy and the meeting adjourned, leaving jammed Jones fast asleep on the three chairs and his wig in the water pail.

LIVE STOCK MARKET.

May 3.—There was not much excitement in live stock circles today, and for the most part there is very little change. A cable was received from London quoting cattle at 6d and under, but another quoted better than 6d. Ocean freights are about steady, and space has been taken to Liverpool at 42s, London at 40s to 42s and Glasgow at 40s.

The attendance at the East End Abattoir to-day was not as large as the past two markets, but the demand which is considerable, was equal to the supply. About 40 cattle were purchased to export by shippers and 400 butchers were offered. Calves are in demand now that the number has come down to 450 from nearly 3,000, which glutted the market last week. Sheep and lambs are in demand at higher prices. In fact the tendency to-day is higher prices for everything. There were 150 sheep, 200 lambs and about 80 lean hogs offered. The cattle for export brought from 5 to 5 1/2, and 3 1/2 is reported to have been paid for some choice lots of the cars. Butchers ranged from 3c to 5c; the latter price being for choice steers; 3c was paid for some large bulls and 3c to 3 1/2 for some common bulls, live weight. Calves brought from 3 1/2 to 4 1/2 according to size and condition. Sheep 7 1/2 to 8 1/2, and lambs 5 1/2 to 6 1/2. The lean hogs sold for from 4 to 6 1/2 each.

ENNISMORE.

Mr. Maurice O'Connor, has in his possession a ewe that recently gave birth to three lambs, while Mr. Thomas Galvin has a cow that gave birth to twin calves last week. Both mothers and offspring are alive and doing well.

Fish Inspector Cosgrove, who has charge of these waters, is anxious to find the names of, got a bad fright on Tuesday night of last week, he being camped on an island close to Gannon's Narrows; he saw what he supposed to be a Jack light, and he hurried in that direction, but as it was only a false light, the parties kept off his way. But Dick was not far behind, however. When close to the Indian Village point the light was thrown in the lake, and whoever was in the boat made good their escape. If those parties are found out they will be brought to justice.

Mr. P. J. Galvin, has so far recovered as to be able to leave his room.

THE ESTIMATES.

Mr. Foster has attacked our expenditure with a pen-knife, when nothing short of a buzz-saw would have sufficed. The country is threatened with a thumping deficit. Mr. Foster probably knows pretty accurately how much it will be; and he must take us all into his confidence when he rises in a few days to deliver his budget speech. Now there are only three ways of meeting a deficit. One is to clap on more taxation; a second is to run deeper into debt; and a third is not to spend more money than we have. The first of these programmes is impossible in the present temper of the people; the second is recklessly improvident when we already have a debt that costs us over twelve millions a year to look after; and the third is hopelessly abandoned on the first estimates which Mr. Foster has brought down.

What then do the Government propose to do? The only sane and patriotic course would be to revise and curtail their own estimates. It is all very well to plead that this would be very difficult under the circumstances; but our expenditure must be brought within the four corners of our income at some time—and the sooner, the easier. Our people have no intention of taxing themselves more heavily in order that the Government may build Curran bridges and Quebec harbor works with a freer hand. It is less taxation and not more that the country is clamoring for; and if the Finance Minister goes abroad to add more millions to the public debt, he will be followed by suspicion and disapproval. He may as well bring the guillotine down upon past expenditures now as at any time.

Leaving out all count of the supplementary estimates which are yet to come, the main estimates now submitted net us a saving of less than $500,000, to set over against a deficit of possibly eight or ten times that sum. It is true that a much larger amount than last year is required for the redemption of the debt; but this is only a warning to us that our public creditors may be expected to meet us all through the future at precisely the most inconvenient time. Instead of being regarded as an excuse for plunging farther into debt, this little circumstance should be a red light warning us back. It is a poor policy to let hard times drive us to the money lenders.

Twenty Thousand Bees.

There are nearly 20,000 rose trees in bloom now at Danlop's conservatories, Bloor-st. west, Toronto. Visitors are always well come. Mr. Danlop is proud of his establishment and takes pleasure in speaking of his bees. He ships them by mail and express to all parts of Canada, and as these orders are filled direct from the trees, he guarantees them to arrive in good condition. Send orders to 45 Yonge-st., and 45 E. 4th street west.

When the locomotive pulled the four empty cars out it took with them a passenger that the officers of the prison would be glad to know held a return ticket. The cars were brought to the Grand Trunk yard at the foot of Bathurst street, and here Freeman released himself from his cramped and perilous position and made off successfully, contained as he was in his underclothing only. Toronto, May 3.—A sad accident occurred this morning at 11.30 at the new G.T.R. bridge at the foot of John street, resulting in the almost instant death of a Rothwell, who resides on Birtle avenue with his wife and several children, was working with a number of others on top of the structure when he made a misstep and fell, striking on a pile of stone, and from there alighting on a pile of stone.

Dropped Their Pile.

LONDON, May 3.—The Star says that the horses of the American horses in yesterday's races at Newmarket, Messrs. Croker and Dwyer lost £25,000. They twice laid £2,000 against £2,000 on Montauk and afterwards made several bets at even money. Montauk was scratched for the May plate because of the excessive weight imposed.

A Steamer Destroyed.

PORT COLBORNE, May 3.—The steamer N. K. Fairbanks, from Chicago to Ogdensburg with 50,000 barrels of corn, ran ashore on Morgan's Point, about nine miles west of this place, this morning. The boat caught fire and burned up. The cargo is reported a total loss.

Women, who seem to be all worn out, will find in purified blood, made rich and healthy by Hood's Sarsaparilla, permanent relief and strength. The following is from a well known nurse:

"I have suffered for years with female complaints and kidney troubles and I have had a great deal of medical advice during that time, but have received little or no benefit. A friend advised me to take Hood's Sarsaparilla and I began to use it, together with Hood's Pills. I have realized more benefit from these medicines than from anything else I have ever taken. From my personal experience I believe Hood's Sarsaparilla to be a most complete blood purifier." Mrs. O. O'Connor, 71 Cumberland St., Toronto, Ontario.

EVERLASTING BLACKNESS.

There is a fast and everlasting Black that all women desire to secure when home dyeing is done. This fast, imperishable and non-staining Black is only secured through the use of the Fast Black Diamond Dye.

There are three Fast Black Diamond Dyes—Fast Black for Wool, Fast Black for Silk and Feathers and Fast Black for Cotton, all sold at ten cents per package. The directions for use are so simple that even a child can get better results than the experienced dyer of a few years ago.

The peculiar way in which the Diamond Dye Fast Blacks are made gives them a vast superiority over all other methods of home dyeing.

When buying Black Dyes see that you get the Fast Black Diamond Dye; remember there are poor imitations dyed sold in many places.

A Hirsch Letter.

Baron Hirsch has sent some 3,000 or 4,000 Russian Jews to the Argentine Republic, and he hopes to have a Jewish community there of 100,000 within ten years. He sends them out in companies of 50 families, each provided with a rabbi and a doctor, and he expects them to settle in villages, giving a special tract for each company.—Religious Herald.

Hamilton tells a story of an old Scottish shepherd who knew the Bible by heart. When hearing any verse, no matter from what book, he could go on and give the remainder of the chapter. He could also locate most of the verses by book, chapter and number.

For many centuries the whole of Burma and a large part of India have been supplied with oil from the wells of Rangoon. The annual yield of this district is more than 400,000 hogabends.

Early European Fossil Events.

1500, March 1, (O. S.) Francis de Taxis appointed "capitaine et maître de nos postes" by Philip, regent of the Netherlands, at Ghent. It is a matter of record that the Taxis posts carried English mails from Calais to Vienna and Rome before 1500.

1504, Jan. 18, (O. S.) Francis de Taxis instructed to establish regular posts between Brussels and the capitals of Germany, France and Spain, with pay at 12,000 livres per annum.

1507, England had a "magister postarum," appointed by Henry VII. Possibly it was Sir Brian Tuke, who served until 1545.

1516, Nov. 12, Charles V concluded a contract with Francis and Baptist de Taxis requiring them, for 11,000 gold ducats, to maintain posts between Brussels, the capitals of Germany, France and Spain and Naples. Every postoffice was to have two horses. The Brussels-Paris route was to be covered in 24 hours, Brussels-Burgos in seven days and Brussels-Naples in 14 days.—Postal Record.

The Gladstonian Theory.

Mr. Gladstone is a believer in the theory that a man can do better mental work every year to extreme old age if he takes care of his body. He claims that the mind grows stronger and clearer as the body loses vitality, and that it is only disease of the latter that can prevent an intellectual progress that will go on to the end. He is certainly a good illustration of his working theory.

Stentor, from whom we have the word stentorian, was a Greek herald in the Trojan war, famous for his tremendous voice. Homer says he was "great hearted, brazen voiced and could shout as loud as 50 men."

German Proposals Are Serious Matters.

In Germany a man always makes a proposal of marriage a very serious ceremonial. He dresses himself in evening clothes and takes his way to the home of the lady in question for that particular purpose and for no other. So that when a woman sees an admirer enter her drawing room clad in evening attire in the afternoon, she knows that something is afoot.—Berlin Letter.

MUSIC IN THE AIR.

A Curious Demonstration in a New York Elevated Railroad Car.

As an up town train on the Sixth Avenue elevated road pulled in at the Chambers street station about midnight one night last week the passengers heard sounds of singing. The music came from a group of a dozen people who were standing on the platform, and who got on the second car, filling up the seats at one end of it. They continued to sing, and as the train started on people from the other cars flocked in, filling all the seats and blocking the aisle in their curiosity and interest. The singers paid no heed to their audience. There were three women among them, all young, the rest of the crowd being men of various ages. From their songs they might have been taken for Salvation Army people but that they wore no uniforms and that their appearance was that of people somewhat better in circumstances than the generality of the Salvation soldiers.

Whoever they were there was no doubt of the fact that they had sung much together, for their voices blended admirably, and they gave to the rather uproarious hymns which they sung touches of harmony that were never in the original versions. As the train went on the car became crowded to an uncomfortable degree, and the platforms at each end were so blocked that the guards could hardly manipulate the gates. Presently the chorus struck into the familiar hymn, "I love to tell the story," and here and there in the audience there became evident an inclination to join in.

"Help us along," said one of the singers between the verses. "Don't be afraid to sing. If you've got a voice, use it."

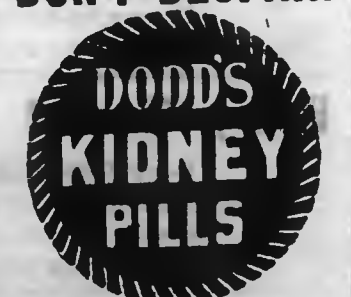

A burly negro, who, since his entrance to the car, had been slowly elbowing his way toward the chorus, joined in with a sonorous bass, encouraging two small boys behind him to add their shrill, clear tones to the chorus. Then a man sitting next to one of the women singers, in immaculate evening dress and a silk hat, who had been struggling with himself for some time divided between the impulse to join in and the fear of making himself ridiculous, contributed a fine tenor voice as his share of the proceedings. Two superbly overdressed young women in a cross seat thereupon took courage and chimed in, and presently every person in the car who had a voice to use was using it to its utmost, even the guards incorporating their announcement of stations in the melody. Tune followed tune, the leader of the original singers giving but little pause between the hymns. The melodies were simple and easy to catch, and people who didn't know the words, as most of them didn't, got along very well without them.

The dozen singers got out at Forty-second street, still singing as they left. Then, for the first time, it seemed to strike the crowd that they had been conducting themselves with a very unusual forgetfulness of conventionalities. The two small boys giggled inane. The big negro grinned. The man in the silk hat contemplated the advertising signs with a great show of interest. The two flashy women looked thoughtful. As the train went on a very marked silence settled down upon the car, broken only by the announcements of the guards, made in voices gruffer than usual.—New York Sun.

The Times.

PETERBOROUGH, MAY 6 1895.

Good morning.

Western farmers are said to be utilizing their barbed wire fences for telephones. A barbed wire ought to facilitate pointed conversation.

The commission on the sale of opium in India, by a vote of eight to one, has reported against interfering with the sale or use of the drug in that country. The doctors appear to take the same ground that is generally taken in reference to alcohol—that used to excess. It is injurious, but used in moderation, it is often beneficial. This is a very important conclusion, showing, as it does, that much misconception has existed in reference to the results of the use of opium in the East.

The Sultan of Turkey, who proposes to use the London papers for libel on account of what they have said regarding the Armenian atrocities, will have the big end of the stick in the litigation that may ensue. If the newspapers should attempt to justify, and commissioners into the country to get evidence, his serene highness will be able to resort to the ancient custom of bowstringing them or sewing them up in sacks and dumping them into the nearest pond.

SLOPEVILLE SIFTING.

Messrs. C. Wallace and C. Barrie have gone to Rice Lake to try their luck with the hook and line, before the season closes.

A Smart Clerk, personating the esteemed President of the Lime Juice Club, worked himself into the confidences of Mr. Maurice O'Brien, with whom he visited for some weeks. One fine morning, however, Mr. O'Brien found himself minus his guest, who forgot in his hurry to change photo and his board bill. However, Maurice values the photo more highly than his board bill.

Mr. Tom Barrie had successful operation performed by Mr. Michael Mahony on his thorough bred Ayrshire bull. A large and dangerous tumor that grew on the animal's side was removed by Mick's skill in surgery.

By leaving oranges early pure fresh eggs for setting may be had of the "creaky" breed Mr. M. McLann Towns' Block, 3 doors south of the New Post Office.

A branch order of this "Sons of Rest" has been organized at the Indian River. The order is progressing favorably, and promises to withhold during the entire summer. The Honorable members are W. Meade, F. Guerin, J. Loneragan, and W. Walsh, C. King, and W. Guerin were appointed delegates to High Convention.

Mr. Mat Sullivan has purchased from T. La Clair his Cleveland bay, to match his own handsome gelding. In the team Mat has a span of beauties that will show to advantage on his handsome pheasant.

Mr. W. O'Brien, our town clerk, is all bent on progressing. Not being content with the building improvements he has purchased, through the agency of P. C. Towns, a "Buckeye" seeder—a perfect marvel—as but three horses are required to distribute the seed.

Mr. John Leahy, was the guest of Mr. John O'Brien on Monday last. Misses Lena Hayes and Emma Kennedy spent a pleasant day in Slopeville this week.

Miss Michal Barrie pronounces the web-wire fence a failure. He states that his favorite calf, one year old, was leaning against the fence and his horns became entangled in the mesh. The calf's cry of distress brought Mick to the rescue, when he with difficulty freed the animal, but not before the beauty lost one of its horns.

HAPPY JACK, THE COWBOY.

A Cattle Punisher Who Carried No Revolver in His Work on the Plains.

"Happy Jack, the Colorado cowboy, was a Kentuckian by birth," said the amateur ranchman. "Kentucky's sons in the far west are typically very tall men, good tempered and of indomitable courage, and Happy Jack was no exception. Many were the stories told about the ranches of his great strength, devil may care courage, and quaint sayings. He was of great height and breadth of shoulder, thin, sinewy and active, with pluck equal to every emergency, and that cheerful temperament which found occasion for mirthfulness in every situation of life and had given him his boisterous name among his fellows. I first met him at the Horse Creek ranch, where one night late in autumn he stopped with his fellows. They had come up from the south with a herd of beef cattle, which were put into one of the corrals over night while their cavalcade was turned out in the horse pasture.

"Happy Jack was up next morning earliest of all, and while the rest of the boys were going to breakfast, he had saddled his gray horse, a vicious creature, as 'spready' and active as his master, and having led it to the front of the ranch house was about to mount. The morning was cold and frosty, and Jack wore over his regulation cowboy equipment an old army overcoat.

"Think he'll back this morning, Jack?" said one of the cowboys from the veranda.

"Well," Jack drawled, "I reckon he'll do about as he's a mind to, and he's generally got a mind to back."

"He settled into the saddle, the horse went up into the air, and for the first hundred yards his progress was a zigzag pitching for and aft like a whorly among breakers. He used every broncho trick to throw off his rider, who, with the cape of the old soldier's overcoat flapping up to meet the brim of his broad sombrero, showed an absolute unconcern as to what performance the horse might take it into his head to try. The horse at last discovered that bucking was useless and wearisome, and Happy Jack was soon down in the pasture rounding up the horses. He had got them together and driven them back to the ranch building before the other boys had eaten their breakfast. That was the kind of worker Happy Jack was.

"Everything that Happy Jack did or said was done laughingly. He carried no revolver, but as he adjusted his saddle equipments before starting away from the ranch I saw that among the things carefully stowed away in his cantinas or saddlebags was a long knife with a shining blade a foot long, and what that hints at when seen in a Kentuckian's outfit everybody knows. Happy Jack was a philosopher who was prepared equally for peace or for trouble."—New York Sun.

Primitive Illumination.

From the moment when people ceased to observe the regular bedtime of animated nature and began to sit up at night there began a new era in human affairs. We don't know much about that paleolithic man who hunted bear and rhinoceros and such small deer about our primeval forests, certainly not enough to say whether he used lamps or candles, or perhaps contented himself with the ruddy glow of the fire around which he would sit with his family toasting mammoth marrow or grilling hyena steaks or other toothsome morsels.

Perhaps our primitive man was too fond of fat as an article of diet to care to waste it in experiments, else he might easily have invented the rush light, so simple and primitive it is and still made and used in primitive households such as you find now and then among the Welsh hills.

A bundle of dried rushes dipped several times in melted mutton fat—there is all the process—and a capital miniature torch is the result, which the most boisterous winds can hardly extinguish. Now, something of this kind our primitive man may have known how to make. If he had not arrived at his muttons, the fat of the cave bear or the bison might have served his turn.—All the Year Round.

Letters From Charles Lamb.

A large number of letters by Charles Lamb, written between 1810 and 1820 to friends in Birmingham, and previously unknown, were recently discovered in a collection of old letters of the first quarter of the century at Birmingham. In one he writes: "There is a quiet dignity in old bachelorhood, a leisure from care, noise, etc., an enthronization upon the armchair of a man's feeling that he may sit, walk, read unmolested, to none accountable." In another he says: "I know you have chosen to take up a high opinion of my moral worth, but, I say it before God, and I do not lie, you are mistaken in me. I could not bear to lay open my failings to you, for the sentiment of shame would be too pungent."

BIRTH OF NAPOLEON.

Changes That His Father Fulfilled the Record of the State.

The trials of poverty made the Bonapartes most clever and adroit. Suspicious of shifts in small matters were developed later on and led to an over-acute scrutiny of their acts. The opinion has not yet disappeared among reputable authorities that Napoleon and Napoleon were one and the same, born on Jan. 7, 1769, while Joseph was really the younger, born on the date assigned to his distinguished brother. The earliest documentary evidence consists of two papers, one in the archives of the French war department, one in those of Ajaccio. The former is dated 1783 and testifies to the birth of Napoleon on Jan. 7, 1769, and his baptism on Jan. 8. The latter is the copy of an original which declares the birth on Jan. 7 of Joseph Bonaparte. Neither is decisive, but the addition of Joseph, with the use of the two French forms for the name in the second, destroys much of its value and leaves the weight of authority with the former. The resemblance of the suspensions is further heightened by the fact that Napoleon's certificate of marriage gives the date of his birth as Feb. 8, 1769. Moreover, in the marriage contract of Joseph witnesses speak of him as born at Ajaccio, not at Corte.

But there are facts of greater weight on the other side. In the first place, the documentary evidence is itself of equal weight, for the archives of the French war department also contain an extract dated July 31, 1771, from the one original baptismal certificate, and this extract gives the date of Napoleon's birth as Aug. 15, 1769. Charles' application for the appointment of his two oldest sons to Brienne has also been found, and it contains, according to regulation, still another copy from the original certificate. It is dated June 24, 1776, and also gives what is now generally accepted as the correct date. This quite explodes the old story that Napoleon's age was falsified by his father in order to obtain admittance for him to the military school. The application was made in 1776 for both boys in order to secure admission for each before the date of his tenth year. It was the delay of the authorities in granting the request which, after the lapse of three years or more, made Joseph ineligible. The father could have had no motive in 1776 to perpetrate a fraud, and after that date it was impossible, for the papers were not in his hands. The charge was made during Napoleon's lifetime. His brother positively asserted the fact, as it is now substantially proved to be, and Bourrienne, who had known his emperor as a child of 5, was of the same opinion. In the walk of life to which the Bonapartes belonged the falsification of names was not as rigid as it later became. There were three Marie Annes in the family first and last, one of whom was later called Elise.

As to the given name, Napoleon, there is a curious though unimportant confusion. We have already seen the forms Nabulion, Nabulion, Napoleon, Napoleon. Contemporary documents give also the form Napoleone, and his marriage certificate uses Napoleon. On the Vendome column stands Napoleon, imp., as if to no small Napoleon, a mischievous error. The present schoolboys of Ajaccio and Brienne gave the nickname "straw nose"—pallidness, therefore, was probably as uncertain as the form Napoleone, being probably a distortion of the name Napoleon. The name-like character of the name corresponds exactly to the chameleonlike character of the times, the man and the lands of his birth and his adoption. The Corsican noble and French royalist was Napoleone di Buonaparte; the Corsican republican and patriot, who was always present under the mask, was Napoleone Buonaparte; the French republican, Napoleon Buonaparte; the victorious general, Bonaparte; the emperor, Napoleon. There was likewise a change in his handwriting analogous to the change in his nationality and opinions. It was probably to conceal a most defective knowledge of French that the adoptive Frenchman, republican, consul and emperor abandoned the fairly legible hand of his youth and resorted to the atrocious one of his childhood, continuing always to use it after his definite choice of a country. Story indeed were his nation and his birth. He himself said: "I was born while my country was dying. Thirty thousand French, vomited on our shores, drowning the throne of liberty in waves of blood—such was the horrid sight which first met my view. The cries of the dying, the groans of the oppressed, tears of despair, surrounded my cradle at my birth."

It is strange, very strange, to me that many men should devote themselves so exclusively to the study of their own particular callings. It seems as if they thought a mind must grow narrow before it can come to a focus. We send our young men abroad to enlarge and modify their notions, but those who stay at home shut themselves up with the printers and osteopaths of their professions until they are stifled into machines for their own purpose. The knowledge of a man who confines himself to one object bears the same relation to that of the liberal scholar that the red or violet ray of a prism does to the blended light of a sunbeam.—O. W. Holmes' "Annotator of the Breakfast Table."

Misunderstood the Text.

"Now, tell me what the trouble is," said a mother to her little girl, whom she had just been obliged to take out of church because of a violent fit of weeping. "He called me," said the child between her sobs, "a simple, little cross-eyed thing!"

The child was cross-eyed, and the minister had just given out the hymn, "Glimpse to thy cross I cling."—New York Herald.

The stentor or trumpet animalcules is shaped exactly like a trumpet, save that at the small end there is a globe which seems to answer the purpose of a bell, stomach, liver, lungs and all other organs.

Misadventure.

"I hear," said the clam, "that you are going in for Christian socialism." "You have been misinformed," averred the oyster. "It is church socialism that I expect to figure in."—Indianapolis Journal.

Concord, N. H., was originally called by an Indian name, Muskecook, "Dead Stream." It was changed to Rumford in honor of a prominent settler, then to the present name in honor of the settlement of an old land dispute.

BURDOCK'S BLOOD BITTERS

WILKIE'S SENTENCE.

Alexander C. G. Wilkie Goes to the Kingston Penitentiary for Five Years—He Pleaded Guilty—The Magistrate Expressed Sympathy for Wilkie's Family.

Special to The Times.
TORONTO, May 2.—Confinement in Kingston penitentiary for five years is the punishment meted out to Alexander C. G. Wilkie, who was brought before Police Magistrate Deane this morning, who, on being arraigned on charges of having stolen $300 from W. D. Matthews & Co., pleaded guilty. James A. Macdonald appeared on his behalf and asked for leniency. The prisoner, he said, had a wife and six children who, during his incarceration, must depend upon the cold charity of the world. Mr. Macdonald, who appeared for Mr. Matthews, also asked for consideration.

"As I understand it," said the magistrate, "nine hundred dollars represents only a small portion of the amount stolen. His Worship went on to say that though he had known nothing of the prisoner, since the matter had come before the court he had heard considerable in his favor, and by all accounts it seemed an unfortunate collapse of what had been a useful life."

SYMPATHY FOR THE STRICKEN ONE.
He felt much sympathy for the wife and children, but this did not relieve him from the duty of punishing the offence. Mr. Matthews was apparently willing to forgive much, but it lay neither with him nor with the magistrate, but with the Governor General, to grant a pardon. It was all the greater offence that the prisoner had held a position of great trust and had violated it for years. Crimes of this nature had become rather frequent of late, he said.

His Worship then sentenced Wilkie to the penitentiary at Kingston for a term of five years.

MR. BLAIR FOUND.

The Missing Inland Revenue Accountant has Been in Windsor.

Special to The Times.
TORONTO, May 2.—James B. Blair, the accountant of the Inland Revenue office in Toronto, who has been missing for several days, was found in Windsor and has been heard from to the effect that he will return to Toronto tomorrow.

Deputy Commissioner Mial, of the Inland Revenue Department, is in town in connection with Mr. Blair's case.

ESCAPED FROM THE CENTRAL.

A Colored Convict Makes a Successful Break for Liberty—Under a Railway Car.

Special to The Times.
TORONTO, May 3.—James Freeman, a convict, aged 19, made a clever escape from the old Central Prison yesterday. Four empty lumber cars were lying on the siding in the prison yard and underneath one of these Freeman, with the aid of a fellow prisoner and a friendly board, coerced himself. When the locomotive pulled the four empty cars out it took with them a passenger that the officers of the prison would be glad to know held a return ticket. The cars were brought to the Grand Trunk yard at the foot of Bathurst street, and here Freeman released himself from his cramped and perilous position and made off successfully, disguised as he was in his underclothing only. He is from the township of Raleigh, and was convicted of robbery at Chatham in November, 1894, and sentenced to 24 months' imprisonment. He is a stoutly built, bright-eyed young negro, about 5 feet 5 inches in height.

WANTED TO GO TO SARNIA.

Rev. Mr. Bell Was an Applicant for a Baptist Pastorate There.

Special to The Times.
PORT HURON, May 3.—It has been learned that when Rev. Jonathan Bell was visiting his brother-in-law at Sarnia, he applied for the pastorate of the Baptist church at Sarnia. In his letter of application he said that he was a Methodist minister but preferred the teachings of the Baptist church.

WORKMAN INSTANTLY KILLED.

Fatal Accident this Morning at the John Street G.T.R. Bridge.

Special to The Times.
TORONTO, May 3.—A sad accident occurred this morning at 11.30 at the new G.T.R. bridge at the foot of John street, resulting in the almost instant death of a Rothwell.

Bethwell, who resides on Birtle avenue with his wife and several children, was working with a number of others on top of the structure when he made a misstep and fell, alighting on a car beneath, and from there slipping on a pile of stone.

Dropped Their Fids.
LONDON, May 3.—The Star says that the backers of the American horses in yesterday's races at Newmarket, Messrs. Oruker and Dwyer lost $30,000. They twice lost $2,000 against $2,000 on Montauk and afterwards made several bets at even money. Montauk was scratched for the May plate because of the excessive weight imposed.

On the War Path.
OTTAWA, May 3.—The Liberals have opened fire on the Saint St. Marie canal and Shell's Island dam contractors. They asked for all the papers connected therewith at the Public Accounts Committee this morning. Christopher Robinson's account for legal advice is also to be investigated.

READ WHAT PHYSICIANS SAY OF POND'S EXTRACT

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 29, 1894.
I have used "Pond's Extract" for many years and always insist upon my patients getting "Pond's," not the ordinary Extract, which is often a very poor article. W. K. BROWN, M. D.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 9, 1895.
I use Pond's Extract a great deal in my practice. I think it very valuable in all venous enlargements. J. L. BRADFORD, M. D.

SANTA BARBARA, CAL., Nov. 27, 1894.
I have been using Pond's Extract in my practice for twenty years. I frequently have the experience you mention of druggists insisting they can put up as good as yours. I don't believe it. I use Pond's Extract a great deal as an antiseptic in combination with glycerine and carbolic acid. I think it far superior to any antiseptic known. F. G. FLOURNOY, M. D.

COLUMBIA, PA., Jan. 18, 1895.
I have been a constant user of Pond's Extract since 1859, and do not expect to discontinue it while I live. S. ARMOR, M. D.

CHELSEA, MASS., Nov. 8, 1894.
I have made diseases of the skin a specialty for thirty years, and am free to say I know of no remedy that has given me such perfect satisfaction as Pond's Extract in cases for which it is recommended. G. W. BARCOCK, M. D.

ASTHENICS' INSTITUTE, Buffalo, N. Y., Dec. 8, 1894.
I know Pond's Extract to be a valuable remedy, and shall continue its use whenever the opportunity offers. GEO. H. CALKINS, M. D.

NEWARK, N. J., Dec. 13, 1894.
I am pleased with the purity and strength of Pond's Extract. J. L. DURYEE, M. D.

CLARA FORD NOT GUILTY.

phically, with good accent and pure enunciation. Her words were eagerly listened to by the crowd in the court room. Speaking about Sergeant Hebern she said:

"He came in and gave me a look as if he would snatch my head off. Oh, he didn't talk as he did yesterday. He said, 'Where did you get those pants? Where were you that Saturday night?' He had a rougher and snappier voice than he had here yesterday."

She continued her story, saying that Hebern did all the talking, and told her she was seen up at Parkdale that night. She denied it and said that whoever said that told a lie: she wanted to know who told him, and he said, "Never mind."

She said she had not been at Parkdale since the first or second Sunday after last Civic holiday. When Inspector Stark came in he asked her what she was doing with men's clothes, and that it was against the law for women to wear them. To this Clara replied:

"If that is so, how is it that Vic Steinbary goes to the baseball matches and the football matches and down to the opera and wears men's clothes, and nothing is said about it?"

The inspector stroked his mustache and smiled a little, but didn't answer.

WAS AT THE THEATRE.

Clara next detailed what she told Hebern about her visit to the Toronto opera house, the night of the murder; she minutely described all about her movements that night, step by step, saying she got to her room at 10.45.

Continuing her story, she said that Hebern told her she "was making this stuff up." When she repeated this he said, "You needn't get saucy," and she again retorted saying, "I have a right to stick up for the truth." She told him she was half Spanish, when he asked her as to her nationality.

Hebern had a writing pad and a pencil and put down everything that she said, taking her over her entire life's history, and questioning her most minutely. She told him she once wore men's clothes, over a year before, up at Mrs. Crozier's. She told him when he said that Flora McKay said Clara told her to say she was at the opera house that night. To this Clara replied, "My God, stop that!"

She then related this as a conversation between the sergeant and her: "You say you don't know Frank Westwood?" "No, I don't."

"Did you never mention his name?" "Only once this tragedy."

When he pulled out the letter signed "Jim Hardy" and showed her the words "Westwood's Frank," she said she could not swear she wrote the letter; but when she saw "Jim Hardy" she knew where it came from.

When the Crozier women were brought down and asked about some things Clara said, Hebern at one point gave Clara a jerk and told her to "shut up and keep quiet." "This, of course," said the witness, "gave the Croziers encouragement to go on."

THERE'S MONEY IN IT.

Clara then related this account of the interview between herself and Hebern: He said if she didn't tell it would be worse for her; he told her if she was his own sister he couldn't think more of her; he told her to only tell that Frank Westwood insulted her, that he's dead now and can't say anything; he said, giving a wink, that there's $300 or $500 offered for this; if she would tell, he wouldn't say a word about it in the courts or to anybody; he told her he would send her a man in a straw woman, and she would walk the streets yet. She said she had nothing to do with it.

He said:

"Clara, the more you deny it the worse it will be for you."

She continued, saying she knew they were blaming her for a crime she had nothing to do with; she didn't know what was being done with her; at last, about eleven o'clock, Hebern said: Clara, it's getting late; I can't bother with you no more tonight; if you were a man I'd not bother with you; I'd put you down stairs, Clara, you got in a net and you can't get out of it."

SHE'S INNOCENT.

Said Clara, when giving her evidence, "I didn't know what to do; Hebern told me the more I denied it the worse it would be for me. I denied I had anything to do with the tragedy, and that denial is true, every word of it."

She continued, "At last he kept worrying me so I said I did do it. And I then made up this lie."

"You mean this alleged confession?" asked Mr. Murdoch.

"Yes," she replied, "I made up this lie to get out of trouble. I made up the story from a picture I saw in the papers and from what Mrs. Crozier said. It is a false story."

After she was looked up Hebern said to her, "Now, you stick to this and don't change your mind."

DECIDEDLY SENSATIONAL.

This evidence of the prisoner herself was listened to with the most intense interest and by an immense crowd of people that thronged every part of the room. It created a most favorable impression in her behalf, judging by the comments made in the crowd. It was given with an emphasis that carried conviction with it, and she gave every little particular about the case that added to the strength of her statements. She is endowed with an unusual strength of memory and can give the most minute description of any person or place she has seen. She said that everything she told the detectives is true except the "alleged confession," and she made that up because Hebern was worrying her and she thought she would take him at his word and get out of trouble by telling the story of the confession.

NEVER KNEW FRANK.

"When she carried the revolver it was always empty except the time she fired the two shots at ducks out on the lake; she had only six cartridges in her life, and the other four she gave to the detectives. She does not know Libby Black; she only knew Frank Westwood, never spoke to him and he never spoke to her."

Clara was under direct examination two hours. Then Mr. Dewar began the cross-examination.

EVIL AND MALICIOUS.

The course that the world has adopted towards Clara Ford.

"If the press interfere with or infringe upon the liberty of the subject the Crown should certainly take it up," said Chancellor Boyd in reply to E. F. Johnston's request that the court take cognizance of what the lawyer called an unfair and malicious statement made in the World concerning Clara Ford. He gave notice that he would move for an order to commit to contempt of court, the order to be made returnable on Monday or Tuesday.

George J. Bennett, news editor of the Telegram, identified the cut in his paper of the route alleged to have been pursued by Clara Ford. He said that Sergeant Hebern called on him and argued about the article which appeared in the Telegram and which threw doubt on the probability of the water front route. The witness told Hebern that the reporters had found it impossible to pass in front of the bastion. He did not go over the ground himself.

THE WATERFRONT ROUTE IMPOSSIBLE.

C. P. Clark, a reporter, swore that he went over the route depicted in the paper. W. J. Thompson, an artist, accompanied him over the New Fort portion on the last day of November. They followed the route described in the alleged confession. It was impossible to climb up the steep stone bastion of the fort, in front of which there are some large stones. The water reaches up to the bastion, which is crowned with a crowned with a tight 12 foot fence, with barbed wire on top. This fence reaches some eight feet out over the bastion. It was impossible to walk around, even on the stone, without getting wet, and unless one waded could not get around at all. The water is about eight inches deep at the stones, and shelves off rapidly to greater depth. Except the 30 feet of bastion the road was practicable enough.

William J. Thompson, who accompanied the last witness, identified the plan and corroborated the story. A person would not have to walk in water deeper than eight inches in any case to go round the bastion, he said.

The Crown Attorney asked that the revolver which had been used in the jurors' test be put in, and this was done.

STAND THE STORM.

The Finance Minister claimed had wasted the world-wide depression remarkably well. He contrasted favorably the state of affairs today with that of the Liberal regime of 1884-78, scoring Sir Richard Cartwright's financial administration unmercifully. The present day Canada was contrasted with older countries which have suffered more from the financial stress. Mr. Foster's final announcement was to the effect that no railway subsidies would be voted this year; but this is understood to have no bearing on the proposed Hudson Bay subsidy, which will probably be called a loan.

They were given a reception at the residence of his sister, Mrs. John Wiley, 38 Terrace Hill, at which a party of friends had gathered to welcome the happy couple and wish them prosperity in their journey through life."

A Trial Trip.

The City of Peterborough made a trial trip around the lake on Saturday and noted very satisfactory. She will leave on Monday to tow Gilmore's two drives of 75,000 logs each to the mouth of the Trent and will return on May 20. Mr. John Martin, the regular passenger agent of the Peterborough Navigation Company, has already booked a number of excursions for the season. Last Friday he visited Keesee and booked two excursions for points on Rice Lake.

Has Been Released.

It is announced that Col. Volney V. Ashford, the Port Hope boy who has figured so prominently in the politics of Hawaii, and in whose behalf the Dominion Government recently took action, has been released from imprisonment upon agreeing to permanently exile himself from the republic. A telegraphic despatch states that he is, however, lying ill in the hospital at Honolulu. He will be looked after, no doubt, by the British representative and may be expected to return to Canada when able to travel.

That Report.

Mr. Jerry Loucks came down from Dorset last Friday to take charge of Gilmore's Galway drive of logs. Mr. Loucks had heard nothing of any accident at the Gilmore operations, and the report of a number of men having been killed was evidently a hoax. Many persons throughout the district were given the greatest anxiety regarding their relatives. Out in the rough and ready common sense west, if the thing who originated the report were discovered, an accident would occur in which that person and a horse would take a prominent part.—Bobcaygeon Independent.

Where Pustulence Lurks.

Many citizens are complying with the laws of sanitation and cleanliness and the air is filled with the odor of burning rubbish, which it would be better to draw to the dumping ground. Others pay no heed to the Medical Health Officer's proclamation and some of them will need a visit from a policeman to bring them to a sense of their duty. He will be looked after, no doubt, by the British representative and may be expected to return to Canada when able to travel.

Another Sick Swindler.

Another sick swindler is working his way eastward and may reach this section any day; as look out for him. He is a sick looking young man with a crusty smile and by pretending to be selling a new cement, gains an entrance to the homes of respectable citizens. He then remarks upon the quality of the article which so easily came into his possession, but is of no use to him, and if his hearers seem interested, makes an offer to part with them for $1, an exceedingly cheap rate, but under the circumstances, etc. In this way he disposed of a large number of glasses in Brantford, and thus aroused suspicion which led to the discovery that the spectacles were in every case worthless.

The Buoy Went Under.

A story was afloat last week that a man was drowned near Lowerside while crossing the lake, but like a good many other stories which are prevalent was found to be without foundation. It appears that a squaw noticed a black object moving on the ice about half way between Horsehoe Island and Longford, and after watching it for a short time it went under and was seen no more. A man named Woods was seen heading towards the lake in a state of intoxication a short time previously and when he did not turn up next day the conclusion was drawn that he had attempted to cross the lake and was drowned. The theory was exploded however, when it was remembered that the place of the supposed disappearance is a sand bar marked by a large black buoy for navigation purposes, and this object bobbed up and down with the moving ice until finally a piece got on top and forced it under.

A SAD DROWNING.

Oliver Vinnett, Ship From the W. W. Dam—Body Not Recovered.

On Saturday afternoon a sad drowning accident occurred in Auburn at the dam at the waterworks pumping station, the victim being Oliver Vinnett, son of Mr. Ed. Vinnett, of Auburn. The lad was only in his 13th year.

The lad, with his elder brother and other boys, had been fishing at the dam. They had been fishing off the pier at the east side of the dam, and were crossing to the other side when the fatal slip occurred. At the time the lad was about twenty feet from the shore, and was about to cross the rushing torrent which runs through the slide. The older Vinnett boy had crossed this plank and his younger brother, Oliver, being a little backward in attempting the journey across the slide, his brother was returning to assist him. Oliver had got a short distance out on the plank and his brother was about to him when his foot slipped and he fell into the rushing water below. He was carried across the logs beneath the dam, and it is thought he was stunned. His hands and head were seen once above the surface of the water about twenty or thirty feet from the dam, but this was all that was seen of him.

Young Vinnett wore a pair of top boots and these he took off before starting for home. He either stepped on something that threw him off his balance or slipped.

All day yesterday a dozen boats were out on the river looking for the body which it was thought had been carried down the river by the strong current. Until sunset the search was continued and then stopped by the darkness. It will be resumed today.

Mr. Vinnett is seriously ill from the awful shock.

Peterborough's champion hockey players have secured the champion entertainers in the Webbing Sisters. To-night in the Opera House.

The Veterans, the Junior Peterboroughs and the Newspaper A.A.A. baseball team will go into practice this week.

All lacrosse players are requested to meet at the Driving Park this evening.

The Sporting News says: The members of the Peterboro Bicycle Club are preparing for a gala day on Aug. 15th, their Civic Holiday. Their program of races for the day is as follows:

Class A—4 mile novice; 1 mile, 2.40 class; 1 mile, open; 3 miles, open, and a 3 mile lap race.

Class B—1 mile novice; 1 mile, open; 1 mile, open; 3 miles, open; a 2 mile tandem race.

Cyclists with a liking for mathematical deductions will be interested in the following: With a 60 inch gear each revolution of the pedals of a bicycle will send the wheel forward 164 feet. Number of revolutions required to drive this bicycle one mile is 360. If a person in walking should take three feet at one step the number of steps necessary to travel a mile would be 1,700. Walking requires the expenditure of a greater amount of energy and strength as compared to riding the bicycle a like distance.

Amateur gardeners are busily at work manipulating spider, hose, rakes and other blaster producers and patience distorers. So far there is good indication of a fair crop of tan and freckles. When the weed seasons sets in the amateur gardeners' enthusiasm will be pretty well spent.

The Mariposa cheese factory, of Linden Valley, is being refitted with a new plant. The boiler and equipments were ordered of Mr. Wm. Woods. The boiler is made of steel, and was built in Peterborough. Mr. J. E. Hoar was at the factory last week, and under his management the improvements are sure to be substantial. The outlook for this season is very encouraging.

In pose, songs and dances the Webbing Sisters are delightful. Secure your seats at once.

To Pay Weighill's Costs.

Albert Weighill, the former Agincourt station agent, who is charged with the causing of a railway disaster a few months ago, whereby John Higgs lost his life, is in a very bad way financially. Saturday morning Mr. Robinson, of Toronto, his counsel, asked the court for an order compelling the Crown to pay the expenses of the defence. Mr. John Barron, ex-M.P., who is taking Mr. Osler's place as Crown prosecutor, consented, and the people will bear the expense of the trial.

Go to Salisbury's at once and secure your seats for the Hockey Club Concert to-night.

The Times.

PETERBOROUGH, MAY 6 1895.

Good morning.

Was it not sufficient to increase the tax on whiskey without adding to the impost on the sugar required to sweeten it?

The Dominion estimates have been cut down by over $2,000,000, and the Finance Minister promises that there will be no subsidies for new railway enterprises this year to add to the debt. If the promise covers the case of the Hudson Bay Railway Company the country will give Mr. Foster freely of the praise his courage deserves.

THE HUDSON BAY RAILWAY

The question of the alleged subsidy to the Hudson Bay railway has been very much discussed by the Reform press, and these papers have been able to find reason to condemn the government. We have been of opinion, however, the alleged proposal, as set forth in the opposition papers, was not at all the intention of the government, and we have been waiting, with some curiosity, for a definite statement by the government, setting forth what it is really intended to do for Hugh Sutherland and his proposed railway. In the Senate Sir Mackenzie Bowell made it plain that there had been a reconsideration of the original offer to the railway company; that the $80,000 per annum, and 6,400 acres per mile originally granted to the promoters of the road had been withdrawn and a loan of $10,000 a mile in cash, substituted. Of course this arrangement will have to be approved by parliament, but in the meantime Mr. Sutherland is pushing ahead, taking it for granted that the government supporters in the house will give their support to the deal. We agree with a leading conservative newspaper that there are many reasons why the arrangement should be permitted to fall through. Among them are these:

There are no settlers along the proposed line, and no agricultural land to support settlers.

Ten thousand dollars a mile will more than build the road.

There will be no traffic for the road if it be built.

If built it will do Manitoba and the eastern provinces harm instead of good.

The country is hard up, and it is preposterous to cut down the general estimates a million and a half of dollars, and throw away two millions and a half on a useless railway.

The "loan" condition signifies nothing—the government would do better to make the gift straight—fot it will never again see a cent of the money.

It is to be hoped that the government will not insist upon pressing this deal through the house. It will certainly be a most unpopular move, and there are very many things the country needs more than a railway through rocks and muskegs to an ice-bound bay.

This Journal does not begrudge Manitoba or the Northwest Territories $2,500,000 for a railway which would be of benefit to that country; but the proposed railway would be a positive injury.

If the government desires to help the new country by a gift of two or three millions for a railway through lands fit for settlement, we do not think the eastern provinces would object; or if the government was to expend two or three millions in adding to the population of Manitoba and the Northwest, it would be a good thing for the whole country. But to throw away $2,500,000 on a railway from nowhere to nowhere and through nothing, is most absurd.

METEROPEHEMY.
Ask For Which the Tongue
Is Responsible.
In the "Contr. butors' Club" in The Atlantic the following incidents are related of persons suffering from heterophemy:

Heterophemy, the curious disease which consists in using one word when meaning to use an entire, different one, gives rise to many amusing combinations. An old lady living in a town on the Hudson river is thus afflicted. She is tall and stately in appearance, courtly and gracious in manner, and this makes her incongruous sentences all the more ridiculous. Strange to say, she herself is totally unconscious of her infirmity, for the family, friends and even the servants endeavor to save her from the mortification she would feel.

Not long ago when she was recovering from a serious illness the bishop of the diocese chanced to make his annual visitation, and at the suggestion of the rector they went together to call upon Mrs. Drew.

She was delighted to see them and entertained them with her usual grace and cordiality. The conversation naturally touched upon her illness and her thankfulness at her recovery, which for a time had been despaired of.

Presently she turned to the bishop, saying earnestly, "My dear bishop, let us have a little drop."

The startled prelate glanced at the rector. He, knowing his old friend's infirmity, cast about in his mind for her probable meaning.

"Bishop," repeated the old lady seriously, "let's have a little drop."

"Certainly, Mrs. Drew," interposed the rector, waiting for her to make some move which might disclose her meaning. But Mrs. Drew waited expectantly also.

"If you have not your Vade Mecum with you, there is a prayer book," she said after a moment.

The rector, with a sigh of relief, turned to the bishop. "Mrs. Drew will be glad to have you read prayers with her," he said quietly.

Prayers were read, and then the gentlemen prepared to take leave.

"Your visit has been a pleasure," Mrs. Drew said warmly. "Now, Mr. Bolnap, won't you take this little boy home to your dear wife with my best love?"

For a moment Mr. Bolnap wondered if she could mean the bishop, but she relieved his mind by lifting a magnificent bunch of roses from a vase on the table.

Allied to this is another form of misapprehension, to which most of us are occasionally subject—the exchange of syllables. A certain young lady who, to her intense mortification, often reverses her vowels thus, says she is entirely unconscious of it even after speaking.

One summer evening she was sauntering with a friend toward the village postoffice of the little town where they were staying. On the way they encountered an acquaintance with a handful of letters.

"Ah, good evening," she said in her peculiarly gracious, suave manner. "Are you straining out for your mole?"

The mystified young woman made some inarticulate reply and passed on. As soon as the friend could recover her gravity she gasped, "I suppose you intended to ask Miss May if she was strutting out for her mail?"

The same young lady was relating a sad story of various misfortunes which had overwhelmed a dear friend.

"Think," she concluded pathetically, "of losing husband, children, property and home at one swell foop!" And a howl of laughter rent the roof.

Carbolic Acid Suicides.
"It is a strange fact," said my friend, the Franklin street physician, "that six out of ten would be suicides now resort to that most horrible of all deadly doses, carbolic acid. It causes more pain, more genuine, lingering agony than any deadly dose I can mention. Yet its popularity continues to increase, especially among the unfortunate members of the half world who have become weary of life and seek the comforts of the grave. The antidote? Oh, an antidote after the acid has been swallowed is of little avail. A mixture of flour and water should be given; also mucilaginous drinks. I once had a patient recover after taking a small quantity of the acid, and she said she thought she was swallowing molten lead. It is a horrible life destroyer."—Buffalo Courier.

Times Have Changed.
Mrs. Hagglemore—But we surely ought to give our own daughter a wedding present, Hiram.

Mr. Hagglemore—Certainly, my dear, certainly. When we were married, your father presented us a receipted bill of $6.57 for gate hinges. I shall make Araminta a wedding present of $37.31 for extra gas.—Chicago Tribune.

BIG MEN IN SPAIN.

They Are Scarce Among the Natives and Are Much Admired.

"There is no place where a man's size will increase his importance in the eyes of the people more than in Spain," said William H. Graham. "The Spaniards, as a race, being an undersized people, a large man, well developed physically, is looked upon as being some important, extraordinary being. So, while I was traveling in Europe with Colonel Stone, we passed through England, with but little notice being taken of us. When we got to Spain, however, our party, thanks to the physical physique of the colonel, was the cynosure of all eyes. When we walked down the street, a crowd would follow us, pointing at the colonel in wonderment and admiration until the gallant congressman thought his proper place was on the boards of a Spanish dime museum. One day, while on a fatiguing journey, we stopped at a way station. Like travelers will do, we left our compartment to stretch our legs in a little walk up and down the platform of the station. There was quite a crowd gathered, evidently to see the departure of a bald and a groom, who were in the center of an admiring circle of friends. As we walked up and down we noticed that the attention of the crowd was gradually diverted from the loving couple in the center, and the people began to whisper one to the other and point at the colonel taking his constitutional. I could see and hear that they were astonished at his immense stature and were wondering who this notable must be, for to the Spaniard a man could not be of such a stature and not be great."

"Just before the train was ready to pull out I thought I would play a little joke on the people, taking the cue from the remarks I heard on all sides. So leaving my friend I went to the door of the railway carriage and called in as loud a tone as possible: 'James G. Blaine, come on. The train is about to move away.' It was just about the time of the excitement over Blaine and Harrison, so I thought that the supposed presence of a celebrity such as the 'plumed knight' would cause their enthusiasm, but they took no notice of my cry. Thinking they could not have heard, I called the same thing out again, but still no response came from the crowd. Then I remembered an incident which occurred to the colonel in Pittsburgh when he interfered in a street fight there. He pulled a bulky ruffian off an undersized fellow, who was being beaten terribly, and when the bully asked him who he was that dared to interfere with him the colonel remembered having seen some bill-boards stating John L. Sullivan was in town, so he replied boldly, 'I'm John L. Sullivan.' Immediately the crowd cheered, and the bully sneaked away."

"Remembering this incident and the success of impersonating the prizefighter in a city where he was well known, I thought I would try it in Spain, doubting, however, that a community who did not know Blaine would be able to recognize a celebrity at the other end of the line. But I pulled out, 'John L. Sullivan, you had better hurry.' I had scarcely uttered the name when the whole crowd began to put up their hats and make a rush for the locomotive. They would have torn his clothes off in their enthusiasm and admiration of what they evidently thought a master man had the ringing of the bell not given warning that the train was ready, and with difficulty we pushed our way through the yelling, boisterous crowd to our carriage."

"The bridal party and the purpose of the crowd's visit were lost in the excitement, and as our train drew out we could hear the cheering of the excited people far behind us. So it can be truthfully said that Colonel Stone has appeared with great success as John L. Sullivan on both continents."—Boston Transcript.

What Would You Call It?

I had a good look at something very unique on Fifth avenue, was a New York correspondent of the Pittsburgh Dispatch. It was a most exaggerated type of Willie boy, chappie or Johnnie, perhaps all three rolled into one. As it approached it attracted marked attention. The face is unfit for publication, but the expression thereon conjured up visions of an insane asylum. Clad in the latest cut of long tailed, double breasted attire, a bell crowned hat, loud trousers rolled up at the bottom high above tan shoes, fashionable gloves and carrying the regulation cane, it came along. The gait was peculiar, a sort of cross between a single footer and a spavined hurdler jumper. There was a sort of to and fro movement that made pedestrians averse to one side, fearful lest a collision would wreck the outfit. The left arm was raised above the hips and crooked outwardly, the wrist limber and the fingers dangling, very like the pose cultivated by the chimpanzee when at ease. This arm carrying out apparently occupied all the creature's attention. The eyes were fastened on the left shoulder appendage, and its swing and carriage were constantly shifted, much to the amusement of the multitude. Many stood and gazed and smiled at the grotesque figure. It was watched and studied until it got out of sight. A policeman who happened to be on duty had been diverted from the shop windows to also grasp the humor of the thing and said: 'It's perfectly harmless. Lots of money. Just sense enough to know it's on the earth. Frequently forgets where it lives, though, and has to be piloted home.' His Tern Letters.

"I'd like to speak to Miss Edith privately," said a woman who had been a servant in Miss Edith's family, but who now took lodgers.

"Miss Edith," she began, after some preliminary remarks, "I'm told that Mr. Ripley comes here considerable, and Miss Edith, you know what I've always thought of your family, and that any one of you young ladies is fit for the best in the land, and I'm not saying but what Mr. Ripley is a worthy young man, but I think I owe it to you, Miss Edith, to tell you that he gets terrible affectionate letters from a young lady named 'Belle.'"

"I've no right to interfere with his letters," said Edith, but her voice trembled. "And how do you know anything about it, Ann? You wouldn't read his letters."

"No, indeed, Miss Edith. Far be it from me to read anybody's letters when they're in the whole sheet and done up proper in envelopes, but when a man tears up his letters and scatters them round his room I have the right, as nobody can deny, to pick them together and make what may be out of them, and I hold that it's my duty for your family's sake, and for your sake, Miss Edith."

A few days later Ann paid another visit, and this time she announced: "Miss Edith, my mind's at rest, and I hope yours will be too. I picked together a letter from his mother last night, and I found out that Belle is his sister."—New York Tribune.

"IS IT STRANGE?"

When the day is slowly dying
And the stars begin to peep,
While the summer flowers are lying Bathed in dew and kindly sleep,
By my door I stand and listen
For a dear loved step again.
Is it strange the tears should glisten
When I wait so long in vain?
Is it strange the sob should gather
As a token of my pain?
Day by day life withereth him,
No more a messenger of his love,
Shall I, can I dare to doubt him,
Once so true as heaven above,
Once so eager I should listen
Does he treat me with disdain?
Is it strange the tears will glisten
When I ask myself, in vain,
"Is he false to me, my lover?
Will he ever come again?"

Every hope is quenched in sadness,
Even life grows dark to me,
When a sudden tale of gladness
Comes across the deep blue sea.
Standing in the shadow dreary,
Waiting with a wild unrest,
Is it strange a footstep near me
Tells of him that I love best?
Is it strange I should be weeping
When he clasps me to his breast?

Don't Write on Beach Trees.

A novel piece of evidence was introduced recently in a breach of promise case in Bavaria. The defendant obstinately denied the charge and stated that his accuser had nothing to show to prove her statement. The latter, a buxom village maiden, asked one day to be permitted to bring in her evidence. The court granted her request and adjourned until 10 o'clock the next day. At the appointed time she was on hand, and upon the query of the judge where her evidence was she opened the door, and four lumbermen brought in a tree trunk, upon the bark of which her faithless adorer had incised both their initials within a flaming heart! She won her case.—Troy Times.

Patagonia was named by Magellan from a Spanish word signifying "big foot." He formed his impression of the natives before seeing them by the imprints of their ample pedal extensions in the sand.

Hume, the historiast, was said to be the ugliest man of his time. His face was fat, coarse and vulgar, with no striking or pleasing feature.

In 1844 a "down oaster" invented a species of candle which he claimed did not need snuffing.

The price of a wine jug or demijohn was fixed by Nero at 7 cents.

"Days of Absence" was the work of Jean Jacques Rousseau, who claimed to have written the melody also, though his claim in this direction is disputed, the assertion being made that the tune is an Italian folk song. In Europe the song is called "Rousseau's Dream."

The poet Rogers had a voice as small and weak that, as he had said himself, he was forced to any caustic and ill natured things in order to make people hear him.

The garter was first worn by men. During the sixteenth century it reached the dimensions of a large scarf round the leg.

PHYSICIANS SAY OF POND'S EXTRACT

PHILADELPHIA,
Dec. 29, 1894.
I have used "Pond's Extract" for many years and always insist upon my patients getting "Pond's," not the ordinary Extract, which is often a very poor article. W. K. BROWN, M. D.

PHILADELPHIA,
Jan. 9, 1895.
I use Pond's Extract a great deal in my practice. I think it very valuable in all venous enlargements.

J. L. BRADFORD, M. D.
SANTA BARBARA, CAL.,
Nov. 27, 1894.

I have been using Pond's Extract in my practice for twenty years. I frequently have the experience you mention of druggists insisting they can put up as good as yours. I don't believe it. I use Pond's Extract a great deal as an antiseptic in combination with glycerine and carbolic acid. I think it far superior to any antiseptic known.
F. G. FLORENO, M. D.

COLUMBIA, PA.,
Jan. 18, 1895.
I have been a constant user of Pond's Extract since 1859, and do not expect to discontinue it while I live. S. ARMOR, M. D.

CHELSEA, MASS.,
Nov. 8, 1894.
I have made diseases of the skin a specialty for thirty years, and am free to say I know of no remedy that has given me such perfect satisfaction as Pond's Extract in cases for which it is recommended.

G. W. BADCOCK, M. D.
ASTHMA'S INSTITUTE,
Buffalo, N. Y., Dec. 8, 1894.
I know Pond's Extract to be a valuable remedy, and shall continue its use whenever the opportunity offers.

GEO. H. CALKINS, M. D.
NEWARK, N. J.,
Dec. 13, 1894.
I am pleased with the purity and strength of Pond's Extract.

A Humorous Fact.

About Hood's Sarsaparilla—it expels bad humor and creates good humor. A battle for blood is what Hood's Sarsaparilla vigorously fights, and it is always victorious in expelling foul taints and giving the vital fluid the quality and quantity of perfect health. It cures scrofula, salt rheum, boils and other blood diseases.

Hood's Pills are so easily, yet promptly and efficiently on the bowels and liver.

Efficient Pile! Itching Piles.

Though the Grand Trunk proper continues to show slightly better results, the improvement is counterbalanced by the loss of business done on the Chicago and Grand Trunk. Last week the Canadian lines earned $244 more than in the corresponding period of 1894, but the decrease on the Chicago connection was no less than $2,175, which, with a loss of $208 on the Grand Haven and Milwaukee, turns the week's exhibit into a falling off of $1,239, and raises the aggregate diminution in gross earnings in the fifteen weeks to $35, 919. Comparison was made last week with the loss of $12,100 a year ago, but the current week contrasts with one on which the decrease was only $2,540.

ST. CATHARINES, May 6.—The George N.
Oille Machine Shop and Foundry, owned ated by Wright & Cunningham, were destroyed by fire at an early hour this morning. Loss, $10,000; Insurance, $4,000.

A very small cat sometimes attracts considerable attention. On Wednesday noon as the east-bound express drew into the station a hat blew from the head of an aged man under the rear car, when a stately looking gentleman who was standing on the rear of the platform stepped from his place, secured the hat and handed it to the owner after giving a clear dusting. The owner of the hat was heard to remark: "That is no ordinary gentleman," and true he was, for the stately looking gentleman was no other than Lord Aberdeen, Governor General of Canada, returning to Ottawa from Toronto.—Tweed News.

Catarrh in the Head

Is a dangerous disease because it is liable to result in loss of hearing or snell, or develop into consumption.

Read the following:
"My wife has been a sufferer from catarrh for the past four years and the disease had gone so far that her eyesight was affected so that for nearly a year she was unable to read for more than five minutes at a time. She suffered severe pains in the head and at times was almost distracted. About Christmas, she commenced taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and since that time has steadily improved.
She has taken six bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla and is on the road to a complete cure. I cannot speak too highly of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and I cheerfully recommend it." W. H. FURST, Newmarket, Ontario.

A Load of Furniture Scattered Along Sherbrooke and Water Streets.

Between 4 and 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon one of Harry Well's moving vans was leaving the yard of Mr. Fred Adams on Sherbrooke street loaded with furniture, when in driving through the gateway some of the furniture became dislodged and fell off the load. The shifting of the load caused the driver to lose his balance and he fell between the horses and taking flight the latter dashed off at frightful speed. They ran down Sherbrooke street to Water and the furniture bounced off all the way along bestrewn the street at short intervals. At Water street the horses continued northward and finally ran into a telegraph pole near the postoffice which proved an effectual check. The sudden stop, however, bounced the van, the last remaining article in the van, into the road.
All the furniture was more or less broken.

HOCKEY CLUB CONCERT.

A Fair House Greets the Welby Sisters
—A Splendid Entertainment.

The Hockey Club concert in the opera house last night was only fairly attended, a fact that is to be regretted, for not only are Peterborough's champion hockeyists deserving of encouragement but the character of the entertainment last night was certainly such as should have packed the opera house. That there was not a larger attendance is no doubt due to the fact that of late Peterborough has had a surfeit of amusements.

The entertainment given last night by the Welby Sisters was certainly pleasing and refined as well as delightfully novel.

The Welby Sisters, a trio of enterprising, graceful dancers and work harmoniously together in the sketches they present so effectively. They fully sustained the reputation of the troupe everywhere they have given them, and the audience last night accorded them generous applause.

Miss F. M. Kenrick, pianiste, a graduate of the Royal Academy of Music, London, England, played two solos in excellent style and was enthusiastically enco-ured. She is a finished musician.

the Lodge Estate taxes, amounting to of gravel lot to L. Lodgegate—Carried.

On suggestion of Councillor Smith, the matter of securing better fire protection for the village than at present engaged, was seriously discussed.

WEIGHILL ON TRIAL.

The Wreck of the Midland of Last February Recalled.

Albert Weighill, station agent at Union-ville, who dispatched the ill-fated train, which collided with a snow plough near Agincourt on Feb. 3 was put on his trial yesterday in the Justice court.

Toronto, charged with having by his negligence caused the death of John Higg, the engineer who was killed on that occasion.
Judge Street presiding, and John Barron, Q.C., as Crown prosecutor.

Mr. Barron traced the history of the tragedy which is briefly as follows: On February 3 the passenger train from the Midland Division was following a snow plough sent ahead to clear the way. The rule of the road required the detection of the train at one station and the latter agent at the next station has reported the arrival of the plough.

In this case the Crown claims that Albert Weighill told the conductor to go ahead without having ascertained whether the plough had reached Agincourt. The train went on and crashed into the plough which had stuck on the tracks.

Two classes in connection with the Institute were held during the winter.
One taught by Mr. A. V. White, and very largely attended, was on the subject of literature. The other conducted by Mr.
D. McEvoy was on Machine Drawing. We believe the young mechanics of this town will benefit greatly in the future from the instruction received in these classes.

By virtue of an Act passed at the late session of the Ontario Legislature, the name of our library has been changed, so that it will be known as the Mechanics Institute, but as the Peterborough Public Library.

All of which is respectfully submitted.
GEORGE BURNHAM, President.

JOHN CONNERY, Secy. Treas.

SUFFERING AND PAIN BANISHED

Paine's Celery Compound Saves the Life of a Toronto Lady

Mrs. J. Wickett says: "After Using Two Bottles of the Compound I Feel Like a New Woman"

A FIRMLY ESTABLISHED FACT

When Doctors Fail and Ordinary Medicines are Useless
Paine's Celery Compound Always Cures

Results! honest results!! marvellous results!!! convincing and satisfactory to all fair minded men and women. Even the skeptics and scoffers are brought to a knowledge of the truth by unassailable rock bottom facts and proofs.

In the vast field of medicines and medical preparations, time, experience and results have amply demonstrated the truth of the oft repeated statement that Paine's Celery Compound is the only true and honest life saving medicine ever offered to suffering humanity.

The strong and vigorous testimony of Mrs. J. Wickett, of 100 Oak street, Toronto, should fill the fainting and despairing hearts of all sufferers with fresh hope and confidence, and should at once lead every sickly person to the only medicine that makes people well.

Mrs. Wickett's letter reads as follows:—
"Last year, in the month of November,
I was suddenly taken very ill with pleurisy and neuralgia. The pains in my shoulder and back were most intense, and caused me extreme suffering. For several weeks I was unable to get up, and gradually recovered from the attack of pleurisy but none of the medicines prescribed for me seemed to have any effect on the neuralgia, which had by this time, spread all over my body.

I gradually became worse; my appetite was poor, and the pain never seemed to leave me for an instant. My life was becoming a burden to me, and I began to think I would never recover. I grew discouraged with the medicines I was taking, and happening to see a testimonial in the newspaper about Paine's Celery Compound I concluded to get a bottle, although I had very little faith in patent medicines.

Before I had finished my first bottle, I began to feel better, the pains and soreness greatly decreased, and gaining hope by my improved health, I finished the first bottle and bought a second.

After using two bottles of your Competite has returned, and the neuralgia has left me, and I am as well as ever. I feel very thankful for the benefit I have derived from your medicine, and take pleasure in recommending it to my friends.

Should anyone desire fuller particulars, they will communicate with me, I will be happy to oblige them."

The Times.

PETERBOROUGH, MAY 8 1895.

Good morning.

Now that the ice has gone and winter has departed, it is a good time to suggest that the City Fathers do something for the bathing small boy, and the bathing man, too, for that matter beyond hiring policemen to chase him. Sometime ago we published a letter from Mr. S. W. English, who presented a very feasible scheme. His proposal was to erect a bathing house just east of the C. P. R. spur line near the gas house, where it could be done cheaply and when pure water could be secured. The idea is a good one, and should be acted on. People who frequent the Little Lake will no longer be annoyed by living pictures. Wont the council please do something for the Peterborough boy?

THE DEFICIT.

Mr. Foster will add the four and a half millions deficit of this year, as he did that of last year, to the public debt; and will meet next year's threatened deficit by taxing sugar and spirits. Spirits will come off lighter than sugar, but then Mr. Foster has probably learned of late years that it is the habit of some to take sugar in their spirits. Still the effect is to tax the housewife much more heavily than the toper for the deficiency to be made up. We cannot help thinking that it would have been better to have taxed the contributions of the public contractor to the party campaign fund rather than the sugar bowl—that is, to have cut down the estimates.

A FRENCH NOTION.

The bicycle claims all civilized countries for its own, and its claim has become so pressing in France that a law fully recognizing the claim is proposed. Some of its provisions would fit the situation in this country as well as in France. The French plan provides that the present tax on bicycles is to be abolished. Every pedestrian will be required to procure at the "maire" of his "arrondissement" a permit to walk. These permits must be renewed annually and a fee will be charged for them. With each permit, will be issued a numbered metal plate which the pedestrian, while in the street must always wear on the front of his hat band. Every pedestrian shall supply himself with a bell and a whistle which he must sound when meeting or passing a bicyclist on the sidewalk and always while crossing a street, whether or not a bicyclist is in sight at that time. At night he must also carry lighted lanterns on his breast and back. No pedestrian within the limits of a city or incorporated village shall walk more rapidly than at the rate of two miles an hour. France shall be entirely leveled so that the public may be saved the annoyance and fatigue of hill climbing. A man with a straight back shall be regarded as a suspicious person and kept constantly under surveillance by the police. Any pedestrian who by reason of his awkwardness, negligence or being alive, shall, by getting himself run over, or otherwise disturb, impede, annoy, or inconvenience a cyclist, or cause damage or risk of damage to rider or wheel, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and punished by a fine of 5,000 francs. On a second conviction he shall be imprisoned for life.

France will be a good country for the wheelmen and wheelwomen when this plan is carried out.

ODDITIES OF GREAT ARTISTS.

Making Pictures on Bedclothes and Tablecloths Among Their Friends.

Like many other great artists, Paul Veronese had his eccentric moods and peculiar habits. He was the last of the great Venetian painters, confining his work almost entirely, as many of the old masters did, to religious subjects. His most celebrated work, "The Marriage Feast at Cana of Galilee," now hangs in the Louvre in Paris. He was not intended for an artist, but a sculptor, which profession his father followed. His uncle, however, taught him painting, and at 37 years of age he was living at Venice, both famous and wealthy. Though 50 years the junior of Titian, who was the then famous painter of the time, he was held in equal admiration. Paul adopted the name Veronese after the city where he was born—Verona.

Once he was making a long visit to friends in their beautiful country villa, where he assumed great liberties, claiming among other things absolute possession of his bedroom, which he did not allow even the maid-servant to enter. He made the bed himself, swept the room and put the rubbish outside the door for her to remove. He slipped away, too, without bidding farewell to his host or hostess. On entering the room afterward the servant found the sheets missing and told her mistress that the guest must have stolen them. After a careful search a roll was found in the corner, which proved to be a magnificent picture of "Alexander in the Tent of Darius" painted on the various sheets of the bed, which the artist had worked upon to reward his friends for their kind attentions. To keep his secret he had pretended to take care of his room, and to avoid their thanks he had taken "French leave."

Melissier had become celebrated and was beginning to make money when he was invited to dine with a Parisian banker, who was wealthy, fond of posing as a patron of art, and who was rather penurious. Once when breakfasting with him Melissier was impressed with the fitness of the texture of the tablecloth.

"One could really draw upon it," he said smilingly, and producing a pencil he made upon the snowy surface a wonderful sketch of a man's head. The banker, delighted, had the head cut out at once, framed and glazed to preserve it.

A few weeks afterward Melissier was again breakfasting with the same friend, who had placed by the plate of his guest crayons, a pen-knife, india rubber and brushes. While the other guests were enjoying their coffee and cigarettes the happy host saw his artist friend hard at work upon the tablecloth, this time producing a small but perfect full length picture of a medieval halberdier. The guests dispersed and the host with them. Soon he returned to secure his treasure, but Melissier had used the knife to good purpose and cut off the corner of the tablecloth containing the picture. The host felt the rebuke most keenly, but dared not say a word.—Philadelphia Press.

Germany.

Regulations and bylaws of all sorts appear to add a zest to German existence. If there is a bridge or toll-gate, the notices there posted state that the officials in charge will not have to pay anything when they go across. I have seen a bridge with a special tariff for each animal—so much for a horse to cross, so much for a goose or turkey! Level crossings on the railways are very common, but not very dangerous, owing to the pace of the foreign train. However, when an official is kept all day to let down the barrier and keep people back, it is also thought necessary to put up an enormous cast iron notice requesting the public to "halt at the shut barrier."

It is difficult to pass such a combination of obstruction, but one can do so by jumping over the barrier—a feat which causes as much surprise as if one were to walk on one's head in England. Not much is expected of the German traveler in the way of agility. He is warned in the trains that he "jumps off and on at his own peril." Another characteristic notice which they contain is the request "not to spit, out of consideration for fellow travelers."—Gentleman's Magazine.

His Virtue.

The late Rev. Dr. Lord of Buffalo officiated at the funeral of one of Buffalo's notoriously rich and wicked citizens. After noting the deceased's parentage and date of birth, he closed his tribute by saying, "Our dead friend had one noble virtue. He always got up early in the morning."—San Francisco Argonaut.

A FOUR ROOM ADDITION

GENTLEMEN.—Your Property Committee beg leave to report as follows regarding the furnishing of more school accommodation for the public schools that since the last meeting of the Board, with the opening of spring, a still larger number of children have presented themselves for admittance to the public schools for which the present rooms are all together inadequate to accommodate. In the south ward there will be required nine rooms allowing 20 pupils to each room; the west ward and Central school are also overcrowded. In view of all these facts and wishing to consult the universal public opinion to avoid as much as possible all unnecessary expense but having in view the absolute necessity of enlarged school accommodation have decided to recommend for your approval the addition to the South Ward of four rooms instead of two rooms, this to cost with furniture about $6,500. The strong claims in favor of this scheme presents itself to us under the following heads:

1. EFFICIENCY. As we have been strongly advised by the principals of the Central and South Ward schools that better grading and better work can be done in a large school than in a few roomed school. We also think that a higher grade should be taught in the South Ward who of them is possible at present owing to the limited number of rooms.

2. ECONOMY. The estimated cost of a new school, purchasing ground and furnishing rooms is $11,000. Deduct from this $4,500 for the proposed addition leaves a balance of $6,500. Add to this the salary for janitor of new school $250 per annum, difference in salary of an extra principal and salary of an ordinary teacher $275 and $180 for extra fuel and cost of maintenance will mean an additional annual expense of $675, equivalent to $14,000 balance between cost of addition and new school and it makes an addition of $12,325 to the public school indebtedness. In view of these facts:

1st. Efficiency; 2. economy; and while the new school offers an advantage, next to a few of the remote residents of the South Ward and possibly enlarged playground for the children, we feel strongly that we are consulting the best interests of the ratepayers in recommending the addition to the present South Ward school and would recommend immediate action in this line, and that the town council be requested to take such steps without delay as they may consider necessary to furnish the Board of Education with the money to enable them to proceed with the work.

Also that the Property Committee be instructed to have working plans and specifications prepared, and to ask for tenders for the erection and completion of the same by the close of the midsummer holidays.

days and on receipt of the tenders to report to a special meeting of the Board to be called by the chairman as soon as the Property Committee can report that they are prepared to proceed with the proposed addition.

Trustee Law opposed the adding of the rooms to this school, and challenged the figures quoted as the probable cost in the Property Committee's report. He moved in amendment the following which was seconded by Trustee Denno:

"That the board proceed to build a school in the South Ward on the Landy lot or any other adjacent lot and have the same completed ready for occupancy by the 1st of September, 1895, and that the Town Council be requested to furnish by way of debentures the sum of nine thousand dollars for the said purpose of buying the lot, and erecting the said building.

The amendment was lost when put to a vote. The Property Committee's report was then carried as read.

WILL BE VOTED UPON.

Trustee Hill moved, seconded by Trustee McKee, that the Municipal Council of the Town of Peterborough be, and they are hereby required to raise or borrow the sum of $6,500 for the building of a 4 room addition to the South Ward school, and if necessary to submit the question to the electors of the municipality, who are supporters of public schools in the manner provided by the municipal act for the creating of debts, and that the secretary forward a copy of the resolution to the town council.

The motion was carried and the Board then adjourned.

Piles! Piles! Itching Piles.
Sufferers!—do not despair; intense itching and stinging; most at night; worse by scratching. If allowed to continue tumors form, which often bleed and absorb, becoming very sore. SWAYNE'S OINTMENT stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulcers, and in most cases removes the tumors. At drug stores, or by mail for 50 cents. Dr. Swayne & Son, Philadelphia. Purified Blood Saved an operation in the following case. Hood's Sarsaparilla cures when all others fail. It makes pure blood.

"A year ago my father, William Thompson, was taken suddenly ill with inflammation of the bladder. He suffered a great deal and was very low for some time. At last the doctor said he would not get well unless an operation was performed. At this time we read about Hood's Sarsaparilla and decided to try it. Before he used half a bottle his appetite had come back to him, whereas before he could eat but little. When he had taken three bottles of the medicine he was as well as ever." FRANCIS J. A Metal Breadboard

THE WOMAN WHO HAS BEEN USED to kneading dough, the old fashioned wooden breadboard knows what a bother it is to get them clean and how cumbersome and heavy they are. When they begin to crack or check it is almost impossible to thoroughly clean them, and they may easily become dangerous conveyors of disease.

It is a good idea to have a metal breadboard, which is of the greatest labor-saver imaginable. It is light, does not absorb grease, dough does not stick to it and while it possesses all the advantages of the marble breadboard it is much cheaper and of course, far lighter and easier to handle. If readers want to confer a favor upon their wives that will be forever appreciated, let them send for the metal breadboard at 101 Bay Street, Toronto, for one of these boards.

Again wanted in every town and country in the Dominion, $100 to $200 a month easily made

The Times.

PETERBOROUGH, MAY 9 1895.

Good morning.

A man was recently fined $10 in the Toronto Police Court for preparing veal for the market that was unfit for human food. The penalty was altogether inadequate. If imprisonment is allowable for such an offence, imprisonment should be ordered. The man who offers food for sale that is unfit for use is guilty of a much more serious wrong than the woman who steals a few articles of finery from the bargain counter of a dry goods store.

LAW REFORM.

The Hamilton Spectator asks what chance has the poor man against a wealthy corporation in the Canadian law courts and cites a case in point.

A Toronto motorman was injured while on duty. He sued the company in the York county court and got a verdict for $500.

The company appealed to the divisional court and again the motorman won.

The company appealed to the court of appeal. The poor motorman was penniless and couldn't follow his rich opponent to that court. The Toronto News took up the case, asked for subscriptions for the motorman, and realized enough money to enable the motorman to carry on his defence. He won again.

The company has now appealed to the supreme court of Canada, and the News is asking the public for money. It is to be hoped the generous public will come to the rescue. But if the motorman wins again, the company will, of course, appeal to the privy council of England, whither the penniless motorman may not be able to follow.

The most remarkable thing about this case—the scheme of appealing from court to court to beat a moneyless litigant—is unfortunately too common to be remarkable—is the fact that the judges of three courts decided the case in the same way—in favor of the motorman. He must indeed have a strong case, when the judges of three distinct courts found themselves able to agree that his claim was just.

But is it not abominable that such a condition of affairs should be permitted to exist; that a powerful and rich corporation should have the power to escape just payment by worrying its unfortunate creditor through court after court, he having no money to follow and lay his just claim before the successive courts? While the Dominion government is in the economical mood, it might abolish the supreme court of Canada. That court has been found to be of no practical use whatever; it is simply an expensive toll-gate on the road to the British privy council; it is a burden upon the people, and should be entirely abolished as soon as possible. It costs the country a large sum of money in salaries of judges and officials, and costs the unfortunate litigants who are dragged before it enormous sums in costs. And all to no purpose. Nobody regards the decision of the supreme court of Canada as being final; nobody can conjecture from the decision of that court what the result will be when the case is taken to the British privy council. There is absolutely no excuse for its existence.

At least half the other courts through which the unfortunate motorman is being dragged ought likewise to be abolished, or, at the very least, the power of appeal should be limited to one move.

It is scandalous that an unfortunate man cannot collect a $500 debt from a wealthy company, without being dragged through court after court until his $500 and many thousands more are eaten up in costs, counsel fees and expenses. It is an outrage.

IN A SAFETY DEPOSIT VAULT.

It is an Immense Strongbox, With Patent Locks and Fire-Resisting Walls.

One usually thinks of a vault either as a dark and dismal place, such as that which was referred to in the scintillating debate upon the Stanislaus, or as a stuffy chamber with an iron door and a time lock in which money, papers and other valuables are stored away.

To one who has this idea a visit to the safety deposit vaults in one of the great office buildings of Chicago would be a revelation. The highest form of the safety deposit vault is a dream of marble halls, mahogany furniture and rich upholstery. The aim is to make the place as attractive and convenient as possible for its patrons. The space occupied by the safety vault is comparatively small to that given up to the reception rooms, the broad hallways and the private apartments. For $5 per year you have not only the use of a box for your papers and valuables, but all the other privileges of the establishment. There are long rows of rooms with small desks supplied with stationery in which you may do your writing, larger rooms with desks for conferences between two individuals and still larger ones with long tables, at which a meeting of directors of a company or corporation can be held. Ceiling, floor and walls are of white marble; the place is lighted by clusters of ground glass electric lights of most artistic design, and the entire appointments are in keeping.

One section of the establishment is given up to conference rooms for women. The reception room in this department is especially handsome and the manager of the vault in one of the newest office buildings is making a special effort to popularize the place as a down town rendezvous for fashionable women. Women are coming more and more to patronize these deposit vaults as places of safe keeping for their jewels. Such an arrangement is not inconvenient, as the owner can be driven down town in her carriage at any time, get her gems for use that night, and return them next morning.

They are put beyond the reach of the most enterprising burglar. If the city was in a state of siege the precautions against the unlawful entrance of the vault could not be more elaborate. If you have business there, you are first of all admitted through a steel gate into the hallway. Then you must apply to the man in charge for his key, because although you have two different keys to get into your box, it requires still a third to open it. Then another steel gate is unlocked with the tap of a bell, which calls everybody's attention to the fact, and you are inside the vault proper, where with your two keys and that of the clerk you can open your box. This vault is lined with steel and surrounded with walls two feet thick. These walls are strung with wires so that if an attempt should be made to cut through, the severing of any of these wires would ring an alarm at the central police station. The vault is so constructed that a fire might burn the building down without injuring the contents of the little steel boxes. When the doors are closed, it is water tight, so that a flood of water could be poured out about and around it without any damage being done. At night there are two men on guard, one with a revolver of adult caliber and another with a winchester rifle.—Chicago Tribune.

An Arrested Execution.

A hanging was once averted in Hall county, this state, in an unexpected manner. A man was murdered for his money, it was thought. He disappeared, and after a long search only a skeleton was found. There were circumstances pointing to another man as the perpetrator of the awful deed. The clow was taken up, and one by one the links in the chain of convicting evidence were discovered. He was placed on trial, convicted and sentenced. The day for the hanging came. People by thousands came to see a human being swung off into eternity. The black cap was placed over the victim's face, and in five minutes the tragedy would have been over. Just then a tall mountaineer who had been attracted to the hanging along with the crowd stepped upon the scaffold, and a brief colloquy between him and the sheriff ensued.

The tall mountaineer was the man who had disappeared, and whose death was about to be avenged by law.—Atlanta Constitution.

Kills and Fork.

It was in 1870. A gardener was very much annoyed at having a Prussian soldier quartered upon him. The latter noticed it, and at dinner time laid his table beside him on the table with a look full of meaning. The host said never a word, but went out of the room and shortly afterward returned with a huge hayfork, which he placed next to the soldier. The soldier got red in the face, but the other remarked quite unabashed:

"I thought that with so big a knife you wanted a fork to match."—Croix.

THE AUBURN BRIDGE.

After the reading of the above report, Councillor Brady arose and said it was passing strange the way Mr. Best did things. A month ago Mr. Best, as chairman of the Street and Bridge Committee, had had the question of the Auburn bridge laid over for one month in order that he might bring in a report upon it.

Councillor Best replied that he asked that the matter be left in abeyance in order to see whether or not the Street Railway intended crossing the river at that point.

At this juncture a lively discussion took place between the Mayor and Councillor Best. The Mayor distinctly stated that the erection of this bridge was not sought for by the Auburn Woollen Mills. Councillor Best, he said, had indicated that it was in the interest of the Auburn Company. The Mayor was emphatic in asserting that the Auburn Company did not care whether the bridge was built or not.

CHARITY COMMITTEE.

To the Mayor and Council of the Town of Peterborough:

GENTLEMEN.—Your committee beg leave to report as follows:

1. We recommend that no orders for charity be recognized unless signed by the chairman of the committee.

2. We recommend that during the absence of the chairman, Councillor Sprague be appointed acting chairman.

3. The amount expended by your committee in charity up to the end of April is $1,002.62 as compared with $1,489.38 during the same month last year. This together with the saving of the salary of the Relief Officer, represents a saving in the four months of $184, although this has been a hard winter.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

JOSE S. VEREA, Chairman.

Classes one of the above report, on motion of Councillor Dawson, seconded by Councillor Brady, was struck out. The report was then adopted.

THE JOINT COMMITTEE.

To the Mayor and Council of the Town of Peterborough:

GENTLEMEN.—Your Joint Committee beg leave to report that in accordance with a resolution of the council passed on February 22nd last, a deputation from this council together with a deputation from South Monaghan visited Ottawa on May 3rd inst., in regard to the proposed bridge over the Ottawa river at Ross's. The deputation was introduced to the Minister of Railways and Canals by Messrs James Stevenson, M.P., and John Burnham, M.P., and was cordially received by the minister. From the assurances received from the Minister your committee is confident that a grant will be made by the Dominion towards the construction of the bridge.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

M. PHILAN, Chairman.

The report was adopted as read.

The following motion moved by Councillor Cahill provoked much discussion, but carried by 5 votes to 3 when put to a vote.

Moved by Councillor Cahill, seconded by Councillor Mills, that the question of building a bridge over the Ottawa river at Ross's be referred to the Finance Committee with a view of taking such steps as may be found advantageous to provide the necessary funds for the building of such bridge without unduly increasing the taxes for the current year. And that the committee be authorized to confer with the Commissioners of the Town Trust for that purpose and also with parties who may be interested in the construction of said bridge and who may be willing to contribute to such bridge in cash, right of way, or otherwise, and if funds can be produced the bridge shall be built under the supervision of the Street and Bridge Committee.

THE FOUR ROOM ADDITION.

Councillor Cahill submitted a bylaw providing for the raising of $5,500 for the construction of the four room addition of the South Ward school, as requested by the Board. The by-law was given a first reading and was then left over until a special meeting of the Council which will be called shortly. In the meantime a special committee consisting of Councillors Best, Dawson, Brady and Cahill will consult with the Property Committee of the Board of Education.

On motion of Councillor Cahill the Mayor was instructed to call a meeting of the Council as a Committee of the Whole at any date deemed convenient, to confer with manufacturers, and that members of the Board of Trade be invited to attend.

A motion authorizing the purchase of supplies for street work was made by Councillor Best and carried.

The Council then adjourned.

The Missing Girls.

The two daughters of Mr. and Mrs.

disappearance was published in yesterday's whereabouts are still unknown. Any the girls will confer a favor upon their parents by telephoning either the police

Fish and Fishing.

The Port Hope Guide says: "Never before in the history of Port Hope has there been so much ill-fortune in the present season. It is an open secret that jack lights can be seen sitting to and fro every night, and even in the broad daylight fish are successfully killed and carried off. The government, in removing Mr. Gilechrist, made a grave mistake if his intention was to preserve the fish in Lake Huron. The removal of a tributary thereof, as the present fishery inspector is a conspicuous failure."

Excursion to Idylwild.

The energetic passenger agent of the Peterborough Navigation Company, Mr.
John Martin, has already booked a number of excursionists to Lake Huron. The last to leave the City of Peterborough for an excursion is the Otonabee Lodge 221, L.O.L., of which Mr. Joseph Saunders is master.
The excursion will take place on June 5, and will doubtless be one of the most enjoyable of the season. Otonabee Lodge has 65 members and 30 new members will be initiated shortly. These friends of the orange order are especially suggested not to forget the date—June 5.

The Benefit Concert.

The reserved seat plan for the Electric Works employees' benefit concert is open at Bellamy's book store and is rapidly filling up. The concert will be held tomorrow night in the opera house, with the Fire Brigade Band in attendance. The program is one of varied excellence and no doubt the concert will be one of the best of the season. There should be a crowded house to-morrow night. The employees deserve and are in need of a substantial benefit. The citizens will have no better opportunity of showing their appreciation of the employees' action during the recent trouble than by attending the concert tomorrow night.

A RABBIT CAUSED DEATH.

Mr. Thomas Lush Dies From Blood Poisoning From a Rabbit's Bite.

The many friends of Mr. Thomas Lush, who for a number of years has conducted a bakery on Edinburgh street, will be pained to learn of his sudden and strange death which occurred at 1.30 o'clock yesterday afternoon.
Mr. Lush kept a number of tame rabbits which he took much pleasure in raising and attending. A week ago Tuesday while handling one of the little animal turned on him viciously and bit him on the hand, drawing the blood. Mr. Lush thought very little of the wound and beyond washing it and bandaging it, paid no attention to it. On Wednesday, however, his hand began to swell and on Thursday
Mr. Lush was forced to take to his bed.
Blood poisoning set in at once, and despite the best medical attendance, became so aggravated that on yesterday it caused the death of the deceased. The case is a most strange one and certainly very sad.
Deceased was well and widely known in Peterborough and has a wide circle of friends who deeply sympathize with his relatives in their loss. He was one of the foremost members of Lansdowne Lodge, No. 28, S.O.E. The funeral will take place at 2.30 o'clock this afternoon under the auspices of that order.

Sporting Editor Times.

DEAR SIR,—With regard to a letter which appeared in yesterday's Times regarding the proposed match between the Vaticans and Peterboroughs, I might be said that the management of the Peterborough B.C.C.
does not wish to enter into a newspaper controversy with a team they do not consider their equals, but will play any day the Vaticans wish, and with the regulation nine men, if necessary, only to convince the Vatican boys that we have nine men.

TOWN COUNCIL MEETING.

NUMEROUS IMPORTANT MATTERS DISCUSSED AND DISPOSED OF.

The Application of the Bicycle Club for a Grant of $500 Refused—The By-law Providing for School Houses Read a First Time—The Highway Bridge at Auburn Again Discussed.

At the regular meeting of the Town Council last night there were present
Mayor Keady in the chair, and Councillors
Cahill, Bell, Deane, Mills, Phelan, Dawson, Clinkscale, Stone, and Brady.

COMMUNICATIONS.

The following communications were read and disposed of:

From numerous ratepayers asking that George street, between Argyle and Victoria avenue, and that portion of Water street from the G. T. R. crossing to the terminus of the Street Railway, be watered.

The above communication provoked an exhaustive discussion. The mayor thought the streets upon which the street cars ran should be watered their entire length. He was in favor, if it was for the convenience of citizens, to have another watering cart put on. Councillor Dawson vigorously opposed any such suggestion, and twitted
the mayor for being extravagant.

Mr. O'Brien, a ratepayer was heard in reference to street watering on Aymer street.

Councillor Brady thought he could arrange it with the street waterer to attend to the section named in the communication, and the matter was left in his hands.

From Rebecca Hartley asking for remittance of taxes on cottage on Stewart street.
Court of Revision.

From Edwards & Murray enclosing draft of bylaw to raise the sum of $8,500 for the purpose of building a four room addition to the South Ward school. Received.

From R. N. Green, calling attention to the market which needed a few loads of gravel to level it off Street and Bridge Committee with power to act.

From J. Green in reference to a freight shed erected by the C.P.R. south of Wolfe street and west of George street, and drawing attention to the damage to the property which he claims is blocked and obstructed. Received.

From T. F. Matthews asking that a hydrant be placed at the corner of George and Wolfe streets, the company having had an eight inch main extended through their premises. Received.

From a number of ratepayers requesting that portion of Aymer street between the rink and the lake be watered by the street watering cart. Street and Bridge Committee.

From the Peterborough Bicycle Club and Driving Park Association, stating that they had received sanctions for race meets on June 14th, Aug. 15th (Civic Holiday), and also for one day's racing on the American Circuit on Aug. 31st, and requesting the Council to make them a grant of $500 to apply on the purchase of prizes.

Mr. Geo. J. Horkins was heard in connection with the above communication.
After getting the sanctions the club decided to turn their track into a cycle track only. They were prepared to buy out the Driving Park Association rights.
He spoke of the many advantages of having the events here, stating that they would undoubtedly attract a large number of visitors.

Councillor Dawson wanted to know if the council was empowered to gamble the people's money away in bicycle races, etc.

Councillor Brady thought it was wise to keep the citizens at home, and moved in amendment that the council grant the bicycle club the sum of $350. On a vote the amendment was lost.

Councillor Mills then moved that the club be granted the sum of $350. This motion was ruled out of order. The club will therefore not get the grant.

From Mr. Lagier asking for a remittance of taxes. Court of Revision.

From Joseph Mitchell asking permission to erect a barber's pole, opposite 131 Stanley street. Street and Bridge Committee with power to act.

From Jas. McWilliams asking for remittance of dog tax. Court of Revision.

From Mr. W. Fitzgerald calling attention to over assessment on his town property, which has been assessed in 1894 at a lot property when it should have been assessed as farm land. He asked for a remittance of the amount representing the difference. Referred to the Court of Revision with instructions to report to council.

Mr. Matthews was heard in connection with the communication regarding the removal of a water hydrant. The directors of the company felt they had not sufficient fire protection and were desirous of having the present hydrant moved. It simply meant the expense of removing it.

Councillor Dawson opposed the request stating that the Matthews Company was amplified.

On motion of Councillor Phelan, seconded by Councillor Brady, the request of the Matthews Company was granted.

JOHN NEWTON WILLIAMS

Eminent Inventor of the Williams Typewriter Owes Strength and Health to Paine's Celery Compound

The old-time visionary inventor has given place to the practical, hard working professional inventor of today.

The successful inventor must now be a business man as well as a man of mechanical ideas.

The high tension of the nervous system,
often kept up for months and months, makes tremendous drafts on the health of those busy brain workers. Many succumb to nervous prostration when they seem just on the point of surmounting every difficulty.

Of all the countless recent useful inventions none has passed through so many or so rapid a course of improvements as the typewriter. Today, the latest perfected machine is undoubtedly the Williams Typewriter, which represents a vast amount of cumulative invention.

Many of the best commercial houses and large corporations in Canada are now using the Williams Typewriter. This perfected machine has also been adopted by some departments of the British and Canadian governments.

John Newton Williams, its inventor, was born in 1845, in Brooklyn, N.Y. He spent his early manhood on the western frontier.

Subsequently he settled in Kentucky, where he became known as one of the most successful stock breeders in the state.

But it is as an inventor that he has won his national reputation. Several most useful and important inventions were made by him before he produced the Williams typewriter, a machine that probably excels all others in the most important features.

Mr. Williams, speaking of the labor expended in bringing the machine that bears his name to its present perfection, says:

"Some four years ago, when engaged in experimental work on the 'Williams,' I was putting in about 16 hours per day of hard work and worry, and came near breaking down. Although very particular and regular in my habits and careful about eating, my stomach troubled me. It was difficult to eat, and more difficult to digest and assimilate my food, my stomach acting in sympathy with an over worked brain.

A friend had sent some Paine's Celery Compound to one of my business associates, and knowing him personally, and seeing what it did for him, I thought I would try it. I commenced taking it before breakfast, and it at once stimulated my appetite and aided digestion. I took two bottles and was much benefited.
"Again, two years later I was troubled with nervousness and indigestion, and again took Paine's Celery Compound with great benefit. My wife, after her long illness last summer, and severe nervous prostration, and some trouble from indigestion, concluded to try Paine's Celery Compound, a few weeks ago, and she is now taking it with steady improvement.
Several of my friends have taken it on my recommendation, and are now practical believers in its great restorative powers.
I have found the Celery Compound a tonic and restorative that I could lean upon with confidence in time of trouble."
Paine's Celery Compound makes people well! As a spring remedy it is unsurpassed.

DURWARD LELY To-Night

CHANDOS.

From our own correspondent.

The ranks of the bachelors of Chandos are thinning. The last to forsake was Mr. Chas. Rusaw, (eldest son of our esteemed citizen, Mr. P. Rusaw,) who, on Wednesday last, was united in the bonds of matrimony to Miss Nettie Ried, of St. Oia. Only the immediate friends of the contracting parties were present.
Who'll be next?

One evening last week our usually quiet community was excited over the intelligence, that a robbery had been committed. The police turned out, but it proved to be a false alarm. The fish had only fallen off the wagon. Better look around next time, Charley.

Mr. John Doxie had a narrow escape on Sunday last. When he was returning from near Coe Hill, when his horses took fright and the buggy striking a stone, he was precipitated into the ditch. No further damage was done. Rumor says that John was out of sorts that morning.
Do not be discouraged; better luck next time, John.

Terpsichore was honored last Wednesday evening. It being the occasion of Mr. Doxie's logging bee, several of the elite of Chandos repaired thither in the evening and "tripped the light fantastic" until "we sma" hours warned them it was time to disperse.

Will the unhung villain who stole those fish return them and save trouble?

The Times.

PETERBOROUGH, MAY 10 1895.

Good morning.

One of the proposed two-wheel or "bicycle" railways from New York to Washington promises a speed of 120 miles an hour as a result of the use of electricity and the minimizing of friction.

Queen Victoria's reign, if it lasts two years longer, will be the longest of any European sovereign in the whole list. And what a tranquil reign it has been for these many years.

It is all very well for our preachers and other guardians of morality to inveigh against the brutality of public sparring-matches; but it should be remembered that there is more brutality in an ordinary football match than in a score of sparring matches—and more danger, too.

If the assailant of Li Hung Chang was moved by a belief that the Chinese viceroy was responsible for the war and that his death would secure the return of peace, as recent dispatches state, he was not a true Japanese. The Japs have found fighting China too easy to wish for a return of peace before they enter Peking.

In Italy in the last ten years 947 duels have been fought over newspaper articles, 730 on account of rivalry in love, 377 for political differences, 289 for insulting words, and the smallest number, 19, for disputes at cards. According to the figures, journalists are most apt to fight, and actors least of those who fought at all, but there is not a single banker or capitalist in the list.

In the current number of Scribner's Magazine, Joseph Wetzler gives it as his opinion that the electric locomotive will eventually supersede the steam machine. His prediction is interesting, when taken in connection with the completion of a new type of the electric engine by the Baldwin shops in Philadelphia. The general use of such locomotives is only a matter of time, in all probability. In use upon the London Underground Railroad they will run 60,000 miles without costing a single penny for repairs. They are far simpler than are steam locomotives.

On the island of Pantellaria midway between Sicily and the African coast, Dr. Orsi has discovered a prehistoric village of the stone age surrounded by a colossal wall made of stones heaped together. He has also found out that the strange buildings called Sesi are dome-shaped prehistoric tombs, and has identified the remains of a small Greek temple. The island lies completely out of the way of travel, and is used by the government as a convict settlement.

"Hould on," exclaimed Pat, as he saw the train departing without him; "there's a man aboard that you've left behind." A startling omission of a different kind occurred at Pittsburg, Pa., recently, when a funeral party in one of Pittsburg's suburbs arrived at the church where the funeral services were to take place to find that the corpse had been left behind at the railroad station ten miles away. The undertaker drove across the country for the body, and the weary funeral party remained in waiting at the church until he returned with the remains several hours later.

FOUL AIR AS A GERM GARDEN.

Good Sanitation a Prime Necessity as a Defense Against Disease Germs.

The development of the germs so fatal to humanity when taken into the system is an effort of nature to destroy and really eat up effete matter. The grub and maggot, disgusting as they are, are true scavengers, and if sufficient time be allowed them they will reduce to innocuous dust the most poisonous of animal and vegetable matter. We regard the creatures with abhorrence because of their occupation, but they are laboring, albeit unconsciously, in the interest of higher forms of life.

When disease generating matter has passed through the digestive canal of the pupa it is no longer infectious. In the undrained and filthy portions of a city the foul matter is constantly accumulating far beyond the corrective powers of unaided nature. Deadly gases are cast off from festering heaps, vapors charged with microscopic germs that hatch fearful ailments in that weak mechanism, man's body. But even where the system is not directly affected by germ diseases the influence of the foul gases—why we do not fully understand as yet—tends to lower vitality to such a degree that the subject is always in good condition to take a fever of the typhoid class, scarlatina, diphtheria, etc.

Professor Alossi's experiments show that a person who has lived in foul air for a considerable time will get any one of the fatal germ diseases much more readily than one who has breathed pure air and only absorbs the germs by accident. Professor Alossi has proved that the same is true with animals. He placed a number of dogs, pigs, etc., in such a situation that they were compelled to live for some weeks in an atmosphere saturated with the noxious vapors from garbage heaps. These he inoculated with the typhoid bacillus, at the same time inoculating a similar number of animals which had been brought direct from the pure air of a rural district.

The first lot died, some of them in 36 hours, with unmistakable typhoid symptoms, while not one of the second lot was affected. It was observed, however, that when the rural animals began to breathe the infected air they began at once to show signs of weakness and lassitude. They lost their liveliness and grew glassy eyed and though they continued to eat they became poor in flesh.

There is a grim significance in these facts which should teach us the lesson that good sanitation is a prime necessity, not only as a defense against direct assaults of germ disease, but also against the lowering of the physical powers which opens the system not only to the bacillus, but to all the other foes which lie in wait to destroy life.—Chicago Times-Herald.

Flesh Food.

The late Frank Buckland, the naturalist, maintained that all flesh was eatable. He sought to give proof of this statement by tasting the meat of all the animals, reptiles and birds which he encountered in his career. He found the flesh of the rattlesnake delicate and succulent. That of the blacksnake was not so good. Lizards were unexceptionable, while panther chops were not equal to those of pork, with which they had an affinity. The finest eating was furnished by elephants' feet baked in a hole in the ground, according to the mode in vogue in Africa.

In New Zealand, where grasshoppers are more than abundant, they are used for food by Europeans. This may suggest to the people of Kansas and adjacent states an agreeable change in the monotonous diet to which they are accustomed. Grasshoppers are pronounced a great delicacy in New Zealand when prepared according to the following formula: One bushel of the insects is immersed for two hours in one-half gallon of pork brine. The insects are then boiled in the liquid for 20 minutes; then thoroughly rinsed in warm water and placed in an oven to become crisp. When cold, the heads are removed, and they are ready to be eaten. The flavor is said to resemble that of shrimp.—New York Sun.

A Patient Waiter.

The other morning an English lady who desired to take the portrait of a ragged but "picturesque" Moor whom she met on the street got him in position, but found upon examination that she had neglected to bring an important part of her kodak. So she ran back to the hotel, two blocks away. She there met some dear friends from London who had just arrived, so she forgot all about the Moor and the kodak. After dinner, 8 o'clock, she remembered, so with an escort she hurried to the spot. There the old Moor sat, just as she had left him, facing the instrument.

"Long time take picture," he said. He had been there since 10 o'clock a.m. of that day, but the business of sitting still suited him. The English lady of course gave him a penny to go and buy a farm with.—Algiers Cor. Chicago Post.

INDIAN JUDGES.

The Sioux Have Three of Them, and They Have Some Funny Cases.

Sioux Indians in North Dakota have a court of their own, in which three judges dispense justice. They hold court in a large tepee embellished with many colored pictures of horses, oxen and eagles. Big Man, Black Elk and Sam White Bird are the judges. They wear store clothes, and Judge Mane sports a watch and chain. They are at liberty to call court for any hour of the day they see fit. When a session of court is called, the Indian agent sends out Indian policemen to notify witnesses to appear in court at the appointed time. If, when court meets, it is found that some of the witnesses summoned have failed to put in an appearance, Indian police are again sent out, and they never return without bringing in the person or persons they were sent after. The judges themselves examine the witnesses, displaying considerable ingenuity in drawing from the reluctant and laudible witness his or her testimony.

When the examination has been completed, the test is cleared, and the judges consult until they arrive at a decision. All offenses against common law as well as tribal laws, sun, scalp or war dances and the practicing of medicine men come before them for adjudication. A record of each case is carefully kept after the following fashion: "Chasing Crane was arrested by police for stealing Solomon Yellow Hawk's wife. Was sent up for 80 days at hard labor."

Bull Talker had a row with Mrs. White Deer, and she gave him an unmerciful drubbing. He was exceedingly cross after being whipped by a woman, but his wife was not to be trifled with and was not disposed to see her husband imposed upon and thrashed by Mrs. White Deer, so she had the amazon arrested on the charge of fighting and beating my husband. The trial was held in due time, the charges were sustained, and Mrs. White Deer was required to serve ten days in the agency jail. —New York Advertiser.

ON A CHERRY STONE.

A Talented Convict Carves There His Petition For a Pardon.

Gena Berger, the actor and newspaper man, has a picture in calligraphy that has a remarkable history. It is in size 30 by 48 inches and is the work of Joseph Loew, the most noted counterfeiter that the Austrian government ever knew.

When an application is made for a pardon in Austria, the red tape policy of that country compels the applicant to address the emperor with all his titles. Emperor Ferdinand had about 45 titles. Loew engraved all of these and together with his petition for a pardon, on a cherry stone.

The letters were so fine that it required the aid of a powerful microscope to decipher them. One day, when the emperor visited the prison, Loew in person presented a cherry stone to the emperor and told him what it contained. The emperor made an examination and was so amazed at the work that he gave him an unconditional pardon. Not only did he pardon him, but gave him a position as a detective to trail down counterfeiters. Loew was a well informed man in all the arts and rarities of counterfeiting, and in less than two years after his pardon he ran to the earth almost every counterfeiter in Austria and died a few years ago covered with detective honors. The picture, although made 80 years ago, is in a remarkable state of preservation. —Chicago Times.

Egypt's Cotton Crop.

Eight or ten years ago Egypt was insolvent. Today she is bristling with prosperity. The position of the cotton is constantly improving. The corvée is abolished, and the people have no more compulsory labor, except to keep the Nile within bounds at high flood, for which they are paid. The land taxes are gradually being reduced, and extortion and corruption seem to have been stamped out. She sells cotton enough to pay for the imported articles necessary to maintain her simple standard of life. It can't help thinking that cotton—or the money it produces—has played a part of no small importance in the work of administration that has brought all these blessings.

A birdseye view of the area of cotton cultivation would give the outline of a half open fan. From the point of the delta near Cairo it stretches nearly to Port Said on the northeast and beyond Alexandria on the northwest, this simile being helped by the great arc curving into the Mediterranean, the narrow strip devoted to cotton along the Nile from Cairo, 100 miles southward, forming the handle. This area is rimmed with innumerable canals, branching from the Rosetta and Damietta arms of the Nile, which distribute the vitalizing waters. —North American Review.

New Samson Would Fight Corbett.

Some one in the crowd asked Strong Man Samson if he had ever had a fight with a boxer.

"I never have," said the athlete, "but I thought one time of challenging Corbett, and for three months I hatched a theory of attack and defense. My family objected to my engaging in any such contest, and I abandoned the idea. My plan of conquering the champion pugilist was to reverse the tactics of all fighters, which is to keep out of reach of their opponent's arms, and to keep so close to him in the battle as to render it impossible for him to strike with his full power at arm's length. At the same time my scheme was to play on his arm and wrist and to disable him with a few well directed blows at those points. I thought of putting myself in training for three months or more, under the direction of a competent trainer. I'll guarantee that, if an experienced fighter will adopt my tactics, he can beat Corbett. I don't claim to be a pugilist, and a good boxer could undoubtedly knock me down despite my strength." —Washington Post.

Poor Tommy.

Belle—Why doesn't Tommy get married?
Nell (contemptuously)—Can't afford it.
Belle—Well, he and his wife could live on "bread and cheese and kisses," couldn't they?
Nell—Yes, they might, but Tommy hasn't been able to find any girl who could provide the necessary bread and cheese as yet. —Somerville Journal.

When the common earthworm is cut in two, to the tail there grows a head and to the head there grows a tail, and two animals are formed. As the wound heals a small white button is formed, which afterward develops into rings and a perfect extremity.

"Lectures" is the latest addition to our language. It comes from the land of "lady mayors" and lady painters, and seems to mean an informal talk—sort of froth of a lecture perhaps.

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

AN ALIBI FOR DURANT.

The Big Effort that his Lawyers are Making to get Him Off.

Special to The Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., May 8.—Theodore Durant's attorneys have discovered evidence which will enable them to establish an alibi for their client, as far as the Williams murder case is concerned.

A Market street hair dresser states that Minnie Williams was a regular patron. She says Miss Williams entered her shop at 8 o'clock on the night of her disappearance. She had her hair dressed, leaving the shop at 8.35. It is estimated that by taking the car immediately she could not have reached Emanuel Church until 8.50.

Durant's counsel argued that Durant could not therefore have accompanied her into the church, outraged and murdered her and then walked to Dr. Vogel's where he arrived at 9.15.

BOGUS MONEY COINERS.

A Gang Apprehended by the Police After the Line.

Special to The Times.

HILLDALE, Mich., May 8.—The United States authorities have arrested what they believe to be a gang of green goods and confidence men. According to the officers the gang have been operating for some time. Suspicion was first aroused by certain matter in the mails and Post Office Inspector Larmour has been here for about four weeks investigating. He was followed by Inspector Kerner, who represented himself as agent for a meiotic insurance company. Meanwhile Inspector Fraser kept up vigorous correspondence with the alleged gang and obtained a great deal of documentary evidence. Finally he met them in a room in the Keefe house and bought "green goods." At 10 o'clock this morning the agent was given and clerk Dodson of the Keefe house, Charles Ellis, Dan O'Meara and J. P. POND'S EXTRACT

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 29, 1894.
I have used "Pond's Extract" for many years and always insist upon my patients getting "Pond's," not the ordinary Extract, which is often a very poor article. W. K. BROWN, M. D.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 9, 1895.
I use Pond's Extract a great deal in my practice. I think it very valuable in all venous enlargements. J. L. BRADFORD, M. D.

SANTA BARBARA, CAL., Nov. 27, 1894.
I have been using Pond's Extract in my practice for twenty years. I frequently have the experience you mention of drugists insisting they can put up as good as yours. I don't believe it. I use Pond's Extract a great deal as an antiseptic in combination with glycerine and carbolic acid. I think it far superior to any antiseptic known. F. G. LOUNOV, M. D.

I have been a constant user of Pond's Extract since 1852, and do not expect to discontinue it while I live. S. ARMOR, M. D.

I have made diseases of the skin a specialty for thirty years, and am free to say I know of no remedy that has given me such perfect satisfaction as Pond's Extract in cases for which it is recommended. G. W. BARCOCK, M. D.

CAUGHT BY THE WATCHMAN.

A Tenant in the Nordheimer Building Held for Trespass.

Special to The Times.
TORONTO, May 9.—While patrolling his beat on Colborne street about 4.30 this evening, Private Watchman James McCracken noticed an express wagon drawn up to the rear of Nordheimer's. His suspicions aroused, he proceeded to investigate and found the rear window open with a quantity of goods piled up ready to be placed in the wagon. In answer to McCracken, the expressman said that he was moving the goods of a tenant of the building. In a room on the upper flat the watchman found Adolph Rheaume busy preparing to move out. McCracken closed up the window and locked Rheaume in the room until he communicated with Mr. Nordheimer, who instructed him to place the man under arrest. This he did and took Rheaume to Police Headquarters where a charge of trespass was registered against him.

The others were American crooks, and two of them were sentenced for thirty days. The others were run out of town.

Dynamite Plot.

LONDON, May 9.—The Standard's correspondent at Berlin says: "The two anarchists were arrested on the evidence of a woman who overheard them discussing the case with which the Emperor might be assassinated on his way to the Temple hotel. The woman declared they had buried explosives in Friedrichsberg, but the police found nothing at the spot indicated and obtained no evidence confirming the woman's story. The government papers are not likely to get much capital out of the affair to help the anti-socialist bill."

A. P. A. Convention.

MILWAUKEE, May 9.—The first session of the seventh meeting of the Supreme Council of the A. P. A. was called to order today in Liberty Hall, by Supreme President Trainer. Among the arrivals are five delegates from Canada, headed by Rev. J. C. Madill, of Saratoga. This movement is now in progress.

NEWFOUNDLAND AND UNION.

The Legislature, Not Having Canada's Reply, Will Adjourn for a Week.

Special to The Times.
St. John's, Nfld., May 9.—Up to yesterday afternoon the Newfoundland Government had not received answers from Great Britain and Canada in regard to confederation, and subsequently intend adjourning the Legislature today for another week.

A section of the public has become uneasy over this delay and even profess the belief that it is really preliminary to the final abandonment of the confederation plan altogether.

It is known as a fact that the Government is preparing a retrenchment scheme embodying a revision of the tariff, and by it anticipates bringing the expenditure below a million dollars yearly. It is stated that the adjustment of the tariff will realize $1,500,000, enabling the payment of interest on the public debt. The stumbling block to the success of this plan is the colony's present depressed condition financially. The floating debt of $2,000,000 is due June 30, and cannot be met without a loan, and this, it is believed, it will be impossible to secure.

The steamer Aurora, the last of the sealing fleet to return, arrived here today from her second trip with 1,000 seals. Her return ends one of the most successful catches on record.

Six Fatally Injured.

BALTIMORE, May 9.—Six persons were probably fatally burned by the explosion of a gasoline stove and the fire which followed in a sweat shop at 124 East Pratt street, this evening.

The explosion occurred in the third story of the building and but for the heroic conduct of Samuel Morris, a colored teamster, who heard the frenzied appeals for help, five of the unfortunates would not have been taken out alive from the street. Morris rushed up stairs and found the door of the sweat shop securely locked. He reached the verandah in front of the second story windows and called to the panic stricken inmates of the third story to jump. One woman had already jumped from the third story window to the street, with her clothing in flames.

The strength and pure blood necessary to resist the effects of cold seasons are given by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"I have for the last 35 years of my life been complaining of a weakness of the lungs and colds in the head, especially in the winter. Last fall I was again attacked. Reading of Hood's Sarsaparilla I was led to try it. I am now taking the fifth bottle with good results. I can positively say that I have not spent a winter as free from coughs or pains and difficult breathing spells for the last 35 years as was last winter. I can lie down and sleep all night without any annoyance from cough or pain in the lungs or a headache difficulty."

A WIFE'S AWFUL FIND UPON RETURNING TO HER HOME.

The Lifeless Body of Her Husband Suspended From the Ceiling—The Jury Thought Her Shamming.

Special to the Times.

TORONTO, May 8.

JOSEPH Edwards, aged 40, who earned a livelihood by sewing and mending, committed suicide at his residence, 24 Hayer street last evening. When Mrs. Edwards entered the house shortly after 7 o'clock she found her husband's dead body suspended by a piece of manila twine from a lamp hook in the centre of the dining room ceiling.

Edwards had stepped on a chair, tied the twine to the hook, slipped the noose around his neck and kicked the chair from under him. His feet were about a foot from the floor.

The woman rushed screaming into the street. Her cries attracted the attention of J. B. Ferguson, 93 Maitland street, and J. E. Carson, 214 Chestnut street, who were passing.

These men rushed in and cut the cord, but life had long since departed. The body was quite cold.

Edwards, his wife and R. W. Cater occupied the house in which the tragedy was committed, supporting themselves by sewing and laying carpets. Edwards had been in ill health for some time past, and was subject to epileptic fits. He was in the General Hospital up till a month ago.

Mrs. Edwards and Cater left the house at 1 o'clock yesterday to attend to some work. The woman was the first to return, hence her discovery of her husband's body.

Dr. Chambers was notified. He in turn acquainted Coroner Atkins.

An inquest will be held this evening.

THOUGHT AND SHAMMING.

The case of Mrs. Louisa Hibbert against Gilmare Brothers was begun at the Court House before Mr. Justice Ferguson and a jury on Monday and brought to a conclusion yesterday.

The plaintiff claimed damages for having been, as she alleged, struck on the head by an awning in front of the defendants' store in Yonge street, which fell on June 23 last. When the accident happened Mrs. Hibbert was taken into Stone's drygoods store, next door, and sent home in a carriage provided for her by the defendants. She was seen by Dr. Tenney, Dr. Sweetnam and Dr. Gilmare the same day, who were of opinion she had not been struck at all, and it was suggested she was shamming.

The judge carefully reviewed the evidence, but drew particular attention to the doctors' evidence, and the jury, after a short absence, returned a verdict in favor of the Gilmare Brothers.

Mr. Wilkie was plaintiff's counsel and Mr. Lash, Q. C., and Mr. Ridley defendants.

BELIEVE IN HIM YET.

OSCAR WILDE'S WIFE AND MOTHER THINK HE IS INNOCENT.

Exaggerated Cablegrams Cause Much Anxiety—Lady Wilde's Indignation—Wilde and His Brother.

LONDON, May 9.—It is generally understood here that Oscar Wilde will forfeit the bail bond given for his future appearance and leave the country.

In fact, it is boldly asserted that the amount of the bond is subscribed by the prominent political and social leaders with the understanding that he would quit the country, and that his flight would be covered and protected by diplomatic influence.

This same authority goes so far as to assert in the general gossip of the clubs throughout the kingdom that most persons are deeply interested in his flight, the scandal and seeing Wilde and his naughtiness well out of the public ken and no longer.

This desire is both political and social. There is a dread throughout the kingdom of a repetition of the disclosed formerly. These, it will be well remembered, affected the highest political and social men of the nation, and it is being urged now that a pressing of the Wilde prosecution will let in too much light on the social life of the aristocracy, and breed material for agitation.

A cablegram to several American papers has been repeated back to London today, and has precipitated a storm of indignation among the friends of Wilde.

The cablegram declares that Mrs. Wilde has applied for a divorce, and that she has custody of her children, and that she wanted an immediate hearing of the case. This is now stamped with the indignant disavowal of both Lady Wilde and Mrs. Wilde.

The latter is simply the ghost of her former self. The terrible timidity which her husband in the courts has almost prostrated her, but has not wiped out her belief and confidence in the morality and

FAITHFULNESS OF HER HUSBAND.

Mrs. Wilde has, however, closed their house at No. 16 Tite street and has gone to Torquay with her youngest son Cyril, to await the result of her husband's trial.

Torquay is the favorite resort of Oscar Wilde. Before his wife's departure for the famous watering place she assured the correspondent that she had not only had no intention of applying for a divorce, but that she was convinced the terrible charges against him were false, and that as soon as they were disproved by a verdict of a jury she would return to London and occupy apartments with her husband and children which she had already rented.

Mrs. Wilde is the guest in Torquay of Lady Mount Temple, who is not only devoted to Mrs. Wilde, but is also in love with her beautiful boy Cyril.

The elder son, Vivian, who is twelve years old, has been sent to the relatives of Lady Wilde in Ireland.

The gossip has it that this separation of the children is an indication of the separation of husband and wife, but this is vehemently

DENIED BY THE LATTER.

"I am not only convinced of my husband's innocence," protested Mrs. Wilde today, "but I am waiting with the utmost confidence to hear of the verdict in his favor, so that we can all be together again." The despatch to the United States, she declared that Oscar's mother, Lady Wilde, had deserted him, and had proclaimed her antipathy to him. This she denied today. "This cruel story," she said, "should be disproved by the very fact that I visited him in prison on the night of his arrest, and laid my fortune and faith at his feet. I know that my boy is innocent and that he is simply a victim of a social and political plot to ruin him."

"The charges against him should fall from the very fact of their infamous nature. Any one knowing Oscar Wilde, or even

An Old Lady Of Over 80 Years

HER RIGHT SIDE WAS BADLY PARALYZED

Her Sufferings Were Such That She Wished to Die

Paines' Celery Compound Saved Her Life and Renewed Her Strength

THE BEST MEDICINE FOR THE OLD AND YOUNG

It is now an established fact that our dear fathers and mothers and our grandparents can have their lives prolonged, and their years made happy and joyous by the use of Paine's Celery Compound.

Many old people suffer from nerve troubles, rheumatism, kidney and liver complaint, sleeplessness, and terrible paralysis. With such dangerous diseases clinging to them, they are liable to drop off at any moment.

If we are truly and honestly interested in the welfare of the old people, we will anxiously seek to use the agency that will best meet their troubles. In the past, thousands of our aged people have been rescued from death by Paine's Celery Compound, and are now enjoying a happy old age.

Every week new testimony is received from old people, as well as from their friends and relatives, lauding the strengthening and rejuvenating powers of earth's best medicine.

Mrs. James Cain, of Perott Settlement, N.S., now in her eighty-first year, has just sent in convincing and cheering testimony regarding the value of Paine's Celery Compound; she writes as follows:—

"I am happy to state that Paine's Celery Compound has been a great blessing to me. In November, 1883, the whole of my right side was paralyzed, and the doctor said I was too weak to take much medicine; I managed, however, to use a little, and was able to sit up for a short time, but felt so bad, that I wished to die, as I thought death would be a great relief to me.

"In my weak condition I began using Paine's Celery Compound. The first bottle gave me relief. I continued to use the compound, and I have gained health, strength and flesh, and my friends say I look quite healthy. Although in my eighty-first year, my limbs are getting stronger, and I hope soon to be quite myself again.

"I would advise all who are suffering from paralysis and other troubles to use Paine's Celery Compound and the 'Wills' English Pills that accompany the compound, and if properly used, they will surely cure."

NEWFOUNDLAND AND UNION.

The Legislature, Not Having Canada's Reply. Will Adjourn for a Week.

Special to The Times.

St. John's, Nfld., May 9.—Up to yesterday afternoon the Newfoundland Government had not received an answer from Great Britain and Canada in regard to confederation, and subsequently intend adjourning the Legislature today for another week. A section of the public has become uneasy over this delay and even profess the belief that it is really preliminary to the final abandonment of the confederation plan altogether.

It is known as a fact that the Government is preparing a retrenchment scheme embodying a revision of the tariff, and by it anticipates bringing the expenditure below a million dollars yearly. It is stated that the adjustment of the tariff will realize $1,500,000, enabling the payment of interest on the public debt. The stumbling block to the success of this plan is the colony's present depressed condition financially. The floating debt of $2,000,000 is due June 30, and cannot be met without a loan, and this, it is believed, it will be impossible to secure.

The steamer Aurora, the last of the sailing fleet to return, arrived here today from her second trip with 4,000 seals. Her return ends one of the most successful catches on record.

CAUGHT BY THE WATCHMAN.

A Tenant in the Nordheimer Building Held for Trespass.

Special to The Times.

TORONTO, May 9.—While patrolling his beat on Colborne street about 9.30 last evening, Private Watchman James McCracken noticed an express wagon drawn up to the rear of Nordheimer's. His suspicions aroused, he proceeded to investigate and found the rear window open, with a quantity of goods piled up ready to be placed in the wagon. In the meantime McCracken, the expressman said that he was moving the goods of a tenant of the building. In a room on the upper flat the watchman found Adolphe Rheame busy preparing to move out. McCracken called up the windows and locked Rheame in the room until he communicated with Mr. Nordheimer, who instructed him to place the man in the street. This he did and took Rheame to Police Headquarters, where a charge of trespass was registered against him.

Great Preparations in Winnipeg for the New Line.

Special to The Times.

WINNIPEG, Man., May 8.—Some of the first survey party to finally locate the route for the Hudson Bay railway left here yesterday. Work will be commenced at a point some miles west of Portage la Prairie. Another survey party will join Chief Engineer Stewart at Gladstone in a few days.

Mr. Donald W. Grant will have personal supervision of the construction and is negotiating with local firms for the grading. Messrs. Stavel, Buchanan, Smith, Keith, Denison, Kean and some other contractors are looking for sub-contracts and they will make a westward move next week.

CANADIAN PICKPOCKETS.

Three of Them Sent Up for Four Months—Were Following a Circus.

Special to The Times.

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., May 8.—A big haul of crooks that were following the circus was made by the police last night. Three of them, Owen, Harding and Griffin, are said to be well known Canadian pickpockets. They got four months in jail. The others were American crooks, and two of them were sentenced for thirty days. The others were run out of town.

Dynamite Plot.

LONDON, May 9.—The Standard's correspondent at Berlin says: "The two anarchists were arrested on the evidence of a woman who overheard them discussing the case with which the Emperor might be assassinated on his way to the Temple Hotel. The woman declared they had buried explosives in Friedrichshagen, but the police found nothing at the spot indicated and obtained no evidence confirming the woman's story. The government papers are not likely to get much capital out of the affair to help the anti-socialist bill."

Fish and Fishing.

The Port Hope Guide says: "Never perhaps in the history of Rice Lake has there been so much illicit fishing as in the present season. It is an open secret that every night, and even in the broad daylight fish are successfully killed and carried off. The government, in removing Mr. Gilchrist, made a grave mistake if their intention was to preserve the fish in Rice Lake and the waters tributary thereto, as the present fishery inspector is a conspicuous failure."

A Large Funeral.

The funeral of Wm. Thomas Lush, who suddenly died on Wednesday, took place Thursday at the Little Lake Cemetery under the auspices of Lansdowne Lodge, Sons of England. It was a very large funeral, and there were six members of the Sons of England. Bro. D. Oliver, J. Downing, W. Cox, J. Walsh, W. Barlow and J. Booth. A large number of the friends of the deceased were present to their deceased brother.

A New Company.

In the Ontario Gazette of May 4th is announced the application for incorporation of the Light, Heat and Power Company, of Lindsay, (limited), with a capital stock of $70,000 divided into 700 shares of $100 each. The following names appear on the application: William Needler, gentleman; Benjamin Franklin Resnor, electrician; Harvey Eby Resnor, electrician; Thos. Sadler, gentleman; Walter Eby Resnor, engineer; and John Muir McEwen, hardware merchant, all of Lindsay. The proposed company's place of business is Lindsay.

Excursion to Idylwild.

The energetic passenger agent of the Peterborough Navigation Company, Mr. John Martin, has already booked a number of excursions to Rice Lake. The last to secure the City of Peterborough for an excursion is Otonabee Lodge 221, I.O.L., of which Mr. Joseph Saunders is master. The excursion will take place on June 3, and will doubtless be one of the most thoroughly enjoyable of the season. Otonabee Lodge has 56 members and 30 new members will be enrolled shortly. Those with their numerous friends will make a large and popular excursion party. The friends of the orange order are especially requested not to forget the date—June 3.

Prices of Whiskey.

The hotelkeepers had an exciting meeting yesterday afternoon, the question at issue being whether, in view of the increased cost of whiskey they should charge five or ten cents a glass. The result of the discussion was that, provided all would sign an agreement, the price should be advanced on May 30th to 10 cents a glass.

A Similar Revolution was passed nearly two years ago, but the outside hotelkeepers found they could not get the advanced price and the agreement fell through.—Toronto News.

Death of Mr. Cornelius McAllister.

Mr. Cornelius McAllister, who died at his residence, 908 Water street, on Wednesday night, was an old and respected resident of the town. The deceased was 55 years of age and a native of Limerick, county Ireland, parish of Broadford. He came to Peterborough in 1851, and in 1854 he was married to Miss Margaret Wharton, the result of this union was eight children, three daughters and five sons, whom with their mother, survive him, with the exception of one boy and one girl. The funeral will take place on Friday at 10 o'clock, at nine o'clock this morning, and interment will be in the Roman Catholic Cemetery.

A Subject for "White Caps."

Among the events of the past week was a brawl between a woman and the man she calls her husband, who used abusive language towards her, and ended up in a little scene, it is said, by striking her. A complaint was laid before Mr. Lynch, P. M., for hearing on Monday, but the complainant failed to appear. The under-heard woman having forgiven "her lord and master" through pleadings of cries and tears for mercy. This is not the first offence of this kind of which the complainant has been guilty, and its repetition ought to be summarily dealt with. Sometimes a "White Cap" society is very beneficial in places of rioting and wife beating, and those who blight the homes of others.—Campbellford Herald.

Rosa Bridge Grant.

The Ottawa correspondent of the Globe says: A deputation from Peterborough, Friday morning interviewed Hon. Mr. Haggart at 11 o'clock, and asked the Government to consider the case of the bridge to be built at Rosa, six miles south of Peterborough. The Government has granted $3,500 towards the other part of the bridge which will be a safe part of the bridge to be built at Rosa, six miles south of Peterborough. The Government are expected to aid the project. If built it will save the farmers of South Monaghan, a distance of fifteen miles in going to the market at Peterborough, owing to the tortuous windings of the river. A former bridge there was destroyed. Major, and Ald. H. Pheasant, J. Mills and T. Brady of Peterborough, and J. Riddle, W. R. Morrison of the Township Council of South Monaghan, and T. Bizard, M.P.P. for Peterborough East, formed the deputation. Mr. Haggart promised to grant them $4,000.

Woman's Auxiliary.

At the annual meeting of the church of England Women's Auxiliary, held in Toronto this week, the secretary's report submitted showed that there are now in Toronto 103 branches, besides 23 junior branches. Those having the largest membership outside Toronto are: Peterborough (two branches) 90, Cobourg 83, Collingwood 80, Port Hope (two branches) 70, Lindsay 60, Orillia 53, Barrie 51. In Toronto the largest senior branches are All Saints (two branches) 142, St. George's (two branches) 141, St. James' Cathedral (two branches) 132, Church of the Redeemer (two branches) 103, Church of the Ascension 82, St. Margaret's 75, St. Peter's 74, St. Stephen's 72, St. Luke's 70, St. Simon's 67, Holy Trinity 72.

The Wicked Tramp.

Parents would not be amiss in warning their little girls to keep at a safe distance from tramps if duty calls them outside the corporation limits, as there are many evil characters now roaming over the country. Only a few weeks ago a girl of about 13 years, who resides in the township, while on her way home from school in Campbellford, was met on the track by a tramp who accosted her with the question as to the distance to the village. She replied, and went on her way, and when only a few rods from him he turned round and saw him standing looking at her. Then he started to run toward her, and the frightened girl ran too, and kept ahead of her pursuer till she sought shelter at a farmer's house. The tramp gave up the chase and retraced his steps.

A RABBIT CAUSED DEATH.

Mr. Thomas Lush Dies From Blood Poisoning From a Rabbit's Bite.

The many friends of Mr. Thomas Lush, who for a number of years has conducted a bakery on Edinburgh street, will be pained to learn of his sudden and strange death which occurred at 4.30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. Lush kept a number of tame rabbits which he took much pleasure in raising and attending. A week ago Tuesday while handling one the little animal turned on him viciously and bit him on the hand, drawing the blood. Mr. Lush thought very little of the wound and beyond washing it and bandaging it, paid no attention to it. On Wednesday, however, his hand began to swell and on Thursday Mr. Lush was forced to take to his bed.

Blood poisoning set in at once, and despite the best medical attendance, became so aggravated that on yesterday it caused the death of the deceased. The case is a most strange one and certainly very sad. Deceased was well and widely known in Peterborough and has a wide circle of friends who deeply sympathize with his relatives in their loss. He was one of the foremost members of Lansdowne Lodge, No. 25, S. O. E.

A DISASTROUS RUNAWAY.

A Load of Furniture Scattered Along Sherbrooke and Water Streets.

Between 4 and 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon one Harry Wall's moving van was leaving the yard of Mr. Fred Adams on Sherbrooke street loaded with furniture, when in driving through the gate, one some of the furniture became dislodged and fell off the load. The shifting of the load caused the driver to lose his balance and he fell between the horses and was thrown from the vehicle at a frightful speed. They ran down Sherbrooke street to Water and the furniture bounced off all the way along bestrewn the street at short intervals. At Water street the van stopped, and the driver, who was badly frightened, got out and looked at the frightful scene. LITTLE LOCAL LINES.

Items of Interest Intelligently Presented for Busy Readers.

The officers and members of the Canadian Home Circle were installed last night by Supreme Leader Raines.

The police now appear in their new summer uniforms made by Mr. T. Dolan. They are neat and good fits and the police are very much pleased with them.

The body of a young woman who died on the 1st inst., in the Toronto hospital, was sent by express to her father at Trenton, who refused to pay the charges, and the corpse was taken back and placed in the dissecting room.

A large boarding house—built of boards, of course—capable of accommodating 200 or even has been erected in the vicinity of Kirkfield by Underdonk & Co., contractors for the Simcoe and Peterborough section of the Trent Valley Canal, work upon which has now been commenced.

A large consignment of live hogs was shipped to the Matthews' packing house at Peterborough, on Monday. In the lot was a valuable giant porker, although very thin weighed over 500 pounds. Many farmers thought that it would easily weigh 1,000 pounds if properly fattened.

The new cheese factory at Jackson's settlement, on the 15th inst., will begin operations at once, being now completed. The building, which is quite a large one, was constructed by Messrs. David Sharpe and David Gray for the same party organized. Mr. C. Rutherford, is the cheese maker.

One hundred hogs were moved eastward from the station in Campbellford on Tuesday, and on Friday, 3rd inst., another shipment was made of Mr. Black, the buyer, will be busy at the Brighton station tomorrow, in making up a car load of 100 hogs. Montreal is the destination for the whole lot.

On Monday last a young man named Mallon, while drawing slabs from the Carey lumber mill, met with a peculiar accident. He was outside loading his cart when a slab was thrown from the saw and struck him over the left eye inflicting a severe wound. He was driven to a nearby hospital, where the wound was properly dressed and Mallon is now doing nicely.

The Flimsy Tribe Protected.

It is spawning time for fish, and the close season for pickering, bass and minnows. Today will be the first day of the close season for bass; and for several weeks no one can legally drop the hook and line for the purpose of taking either bass or minnows. Restrictions are absolutely necessary to preserve good fishing grounds and afford sport for the angler, and this being the case, it is in the interest of every man fond of fishing to assist in enforcing the regulations. Let every one acquaint himself with and observe the following dates covering the close season, just as they appear in the Dominion statutes:

Pickering—No one shall fish for, catch, kill, buy, sell or possess any pickering between the 15th day of April and the 15th of May, both days inclusive.

Bass—No one shall fish for, catch, kill, buy, sell or possess any bass between the 15th day of April and the 15th day of May, both days inclusive.

Minnows—No one shall fish for, catch, kill, buy, sell or possess any minnows between the 15th day of April and the 15th day of June, both days inclusive.

TWO GIRLS MISSING.

THE MYSTERIOUS DISAPPEARANCE OF CHARLOTTE AND PHOEBE HARRISON.

Left Their Home On Monday Night Attired in Their Night Robes—Their Parents Search for Them Unsuccessfully—Description of the Missing Ones.

CHARLOTTE EMMA HARRISON; age 17 years, dark complexion, height 5 feet 5 inches.

PHOEBE ANN HARRISON; age 12 years, dark complexion, height 4 feet.

The two girls described above are missing since Monday night. Their parents are Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Harrison, who reside about a mile northeast of the Red Mills in the township of Donora. Diligent search has been made for the missing girls but not a trace has been found. The story of their mysterious disappearance was told to THE TIMES by the almost distracted parents on Tuesday, who hope that the publication of the facts will aid in the finding of the girls.

On Monday evening Mr. Harrison was away from home. The two girls retired early in the evening. Mrs. Harrison sat up for the return of their husband. She was seated in a chair in the kitchen and had dozed off when she was suddenly startled and awoke just in time to get glimpses of her eldest daughter disappearing through the door.

ATTIRED IN HER NIGHT DRESS. Very much surprised, Mrs. Harrison called her daughter by name, but the latter paid no heed to her mother's call and slamming the door disappeared. Thoroughly alarmed Mrs. Harrison ran to the door, threw it open and peered into the darkness, but her daughter was not to be seen, nor has she been seen since by any of the family.

Mrs. Harrison then ran to the room where the girls slept and was filled with consternation to find that Phoebe, her youngest daughter had also gone. The poor woman was frantic, and when her husband returned, a thorough search was at once instituted.

Nothing could be done and both retired with aching hearts and unquiet minds to await the daylight and what it might reveal.

THE NIGHT ROBE FOUND.

Early yesterday morning Mr. and Mrs. Harrison, their son and several neighbors, began the search in the garden. Among some bushes in the garden the night robe of the girls left their room in the morning. A further search in the girls room revealed the fact that the girls had not been there for a journey for each had taken two complete changes of dress and underwear.

Their footprints from where the night dresses were found, were easily discernible in the sand and pointed towards the road to Peterborough. With this much learned a team was hitched up and Mr. and Mrs. Harrison drove to Peterborough, making exhaustive enquiries along the way.

Not finding any trace of their daughters on the way or after they reached town, they returned to Peterborough, and the Otonabee road and three miles beyond that village with the same success. It appears that some time ago the eldest daughter had been seen by the eldest.

OUT IN SERVICE.

In Peterborough for some 15 months. Mr. and Mrs. Harrison upon reaching town immediately drove to the house of the citizens where their daughter had formerly worked, but they had not been there. Then the C. P. R. and G. T. R. stations were visited, but no girls answering their description had purchased tickets at either station.

Mr. and Mrs. Harrison can assign no reason for their daughters running away. They aver that their girls always appeared contented and happy, and even on the Monday evening they played with the smaller children in the most affectionate manner and retired apparently as usual. That the search was fruitless.

A PREMEDITATED PLAN. However, it is undoubtedly the case. The eldest brother, when he considers the circumstances, is now sure that his sister Charlotte acted very suspiciously all day Monday, and that she had been in a very suspicious manner. This was evidently the time she secured her own and her sister's clothes in the garden, where later on in the evening they dressed themselves in the moonlight preparatory to their flight.

Their parents are positive they had not a cent of money. They had no place or friends they could go to unless it be a half-brother living in Orillia of whom they were very fond. The girls had no male companions and were easily discernible to any person to their parents' knowledge. Mr. and Mrs. Harrison can neither conjure up any reason for the girls' kidnapping or form any guess as to where they are now. It is indeed a very mysterious case if the representations made by Mr. and Mrs. Harrison are correct.

THE CLOTHES THEY WORE. Mrs. Harrison thinks the clothes they wore were as follows:

Charlotte, the eldest—Black skirt (plain) plaid jacket trimmed with three bows of ribbon in front, two behind; black straw hat, wide rim trimmed with black and red ribbons.

Phoebe, the youngest—Gray flannel dress and bodice, four rows of brown braid round at bottom of skirt; sailor hat.

THE GIRLS FOUND.

They Had Walked All the Way to Orillia to Their Half-Brother.

The two missing girls, Charlotte and Phoebe Harrison, who mysteriously disappeared from their home on Monday night, have been found. They are now at home with their parents, having arrived yesterday.

The girls were found at the home of their half brother in Orillia. As soon as the latter learned that they had run away from home, he sent them back, first notifying their parents on which train they would arrive. The relieved parents met their erring children and took them home.

It seems that the girls walked the entire distance to Orillia—about 80 miles. The only explanation they made was that they wanted to go, and knew that the way they took to get there was the only one.

Ensign McGillivray to Command a Ship.

Commandant Booth has appointed Ensign McGillivray, of the Salvation Army corps of this town, to take charge of the naval brigade on board the new Salvation Army steamship "William Booth." Ensign McGillivray went to Toronto last night to meet the members of the naval brigade and to take charge of the vessel. The steamer will visit the towns and villages between Montreal and Chicago, and her course at the start will be from Toronto to Chicago and from the latter place to Montreal. The steamer has been commissioned for six months. The members of the Army here regret to lose Ensign McGillivray, but they wish him success. Capt. Kindal, of Kingston, will fill the vacancy until a new ensign shall have been appointed.

THE GREAT CONGRESS.

Thousands of the the Brainiest People of America Will Attend.

The Pan-American Congress of Religion and Education will be held in Toronto, Ont., on July 18 to 25th has attracted the most favorable attention of prominent men in all religious bodies and many of the most influential Protestant and Catholic dignitaries in the country have already promised to attend. The President has issued the following address to the country:

"The Pan-American Congress of Religion and Education will be held in Toronto, Canada, July 18 to 25, 1895. The Congress will be divided into sections for the discussion of education, philanthropy, temperance and women's work, editors, publishers, and authors, missions, young people's societies, Sunday schools and internal economy."

The managers of the Congress desire to have the fullest interchange of views that is possible among these lines. The object of the Congress to bring workers in all religious bodies into closer association with other Christians in all the great educational, philanthropic and reform movements of modern Christianity. The principle upon which the Congress will be conducted will be those that lend themselves to harmony, instruction and inspiration. Instead of an effort to draw sharp distinctions there will be an effort to find means of reconciliation. At the same time the freedom of speech and the sacredness of personal convictions will be carefully preserved.

Instead of seeking lost, the speculative difference of various creeds, the object sought is the practical union of practical men in belief of practical efforts which make for the redemption of the world. Any suggestions which can be made with reference to the Congress will be received with the greatest interest. It is desired to know at the earliest moment possible what persons will arrange to be present at this gathering.

The city of Toronto, Canada, with its usual hospitality and enterprise, is making the wildest preparations for this religious gathering, the largest ever held on the American continent. The railroads are making special rates and the attendance of visitors from abroad already promises to be numbered by the thousands.

"Signed, Samuel G. Smith, President."

MR. DURWARD LELY.

His Magnificent Singing in the Opera House Thursday Night.

A very large and fashionable audience greeted Mr. and Mrs. Durward Lely in the opera house last night, and for two hours he held the attention of the magnificent singing of the famous tenor. Mr. Lely possesses a truly wonderful voice, pure and sweet and of great range and volume. He has no less than seven numbers last night and even then did not seem in the slightest overtaxed. This is an evidence in itself of the wonderful voice of the man for many years sang with Patti, the song queen of the world. Besides possessing a voice of surpassing richness and volume Mr. Lely is also possessed of a charming stage presence and magnetic conversational powers. He told something interesting in connection with each song, explaining the meaning they were intended to convey and possibly singing upon the beauty of the sentiment breathed in their lines. His graphic style was both pleasing and artistic.

By his songs, Mr. Lely sang "Annie Laurie." Probably it has never been sung in Peterborough as it was last night. He was enthusiastically applauded throughout the evening. Mr. Lely is a singer of the piano variations and airs in an artistic manner.

Mr. Lely's songs were as follows:

"O' a' the winds can blow," Burns
"Come to the Garden, Maids," B. J. B.
"Cam' ye by Athol," James Hogg
"The Cuckoo's Lament," Benedict
"McGregor's Gathering,"
"The Irish Song,"
"Tom Bowling," Dibdin
"The Land of the Leal," Lady Nairne
"The Minstrel Boy," Moore
"Alas! the Minstrel Boy," Moore

Women, who seem to be all worn out, will find in purified blood, made rich and healthy by Hood's Sarsaparilla, permanent rest and strength. The following is from a well known nurse:

"I have suffered for years with female complaints and kidney troubles and I have had a great deal of medical advice during that time, but have received little or no benefit. A friend advised me to take Hood's Sarsaparilla and I began to use it, together with Hood's Pills. I have realized more benefit from these medicines than from anything else I have ever taken. From my personal experience I believe Hood's Sarsaparilla to be a most complete purifier." Mrs. G. Campbell, 71 Cumberland St., Toronto, Ontario.

The Times.

PETERBOROUGH, MAY 11 1895.

Good morning.

One of the proposed two-wheel or "bicycle" railways from New York to Washington promises a speed of 120 miles an hour as a result of the use of electricity and the minimizing of friction.

Queen Victoria's reign, if it lasts two years longer, will be the longest of any European sovereign in the whole list. And what a tranquil reign it has been for these many years.

It is all very well for our preachers and other guardians of morality to inveigh against the brutality of public sparring matches; but it should be remembered that there is more brutality in an ordinary football match than in a score of sparring matches—and more danger, too.

If the assailant of Li Hung Chang was moved by a belief that the Chinese viceroy was responsible for the war and that his death would secure the return of peace, as recent dispatches state, he was not a true Japanese. The Japs have found fighting China too easy to wish for a return of peace before they enter Peking.

In Italy in the last ten years 947 duels have been fought over newspaper articles, 730 on account of rivalry in love, 377 for political differences, 289 for insulting words, and the smallest number, 19, for disputes at cards. According to the figures, journalists are most apt to fight, and actors least of those who fought at all, but there is not a single banker or capitalist in the list.

In the current number of Scribner's Magazine, Joseph Wetzler gives it as his opinion that the electric locomotive will eventually supersede the steam machine. His prediction is interesting, when taken in connection with the completion of a new type of the electric engine by the Baldwin shops in Philadelphia. The general use of such locomotives is only a matter of time, in all probability. In use upon the London Underground Railroad they will run 60,000 miles without costing a single penny for repairs. They are far simpler than are steam locomotives.

On the island of Pantellaria midway between Sicily and the African coast, Dr. Orsi has discovered a prehistoric village of the stone age surrounded by a colossal wall made of stones heaped together. He has also found out that the strange buildings called Sesi are dome-shaped prehistoric tombs, and has identified the remains of a small Greek temple. The island lies completely out of the way of travel, and is used by the government as a convict settlement.

"Hould on," exclaimed Pat, as he saw the train departing without him; "there's a man aboard that you've left behind." A startling omission of a different kind occurred at Pittsburgh, Pa., recently, when a funeral party in one of Pittsburgh's suburbs arrived at the church where the funeral services were to take place to find that the corpse had been left behind at the railroad station ten miles away. The undertaker drove across the country for the body, and the weary funeral party remained in waiting at the church until he returned with the remains several hours later.

THE DEFICIT.

Mr. Foster will add the four and a half millions deficit of this year, as he did that of last year, to the public debt; and will meet next year's threatened deficit by taxing sugar and spirits. Spirits will come off lighter than sugar, but then Mr. Foster has probably learned of late years that it is the habit of some to take sugar in their spirits. Still the effect is to tax the housewife much more heavily than the toper for the deficiency to be made up. We cannot help thinking that it would have been better to have taxed the contributions of the public contractor to the party campaign fund rather than the sugar bowl.—That is, to have cut down the estimates.

A FRENCH NOTION.

The bicycle claims all civilized countries for its own, and its claim has become so pressing in France that a law fully recognizing the claim is proposed. Some of its provisions would fit the situation in this country as well as in France. The French plan provides that the present tax on bicycles is to be abolished. Every pedestrian will be required to procure at the "maire" of his "arrondissement" a permit to walk. These permits must be renewed annually and a fee will be charged for them. With each permit, will be issued a numbered metal plate which the pedestrian, while in the street must always wear on the front of his hat band. Every pedestrian shall supply himself with a bell and a whistle which he must sound when meeting or passing a bicyclist on the sidewalk and always while crossing a street, whether or not a bicyclist is in sight at that time. At night he must also carry lighted lanterns on his breast and back. No pedestrian within the limits of a city or incorporated village shall walk more rapidly than at the rate of two miles an hour. France shall be entirely leveled so that the public may be saved the annoyance and fatigue of hill climbing. A man with a straight back shall be regarded as a suspicious person and kept constantly under surveillance by the police. Any pedestrian who by reason of his awkwardness, negligence or being alive, shall, by getting himself run over, or otherwise disturb, impede, annoy, or incommode a cyclist, or cause damage or risk of damage to rider or wheel, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and punished by a fine of 5,000 francs. On a second conviction he shall be imprisoned for life.

France will be a good country for the wheelmen and wheelwomen when this plan is carried out.

LAW REFORM.

The Hamilton Spectator asks what chance has the poor man against a wealthy corporation in the Canadian law courts and cites a case in point.

A Toronto motorman was injured while on duty. He sued the company in the York county court and got a verdict for $500.

The company appealed to the divisional court and again the motorman won. The company appealed to the court of appeal. The poor motorman was penniless and couldn't follow his rich opponent to that court. The Toronto News took up the case, asked for subscriptions for the motorman, and realized enough money to enable the motorman to carry on his defence. He won again.

The company has now appealed to the supreme court of Canada, and the News is asking the public for money. It is to be hoped the generous public will come to the rescue. But if the motorman wins again, the company will, of course, appeal to the privy council of England, whither the penniless motorman may not be able to follow.

The most remarkable thing about this case—the scheme of appealing from court to court to beat a moneyless litigant is unfortunately too common to be remarkable—is the fact that the judges of three courts decided the case in the same way—in favor of the motorman. He must indeed have a strong case, when the judges of three distinct courts found themselves able to agree that his claim was just.

But is it not abominable that such a condition of affairs should be permitted to exist; that a powerful and rich corporation should have the power to escape just payment by worrying its unfortunate creditor through court after court, he having no money to follow and lay his just claim before the successive courts?

While the Dominion government is in the economical mood, it might abolish the supreme court of Canada. That court has been found to be of no practical use whatever; it is simply an expensive toll-gate on the road to the British privy council; it is a burden upon the people, and should be entirely abolished as soon as possible. It costs the country a large sum of money in salaries of judges and officials, and costs the unfortunate litigants who are dragged before it enormous sums in costs. And all to no purpose. Nobody regards the decision of the supreme court of Canada as being final; nobody can conjecture from the decision of that court what the result will be when the case is taken to the British privy council. There is absolutely no excuse for its existence.

At least half the other courts through which the unfortunate motorman is being dragged ought likewise to be abolished, or, at the very least, the power of appeal should be limited to one move.

It is scandalous that an unfortunate man cannot collect a $500 debt from a wealthy company, without being dragged through court after court until his $500 and many thousands more are eaten up in costs, counsel fees and expenses. It is an outrage.

Now that the ice has gone and winter has departed, it is a good time to suggest that the City Fathers do something for the bathing small boy—and the bathing man, too, for that matter beyond hiring policemen to chase him. Sometime ago we published a letter from Mr. S. W. English, who presented a very feasible scheme. His proposal was to erect a bathing house just east of the C. P. R. spur line near the gas house, where it could be done cheaply and when pure water could be secured. The idea is a good one, and should be acted on. People who frequent the Little Lake will no longer be annoyed by living pictures. Won't the council please do something for the Peterborough boy?

A LOVE SONG.

In the spring, when lilacs came
And crocuses set the woods aflame,
All the world with love's delight
Floated and glowed from dawn till night.
All day long the happy birds
Sang and sang and found no words,
And so my heart the whole day long
Sang to thee a wordless song.

When the roses white and red
On the winds their fragrance shed,
Through a world of sunlight went
Love and laughter and content,
And my heart from leafy June
Court and kept the strange sweet tune
Brook and branch and bird and bee
Sang of thee, my sweet, of thee.

Now, when golden autumn fills
The purple wine cup of the hills,
Mid their happy harvesting,
Still of love the reapers sing.
When the plow wheel and the fly
Back against the shining sky,
In my heart the old refrain
Sings to thee, love, till I die.

When winter comes, with icy breath
And holly flashing in his crest,
All love's singers sweet are gone,
Save the robin; he alone
Pipes his music, sweet and strong—
Death alone can still his song.
Like the robin, so shall I Sing to thee, love, till I die.

—D. J. Robertson in Longman's Magazine.

Diagnosis by Telephone.

The beneficent uses of the telephone are not as yet fully understood. The other night young Smyth awoke about 3 a. m. with an excruciating pain in his stomach. The more he squirmed the worse he grew. Finally the terrible thought flashed upon him that he had been poisoned. In a moment he dashed out of bed, down stairs to the telephone, and demanded to be switched on to his physician's number without delay.

"For heaven's sake, doctor, come at once! I'm poisoned!"

"The M. D., who had also crawled out of bed to answer the summons, growled back, "What makes you think so?"

"Frightful pain—awful cramps—insides on fire—hurry up, or I'm a dead man!"

"Humph! Does—er—does your stomach make any noise?"

"Yes. Kinder growls. Must be arsenic or something."

"Growls, eh? Just put the phone against the pit of your stomach. Ah! I thought so. You've been to the French hospital fete this evening, haven't you?"

"Yes, sir."

"Exactly. You're suffering from a general fermentation of lemonade, crab salad, fruit cake, pickled oysters and Roman punch. You're all right. Just take a little peppermint and ginger, then go to bed and grin it through."—San Francisco Examiner.

Giving Without Money.

The poor give more than the rich. This proposition holds good as a general principle. Money is by no means the only thing to give in this world. Neither do large gifts necessarily contribute more to the happiness of the receiver than small gifts.

Go into any country community and converse with the people. Ask who ministers most to their happiness. You will very likely be told of some venerated clergyman whose salary has never been more than enough to barely support him or of some poor widow who goes from house to house like a ministering angel wherever sorrow and suffering demand consolation or relief.

It is astonishing how much one without money may give—a kind word, a helping hand, the warm sympathy that rejoices with those who do rejoice and weeps with those who weep.

No man is so poor, no woman is so poor, as not to be able to contribute largely to the happiness of those around them.—New York Ledger

A Book Agent's Logic.

A book agent once stopped at a house in the country where he told the owner that he had been recommended to her because she already had so many books. "I should think that was a curious reason," she said. "Now, there is my next neighbor. You should have gone to her instead, for she has no books at all." The wily agent shook his head. "Ah, we know better than that," he answered. "Those who have no books never buy any. Those who have many already are the only ones who can hope to appeal to."—Philadelphia Press.

Horrors of Solitude.

Mr. Minks (reading)—The captain's wife was the only one who escaped, and she was thrown by the waves upon the beach of an uninhabited island.

Mrs. Minks—Poor thing! How did she ever button her dress in the back the next morning?—Philadelphia Times.

Lamps almost identical in shape with those employed a century ago in India by the native population have been discovered at Nineveh. It is believed that they have an antiquity of at least 4,000 years.

The widow's cap is as old as the days of Julius Caesar. An edict of Tiberius commanded all widows to wear the cap under penalty of a heavy fine and imprisonment.

"Bingen on the Rhine" was written by Mrs. Caroline Norton. The music was composed by Judson Hutchinson about 1848.

LIVE STOCK MARKET.

May 10.—In one sense this has been a very active week in the stock circles, but as far as actual business is concerned comparatively little has been done. Shippers have been busy today loading cattle and by next Sunday probably 10 steamers will have sailed with cattle during the week. Cable advices from the other side today were rather indefinite and only sales were reported. Generally they were satisfactory. The Numidian with Canadian cattle from Portland, arrived on the other side today the early part of the week, and sales of Canadian stock will probably be reported next Monday. Business was brisk at the East End and Astor market this morning, and everything was sold except several lots of very poor young calves. There were 1,200 offered and the majority were only a few days old. There were 400 fairly good butchers' cattle brought in by rail and a few fat cows belonging to farmers and people that kept them for local use. Sheep and lambs were in demand at former prices, and lean hogs, of which there were about 90, remain about the same.

THE LIME JUICE CLUB

REGULAR WEEKLY MEETING OF THIS CHASTE SOCIETY.

A New Member—Heavy Discount—Permitted—An Importer—More Indignation—Musical—A Heavy Fine.

When President Sir Richard McBride ascended the pedestal of fame at the Hall of Wisdom last night, every seat in the mammoth building was filled, and many persons were crowded into the wings adjoining. The visitors' gallery was, as usual, loaded with strangers, all of whom appeared to thoroughly enjoy the great intellectual treat which the debates provided.

A NEW MEMBER.

Bro. Cahill, chairman of the Committee on Earthquakes and Thunderstorms, nominated Mr. Duncan McNaughton as a candidate for membership. He was a gentleman of unblemished reputation, and one of two persons in the country who could whistle six different tunes on his thumb nail at the same time.

Bro. Phelan supported the nomination in a speech 27 feet long. He had known Mr. McNaughton for many years, and he had never known him to refuse a cold lemonade.

The matter was put to vote, and carried by 914 to 1—Bro. Tom Fortye voting contrary to spite Bro. McNaughton for keeping him out late one night recently.

HEAVY DISCOUNT.

The Treasurer said that a majority of the members were sending in punched quarters and halves in payment of dues, and although he had plugged scores of pieces with lead and passed them off on the unsuspecting public, he hoped for some ruling in the case which would relieve him from pressure.

The President instructed him to make a discount of 1,000 per cent on all mutilated bills or coins sent in.

REMITTED.

General Misfit Metherall, who is to appear before the club at an early date and deliver his celebrated lecture on "The Habit of Lying" was given permission to use the Club's stove polish to shine his boots with. It is expected this will be a substantial literary feast.

AN IMPORTER.

The secretary read the following: Campbellford May 8, 1895.

PRESIDENT MCBRIDE.—A man claiming to be Tiedup Garley has been canvassing the people of this place soliciting subscriptions for starting a mouth organ factory in Labrador. He is a man about 50 years of age, with a propensity for getting drunk. He has secured several contributions. Will you state through the columns of the MORNING TIMES if he is the original Tiedup? or oblige.

ELDER SMITH.

The anger of Bro. Garley broke out as soon as the secretary had finished reading. He waved his arms, jumped up and down in his tracks, and but for the sudden discovery that he had lost a pound of pork bought before the meeting and placed in his coat tail pocket to carry home for breakfast, he might have become a victim of apoplexy.

Sir Richard said that the Campbellford man was a red, white and blue importer of the deepest dye, and the Secretary was instructed to offer a reward of $25 to any vigilance committee who would catch and hang him.

MORE INDIGNATION.

The Secretary read a letter from January Jones, of Kingston, Ontario, stating that he received a call some five weeks since from a person representing himself to be Bro. Crispes Mulcahey. Said person borrowed $2 to help him on to the next town, and as the money had not been returned as promised, Mr. Jones had passed a sight draft on the Treasurer of the club for the amount.

As the Secretary laid the communication down exactly 1015 pairs of eyes were turned upon Mulcahey. He rose up, choking with indignation, and as soon as he could unbutton his vest and push up his hair, he put in such an emphatic denial that one of the bear-traps fell down on Bro. Fairen's head and rendered him unconscious for seven minutes. Mulcahey was not within 50 miles of Kingston trip, Eastern his on and as for money he reached home after an absence of almost four weeks with upwards of 25 cents to spare. He wanted the committee to do its work in the most thorough manner.

The President appointed Bros. Ed. Brown, Bob Fife and Cautious Miller to such committee, with power to send for persons and papers and lemonade and cigars and a fifteen cent lunch.

MUSICAL.

The following touching lines, composed by the club's own poet, and set to music by Anvil Davis, was sung with deep pathos:

It is situated in the rear of Winch's meat shop and has an entrance from the arcade as well as from the restaurant. It is elegantly furnished with new furniture and presents an inviting appearance. This new addition will be greatly appreciated by the public. The main restaurant has also been repainted and frescoed. Mr. McCallum will keep open at all times the famous Philadelphia Ice Cream. The parlor will be thrown open to the public today. His advertisement appears on this page.

Refused to Pay the Fine or Give Sureties.

Mr. J. J. Brasley, who was fined $20 and costs or in default 30 days in jail for pointing a gun at Mr. A. B. Downer, refused, as he intimated he would do, to pay the fine, and he was accordingly placed in jail. The magistrate also granted an application to bind Mr. Brasley over to keep the peace for twelve months; and the sureties at $4. Mr. Brasley announced that he would never offer any sureties, and if he adheres to his intention not to pay the fine are given sureties, he will not only remain in custody until the 30 days have expired, but will be held until the sureties are given.

The Poor Boy's Body Still in the Water.

All efforts to get the body of the little fellow, Oliver Vinnett, who came to his death by drowning in the river a few days ago, have so far proved to be fruitless. But the search will not be relaxed. The searchers have reported to the use of dynamite for the purpose of disentangling the body, which, it is believed, is held down by driftwood, sawdust or some other thing. It may be that the body is under the slide, and if it be there, some difficulty will probably be experienced in getting it out. The cribwork about the slide was examined yesterday afternoon, to see whether the body had been caught in the woodwork. No discovery of the body was made. No doubt the body will eventually be found.

THE BENEFIT CONCERT.

It Was a Grand Entertainment and a Huge Success.

The opera house was nearly filled last night the occasion being the benefit concert tendered by the citizens to the Electrical Works' employees. The program rendered was truly entertaining and those who were present pronounced the affair the most enjoyable of the season.

The Fire Brigade Band opened the program with a splendid march which evoked generous applause. To an encore they responded with another excellent selection.

Mr. George H. Adam's songs, in character, brought down the house. He was irresistibly funny and was enthusiastically applauded.

Mrs. Stapleton sang "Voices of the Wood," with excellent effect. Her rendition of "Hush! Hush!" a charming song was well received.

Mr. J. Miller's cornet solo, "Centennial Polka," was a splendid exhibition of his mastery of that sweet toned instrument.

Mr. T. Dunn's singing met with an ovation. His rendering of "The Admiral's Room" and "The Death of Nelson" was artistic and excellent.

The recitation of Little Miss Lola Ostrom, entitled "Poor Little Joe," was remarkably well rendered for one so young and took the audience quite by storm. She undoubtedly has a career before her in elocutionary ranks.

Perhaps the triumph of the evening was the excellent singing of Miss Hansen, of Oshawa. She possesses a well cultivated voice of great sweetness and range. Her rendition of "Boardman's" "Farewell" was truly excellent and won generous applause.

Mr. W. H. Manning sang "Ora Pro Nobis" in good voice, which was well received.

The piano duet by Mrs. G. A. Smith and Mrs. Hibbard was artistically and effectively rendered.

Mrs. Sanderson quite captivated the audience with her excellent singing, accompanied by flute obligato by Mr. Butcher.

The concert was an entire success in every important particular, and those who attended enjoyed a rare treat.

The employees have requested THE TIMES to return their grateful thanks to those who so generously offered their money and did so much to make the concert the success it proved to be; to Mr. Bradburn, for the free use of the opera house; to Mr. Mulligan, who worked assiduously in arranging the program; to the citizens, for turning out in such large numbers, and to the press, for advertising and printing.

WITH THE SPORTS.

The Athletic Lacrosse Club turned out to practise last night on the Driving Park grounds in large numbers. Their practice this season will be composed of splendid lacrosse material, and if their practice playing is any indication of what they can do in a match, they will doubtless make a name for themselves this season. The street railway has issued a special rate to the members of 10 tickets for a quarter, which enables all to attend practice. They will have a match for the 21st of May with some strong outside aggregation.

The Junior Peterborough Lacrosse Team did some good practice work last night on the Riverside Park grounds. In them and the Athletics Peterborough will have two strong lacrosse teams this season.

The man who has been piling his furnace debris up all winter in his cellar, and who wheeled it all out to the street this week has been wondering ever since how he managed to get 33 tons of ashes out of 3 tons of coal.

Early in June Mrs. McEachern, of Peterborough will open in Madoc a store carrying the lines of fancy work, light dry goods, children's millinery, etc. The premises next door to Thos. Cross have been secured. These are new lines for Madoc and a good business ought to greet the new store.—North Hastings Review.

An editor of a neighboring town created a sensation in church recently while the congregation were singing a well known hymn, by shouting in a spirit of absent mindedness, "Let every kindred, every tribe on this terrestrial ball put down their money and subscribe and we'll receipt for all." He was promptly ejected.

THE BUSINESS WORLD.

NEW BARBER SHOP.

Mr. Kelly has moved into his new shop on Queen street. The building, though small, is neatly and conveniently fitted up and will doubtless be the means of attracting increased patronage to the proprietor.

T. V. C.

The valuers for the Dominion Government, Messrs. H. T. Strickland and McEachern, have commenced their labors, and are busy buying the right of way for the canal through the village.

BUILDING.

Messrs. Lillie & Moore have secured the contract to pull down the old residence, previous to the erection of Mrs. Tate's new house, and have the work well advanced. The contract for building has not yet been let, but Mr. W. Bladwell has all plans and specifications ready.

INCIDENT FIRE.

What might have proved a serious affair was fortunately observed in time by Messrs. Cooper and Jenkinson on Thursday. While driving past the Hilda Co. sawmill they noticed quite a blaze, which had started in some dry sawdust, and was spreading rapidly. As there is a great deal of very inflammable material around this spot, it is lucky matters are no worse.

QUIET.

Everything has been quiet around the village this week excepting vegetation, which has been riotous. The oldest inhabitant fails to recall such an amount of growth in so short a time.

COUNCIL.

The regular meeting of the council will be held next Monday evening.

That tired feeling, loss of appetite and nervous prostration are driven away by Hood's Sarsaparilla, which makes pure blood.

Matrimonial.

On Wednesday afternoon last the Methodist church, Lakefield, was the scene of an interesting event, when the rites of holy matrimony were performed on Miss Annie May, eldest daughter of Mr. Matthew McEwain, of that place, and Mr. Walter Bates, of Peterborough. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. Vincent in the presence of a large number of friends and relatives of the contracting parties. The bride, who was given away by her father, was assisted by her sister, Miss Jennie McEwain, while Mr. MacEwain was maid of honor. Mr. Green, of Peterborough, acted as witnessman. As the wedding party entered the church the wedding march was played by Miss White. After the ceremony the party proceeded to the residence of the bride's father, where the usual wedding repast was partaken of. The bride was the recipient of many useful and handsome presents. The church had been nicely decorated for the occasion.

PEACE IN THE ORIENT.

The Japan-China treaty of peace has been ratified by China and is now an accomplished fact notwithstanding the opposition of several European powers. The shrewd Japanese, however, have reached an understanding with the great powers by which Japan renounces its claim to the permanent possession of Liao Yung peninsula, including Port Arthur. By this move Japan averts the interference of Russia and places all the protecting powers under great moral obligations to the island empire. The strip of country and the fortress and ports which Japan relinquishes could have been valuable to her as strategic sense, only as a protection for Korea against the aggressiveness of China at some future time; but having yielded these military advantages in compliance with the demands of Russia, Germany and France there devolves upon the protecting nations a responsibility that they cannot well shirk to maintain the independence of Korea for whose national integrity Japan inaugurated the war. The independence of Korea therefore, is guaranteed not only by Japan and China, but is sanctioned by all the great powers. With that decision China cannot hope to interfere.

But in giving up the Liao Yung peninsula and its ports Japan undoubtedly yields great commercial advantages which it hoped to retain. These were of greater value than any political advantage of a slice of Chinese territory on the mainland. For an extension of Japanese jurisdiction to the peninsula of Liao Yung, sandwiched between China and Korea and isolated from Japan by the Yellow sea, would have been a fruitful source by irritation and complications to all three countries. In giving up the peninsula and Port Arthur, Japan drops the hot end of a troublesome poker and the protecting nation, possibly may yet burn their fingers with it.

On the other hand the cession of the island of Formosa to Japan is of great value in both a strategic and commercial sense. It is contiguous territory and needed for the perfect anatomy of the milkyway empire. China had only an imperfect hold on Formosa, the interior of the island and especially the mountainous regions, being dominated by independent tribes, a fierce race of savages who respected neither Chinese nor any other authorities. The "Black Flags" of the mountain regions and the pirates of the coast have been a terror to all people in that vicinity. The next best turn which Japan can do for the civilized world is to send one of its armies to Formosa and thoroughly subdue the rebellious tribes and establish a stable government—and doubtless the alert Japanese will not be slow to make certain the possession of their newly acquired territory.

Queen Margherita of Italy has a curious hobby, the collection of shoes. She has a pair that belonged to Joan of Arc, those worn by Mary, Queen of Scots, on her way to the scaffold, a pair of slippers of Marie Antoinette, and shoes once owned by Prince Leopold and by Queen Louise of Prussia. Her dearest treasures, however, are the knitted silk socks and the little leather shoes first worn by the Prince of Naples.

MUSIC IN THE AIR.

A Curious Demonstration in a New York Elevated Railroad Car.

As an up town train on the Sixth Avenue elevated road pulled in at the Chambers street station about midnight one night last week the passengers heard sounds of singing. The music came from a group of a dozen people who were standing on the platform, and who got on the second car, filling up the seats at one end of it. They continued to sing, and as the train started on people from the other cars flocked in, filling all the seats and blocking the aisle in their curiosity and interest. The singers paid no heed to their audience. There were three women among them, all young, the rest of the crowd being men of various ages. From their songs they might have been taken for Salvation Army people but that they wore no uniforms and that their appearance was that of people somewhat better in circumstances than the generality of the Salvation soldiers.

Whoever they were there was no doubt of the fact that they had sung much together, for their voices blended admirably, and they gave to the rather uproarious hymns which they sang touches of harmony that were never in the original versions. As the train went on the car became crowded to an uncomfortable degree, and the platforms at each end were so blocked that the guards could hardly manipulate the gates. Presently the chorus struck into the familiar hymn, "I love to tell the story," and here and there in the audience there became evident an inclination to join in.

A burly negro, who, since his entrance to the car, had been slowly elbowing his way toward the chorus, joined in with a sonorous bass, encouraging two small boys behind him to add their shrill, clear tones to the chorus. Then a man sitting next to one of the women singers, in immaculate evening dress and a silk hat, who had been struggling with himself for some time divided between the impulse to join in and the fear of making himself ridiculous, contributed a fine tenor voice as his share of the proceedings. Two superbly overdressed young women in a cross seat thereupon took courage and chimed in, and presently every person in the car who had a voice to use was using it to its utmost, even the guards incorporating their announcement of stations in the melody. Tune followed tune, the leader of the original singers giving but little pause between the hymns. The melodies were simple and easy to catch, and people who didn't know the words, as most of them didn't, got along very well without them.

The dozen singers got out at Forty-second street, still singing as they left. Then, for the first time, it seemed to strike the crowd that they had been conducting themselves with a very unusual forgetfulness of conventionalities. The two small boys giggled inanely. The big negro grinned. The man in the silk hat contemplated the advertising signs with a great show of interest. The two flashy women looked thoughtful. As the train went on a very marked silence settled down upon the car, broken only by the announcements of the guards, made in voices gruffer than usual.—New York Sun.

Don't Write on Beach Trees.

A novel piece of evidence was introduced recently in a breach of promise case in Bavaria. The defendant obstinately denied the charge and stated that his accuser had nothing to show to prove her statement. The latter, a buxom village maiden, asked one day to be permitted to bring in her evidence. The court granted her request and adjourned until 10 o'clock the next day. At the appointed time she was on hand, and upon the query of the judge where her evidence was she opened the door, and four lumbermen brought in a tree trunk, upon the bark of which her faithless adorer had incised both their initials within a flaming heart! She won her case.—Troy Times.

TWILIGHT.

Twilight, through your folded wings
I catch a glimpse of your sweet face,
And I remember, on a sudden, my soul sings,
"In this common earth a holy place!"

Twilight, you are like a song
That floats and waits a singer, like a hymn
That God sends down and keeps near him long Till it is changed by orated chime.

Twilight, in the golden glow
Of dawn and dusk I sought you, and I found
A vision of a saintly soul
Full of white flowers that moved and made A sound.

These white flowers were the thoughts you brought to all.
As the room's name is Mystery, where you sat.

Women whom we call Twilight, when night's pull
You lift across our earth to cover it.
—Olive Outwater in Yellow Book.

THE FAIR INVALID.

It was just about a half hour after the arrival of the evening stage, and the ceremony of meeting that institution having been religiously observed by every citizen of the camp White Hawk was now engaged in its usual evening pastime—trying to beat Faro Fair's justly celebrated rank, or to get ahead of the highly interesting "stud" game of Messrs. Mike Hennessy and Claude Dupont, or to drink all the visible supply of whisky in the three saloons which furnished the camp's saloon in retail quantities. The games were going on with their customary early evening briskness, and peace hovered over the camp.

Singlefoot Sheridan came down from the to be valuable claim he had located upon the hill next to the old Red Ruby shaft with more haste than usual. His peculiar style of gait was particularly accentuated by his obvious desire to make some degree of haste as he trotted down the hill with three or four muddy drills making reddish marks on his shoulder and down the back of his shirt. Whatever else might have been said of Mr. Sheridan, it could never be truthfully asserted that he did not at all times look like a minor of hardworking tendencies.

Mr. Sheridan charged into the Double Eagle, Mr. Fair's popular resort, and trotted directly over to Mr. Dunn, the "barkeep," whom he at once engaged in a quiet but animated conversation.

"Wonder what all's struck Singlefoot?" remarked Wabash Hicks, toying lastly with his glass. "Rockon he's been findin' a 'color' up there?" he added, with a jerk of his thumb in the direction of Sunset Hill. "Opoes, nothin," replied Large Briggs, so called to distinguish him from Skinny of that ilk, with good natured contempt. "Why, he's only bin two 'r' three weeks sinkin, an' you're fully 'ware o' th' fact that Singlefoot ain't no real hurried workman, more especial when actin' like he is, as in own shift boss an' workin' force."

Both men laughed and went over to the bar, where Singlefoot and Dunn continued to talk interestedly. Dunn motioned to them, and they came up to receive the news.

"Two djoost loike dthis," said Singlefoot importantly. "O' wor oncomin down dthe back trail whin, all of a suddint loike, O' tink's 't me, all, 'O'll go down 't Johnny McAfce's (him that's in Mixyoo, d'yes mind?) an'—"

"Well, go on," interrupted Briggs. "An ain't O' as faint as O' can?" retorted Singlefoot, indignant at the idea of being obliged to cut his lines. "As O' wor sehin, O' tought O'd go down dthe old trail 't Johnny's an' swoipe a couple o' dozen candles. So O' wint."

"O' wor walkin' oop to dthe dure whin O' runs oop agin a moon—an' oddish stranger chap."

"Says he, 'Does dthis house b'long t' youse?' Says O', 'U'd noot.' Says he, 'Misther, O'm playin in har-ed look.' An' thim he goes on t' tell me about how him'n his sister wor roidin frim Tucson overland t' Silver City, an' 'is sister wor tuk had doom dthe trail 't Johnny's so 't tuk up quarters down there."

This was interesting. A woman was always interesting to people in White Hawk, and this one was particularly so on account of the fact that Singlefoot described her as being young and quite good looking. The news of her arrival spread rapidly, and when it was also reported that the fair stranger and her brother had nothing on earth but their clothes and the two little overworked bronchos they were traveling with, White Hawk rose as one man.

Here was a golden opportunity and one which they could not and would not permit to pass to show the chivalry of White Hawk. A small delegation, with Singlefoot Sheridan, by right of discovery, acting as spokesman, went out to Johnny McAfce's cabin with a large supply of all the eatables and drinkables the camp afforded, and the assurance that the strangers were to make themselves as much at home as possible, and that everything in White Hawk was theirs.

It was disappointing that the lady was unable to receive them, and Singlefoot suddenly became more important than ever on account of the fact that he had actually seen and talked with the fair stranger, but the boys were somewhat reassured.

Epbraim Miles, 16 Wickson Avenue, Nearly Loses His Life—A Doctor's Skill Saves the Old Man's Life
After a Hard Struggle.

Special to the Times.

Toronto, May 10.—But for the skill of Dr. A. B. Cook, 1519 Yonge street, Epbraim Miles, 16 Wickson avenue, would now be lying cold and stiff in death.

Yesterday, during the absence of his wife, Miles, who follows the occupation of a plasterer and who is 73 years of age, took half an ounce of laudanum. When Mrs. Miles returned she thought that her husband was in a normal sleep and accordingly did not attempt to awaken him. Subsequently, however, when she tried to arouse him she could not do so and after laboring hard without any success and stumbling across an empty bottle she suspected something wrong and ran for Dr. Cook. The physician worked energetically on the patient and after a long struggle was rewarded for his labors by seeing restored consciousness. Miles is now on a fair way to recovery.

The laudanum was purchased at a corner drug store and the label was subsequently taken off the bottle. The old man had been talking in a melancholy strain of late.

HE RAISED A ROW.

Dr. Tanner Wanted to Know if the Duke of Cambridge is to Retire.

Special to the Times.

LONDON, May 10.—Dr. Tanner, anti-Parnellite for the Middle division of Cork, caused much excitement in the House of Commons tonight by a sharp attack on the royal family. At midnight, on a motion to adjourn, he rose and asked with a considerable show of feeling: "Is the report true that the Duke of Cambridge, the commander-in-chief of the army, is retiring to make way for a better man?"

There were loud cries of order, but Dr. Tanner ignored them.

"Is the time come at last," he continued, when all members of the royal family who have been drawing the people's money too long is going to retire."

The second question he raised the confusion. Shouts of "Name him" came from the Conservative side and the Speaker rose with his eyes fixed upon the Irish member. Dr. Tanner remained standing.

"Are those remarks in order?" asked Mr. Geo. Barley, Conservative. "They are not," replied Speaker Gully. "They are entirely out of order." Most members supposed that Dr. Tanner would succumb to this remark. The Conservative cheers with great gusto at Speaker's declaration however, seemed to enrage him. With a quick gesture of disdain he bowed at Mr. Miles, the sole occupant of the treasury bench. "What I wish to know is whether His Royal Highness is going to retire?"

There was no answer. The Speaker put the motion to adjourn, which was for a long time. Dr. Tanner meanwhile continued to shout and try to draw the House.

The pains taken by Campbell Bannerman, on April 24, to deny that his Royal Highness was about to retire apparently had a bad effect upon the Nationalists and Radicals. The subject has been discussed with much feeling by the Radical press in the last week. The critics of his Royal Highness contend that he opposes every reform in the army and is incompetent, careless and expansive. The agitation has been spreading among the more moderate journals. Punch, which is invariably so partisan, has a cartoon in the current issue representing General Wolsey saying to the Duke of Cambridge: "I have to retire from my command in September," to which the Duke replies: "Dear me, I have not."

MR. WELLMAN IS SATISFIED.

Says He Understands and Appreciates the Position Taken by Justice Street.

Special to the Times.

Toronto, May 10.—When asked by a reporter what he had to say in relation to Judge Street's refusal to allow him to take an active part in defence of the Hyams boys Mr. Wellman said: "I entirely understand and appreciate the position taken by Mr. Justice Street and Mr. Oler, and do not see, under the circumstances, how they could have acted otherwise. I am entirely satisfied with the local counsel conducting the defence, and regretted very much that the application had to be made at all, but the relatives in New York insisted upon it. I am convinced the prisoners will have every opportunity to prove their innocence."

Russian Warships Put in Commotion.

Mr. Jacob Wilcox of St. Thomas, Ontario, is one of the best known men in that vicinity. He is now, he says, an old man, but Hood's Sarsaparilla has made him feel young again.

"About a year ago I had a very severe attack of the grip, which resulted in my not having a well day for several months afterwards. I was completely run down and my system was in a Terrible Condition.

I lost flesh and became depressed in spirits. Finally a friend who had been benefited by Hood's Sarsaparilla advised me to try it and I did so. I continued taking it until I used twelve bottles and today I can honestly say Hood's Sarsaparilla has restored me to my former health." JACOB WILCOX, St. Thomas,

PETERBOROUGH, MAY 13, 1895.

CALLED TO OTTAWA.

Premier Greenway and Hon. Mr. Sifton sent for by the Governor-General—A Starting Move on the Part of the Imperial Authorities.

Special to the Times.

OTTAWA, May 13.—The extraordinary action in calling Premier Greenway and Hon. Mr. Sifton to Ottawa to confer with Archbishop Langevin on the school question is said today to have been taken at the instance of the Colonial office. At this juncture an agitation on the school question might prevent the entrance of Newfoundland into Confederation, a move which, from an Imperial point of view, is looked upon as most desirable. If Lord Aberdeen can by his personal influence obtain a settlement, he will have the gratitude of the Governments of England, Canada and Newfoundland, but in undertaking the task the Governor-General is treading on dangerous ground since he may trespass on the prerogative of the Cabinet and arouse bitter antagonism against himself. The story that Scholte is bidding for a second term is emphatically denied. In fact he has announced formally to his friends a few weeks ago that he is quitting Government House, and, as everyone knows, Hon. J. C. Patterson is waiting to step into his shoes.

A Memorable Fact
About Hood's Sarsaparilla—It expels bad humor and creates good humor. A battle for blood is what Hood's Sarsaparilla vigorously fights, and it is always victorious in expelling foul taints and giving the vital fluid the quality and quantity of perfect health. It cures eczema, salt rheum, boils and other blood diseases.

Hood's Pills act easily, yet promptly and efficiently on the bowels and liver.

A CHICAGO MURDER PLOT.

HENRY MUSCH, GAGGED AND TIED TO A RAILWAY RAIL

And Barely Escapes Death—The Would-be Assassin Secured by the Police—T. H. C. A. Convention—U. S. Treasury Deficit.
Special to the Times.

CHICAGO, May 13.

HORTLY after six o'clock this evening William Musch, a mechanic 40 years old, was discovered lying across the track of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railway at North Leavitt street with his hands and feet securely tied and a sack drawn over his head. He was rescued just in time to prevent his being killed by an outgoing train. He was taken to St. Elizabeth's hospital, where he went into convulsions. As soon as he was able to account for his condition he stated that since April 13rd he had been held a captive. On that date he says he was going home when he was seized and dragged into a cellar at some place near to him; since that time he had been tortured and scantily fed. Musch said that all the time he was blindfolded. He saw light for the first time when he was rescued from the track this evening. The police are convinced that Musch is telling the truth and have arrested a man named J. Von Rhombow whom they believe to be at the bottom of the conspiracy to murder Musch. Musch claims to be able to identify Von Rhombow by his voice. He says that the man is in love with his wife and has threatened more than once to remove him. Von Rhombow has nothing to say.

PETERBOROUGH, May 13.

TOLEDO, Ohio, May 13.—The residence of Theodore Brown, a farmer, residing near Bryan, O., was destroyed by fire at 7 o'clock this morning. Brown's wife perished in the flames and his five year old son is fatally burned.

U. S. TREASURY DEFICIT.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—The deficit in the treasury for the current fiscal year up to the close of business yesterday was nearly $50,000,000. It is deemed probable that the total deficit for the year will not exceed $47,000,000 by June 1st.

Y.M.C.A. CONVENTION.

SPRINGFIELD, May 13.—The Y. M. C. A. convention closed this evening with a parliament of nations, at which representatives of eleven different countries addressed an audience of 300 people.

CARDINAL GIBBONS.

BALTIMORE, May 13.—Cardinal Gibbons will leave Baltimore tomorrow for an absence of several months. He will go to Boston to attend the celebration of the Golden Jubilee of Archbishop Williams.

LONDON, May 13.—Sporting Life will tomorrow publish a challenge from Frank Slavin to Jim Corbett, for a fight for $2,000, or $2,000 a side, to take place in England between March and May 1896. Slavin says he challenges Corbett because Peter Jackson, the colored fighter has refused to meet him, although he would prefer the latter.

Ted Fritchard, who was knocked out in two rounds by Jim Smith Friday night has issued another challenge to Smith.

FIED AT WIFE, KILLED CHILD.

An Escaped Lunatic Located in Toronto, but the U. S. Authorities are Content to Let Him Stay Here.

Special to the Times.

Toronto, May 13.—William Farians, alias McFadden, who escaped from a lunatic asylum in Cleveland, Ohio, a few days ago, has been located in Toronto. Some few years ago McFadden lived with his wife and family of small children in Cleveland, Ohio. Husband and wife lived unhappily together, their quarrels culminating one day in the husband drawing a revolver and firing point blank at his wife.

The ball missed its intended target, but entered the brain of one of the children, killing it instantly. McFadden was tried on a charge of murder, and acquitted on the ground of insanity. He was incarcerated in a lunatic asylum from which he escaped, and made his way to Toronto.

He was located here by Detective Davis, who communicated with the Cleveland authorities. The latter are apparently happy to be rid of him, as they returned answer that they did not want him.

Men and Horses Killed.

HORNELLVILLE, N. Y., May 13.—The first section of Erie freight train No. 90 on the western division was wrecked east of Almond at 10 o'clock this morning. The wreck was caused by a broken wheel. The train was in charge of Conductor W. J. Harrett and Engineer Charles. Two men and a horse were killed. The train was loaded with coal. One of the locomotives was derailed and one of the cars containing 18 fine draught horses was telescoped and 11 of the horses were killed. The story that Scholte is bidding for a second term is emphatically denied. In fact he has announced formally to his friends a few weeks ago that he is quitting Government House, and, as everyone knows, Hon. J. C. Patterson is waiting to step into his shoes.

Nervous Prostration

It is now a well established fact in medical science that nervousness is due to impure blood. Therefore the true way to cure nervousness is by purifying and enriching the blood. The great blood purifier is Hood's Sarsaparilla. Read this letter:

"For the last two years I have been a great sufferer with nervous prostration and palpitation of the heart. I was weak in my limbs and had smothered emotions. At last my physician advised me to try Hood's Sarsaparilla which I did, and I am happy to say that I am now strong and well. I am still using Hood's Sarsaparilla and would not be without it. I recommend it to all who are suffering with nervous prostration and palpitation of the heart."—MRS. DALTON, 65 Alice St., Toronto, Ontario. Get Hood's, because

LOCAL AND DISTRICT HAPPENINGS OF THE DAY.

The Weather.

Probabilities—Strong winds; fair to cloudy weather, with rain at night.

Confirmation Services To-night.

The rite of confirmation will be administered in St. Luke's Church by the Rev. the Lord Bishop of Toronto at 8 o'clock to-night at 8 o'clock. The public is cordially invited to attend the service.

Dr. Ryerson Coming.

Dr. G. S. Ryerson, of Toronto, the noted specialist in ear, eye and throat troubles will be at the Grand Central for one day only on Saturday, May 19. Those who are afflicted will do well to consult Dr. Ryerson. Don't forget the date, Saturday May 19th.

Death of William King.

Mr. Wm. R. King, a widely known and respected citizen, died yesterday morning. He has lived around this district for forty years, and was prominently connected for some years past with the Nassau Orange Lodge. He married a daughter of Wm. Thompson and the result of this union was six children, two sons and four daughters. The funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock and proceed to the Little Lake cemetery.

Hunting Up an Escaped Prisoner.

The authorities of the Central Prison, Toronto, have been very busy of late with some of the prisoners confined therein. It has always been considered to be a prisoner proof building; but recent events indicate otherwise. A prisoner named James Freeman, who escaped from the Central Prison on Saturday night last, is now being hunted up by the authorities. Freeman is a mulatto; 5 ft. 5 in. tall; about 180 lbs. in weight. The Warden of the Central is of opinion that Freeman is journeying towards Montreal, by way of Peterborough and Ottawa, for he was seen on the C.P. Railway at a point between Leest Hill and Claremont. Chief Rosal has been requested to be on guard.

As a Victim Incident.

On Friday afternoon a large body of marauding robbers and came floating down the river, quite a body of which anchored itself against a pier above the dam. Henry was on hand watching for a corner post, to use if it was any portion of land, against which he held a mortgage. He seemed quite relieved when satisfied no mortgage had shrunken in value by its removal. Later reports, that on further investigation these papers editors were found marked P.L. The conclusion followed that they were the property of Mr. P. Lyness who had gone to Italy in the interest of Mr. Spillman, the lease, the day before, and that he had been taken away and the body laid away on the evidence of foul play it was finally concluded that he had been unfortunate in the loss of his wardrobe.—Hastings Star.

PURELY LOCAL SPORTS.

The amalgamated lacrosse teams of the Junior Peterboroughs and Peterboroughs met last night. The senior team elected George Lyness captain and arranged a team to go to Campbellford on May 24 to compete for the 12 solid gold lockets. There were quite a number out for practice last night. All the members are requested to turn out on Wednesday night as the game is desirous of getting in shape for the 24th.

The athletics will meet tonight for business purposes.

There will be several events in Peterborough on the 24th, although a large number of citizens will doubtless journey to the Campbellford celebration. Those who do remain at home will have the opportunity of witnessing splendid lacrosse and baseball matches.

THE FOUR ROOM ADDITION

Approved of by the Joint Committees of the Council and School Board.

A committee of the Town Council met the Property Committee of the Board of Education last night and together the advisability of erecting the four room addition to the South Ward School was discussed.

After listening to the reasons advanced by the members of the Board, why the proposed addition was in every way preferable to the erection of a new school, the council's committee was unanimous in approval of the plan, and will so report to the council.

The result of the conference was not only satisfactory to both factions, but certainly a compliment to the foresight and wisdom of the Board of Education, and ratepayers should now rest easy in the belief that the four room addition to the South Ward School is the most advisable expedient to meet the overcrowding problem which at the present time, the Board of Education is brought face to face with.

It was clearly shown that this plan is desirable on the grounds of both efficiency and economy and is in the interest of the town at large.

The School Board deputation consisted of Mr. Peter Hamilton, chairman of the Property Committee, and Messrs. Hartley, Dams and McEneaney. Principals Yenny and Smith and Architect Blackwell were also present. The council was represented by Councillors Cahill, Dawson, Sprague and Dams.

Mr. Peter Hamilton at some length explained the reasons why the proposed addition was advisable. The first ground taken was that of efficiency. The present accommodation did not permit of efficient or effective grading. At present the Board was paying a rental of $100 for the kindergarten which was not at all available. This amount at 4 per cent. was equivalent to a capital of $2,500. The highest grade in the school was the senior 3rd. It is proposed, with the additional four rooms, to teach a complete public school course.

The addition will be composed of a basement containing two leach rooms for the scholars. The first floor will be a modern kindergarten room divided from the junior 3rd by a sliding partition which will enable the use of both as an assembly room. The second floor will be over these and will be devoted to the regular public school work. When finished the interior will be equal to the best modern schools in the city.

As regards the desirability of site, Mr. Hamilton explained that the Public School Board owned the present property and, therefore, it was not a question of improving what the Board already possessed. It was a question of selection the Board agreed with the council and school board that a more central spot could be selected. Again, should the Board build a four room school at the south end, it would deprive a large portion of the South Ward of the benefits of a kindergarten school. The Board was satisfied that the ratepayers in the South Ward would have the best results, better school accommodation and their children a better course of instruction, from the addition proposed. Mr. Hamilton then took up the question of cost which has already been published in the Property Committee's report at the last meeting of the School Board.

Principals Yenny and Smith showed how impossible it would be to properly grade pupils in a four room school. An efficient grading. The South Ward school had always been handicapped from a point of efficiency in this respect. The four room school such as the South Ward would be after the proposed additions are made, would be better than two four room schools.

The members of the Council's Committee expressed themselves as entirely satisfied with the proposed addition. Councillor Cahill said he was converted after having heard the members of the Board.

Councillor Dawson also approved of the plan. He was always in favor of allowing the School Board to manage its own affairs without interference.

Mr. Hamilton replied that he was glad the Council had brought about the conference. He did not look upon it as an interference. The School Board was always glad to confer with the city fathers.

Councillor Sprague was satisfied that the building of a separate four room school would be a mistake. It was entirely in accord with the proposed plan. Councillor Dams also expressed his approval.

Councillor Cahill promised to push the bylaw through as early as possible and recommended its adoption.

For this purpose a special meeting of the Council will probably be held on Friday night.

CONNECTION SEVERED.

The Park Street Baptist Mission Has Become a Full-Fledged Church.

At last the Park street Baptist mission has no longer under the jurisdiction of the Murray street Baptist church, having become an independent body. The separation had been deemed advisable on the ground that the mission had had outgrown its swaddling clothes.

The first service at the new church took place on Sunday, with the Rev. W. J. Pady in the pulpit. In the morning a reverend gentlemen took for his text, "For I determined not to know anything among you, save Jesus Christ, and him crucified."

Cost. L. The paraphrase of the sermon was a direct bearing on the new church.

During the evening service the choir sang "Redemption Song," and Miss Smart and Mr. Pady did the part well.

The officers of the new church are: Deacons—Messrs. F. G. Hunt, A. L. Grever and T. G. Gillespie.

Treasurer—Mr. William C. Barrie.

Clerk—Miss M. E. Mann.

Trustees—Messrs. F. E. Hunt, T. G. Gillespie, W. C. Barrie, W. D. Scott, M. G. Dams, and Benjamin Mann.

Usher—Messrs. T. G. Gillespie, James Booth and George Benton.

MISSIONARIES SAFE.

The Passengers of the Glad Tidings Safe at Victoria, B.C.

Special to The Times.

Much anxiety has been felt in regard to the whereabouts of the missionary ship, "Glad Tidings," which was thought to have been lost at sea. Several former citizens of Peterborough were on board which gave the incident much local interest. The following dispatch from Victoria, B.C., will relieve all anxiety:

VICTORIA, B.C., May 12.—The SS. Danube arrived at midnight and brought the passengers of the missionary steamer, Glad Tidings. The little vessel was pierced by a rock and partially disabled.

An Ottawa despatch says: "The Government has been unable, as yet, to undertake a search for the missing missionary steamer, the Glad Tidings, as requested by Rev. Dr. Sutherland."

Rev. Dr. Sutherland telegraphed to the conference at Victoria, instructing them to procure the services of a steamer independent of the Government, as the case was a most urgent one, and required immediate action. His instructions were quickly acted upon as the following dispatch from Victoria, B.C., will show:

"No tidings have yet been received of the missing steamer Glad Tidings. The Danube was on Saturday night despatched to search for her. Fear is generally expressed that she has been disabled, and blown out to sea, with the probable loss of all on board."

According to a despatch from Ottawa yesterday it is learned that a C.P.R. steamer has been despatched from Victoria, B.C., to search for the S.S. Glad Tidings. The news of the finding of the vessel was heralded with joy.

LITTLE LOCAL LINES.

Items of Interest Intelligently Presented for Busy Readers.

There will be a wedding in town this month.

A meeting of the Peterborough Rifle Association will be held to-night.

A largely attended union meeting of the local Y.P.S.C.E. was held in the Murray street Baptist Church last night.

With joy I greet you, gentle spring; You bid us smile again— No wood nor ice, no snow nor sleet, No coal nor carry in.

The annual convention of the Woman's Baptist Home and Foreign Missionary Society of Ontario West will open in the Murray street Baptist Church on Wednesday. It will be a two day's session.

A pair of wandering Willies sought All labor hard to shun— Two souls with but a single thought, Two hearts that beat as one.

The afternoon train will leave for Lakeside hereafter at 11:30 o'clock instead of 1:30. The third train to Lakeside will be placed on the route on June 17th and will leave at 4:30 p.m. The Chemung branch will be open on June 3rd.

FROST AND FRUIT.

Probable Serious Consequences of the Cold Snap.

"Last night there were from two to four degrees of frost all over the province; tonight we may expect rain with perhaps sleet or snow. There is about 4 inches of snow in North Michigan and it is said again in the Northwest," was the prediction, vouchsafed by the weather artist yesterday.

Notches from New York state say that in some sections the fruit blossoms are badly frozen, and snow was falling at 7 o'clock along the New Orleans, Ontario and Western Route.

Niagara reports the entire destruction of the grape crop, and serious damage to strawberries, peaches and small fruits.

In the west of the Ontario peninsula the cold snap did scarcely any harm at all.

Brantford reports 33 degrees and considerable damage to early vegetables and trees in bloom.

INNS AND OUTS.

Type written copies of the "Keep-off-the-Grass" by-law have been furnished the police for enforcement.

This is the time of year when dogs, whose owners have not secured the regulation tag, are sent on a visit to their country cousins.

The boy who howled vigorously about the water being cold, and who, after he had washed him in the big tub during the winter, is now taking daily baths in the river and diving after stray chunks of ice.

Those councillors who oppose the four room addition to the South Ward School may some day be convinced that there is a material difference in the grading of classes than in the grading of streets.

In a few weeks it will be in order for druggists to pack their cough medicines in the dark robes of silence and bring forth remedies for cholera morbus and other pains that follow the advent of green fruit.

Even that good old soldier, Editor George Wilson, of the Port Hope Guide, is a capable of feeling "riled" when the Toronto News, in crediting a Port Hope horse with a fast ride, stated that the animal was owned by a citizen of Oshawa.

Thus is the irony of fate: A peaceable citizen of Oshawa, who, on his tongue on the edge and died of blood poisoning. His next door neighbor looked his wife until she was black and blue and was left off with a fine of $1 and costs.

The Printing Committee is laboring with the momentous question of the advisability of purchasing lithograph maps of Peterborough. If the maps will show the location of the electric street lamps on George street they will indeed be a great convenience to citizens.

A LADY'S DOCTOR

Recommends the Use of

Paine's Celery Compound

ENLARGEMENT OF

THE LIVER

Intense Anxiety and Overwork

Bring on Nervousness

Mrs. John Glassford says:

"The Compound is one of the Greatest Blessings

Ever Given to Humanity

The physicians of this North American continent are prescribing Paine's Celery

Compound every day, because they have confidence in its healing, strengthening and building up virtues. No other medicine of modern times is so popular with our best physicians. They know what it has accomplished in extreme and desperate cases and have no hesitation in recommending it when life is in danger.

The testimony received from Mrs. John

Glassford, of Chatham, Ont., is worthy of the most careful perusal. It proves conclusively that the worst cases can be successfully cured by nature's great medicine. Mrs. Glassford, for the benefit of others, writes thus:

"Three years ago I was under treatment for enlargement of the liver, and my physician was about to bring about a cure to day time. Soon after, however, I was called upon to attend my daughter through a very severe illness. The work and anxiety was too much for me in my weak condition. As a result of my overwork and intense anxiety I was thrown into a relapse of the worst form, and my nerves gave out, which made my case worse than ever.

"My sufferings were something terrible;

no tongue or pen could ever tell what I had to pass through. I went to Detroit and consulted a doctor, but his treatment was not beneficial. Finally, after months of agony, and my life despaired of, my physician here recommended as a last resort,

Paine's Celery Compound. I am pleased to tell you that relief soon came after I had used this remedy—the greatest of all medicines in our country today for suffering humanity.

"I have been using the Compound about six months, and most of the time I am quite well; and I feel that by continuing its use for a further time I will be quite restored. I can not live a month I am sure, were it not for the Compound. I prize it as one of the greatest blessings ever given to humanity.

"Our druggists, A. E. Pilkey & Co., have sold your remedy to scores of people here, from what has been seen and known of my case."

LIBERALS AND NEWFOUNDLAND

We agree with our esteemed contemporary the Montreal Star that, there will be no blame attached in the popular mind to the Opposition for endeavoring to learn as much as it can about the negotiations between the Government and the Newfoundland delegation. The evident unwillingness of the Ministers to impart such information and the delicious ease with which Mr. Foster's temper takes the bit in its own mouth, will, no doubt, prompt the Liberals to continue their headstrong policy. But there is one line of attack which, if they be wise, they will avoid so much as the appearance of employing; and that is the premature disparagement of the union project before the terms accepted or even submitted are known. Mr. Davies' references on Friday last to the sad financial condition of the colony, looked very like a squint in this direction. Of course the colony is hard up. If it had not been, no delegation seeking terms of union would have appeared at Ottawa this spring. But it yet remains to be said that Canada must take upon its shoulders any unreasonable financial burden in order to enable the Newfoundlanders to come into Confederation. On the contrary, it is being said upon more or less good authority that no such demand will be made upon us.

In any case, it is not our duty to go out to meet the disagreeable. The public men who wish to reflect public and patriotic opinion on this point will take rather an attitude favoring the admission of Newfoundland into the Dominion on fair and reasonable terms, and believing that such terms are possible until it is positively proven that they are not. Certainly, unreasonable demands on the part of Newfoundland should not be imagined by us before they are actually made by the Newfoundlanders. We stand ready to welcome the Ancient Colony on terms that are friendly as well as fair. If she will not enter Confederation on such a basis, let her representatives be the first to announce this bar to our union and let our welcoming hand be not lowered until it is sure that it will not be taken in the spirit in which it is extended.

That such will be the end of the present negotiations is most highly improbable. Britain, Canada and Newfoundland seem to be all very strongly in favor of the proposed union, and it would be curious, indeed, if these three could not get their way in the matter. Secretary Bond seems to be coming hastily to Canada as if to put the finishing touches upon the scheme before submitting it to the Newfoundland Legislature; and it will not be good tactics for the Liberals to be caught in an attitude that has the slightest appearance of opposition to the admission of Newfoundland into Confederation on fair terms. It will be perfectly safe to openly favor the step, until driven reluctantly to oppose it by the presence of unmovable obstacles. For it is possible—and indeed probable—that these "obstacles" will never materialize.

A MARVELOUS BLOSSOM.

Something About the Strange Flower of the Holy Ghost.

Many of the most curious and most beautiful flowers in the world are members of the orchid family, and among them all the most wonderful is the famous Espiritu Santo, or Flower of the Holy Ghost. Have you ever seen this marvelous blossom?

Some of you may perhaps in a greenhouse or in a collection of orchids, but it is a rare sight even there, and is seldom seen in all its beauty except in its native land. It was there that I saw it first, on the isthmus of Panama.

It is not a common plant, being found in certain sections only and in isolated clumps. It does not like high, dry soils, but low, marshy spots springing up from decayed logs or from crevices in the rocks.

To describe this beautiful flower, after a fashion, is easy enough, but fully to realize its peculiar loveliness and the marvelous accuracy of its shape one must see it. The larger and older bulbs frequently send up leaf stalks six or seven feet in height, and from these, which are jointed, broad lanceolate leaves are thrown out in pairs.

The plant is an annual, and in June, July and August the flower stalks start up from the base of the bulb, devoting all their energies to the formation of the buds. The buds are arranged on the stalks much like those of the hyacinth, the usual number for a well grown stalk to bear being from 12 to 15. The leaves are very pale green in color, as though in harmony with the delicate purity of the blossom.

The blossom is of alabaster whiteness, much like the old style English pulpit. This of itself is strikingly curious, but it fades into insignificance when one looks into the center of that strange blossom, for there, nestling in its very heart, is the perfect image of a dove. It requires no imagination to see it. No one could mistake it for anything else, for no human skill could fashion its shape more perfectly, no artist could adorn it with more delicate tints, and no perfumer could endow it with a more delicious fragrance.

Right in the cup of the blossom, with the snow white canopy about it, rests this wondrous image, its delicately molded wings drooping, half extended, at its side, its gold tinted head bent slightly forward, and its tiny crimson tipped bill almost touching its snowy breast.

And just as the figure of the dove itself is there, beyond dispute, so does an expression pervade the image, an expression that even the most careless cannot fail to notice, the very incarnation of humility and spiritual purity.

It is not in the least to be wondered at that the early Spanish Catholics should have paused awestruck before this strange dweller of the forests and bowed down before it, reverentially calling it the "Flor del Espiritu Santo," or Flower of the Holy Ghost. No wonder either that the still more superstitious Indians should have knelt before it, deeming even the ground whereon it grew and the air it perfumed as holy things.

So deeply was this feeling implanted in the hearts of the Indians, and so carefully was it handed down from generation to generation, that it has only been within a comparatively few years that collectors have been able to trace the precious bulbs to their native haunts.—Philadelphia Times.

An Amused "Character." In Dresden female servants are required by the police regulations to keep a book, in which the mistress enters dates of engagement and dismissal, reason for dismissal, etc. An English lady dismissed a German servant for impertinence and entered in the book that she was discharged for rudeness, but was in every other respect a good servant. The girl came back and reported that the police ordered the remark concerning her rudeness to be erased. On the lady refusing to comply, she found herself summoned to the police court. She stood to her guns, however, like a good English woman and replied in effect, "Quod scripsi, scripsi." Upon this the official who heard the case observed that if she would not erase the remark the police would, and a slip of thick paper was forthwith passed over the entry.—London Truth.

No Chance For Distinction. "Professah," said Cholly, "is it true that a man's mind is a blank when he's asleep?" "Under normal conditions that is likely to be the case." "Deah me! I don't see how some of our fellows can tell when they are awake, then. I don't weally."—Washington Star.

Satisfied. A barber, after applying some sticking plaster to a gash made with the razor, prepared, nothing daunted, to continue the operation. Customer—I only fight up to first blood. The duel is at an end. Let us shake hands.—Il Motto per Bidere.

THE FAIR INVALID

play, as I insist on paying the respects due to youth and beauty, I do."

As they neared the cabin there was considerable diffidence displayed by every member of the committee. Neither wanted to lead, and it was not until Faro and Mike "downed" the "professor" by a majority vote that he consented to knock at the door. This act was rendered unnecessary, however, by the appearance of Mr. White, who came out and greeted them cordially.

"Come in, gentlemen," he said when the "professor" had blunderingly informed him that they had come to inquire about the invalid. "Come in. My sister is very much better today, very much, thanks to your kindness. And, with his guests trying to shrink behind each other as though they were schoolboys instead of three of the leading citizens of White Hawk, he led the way up to the door.

"My sister, gentlemen," he announced, "whereupon the committee became more embarrassed than ever, and Faro stepped heavily on Mike's foot, causing that gentleman to writhe in silent agony.

Over in a dark corner, wrapped in blankets and seated in a big barrel chair, was the person who had created the present sensation.

"Sit down, gentlemen," she said in a deep, melodious contralto voice. "I'm very glad to see you. And please let me thank you for your great kindness to me last night."

"Thank, mum—that is, no, m. We didn't do it—that is, blundered the 'professor' with shifting eyes, 'twan't nothin'. Mighty glad, miss, if we'd do anything."

"Thank you very much. I can never forget it," said the melodious voice from the depths of the chair, thereby causing the visitors to clear their throats and shift their large feet a good deal and to stare at the oppling in an effort to think of something appropriate to say. White came to their relief, however, with some remark or other, and presently Faro managed to make a move toward leaving, which example was about to be promptly followed by the others when the voice asked:

"Won't you come and shake hands?"

While his companions were hurrying to accept the invitation Hennessy, at a moment when White was not looking and with what he considered a very deft movement, managed to shift the soapbox to the top of one of the soapboxes just vacated. Then he shook hands, and the trio floundered out.

White looked out of the window to see when they got out of earshot. Then he lay down on the floor and laughed till he cried, while from the chair in the dark corner arose a figure from which came deep, deep laughter—as deep as that of most men—and also came the remark: "or a few moments' painful effort at controlling risibility."

"Bill, if you don't beat b-l for schemes, I'll eat my hat, and it ain't a good year for hats either," which remark was responded to by more hearty laughter, in the course of which "Bill" kicked over a soapbox, and with a dull crash down came the sack of "stuff" recently left by Mr. Hennessy et al.

While the extremely satisfactory investigation of the sack was going on the three gentlemen who had brought it walked up the trail somewhat quietly, much dazed, but with pride in every footfall. All day long they drank much and looked knowing, thereby causing their fellow citizens much inward disgust.

About 3 o'clock White made his appearance in camp and straightway sought his visitors of the morning. "Gentlemen, this is too much. Your kindness overwhelms me," he assured them, with grateful tears in his eyes.

"Oh, say, now, ole man, none o' that," said Faro, with a clasp of his hand on the Tussonian's shoulder that made the latter wince. "Ta' gent's talk don't go, does it, boys?"

"But"—began White.

"Come off, now, ole chap, 'r we'll feel insulted. Come, take a 'jolt.'"

White took a couple of "jolts" with them and took away with him the assurance that another word about not accepting what they gave him would really insult them.

Somewhere about the time that White came up to camp Largo Briggs stood in the doorway of his domicile, critically regarding the interior. Briggs had one of the best cabins in camp and had it quite "luxuriously" furnished. Moreover, he was quite famous as a remarkably neat housekeeper and endeavored to maintain that reputation. Today, however, found him very hard to please, and it was only after much labor that he got things in shape to even half suit him. Finally, however, he closed two doors and went down to camp, where he very impartially took a drink in each of the three saloons. Thus fortified, he remounted down the trail toward Johnny McAfee's.

As he neared the point where the path from the trail diverged toward Johnny's cabin his steps grew slower and slower. Presently he paused. As he did so he heard some one creeping stealthily through the

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

CALLED TO OTTAWA.

Premier Greenway and Hon. Mr. Sifton sent for by the Governor-General—A Startling Move on the Part of the Imperial Authorities.

Special to The Times.
Ottawa, May 13.—The extraordinary action in calling Premier Greenway and Hon. Mr. Sifton to Ottawa to confer with Archbishop Langens on the school question is said today to have been taken at the instance of the Colonial office. At this juncture as agitation on the school question might prevent the entrance of Newfoundland into Confederation, a move which, from an Imperial point of view, is looked upon as most desirable. If Lord Aberdeen can by his personal influence obtain a settlement, he will have the gratitude of the Governments of England, Canada and Newfoundland, but in undertaking the task the Governor-General is treading on dangerous ground since he may trespass on the prerogative of the Cabinet and arouse bitter antagonism against himself.

The story that Schults is bidding for a second term is emphatically denied. In fact he has announced formally to his friends a few weeks ago that he is quitting Government House, and, as everyone knows, Hon. J. C. Patterson is waiting to step into his shoes.

TO LYNCH HIM ON SIGHT.

The Relatives of Emma Hall Threaten Divine Vengeance.

Special to The Times.
Birmingham, May 13.—As a result of the information received from Detroit and from other places, in which inquiries were made, the local police have decided that there are no grounds on which to base a criminal charge against Rev. Jonathan Bell, the primitive Methodist clergyman, who, it is alleged, was, in a measure, responsible for the death in a lynging asylum of Emma Hall, the young English girl with whom he had maintained illicit relations. This decision of the police has excited much public indignation. Bell's whereabouts since his flight after confession to his wife that he was responsible for Miss Hall's condition and her visit to America, has not been learned, but it is believed that he is still in hiding somewhere in England. Some of the relations of the dead girl threaten to lynch him if they can find him. In an interview yesterday Mr. Bell, wife of the fugitive, declared that she had heard nothing from her husband since April 24th. At a recent meeting of Methodist ministers of the district a formal resolution was adopted recommending the Conference not to accept Bell's resignation, but to expel him from the ministry.

Women So Prefer It—The Coming National Council.

Special to The Times.
Ottawa, May 13.—The Ottawa branch of the National Council of Women of Canada, has decided by a vote of 56 to 45 in favor of silent prayer instead of public prayer at the annual convention of the organization to be held shortly. The officers of the National Council will be as follows, as there are no other nominations: President, Lady Aberdeen; Vice-president, Lady Thompson and Miss Laurier; vice-presidents for provinces, Ontario, Mrs. Macdonald; Quebec, Lady Carson; New Brunswick, Lady Tilley; Nova Scotia, Mrs. Archibald; Manitoba, Mrs. Taylor; record secretary, Mrs. H. C. Soper, Montreal; treasurer, Mrs. Hoodless, Hamilton.

HEMORRHAGE AND DEATH

Special to The Times.
Brookville, May 13.—Francis McLeop, aged 25, a farmer's daughter residing a few miles from town, took a fit of coughing after partaking of a meal. The coughing brought on hemorrhage causing death in five minutes.

A prominent young barrister, of Albion, M. A. Everett, was found dead in bed yesterday morning by his wife who had lain beside his corpse for three hours. He was the youngest son of M. K. Everett, the chess king of Eastern Ontario.

MEN AND HORSES KILLED.

HORNELLVILLE, N. Y., May 13.—The first section of Erie freight train No. 92 on the western division was wrecked east of Almond at 10 o'clock this morning. The wreck was caused by a broken wheel. The train was in charge of Conductor W. J. Harwell and Engineer Oakes. Twelve loaded cars were derailed, one of them containing 18 fine draught horses was telescoped and 11 of the horses were killed. S. M. Stewart, of Mercer, Pa., owner of the horses, was severely injured. Robert Piater, of Mercer, Pa., employed by Stewart and L. P. Foster, of Sandy Lake, Pa., owner of stock in other cars, was instantly killed. Brakeman P. J. Shesley, of this city, was injured. The truck was badly torn up, and no trains will be able to pass before tomorrow morning. The damage to the road is heavy.

A McMerchy, farming mills, Clinton, is dead.

The Times.

PETERBOROUGH, MAY 16 1895.

A Louisville jury has decided that Fulton Gordon is not guilty of murder. There was no attempt to deny that Gordon killed his wife and her lover; that fact was admitted. The husband stole upon the guilty pair, and, without giving them a chance to escape or defend themselves, he emptied the contents of two revolvers into them, killing them both. In spite of these facts the jury showed an indecent haste in pronouncing Gordon innocent, and the verdict is being belated as a triumph of justice. Quaker, crooked justice, this! For a man to give the rein to his passionate jealousy and glut his vengeance by the butchery of those who have wronged him, is simply barbarism; and a society in which every individual is at liberty to avenge his personal wrongs in his own way cannot be called civilized.

Last summer, through the influence of the Yankee boatmen at the Thousand Islands, a boycott was successfully enforced against Canadian boatmen on the American side of the river. No loyal American would engage a Canadian boatman, and then three or four hundred Canucks were thrown out of employment. Then, as light measure of retaliation, the Canadian government charged all foreign fishermen a license fee of $5 for the privilege of fishing on the Canadian side of the river. This has brought the loyal Yanks to time. A deputation from the American Anglers' association has waited upon the minister of marine and fisheries, and begged that the license fee be revoked, promising that if this is done the boycott against Canadian boatmen shall be lifted. A little judicious retaliation now and then does more good than much diplomacy could.

A Frenchman not yet famous, M. Bouvry, has made a discovery which he desires to sell to his Government. He describes it as "a plan for the suppression of war in Europe." He will not tell what it is until he gets the money or a promise to pay. So any one is at liberty to guess whether it is a moral plan or a mechanical, a diplomatic or bombastic, chemical, religious, military, or artistic plan. It may be a plan for fencing in France so that an enemy cannot get at her any more than she can get at an enemy. The carrying out of this plan during the past hundred years would have prevented lots of wars in Europe and checked the ambition of NAPOLEON. A plan of universal disarmament would insure the suppression of war if faithfully carried out by all parties. Any plan under which mankind could be induced to follow the precepts of the Gospel would give the world peace so long as it was followed all around. More than likely, however, M. Bouvry's plan is that whenever there is danger of war in Europe the hostile powers shall choose him as referee and stakeholder, under a pledge to abide by his decision. It might be advisable for French Government to purchase this plan, take out a patent for it, and force all other Governments, under threat of war, to live up to it.

ANCIENT EGYPTIAN TOMB PAINTINGS.

Wretched Vandals Are Destroying Invaluable Antiques in Art.

The new and valuable finds which are resulting from the increased activity on the part of the Ghizeh museum authorities in its exploration work are assisting in again drawing attention to the deplorable fact that nearly all the wall paintings and bas-reliefs on the tombs that have been opened to public inspection are rapidly being defaced. When a tomb is first broken into, the sculptures on the walls and the mural paintings are generally as fresh and perfect as the day they were done. In a few years' time, however, the colors disappear, the walls get mutilated and the sculptures stripped.

Some of this destruction is undoubtedly wrought by air being admitted to them, but the carelessness of the gaffers or fellahin caretakers is responsible for the greater portion of it. These men utterly fail to appreciate the value of the work, or even to understand the reason why it has such attractions for the thousands of tourists who annually inspect it. In order to earn a liberal backsheesh they light some wretched candle ends, which they insert in the cleft points of the sticks they carry, and then proceed to smear these feeble lights along the walls. The consequence of these proceedings is soon evident, for the colors are blackened, the designs are grooved over, and the best cracks the plaster which has been used for the reception of the pigments.

These men are so much occupied with this work that they are useless for the purpose of preventing those wretched vandals who are to be found among a certain section of globe trotters from scribbling their names over the place or chipping the walls to obtain pieces as mementos of their devastating pilgrimage. When it is remembered that these illustrations portray scenes in the history of a race of highly civilized people who lived thousands of years before the Christian era, who, besides being adepts in many of the arts and crafts practiced at the present day, were skilled in others which are lost to us, it can easily be understood that these records of their history and domestic life are priceless.

No amount of written history could so accurately tell their tale or awaken so much interest in these bygone ages. Their preservation is an imperative duty.

Only a short time ago these scenes were perfectly clear, the colors bright and the outline distinct. Now all this is changed. It is a disgrace to the age we live in. These records have descended to us, and we have apparently not sufficient energy or skill to rescue them from destruction or to transmit them to our successors. A few steps, however, in this direction can easily be made by appointing better caretakers, prohibiting candles being used, bullseye lanterns or magnesium wire lamps being substituted, and by limiting the number of people admitted at one time into the tombs and temples.—London Graphic.

She Got a Seat.
A pretty young girl stepped jauntily aboard a crowded car, and looking along the rows of seated passengers fastened her gaze on a man who had his coat collar pulled up to his ears, and a vacant, unconcerned and married expression on his countenance. "Won't you let me have that seat?" said the girl in a clear voice. Everybody pricked up his or her ears.

"Ask a man for his seat! Well, I never!" exclaimed a woman in a golf cape.

"What will women do next?" muttered a passenger holding a lawyer's bag that was replete of freshly ground coffee.

And then they all had the satisfaction of seeing the man with the turned up collar rise, and the girl plump into the vacated seat, saying as she did so, "I thought I'd find you in a Reservoir car, and we should get home for dinner before the crush."

"Her husband," said the woman in the golf cape. "Mean thing, to make her ask him to give her a seat!"—Boston Herald.

An Oddity in Name Combinations.
A family of the name of Carter living at Charlestown, Mass., has four sons whose first and middle names exhibit a remarkable combination of letters. The first name of each contains exactly the same number of letters as are found in each of the first names of the other three, and, what is most peculiar, the letters in each instance are the same—viz., "o," "i," "e" and "n." Besides the odd combination here shown, and which will be more fully exhibited below, the middle name of each ends with "ton." Here are the full names of the four:

Leon Carleton Carter.
Eino Carrington Carter.
Enol Washington Carter.
Noel Clinton Carter.

The family declare that this wonder of nomenclature was not discovered until after the youngest of the quartet was over a year old.—St. Louis Republic.

A THRILLING EXPERIENCE.

They Started Out to Fight Fire and Met Something Else.

An incident of the forest fire in the Pine Creek region is related by Sam Campbell, who works in the woods near Blackwell. Sam was one of the crew of men sent out to fight the fire. (Sight fire with him) and he declares that their experience was most thrilling.

While setting fire to a thicket that crowded a rocky ridge and his crew were started to find themselves suddenly in the midst of a lot of rattlesnakes. The forest fire was advancing up the side of the hill at a rapid rate. Its whistling, whirling sound as it devoured the hemlock tops was terrible, and the men were bent on building a line of fire to start to beat it, hoping that when the two lines met the fury of the flames would be subdued for lack of material on which to feed. It was while thus employed that they encountered the snakes.

The ground seemed to be literally alive with rattlesnakes, the reptiles crawling in the direction of a rocky bluff not more than 100 yards distant. The men were all equipped with high topped leather boots and paid little heed to the snakes, stopping on them as though they were harmless old sticks. Campbell says that the rattlesnakes were the most numerous he had ever seen above the rear of the distant flames. The "back fire" made by the men caught dozens of crawlers, and they were burned to death. Campbell said he watched several of the rattlesnakes "give up the ghost." When the flames advanced so close that the snakes saw further escape was impossible, they would coil up in a heap, darting their heads angrily at the tongues of flame, then suddenly relax, when the heat overcame them, a moment later to be devoured.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Napoleon's School Boy Character.
In August Bonaparte and Bourrienne shared the first prize in mathematics, and soon afterward, in the same year, 1784, a royal inspector, M. de Keralio, arrived at the school to test the progress of the king's sons. He took a great fancy to the little Bonaparte, and declaring that, though acquainted with his family, he found a "little Napoleon" in him, not to be mistaken. He wrote an enthusiastic recommendation of the lad, couched in the following terms: "M. de Bonaparte (Napoleon), born Aug. 15, 1769. Height, 4 pieds, 10 pouces, 10 lignes (1 metre, 69 centimeters, 18 millimeters), of good constitution, excellent health, mild (amiable) disposition. Has finished the fourth form. Straightforward (honnête) and obliging (reconnaissant). His conduct has been most satisfactory. Has always been distinguished for his application to mathematics, is fairly acquainted with history and geography, is weak in all accomplishments—drawing, dancing and the like. This boy would make an excellent sailor; deserves promotion to the school in Paris." Unfortunately for the prospect of a place in the navy, M. de Keralio, who was a powerful friend, died very soon afterward.—Professor Biogio's "New Life of Napoleon" in Century.

THE DYING CENTURY.

[When the time approaches for the century plant, or American also, to blossom, a species of the plant, which grows in the rocky thickets to a tree-like trunk, or tower, surmounted by a magnificent panicle of blossoms. The vitality of the plant is fairly equal to that of the century plant, and it is equally withered and dead.] The century plant blossomed. Each growing year unfolded like a wider, greener frond. Charmed from the stem by nature's magic wand, full after full, until the end drew near. Then high to air it came, the aerial spear in triumph, and the crown of glory dawned. Each petal gleaming with a diamond, for its impending doom a dewy tear.

The great white city was the white ragged flower. That crowned the ripe years of the century. In widening fronds came forth its life and power. Till like the alow's suddenly rising tower. Its hoarded strength in one grand ecstasy was spent, and now the century must die.—A. F. Jackson in Donahoe's Magazine.

HOW SOME MEN TALK.

The Socratic Sort of Conversation With Which They Greet Each Other.

It would puzzle a stranger to judge of the conversational abilities of Chicago by the chat which usually follows a meeting of friends on the street. This is one chat that verbatim:

"Hello, old man!"

"Hello, yourself! How's tricks?"

"Oh, so so, can't kick! How's things coming with you?"

"Right along. Haven't seen you for a month. How are you taking it?"

"Easy. Anything new with you?"

"Not a thing; same old song. Well, so long."

"So long. Take care of yourself."

One of the men was a bank president, the other a wholesale dry goods merchant. A board of trade leader met a prominent insurance manager. Both are well read men, of wide information and are accustomed good after dinner speakers. It was:

"Hello, old man!"

"Hello, Billy! How's tricks?"

"Nothing extra; about the same. How's the world with you?"

"Can't kick in these times. How's your conduct?"

"Same as usual. Anything new up your way?"

"Not a thing; same old song. Going my way?"

"No. So long."

"Well, so long. Look out for yourself."

A Dearborn street lawyer met a La Salle street lawyer. They are high in legal circles, have a fine standing in court and are cultivated, refined gentlemen. It was:

"Hello, old man!"

"Why, hello! How are you?"

"First class. How's your corporation?"

"Haven't a word to say. Business good?"

"Some coming in; nothing to bang of. How's the world with you?"

"Can't complain. Don't see much of you. What's new with you?"

"Nothing; same as usual. How's it coming with you?"

"So so; getting a living. Well, so long, old man. I'll see you later."

"So long. Take care of yourself."

"Sure."—Chicago Herald.

THE WHITEWAY CABINET

IMPORTANT CAUCUS RE THE CONFEDERATION NEGOTIATIONS.

Mr. Bond's Ottawa Mission—A Policy of Retrenchment—One of the Features of the New Government—Sensational Body Snatching Case in Bowmanville. Special to the Times.

T. JOHN'S, Nfld., May 14.—The White-way executive held two Cabinet meetings today. The situation in respect of Confederation with Canada is not as satisfactory as it might be. The debt of Newfoundland is $15,000,000 and this is a formidable obstacle to the Union. Canada's debt is only $10,000,000 of Newfoundland's debt, which would represent the same proportion of debt per capita indebtedness. There is a slight likelihood of the Imperial Government assuming the remaining $5,000,000.

It is reported that the government is trying to negotiate another loan to help meet the claims of the savings banks deposits, and it is said that this is partly the object of Mr. Bond's mission to Ottawa. The government is preparing to introduce a stringent retrenchment scheme at Thursday's meeting of the Legislature. It also promises to present a report of the Confederation negotiations with Canada.

GRAVE DEERATORS.
BOWMANVILLE, May 14.—There is intense excitement in town over a grave robbery at the corporation cemetery. About fourteen years ago the wife of Captain Thomas Brown, a shipmaker on Lake Ontario, died and was buried in the same grave with her child. A few nights ago some persons unknown broke into the cemetery superintendent's house and took above and two spades to the opposite side of the cemetery where Mrs. Brown was buried. The bodies were exhumed and taken away but pieces of the coffin, the breast plate and head of hair were found near the grave. No explanation can be given for the robbery as medical students would not want a corpse that has been so long interred.

CONFERENCE OF THE ANTON.
ORANVILLE, May 14.—The annual conference of the synod of Toronto and Kingston is being held here this week. The first session was held at 8 o'clock. There are already many ministrations of the Holy Spirit in the work of the church through the officers and members, who are well delivered by Rev. D. McKinnis, Orangeville, and Wm. Patterson, Toronto. The discussion was lively and lasted till 10 o'clock. Rev. J. J. Elliott, Hillsboro, presided.

DRUG SMUGGLERS FALL OUT.

A Former Port Colborne Druggist Held for Smuggling Phenacetins.

SPECIAL TO THE TIMES.
BUFFALO, May 14.—An indictment was found by the last federal grand jury sitting at Utica, against A. E. Kingston, druggist, for phenacetine smuggling. Kingston gave bail for appearance at the next term of the United States court. A couple of years ago he was fined $1,500 for the same offence. The druggist was formerly a resident of Port Colborne, Ont., where he became well acquainted with one Jerry O'Leary, well known along the line of the Welland Canal. O'Leary smuggled the stuff, delivered it to Kingston, and upon settlement being made claimed to have been defrauded by Kingston and threatened to make it "hot" for the druggist. The process of wrangling him has begun in the proceedings mentioned.

EDWARD BLAKE TO RETIRE.
He May Be Appointed a Member of the Privy Council Judicial Committee.

LONDON, May 14.—I learn on good authority that it is understood in Nationalist circles that Mr. Edward Blake intends to retire from the British Parliament at the end of the present session. He feels now no hope that his presence in the House of Commons will be of any use in the Home Rule bill by the House of Commons makes his presence indispensable. Another reason is that some Nationalists notably Timothy Healey, who worked to secure Mr. Blake's presence, now favor his retirement. Mr. Blake himself says nothing, but his friends say it is possible to retain his association with England by making him a member of the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council, before which he has become a foremost advocate. Mr. Blake still talks of Canada as his home, but expresses no desire to return to Canadian politics.

The Times.

PETERBOROUGH, MAY 17 1895.

AUDITOR-GENERAL'S REPORT.

This Auditor's report is one of the bulkiest blue books published. It contains a detailed statement of the public expenditure for the year. More than that it is a statement prepared by an officer independent of the Government of the day. The Auditor-General is responsible only to Parliament and can be removed from office only by an open vote of Parliament. When he and the Government have a dispute over a payment, the correspondence about it is all printed in his report so that Parliament may be fully informed of the affair. But it is perfectly plain that if no one is going to make a business of reading his report, any human being in his position will feel that it is a thankless task for him to be strictly strict in the scrutiny of Government expenditures. Of course, the present officer will continue to do his duty in any case; but McDougall does not grow on every bush. And at all events, he deserves something better than neglect.

But this is only the smallest reason why it is in the public interest that some at least should closely study the Auditor-General's report. The Auditor himself does not interfere with legal and authorized expenditure. It is the province of Parliament to criticize the manner in which its votes are used, and to suggest the reduction of recurring votes by the trimming off of useless details. These details it finds in the Auditor's report; and will continue to do so, if we do not laugh the members out of the habit of looking into that volume. It provides the only means of intelligently criticizing the smaller items in the estimates. It tears aside many a fair looking general description, which, like charity, covers a multitude of sins. The country will be the loser on the day that the members cease to fag through its tedious items, and refuse to interest themselves in any thing but large sums and conspicuous business. If the Patrons get into the House, it is safe to venture the prediction that they will make great use of the Auditor-General's report.

We have the information that yellow fever is again in Cuba, and that the fatality from it is unusually large, partly by reason of the prevalent disorder and the presence of over 20,000 unacclimated Spanish troops, who are under constant exposure in the eastern parts of the island.

A decrease of $102,000 in profits and a drop of three and a-half in the price of stock indicates that the Bank of Montreal has suffered in common with other big institutions from the depression, though not to anything like the same extent as some. That the falling off is so slight is proof of the excellence of Mr. Clouston's management.

The meeting of the Grand Orange Lodge of British North America, which should take place this month, has been postponed until the end of July. Is this done for the purpose of preventing the members from pronouncing further upon the Manitoba school question until after the Federal elections are over?

The Globe is in line with the more advanced section of its own party in demanding the abolition of the Senate. The slower members of the Opposition should hasten to catch up. The abolition of a useless chamber which requires every year the produce of over $,000,000 of wheat for its maintenance would be one of the most popular planks that could be placed in a party platform.

IN AN OLD ATTIC.

The Many Quaint Treasures of the Olden Time It Contained.

Yesterday I found a delightful book, and of course it was in an attic. Our ancestors may not have stored things in attics expressly to have us discover them, but we continue to do so from time to time, and they are undoubtedly more interesting from being a bit cobwebby and mysterious. The attic in which I found the delicious book had in it hidden things which looked as if they might be the first patterns of everything we use now. Probably the most desirable trait about this attic was that it did not possess a place for anything or anything in its place.

For instance, I found a bonnet hanging on a pair of andirons.

But for the green silk strings no one would ever dream it was a bonnet. It looked much more like a coal scuttle and had as many enormous bones as a prehistoric skeleton. It must have belonged to a very great grandmother. No one without several greats before her name could have worn that bonnet! Behind the andirons was a cradle, and in the cradle was a long pole with a red silk arrangement which once meant a fire screen. Beside it stood a clock, with a moon face and long chains and weights. It looked so much like a Dutch doll, with just head and legs, that I laughed aloud. But an attic is not a place in which to laugh unless one has company. Everything was rebukingly still, and so was I immediately.

Near the clock was a table shaped like a long legged spider. It looked as if just ready to walk off alone. I was quite sure it belonged to the bonnet and the fire screen, and that somewhere there were blue cups and saucers, which one might break by talking too loud, and that they belonged to the table.

I drew it out and rested it against the table. Of course it was dusty. I never heard of the right sort of an attic which was kept dusted. It was the picture of a lady. I know that at once, just as we always know a lady when we see one. The picture was rather dim, but I could easily discern that she was young and slim, with a white throat and bright, dark eyes. Her hair, done very high, was of a ruddy brown, and she had on a short waisted white satin frock, and held a half open fan primly in her hands.

It was easy to see that she was just where she belonged—beside the spider legged table. I had no doubt that she could have told the whereabouts of the blue cups and saucers. Thinking about this lady, my eyes encountered another pair of eyes staring straight at mine. My heart jumped once and stood still until I recognized the eyes as my own.

I was gazing into a mirror. It was a dim, queer mirror, with a crack like an enormous smile across its face and pale enough to hold only the ghost of light which once shone in it. Two rods supported it. They held a brass candlestick apiece and rested on a little stand which had a drawer. I sat down on a hair trunk before this letter stand. The drawer had brass knobs and might have been locked once, but time or rust made it open easily, and then—such an assortment of odds and ends! Faded ribbons and flowers and beads and a feather fan, which, when I opened it, filled the air with a musty dust that made me sneeze! Under these scraps was a box, and under the box was a book—the book—"The Black Duck," by Virginia W. Cloud, in St. Nicholas.

CHATELLE NOT RESPONSIBLE.

His Lawyer Claims that he is Affected With a Form of Insanity.

Special to the Times.

OTTAWA, May 16.—The case of Chattle, the murderer of Jessie Keith, sentenced to be executed on the 31st inst., has taken a new turn, his lawyer, Mr. East, has submitted a contention to the Department of Justice that the man is afflicted with a peculiar form of insanity mentioned in the records of a German expert, and that he was therefore, irresponsible for his crime. Even the fact that Chattle tried to escape in woman's clothes is cited in support of the theory. The question will doubtless be submitted to Chief Justice Armour, the trial judge, in accordance with the practice of the Department, and on receipt of his reply the Executive will come to a decision.

A Station of Death.

LONDON, May 16.—Between 20 and 30 non-commissioned officers and men of No. 25 Battery, Royal Artillery, have died of yellow fever at St. Lucia, West Indies. They left Halifax, N. S., for St. Lucia last January. The remainder of the battery will be invalided to England, and their places taken by No. 30 Battery, now at Halifax.

more continuously, the member who had the floor.

"No," said Mr. Speaker, "it is not in order for any member to interrupt."

Mr. Coatsworth: "In my judgement the honorable gentleman's language invited comment and interruption."

Mr. Devlin: "The question is whether the honorable gentleman who has just spoken has any judgment or not. If the speaker had to give a ruling on that point it would probably be in my favor." (Laughter.)

SVENGALIS IN SIBERIA.

Strange Experiences of a Man While in the Russian Gao.

Special to the Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 16.—Robt. Ohman, a passenger on the steamer City of Pekin, which arrived from Hong Kong yesterday, tells a peculiar story of hypnotism, said to have been practiced upon himself and a number of others while confined in Russian prisons in Siberia. With nine others who composed the crew of the schooner Emma, which sailed from Douglas City, Alaska, in 1883, on a sailing voyage, he said he was seized by Russian officers on the La Galina Islands. Ohman said he did not know what charge was placed against them, but, nevertheless, they were locked up in goal on the island, and kept there for several weeks. They then were taken to a place on the coast, where they were supposed to stand trial for their offence. All the proceedings were conducted in the Russian language, and no defence offered. After the court adjourned Ohman was sent to the prison at Vladivostok. There, he says, he was hypnotized by a Government official. What he did after that he does not remember until he was placed on a steamer for Nagasaki in the care of an Englishman or a German and handed over to the American Consul at Nagasaki, who secured transportation for him to America. He could not tell what had become of his shipmates, whom he left in the Siberian prison, but he believes he was the means of sending them all to the gallows by the stories he told about them while under hypnotic influence.

Weak, Tired, Nervous

Women, who seem to be all worn out, will find in purified blood, made rich and healthy by Hood's Sarsaparilla, permanent relief and strength. The following is from a well known nurse:

"I have suffered for years with female complaints and kidney troubles and I have had a great deal of medical advice during that time, but have received little or no benefit. A friend advised me to take Hood's Sarsaparilla and I began to use it, together with Hood's Pills. I have realized more benefit from these medicines than from anything else I have ever taken. From my personal experience I believe Hood's Sarsaparilla to be the most complete blood purifier." Mrs. C. O'Connell, 71 Cumberland St., Toronto, Ontario.

LOCAL AND DISTRICT HAPPENINGS OF THE DAY.

Wedding at Young's Point.

At Young's Point Thursday night a quiet wedding ceremony took place when Mr. Elliott, a long time resident of that section was married to Miss Brooks, formerly of Lakeside.

Young Violette's Body Found.

The younger brother of Oliver Violette, the lad who slipped off the dam at the Waterworks pumping station nearly two weeks ago, was drowned, while paddling in the river Thursday, a short distance below the dam, discovered the body of his unfortunate brother in a badly disfigured condition. In his efforts to reach the body, the lad cut his legs.

New Books at the Institute.

The following new books have been received at the Mechanics' Institute: The Great Dominion, Parkin; Municipalities at Work, Dolman; Napoleon's Military Career, Gibbs; Hail of Fairmount Grange; Meacham; Seething Days, Holroyd; Household of McNeill, Barr; Eddie Hazen, Wain; A Bachelor Maid, Harrison; Home Sweet Home, Soanes; Phantom Death, Clarke Russell; Real Chincaman, Holcomb; Liberation of Italy, Cesareo.

A Meeting of Ministers.

Next week all the ministers of the Campbellford district of the Bay of Quinte Conference of the Methodist church will assemble in Campbellford at their district meeting, when reports of the progress of the various churches will be presented. It will be held on Wednesday and Thursday next, 22nd and 23rd inst. The ministerial session will begin at 10.30 o'clock the first day. In the evening the annual meeting of the Women's Missionary Society will be held, commencing at 8 o'clock.

The Voting Contest.

Next Friday, May 24, the voting contest for the most popular bachelor in Peterborough will close, and the gentlemen who heads the list on the morning of May 24th will be presented with a new hat. Up to the time the ballot is cast, there have been about 30,000 voting coupons having been clipped, marked and left at this office. It is impossible to say who will be the winner, but there appears to be several favorites whose admirers are voting for them every day. No doubt during the closing week of the contest the fight will be a hot one, and the winner each day will be looked for with interest.

Caution to Fruit Growers.

It will be well for all who are interested to study the following clause of a bill entitled "An Act for the Prevention of Fraud in the Sale of Fruit"—Every person who shall knowingly and with intent to defraud sell or dispose of apples, pears, plums, cherries, grapes, apricots or berries of any description whatever, in any box, crate, barrel, basket or other article for delivery to any other person in such a manner as to conceal defects in size or quality in any portion of such fruit by covering the same with fruit of larger size or better quality or otherwise, shall be liable on summary conviction thereof to a penalty of not less than $1 nor more than $5 and costs. About time to protect the public. It should apply to cordwood and potatoes.

To Be Kept from Harm.

To keep them from starvation and from immoral temptations, the Magistrate has assigned two young girls to the Children's Aid Society. The Magistrate, Mr. Dumble, was impelled to take this course after having studied the charges against a man for non-support of his family. The parents are not aggrieved at the action that has been taken. Under the benign protection of the Society, it is to be expected that whenever the girls leave their shelter they will be fit to earn a living in an honorable way. If, after they have left the Society's jurisdiction, they should fall by the wayside in India, where they are sent, all who love their fellows will hope that the Society's treatment of the young girls will be "like bread cast upon the waters, to be found after many days."

The Harwood Road.

The Cobourg Post says that indications point to an early opening of the Harwood road between Cobourg and that village by the Grand Trunk Railway Company. It is likely that arrangements will be completed at an early date to have the road running by the side of the lake. This year the company commencing the work on the Harwood road to connect with the train from Cobourg. The boat will be open to charter for excursions and fishing parties for any part of the lake. This additional accommodation to reach Rice Lake has been strongly agitated by Mr. R. Hook, the local agent of the Grand Trunk at Cobourg, and had gentlemen had many opportunities to discover the disadvantages offered to the travelling public who desire to reach Rice Lake.

Frost Damage to Crops.

Farmers on the market [Wednesday] told quite a different story to the one of a few days ago. On Saturday they were quite jubilant over the "great growing weather" as they called it. There was frost on Monday night and the effect of the frost yesterday reported that it had destroyed early vegetables to a very considerable extent. Potatoes, beans, cabbages, etc., had been damaged. From all parts of Ontario come the reports of great damage done by the recent cold snap. In some parts the frost was so severe that it killed the corn and wheat to the thickness of half an inch. Farmers and market gardeners who were in the city yesterday, said that besides fruits and vegetables being destroyed, the pea crops in many places are badly nipped. Other grains have escaped. The weather that has followed the big drop in the temperature is most favorable. The cold rain removes the chill, but had a hot sun followed, crops that now look healthy would have turned black.

She's Coming East.

A young woman, of Havelock, went to Campbellford about three months ago and tried to secure a situation as servant in a family, but was unsuccessful. She said she had worked three years and a half with a family in Norwood, and was anxious to get into a good place. Falling in this, she succeeded in obtaining employment in the waterroom of the Trent Valley Woolen Mills. Last week it was learned that she had been engaged in dishonest work. She went into a certain room and ordered some oranges, which were given her, telling the proprietor to charge the account for same to the owner. By procuring the same same she obtained a pair of boots and a hat and a pair of gloves at two other business places, saying on each occasion that the goods were for certain persons in the village. At one store she was made, and it was discovered that the family to whom the account was charged had not received the goods. Some of the young acquaintances of the girl who got an intimation of her moves told her that the constable was looking for her, and she became frightened and made a hurried departure on Saturday. It is said she went eastward.

WOMEN MISSION WORKERS.

Ontario's Women Gather in the Interest of Home and Foreign Mission Work.

Women delegates from all parts of Ontario are in attendance at the annual meeting of the Women's Foreign and Home Missionary Society of Ontario West which convened Wednesday morning at the Murray street Baptist church. The large attendance is evidence of the great interest the women of Ontario are taking in missionary work. The following delegates registered yesterday: Messdames D. J. Robertson, C. J. Holman, R. J. Colville, Alexander, Newman, L. G. Welton, J. E. Wells, Laid, Watt, Tingley, Hooper, Hawking, Chadd, Boyd, Kresland, C. T. Stark, Cowan, Moore, Clarke, House, A. Kitchner, Little, A. H. McMaster, Pease and Misses Pearl Smith, Stark, V. Elliott, Buchanan, Boyd, Love, Moyle, McQuarrie, T. Hargrave, Toronto; Messdames Lloyd, Alan Donovan, Garside, F. Hessel and Misses Tapscott and Copp, Hamilton; Mrs. (Dr.) Tracy and Mrs. Eva Ross, York, Belleville; Mrs. Hamilton, Greenbank; Mrs. E. Sanderson, Smith; Mrs. C. Heywood, Guelph.

Mrs. C. J. Holman, of Toronto, who is president, is presiding at the convention, and is filling that important position with great acceptance. Yesterday's proceedings were both interesting and instructive. In the morning, after the opening hymn and Scripture lesson, Mrs. (Dr.) Hunter welcomed the visiting delegates at the convention to Peterborough in a pleasing address, on behalf of the Peterborough Mission Circle—and the women of the congregation. Mrs. Holman acknowledged the address briefly and to the point. Numerous associational reports were read of an encouraging nature. In many of these the importance of mission bands was urged. The report on Indian work by Mrs. J. E. Wells, of Toronto, proved of great interest and a resolution urging the importance of this work upon the Baptist Association, was adopted. Following this an excellent paper on "The Mission Band" was read by Miss A. M. Tapscott, of Hamilton.

In the afternoon the reports of the Nominating Committee, recording secretary, Visitor and "barens" were read; also the corresponding secretary's report. At 3.45 a home mission circle meeting was held at the church before it. The church was crowded at the evening session, and a large congregation listened to two splendid addresses, one by Mrs. Henry Lloyd, of Hamilton, on "The Mission to the French; Evangelistic, Philanthropic, Patriotic," and by Rev. O. C. S. Wallace, of Toronto, on "The Gospel of Christ the Stability of the Nation."

CLOSE OF THE CONVENTION.

End of the Session of the Women's Home and Foreign Missionary Society.

The Women's Foreign and Home Missionary Society of Ontario went to a close Thursday night after a very successful and useful two days' session.

The Murray street Baptist church was crowded at last night's meeting, and for one hour and a half the congregation was entertained and instructed by Miss Pearl Smith of Toronto.

Rev. H. F. Fauslame, the returned missionary to the Telugu, who was to have delivered an address was unavoidably absent. His wife, Mrs. Fauslame, who went further into her subject than he otherwise would have done. Miss Smith is a medical graduate and intends going to the mission fields in India, where she has a brother. Her subject last night was "Medical Missions."

Yesterday was devoted to the Foreign Mission work and that Board devotedly with the work before it. At the morning session President Mrs. Booker, of Woodstock delivered an excellent address. The paper of the morning was on "Educational Work" by Mrs. Elizabeth Dryden, of Brocklin. The different reports were read and proved very interesting and encouraging.

At the afternoon session the delegates listened to two very instructive papers, the first on "The Three Calls," by Mrs. (Dr.) Tracy, of Belleville, and the second on "Some of the women of India," by Mrs. Garside, of Toronto.

The new officers of the Board are: President—Mrs. Booker, Woodstock; 1st Vice-President—Mrs. Freehand, Toronto; 2nd Vice-President—Mrs. Yale, Brantford; Recording Secretary—Miss Annie Moyle, Toronto; Corresponding Secretary—Miss Buchanan, Toronto; Treasurer—Mrs. Elliott, Toronto.

A CHORUS OF 2,000 VOICES.

The Union of Choirs of Eastern Ontario to be Held Here.

Citizens of Peterborough will be treated to one of the finest musical festivals ever held in Canada.

At a meeting held in the parlors of the Y.M.C.A. last night, at which were present representatives from all the church choirs of the town, it was decided to accept the offer of Prof. C. A. Waters for the holding of the immense gathering of choir singers in Peterborough. The date of the gathering was not definitely fixed, but it will be between the 1st and 15th of August next.

This great gathering of musical voices will compose all the choirs between Toronto and Kingston including both of those cities. Fully 2,000 voices will take part in this choral reunion. Last year the gathering was held in Saratoga and it took eleven trains to convey the singers and their accompaniment. The success of last year's meeting that this year the attendance is expected, will be increased by fully one half.

The choir singers last night organized and on motion adopted the name of the Peterborough Choral Union. Mr. G. W. Sullivan was appointed director and Mr. W. F. Eklund, secretary. Mr. Sullivan will immediately enter into the work of preparation and arrangements for the gathering.

The committee was appointed to wait on the town council and ask for a guarantee of $250 in case the local choirs do not realize enough to defray expenses.

The chorus will be held in the Driving Park Grand stand.

MR. JEFFRIES RESIGNS

As Superintendent of the George Street Methodist Sunday School.

The annual meeting of the George street Methodist Sunday School was held last night.

Mr. B. Jeffries, B.A., who has been superintendent for two years announced his resignation owing to a multiplication of duties which would not allow of his giving that attention to the work which should be given it. The resignation was accepted by an unanimous vote. The following officers were elected:

Superintendent—S. R. Armstrong.

Assistant Superintendent—A. Parker.

Treasurer—J. S. Knappman.

Secretary—A. E. Dixon.

Librarians—F. H. Dobbin, W. F. Hillard.

R. Richardson, O. B. Shortly, R. Dickson.

George Frost and A. Turner.

RITE OF CONFIRMATION.

Over 100 Young Men and Women Came to St. John's.

St. John's Church was crowded to the doors last night when the rite of confirmation was administered to 103 young men and women. The Rev. J. J. McKeown, Rector, presided, and Rev. B. Andrews, Rev. C. B. Knorr, and Rev. H. Symonds were present beside his Lordship the Bishop of Niagara.

The regular evening service was read and the Rev. J. J. McKeown spoke on the subject of confirmation. The usual questions were asked the candidates, after which the solemn rites were administered.

CONNECTION SEVERED.

The Park Street Baptist Mission Has Become a Full-Fledged Church.

At last the Park street Baptist mission is no longer under the jurisdiction of the Murray street Baptist church, having become an independent body. The separation was effected by the action of the congregation at the annual meeting held on Wednesday last. The mission had had outgrown its swaddling clothes.

The first service at the new church took place on Sunday, with the Rev. W. P. Pady in the pulpit. In the morning the reverend gentlemen took for his text, "For I determined not to know anything among you, save Christ, and Him crucified" (1 Cor. ii. 2). The phraseology of the sermon had a direct bearing on the new church.

During the evening service the choir sang "Redemption Song," and Miss Smart and Mr. Pady did their part well.

The officers of the new church are:

Deacons—Messrs. F. G. Hunt, A. L. Grover and T. G. Gillespie.

Clerk—Miss M. E. Mann.

Trustees—Messrs. F. K. Hunt, T. G. Gillespie, W. C. Barrie, W. D. Scott, M. D., and Benjamin Wilson.

Laher—Messrs. F. G. Gillespie, James Booth and George Benton.

GAVE HIMSELF UP.

Came to Peterborough and Sent Word to a Constable in Campbellford.

An unexpected visitor made his appearance in Campbellford, on Thursday, no less than Mr. Abraham Wilson, who nearly two years ago, was accused of shooting at his son and daughter at his residence in the western part of the village.

Immediately after the shots were fired, Wilson took his departure and escaped arrest. He travelled westward and landed at Manitowish Island where he went to work at his trade as a carpenter. One day he fell from a building and broke his leg, and the bones of his foot, besides receiving the wound which required his removal to a hospital where he remained eleven months.

Last week he arrived at Peterborough, and at once sent word to Constable Robinson to meet him at the station, as he intended returning to Campbellford. True to his word Wilson stepped off the car at the station, a cripple leaning upon a crutch for support, as he is yet unable to press his foot upon the ground. He then presented himself at the office of Police Magistrate Lynch, to surrender himself, and was released. He then sent the warrant which was issued for his arrest, to County Crown Attorney Kerr, at Cobourg, advising him to proceed in the matter as he thought best.

Mr. Wilson claims he is innocent of any attempt upon the lives of his son and daughter. He says he simply fired off the gun as a joke, and when he was told he had stolen the deed of his place they plotted together to run away from the house while he was in the hospital, and he was arrested. They will not likely appear against him.

Mr. Wilson was taken into custody by constable Robinson and held in the jail for eight days to the Cobourg jail. He left there on the 10 train on Tuesday morning, accompanied by the constable, and was placed in the prisoner's cell to await his trial.

WITH THE SPORTS.

The Valicans turned out strong last night for practice on the Riverside Park grounds.

The Athletics will go to Campbellford on May 24th with a strong team. Their chances of capturing the prize offered are good.

BORROW, MAY 16.—Corbett will never apologise to the National Sporting Club. If they wait for such action on his part their hairs will turn white with age," said Corbett last night.

On the baseball grounds yesterday afternoon the Toronto league team defeated Scranton by a score of 10 to 3. Shaw pitched a good game for the local nine, and Quarrel, who was in the box for the visitors, went all to pieces in the second inning, allowing Toronto to bat out eight runs. Delaney then went into the box, and for the balance of the game, held Toronto down to five hits. Loose playing in the ninth inning allowed Scranton to escape a whitewash and score three runs.

At the Gravesend track yesterday the Brooklyn Handicap, the first of the great spring events, was run before an immense crowd of spectators. Dr. Rice was the favorite at 5 to 3, Ramapo being 3 to 2. Roy at 5 to 1, Sir Walter 5 to 1, Luzzarone 30 to 1, Hornpipe 30 to 1. The race was won by Hornpipe, splendidly ridden by Hamilton; Luzzarone (L. Murphy) was beaten out of first first place by a scant half length and Sir Walter, three lengths away, and a very third horse, was third. Counter Tenor, Roy el Santa Anita, declares, Dr. Rice, Rabbon, Assagene, Luzzarone, Ramapo and Ed Kearney finished in the order named. The race was worth about $10,000 to the winner. A trial of the new racing law was made, and it showed evidence of becoming popular. The bookies did not shut the odds, and they were very quiet. They had plenty of work to do, however.

Moral reformers will find good food for reflection in the statement made recently by Hon. G. W. Ross that it costs $5.50 to educate a child, $91.35 to keep a prisoner in jail, and $127 to keep a prisoner in the central prison. For the amount of money that it takes to keep an offender in the Central prison, 10 children could receive a year's education.

If a merchant makes a mistake he never tells it; if a lawyer makes a mistake he crawls out of it; but if an editor makes a mistake he puts it on a sheet of paper for the world to look at, and in every community there are cranks who think they are models of wisdom because they occasionally discover it.

Seafarer's Expositor says:—A very peculiar and unusual weather phenomenon occurred in this town on Monday of last week, in what appeared to be a shower of black snow. It was particularly noticeable on washing hung out that day, the clothes being covered with lanky looking spots, which in some cases necessitated a second washing. Reports from other places show that the black shower was not confined to Seafarer but visited several places both to the north and to the south of us.

A Train Derailed.

The Lindsay Post says:—Yesterday morning, shortly before 8 a. m., the train from Lindsay to Cobourg, Monday afternoon, was running into the gravel pit from the main line, near Fenelon Falls, the engine and one car were thrown from the rails by a misplaced switch, which had been changed by some malicious or ignorant person. Fortunately the train was moving at a slow rate of speed, or the engine would have brought up in the lake. The auxiliary train was sent out in charge of Roadmaster Ferguson, who succeeded in cleaning the track without any serious material damage. The engine was moved to the shops for a couple of days.

Little Lake Cemetery.

The directors made their annual spring visit to the Little Lake Cemetery Monday afternoon. It was decided that a new fence should be erected around the plot of ground recently bought from Mr. Bradburn, graves there will also be planted upon it. Additional drainage will be done at the cemetery this year, under the direction of the management committee, and hereafter an additional charge of 50 cents for adults and 75 cents for children will be made for the opening of graves. In consideration of the receiving of this fee the company will undertake to see that the graves are kept properly sodded for all time. Directions were given for the removal of all footstones from graves where there are headstones in position. Resolutions were adopted cordially thanking Mr. J. R. Stratton, M.P., the President of the Company and Mr. Moore for the success attending their efforts to obtain from the Legislature the amendments to the Cemetery Act for which they asked.

PETERBOROUGH, MAY 17 1895.

AUDITOR-GENERAL'S REPORT.

This Auditor's report is one of the bulkiest blue books published. It contains a detailed statement of the public expenditure for the year. More than that it is a statement prepared by an officer independent of the Government of the day. The Auditor-General is responsible only to Parliament and can be removed from office only by an open vote of Parliament.

When he and the Government have a dispute over a payment, the correspondence about it is all printed in his report so that Parliament may be fully informed of the affair. But it is perfectly plain that if no one is going to make a business of reading his report, any human being in his position will feel that it is a thankless task for him to be sternly strict in the scrutiny of Government expenditures.

Of course, the present officer will continue to do his duty in any case; but Mr. McDonald do not grow on every bush. And at all events, he deserves something better than neglect.

But this is only the smallest reason why it is in the public interest that some at least should closely study the Auditor-General's report. The Auditor himself does not interfere with legal and authorized expenditure. It is the province of Parliament to criticize the manner in which its votes are used, and to suggest the reduction of recurring votes by the trimming off of useless details. These details it finds in the Auditor's report; and will continue to do so, if we do not laugh the members out of the habit of looking into that volume. It provides the only means of intelligently criticizing the smaller items in the estimates. It tears aside many a fair looking general description, which, like charity, covers a multitude of sins. The country will be the loser on the day that the members cease to dig through its tedious items, and refuse to interest themselves in any thing but large sums and conspicuous business. If the Patrons get into the House, it is safe to venture the prediction that they will make great use of the Auditor-General's report.

LIBERALS AND NEWFOUNDLAND

We agree with our esteemed contemporary the Montreal Star that, there will be no blame attached in the popular mind to the Opposition for endeavoring to learn as much as it can about the negotiations between the Government and the Newfoundland delegation. The evident unwillingness of the Ministers to impart such information and the delicious case with which Mr. Foster's temper takes the bit in its own mouth, will, no doubt prompt the Liberals to continue their badgering policy. But there is one line of attack which, if they be wise, they will avoid so much as the appearance of eulogizing; and that is the premature disparagement of the union project before the terms accepted or even submitted are known. Mr. Davies' references on Friday last to the sad financial condition of the colony, looked very like a squint in this direction. Of course the colony is hard up. If it had not been, no delegation seeking terms of union would have appeared at Ottawa this spring. But it yet remains to be said that Canada must take upon its shoulders any unreasonable financial burden in order to enable the Newfoundlanders to come into Confederation. On the contrary, it is being said upon more or less good authority that no such demand will be made upon us.

In any case, it is not our duty to go out to meet the disagreeable. The public man who wishes to reflect public and patriotic opinion on this point will take rather an attitude favoring the admission of Newfoundland into the Dominion on fair and reasonable terms, and believing that such terms are possible until it is positively proven that they are not. Certainly, unreasonable demands on the part of Newfoundland should not be imagined by us before they are actually made by the Newfoundlanders. We stand ready to welcome the Ancient Colony on terms that are friendly as well as fair. If she will not enter Confederation on such a basis, let her representatives be the first to announce this bar to cur union and let our welcoming hand be not lowered until it is sure that it will not be taken in the spirit in which it is extended.

That such will be the end of the present negotiations is most highly improbable. Britain, Canada and Newfoundland seem to be all very strongly in favor of the proposed union, and it would be curious, indeed, if these three could not get their way in the matter. Secretary Bond seems to be coming hastily to Canada as if to put the finishing touches upon the scheme before submitting it to the Newfoundland Legislature; and it will not be good tactics for the Liberals to be caught in an attitude that has the slightest appearance of opposition to the admission of Newfoundland into Confederation on fair terms. It will be perfectly safe to openly favor the step, until driven reluctantly to oppose it by the presence of unsurmountable obstacles. For it is possible—and indeed probable—that these "obstacles" will never materialize.

PEACE IN THE ORIENT.

The Japan-China treaty of peace has been ratified by China and is now an accomplished fact notwithstanding the opposition of several European powers. The shrewd Japanese, however, have reached an understanding with the great powers by which Japan renounces its claim to the permanent possession of Liao Yung peninsula, including Port Arthur. By this move Japan averts the interference of Russia and places all the protecting powers under great moral obligations to the island empire. The strip of country and the fortress and ports which Japan relinquishes could have been valuable to her as strategic points, only as a protection for Korea against the aggressiveness of China at some future time; but having yielded these military advantages in compliance with the demands of Russia, Germany and France there devolves upon the protecting nations a responsibility that they cannot well shirk to maintain the independence of Korea for whose national integrity Japan inaugurated the war. The independence of Korea therefore is guaranteed not only by Japan and China, but is sanctioned by all the great powers. With that decision China cannot hope to interfere.

But in giving up the Liao Yung peninsula and its ports Japan undoubtedly yields great commercial advantages which it hoped to retain. These where of greater value than any political advantage of a slice of Chinese territory on the mainland. For an extension of Japanese jurisdiction to the peninsula of Liao Yung, sandwiched between China and Korea, and isolated from Japan by the Yellow sea, would have been a fruitful source of irritation and complications to all three countries. In giving up the peninsula and Port Arthur, Japan drops the hot end of a troublesome poker and the protecting nations, possibly may yet burn their fingers with it.

On the other hand the cession of the island of Formosa to Japan is of great value in both a strategic and commercial sense. It is contiguous territory and needed for the perfect autonomy of the mikado's empire. China had only an imperfect hold on Formosa, the interior of the island and especially the mountainous regions, being dominated by independent tribes, a fierce race of savages who respected neither Chinese nor any other authorities. The "Black Flags" of the mountain regions and the pirates of the coast have been a terror to all people in that vicinity. The next best turn which Japan can do for the civilized world is to send one of its armies to Formosa and thoroughly subdue the rebellious tribes and establish a stable government—and doubtless the alert Japanese will not be slow to make certain the possession of their newly acquired territory.

Now that the Grand Trunk company has lost its Tyler it ought to be easier for outsiders to work their way in.

Sir Richard is evidently bent upon going gunning after Mr. Blue, Ontario's official statistician. This is another reason why Cartwright should be known as the Blue-ruin Knight.

The fact that ministers are refusing to give information about the Hudson's Bay railway "loan," goes a little way towards convincing us that the government is getting ashamed of the transaction.

Certain circles of English society profess to be horrified because one of the Marquis of Queensbury's sons contemplates marrying an American waiter girl. It does seem a little tough on the girl.

France has a national revenue of a little over $50,000,000 and out of this she spends $37,000,000 for charges on public debt and $18,000,000 on army and navy, leaving $14,000,000 for all other services. This is a scanty statement of what the love of glory has cost the French people.

A decrease of $102,000 in profits and a drop of three and a-half in the price of stock indicates that the Bank of Montreal has suffered in common with other big institutions from the depression, though not to anything like the same extent as some. That the falling off is so slight is proof of the excellence of Mr. Clouston's management.

The further adjournment of the Manitoba Legislature will render it impossible to place the two great parties in the Ottawa Parliament fairly upon a level by the school question during this session. Thus, if an election follows directly after the session, individual candidates will be at liberty to lay down an individual policy so far as Manitoba is concerned and the tariff will be the one great party issue before the country.

In the House of Commons on Thursday Mr. Martin charged Lieutenant-Governor Schultz with having withheld assent to a bill, passed by the Manitoba Legislature, authorizing the sale of lands for arrears of taxes because the Lieutenant-Governor himself was interested in some of the lands in arrears. If this charge is true—and it ought to be substantiated or withdrawn—the Dominion Government will be guilty of an unpardonable outrage against constitutional government if it permits Mr. Schultz to hold his present office for a day longer than necessary.

MONTREAL.

LIVE STOCK MARKET.

May 17.—There has been very little change in live stock prices since Monday and prices on cattle remain about the same. The receipts at the East End Abattoir this morning were: 600 cattle, 20 of which were all red cows, 800 calves, 175 spring lambs, 225 sheep, and 60 lean hogs. The attendance was an average one and the demand fairly good, so good that at noon almost everything offered was sold. Owing to reports from Liverpool and London the tone of the market was weaker, consequently the price of shippers' cattle is now from 15c to 16c per lb, live weight. Butchers brought from $25 to $30 each, calves $1 50 to $2 50 each, according to size and quality. Spring lambs $1 50 to $4 50 each. Sheep, $5 to $6 50; lean hogs from $5 to $10 each, and 80 young pigs which sold from $1 to $10 each. The arrivals of shippers' cattle, sheep and the stock yards are down and the market weather is considered favorable. During the past week there were 3,754 cattle shipped and 1,100 sheep. The hog market is well supplied and the demand is equal to the supply, prices being from 15c to 16c per lb, live weight.
